It was understood in usually-well-informed quarters here that he decided some time ago he could no longer continue to serve the present Prague government. Kratochvil was Czechoslovak ambassador to Britain from 1947 to 1949.

Heads Bump, Knees Bruised Wedding Party Hunts Ring

SUTTON, England, March 5. (Reuters)—It was a real head-bumping, knee-bruising wedding when the best man dropped the ring—but it would never have happened in the good old days when rings were rings and men were strong enough to hold them. So suggested the Rev. Marcus Donovan, reporting in the Southwark Diocesan Gazette on a wedding at which he officiated last month.

The vicar loudly lamented present styles of rings, which he suggested were a pretty shaky symbol of marriage.

"It would never have happened if the couple had had a thick, old-fashioned wedding ring instead of a flimsy platinum one," he said.

When the best man dropped the ring, the bride and groom bumped heads when they stooped to pick it up, the bride stood up shuffling her feet in embarrassment. The vicar, his white surplice sweeping the floor, joined in the search, the front-pew congregation got down on their knees searching frantically under the benches.

Someone found it—wedged in a crack in the floorboards.

The couple finally did get married, the vicar added.

Plan Police Inquiry On 'Off-Duty' Jobs

TORONTO, March 5 (CP). — Deputy Chief Moses Mulholland said today the Toronto Police Department is investigating reports that six off-duty constables from the Toronto area were stopped for speeding while driving new cars in convoys from Windsor to Toronto.

Mulholland said Toronto constables are not permitted to take part-time employment while off duty. If any of the offenders were members of the Toronto force, they will face disciplinary action.

A report from London Sunday said Provincial Police stopped the six constables and charged them with driving at 60 miles per hour within London's city limits. They said they were part of a 12-car convoy and that the remaining six cars had left them far behind.

Report New 'Whopper' Blizzard Slated To Strike Across Middlewest Shortly

CHICAGO, March 5—(AP)—A new blizzard which threatened to be a "whopper" was bearing down on the northern middlewest today.

But there was some chance that the intense cold would be pushed northward into the Canadian prairies before it reached the Mississippi Valley or the Great Lakes region.

Forecaster H. S. Kenny at Chicago said, however, that the final direction of the cold wave cannot be determined until it is well east of the Rocky Mountain region, probably by Tuesday morning.

But the blizzard now raging in Montana is one of the worst of the winter. Temperatures skidded as low as 18 below zero at Cutbank, Mont., and the state was being lashed by winds up to 45 miles an hour.

By Tuesday morning, the cold will have spread throughout the Dakotas, and into Wyoming, Nebraska and Kansas, Kenny said. How much further it carries will depend on the force of the accompanying warm air.

Red Converts Made Slowly

HONG KONG, March 5 (AP). —A Chinese editor who escaped from a political prison camp in Mukden, Manchuria, today said "more people are being shot than converted" to Communism in Red China.

The fugitive also reported:

In Mukden he once saw two Americans, under guard in a jeep, being taken to a prison camp. He had no idea how many Americans were prisoners-of-war there.

Mukden was full of Chinese Red wounded from Korea.

Industries in Mukden seemed to be operating full blast, but there still was much unemployment and despondency over low wages.

The escaper, who cannot be named because his family still is in Red China, escaped while being taken to Korea to serve as a "Red Cross carrier coolie with Gen. Lin Piao's Fourth Field Army."

Porter Denies Ontario To Tap Phone Lines

TORONTO, March 5 (CP)—Attorney-General Porter of Ontario said Sunday night the provincial government has not asked for federal legislation giving police the authority to tap telephone lines.

An Ottawa dispatch Saturday said that legalization of phone-tapping was included in a number of proposals to the federal government from Ontario to strengthen anti-gambling laws.

"It has nothing to do with phone tapping," said Mr. Porter, adding that he was not in a position at present to give details of the province's suggestions.

US Denounces Russia For Halting Talks

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) —The United States today denounced Russia and Soviet representative Jakob Malik for breaking off talks on terms for a Japanese peace settlement.

A statement by the State Department charged that Russia has persistently sought veto power over the proposed treaty and declared:

"The United States will persist in seeking an over-all peace for Japan. But it concedes to no one the right to veto peace."

Saves Children Captain Drowns

SEGUIN, Tex., March 5 (AP) —Walter T. Steves captained only a motorboat on an inland lake, but he died in the best tradition of the sea.

The 52-year-old boat-ride concession operator passed out life preservers to six teen-aged passengers and went down with his tiny craft.

Firemen recovered his body Sunday afternoon, some 17 hours after the boat struck an underwater stump and sank Saturday night.

Steves handed out the life-preservers to the teen-agers with the comment "I can swim and won't need one."

Hotel Guests Have Nightmare

Grave Cowboys In Stetsons March Smartly To Bagpipes

HALIFAX, March 5 (CP) — Did you ever wake up at night and hear bagpipe music under the bed?

And another thing, did you ever see a bunch of cowboys, with Stetsons, marching to the music of the pipes?

Well, these were just some of the things that happened here early today when the canniest of curling Canadians arrived for the annual Dominion bonspiel.

Expert stone-throwers from British Columbia and eastward rolled into Halifax in the wee hours aboard the curlers' special —running late. Premier Angus L. Macdonald as well as a pipe band and other dignitaries were waiting to meet them.

The curlers, lifting knees high to the music of the pipes, were ushered first into union station from the train for the official speeches of welcome. Then everybody marched, again to the skirl of the pipes and the beat of the drums, straight into the Nova Scotian Hotel and around the lobby.

Other guests chatting in the lobby grinned with delight but one could only surmise the feelings of those sleeping upstairs. To add to the unreality of the situation, Westerners in autogarphed, bright-colored Stetsons and high-heeled boots clomped in the wake of the stern-faced highland band.

Arriving on the special were nine teams, including two from Ontario, the only province with dual representation. New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island squads met the main body at Moncton while Nova Scotia and Newfoundland—a newcomer to the bonspiel—were already at Halifax.

The curlers—although in light-hearted mood on their arrival—were for the most part tired after their trip. They will rest and attend social functions today and then settle down Tuesday to five days and nights of play to decide a winner.

Census Gets New Twist

Censustakers Visit Beaver Muskrat, Deer Counted Too

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., March 5 (CP) — Canada's emblematic beaver will give a new twist to censustaking in Northern Saskatchewan this year.

While censustakers are tabbing Canadian families, northerners on the spring traplines will make a similar check on the country's top-billed fur bearers. And for the first time the river, lake and stream sites of all beaver homes will be mapped.

Rough checks on Northern Saskatchewan beaver population have been made in previous years. But this time the lodges will be pinpointed by trappers then double-checked by a newly-appointed field management crew.

These veteran bushmen—F. W. Erry, Sandy Bay, Henry Toews, Buffalo Narrows; and Verdun Palmer, Laronge—will tour the four fur conservation blocks verifying the beaver census and advising trappers on ways of improving their catch and on fur conservation.

The department of natural resources has also appointed S. E. Read, game guardian, to be responsible for trapping activities in the Cumberland House district, 150 miles northeast of here.

Besides checking on the population of some 600 live beaver in the 3,000 square miles, he will make a muskrat, moose and deer census. He will also supervise dam and dike construction and maintain a check on water levels.

Harold Read, senior provincial game officer, estimates that the beaver catch will be "as good or better than last year."

The resources department's annual report said 9,525 baver were taken out of a quota of 11,500 warranted by the census last year.

Flexible dates fr the beaver seasn are set ofr Jan. 15 to June, he said.

A "house to house" survey of the muskrat population is not possible until next fall as the animals do not start their home-building projects until then.

Blizzard Buries Algoma District

SAULT STE. MARIE, March 5 —(CP)—The Algoma district today dug itself out from under its worst storm of the winter, a blizzard that started Friday night and continued to Sunday morning, accompanied by a fairly heavy snowfall.

Precipitation turned to sleet Sunday, breaking a number of the Great Lakes power lines between the Sault and Thesaslon, and leaving many of the communities north of Highway No. 17 without power for several hours. Repair gangs were delayed by snow-clogged roads.

One fatality in Sault Ste. Marie was attributed to the storm. W. G. Kerr, 56-year-old steelworker climbed through snowdrifts at the Algoma Steel Corporation late Saturday to reach a bus. On his way home he collapsed on the bus and died a short time later. The death was caused by heart failure.

Highway 17, between the Sault and Sudbury was kept open by the department of highway plows but provided rough passage for motorists on all the unpaved stretches.

Believes A-Bomb Could Destroy Russia

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) —One of the United States' foremost scientists said Sunday night that if Russia starts war in Europe now American atomic bombs "would destroy Russia."

"We could do it without question as matters stand today," said Dr. Vannevar Bush.

For this reason, he predicted Russia will not make the attempt; "no war will occur" now.

But, he warned, that "we cannot count indefinitely upon strategic bombing as the sole means of averting war." Therefore, ground forces must be built up in Europe to "hold back the hordes while we strike by other means."

These together—a strong western ground defence plus continued A-bomb development—will avert a third world war by discouraging Russian aggression, he said.

Leave For Peiping

HONG KONG, March 5 (AP)—Ahmed Ali, Pakistan's first diplomatic representative to Red China, said today he and his party will leave for Peiping in about two weeks. Pakistan recognized the Peiping regime 14 months ago.

4 Tugs Rescue 17 Fishermen

PORT MAITLAND, Ont., March 5. (CP)—Four ice-battered fishing tugs fought their way into Port Dover early today, bringing to safety 17 of the 30 fishermen trapped in an ice field off this Lake Erie port since Saturday. The crews of the four vessels planned to start out again during the morning in an attempt to buck their way back into the thick ice to rescue the 13 men aboard three other boats stuck fast in ice which trapped them in a sudden shift Saturday afternoon. The four vessels which reached Port Dover, on the north shore of the lake 30 miles west of here, had been fighting their way through the ice since 8 p.m. Sunday night.

The men aboard the other vessels were safe, they said, with food and fuel aboard their fishing craft. The 13 men spent two nights on the tugs in an ice field being wedged in toward shore by a southeast wind. Fishermen here said there was little prospect of the ice breaking up as long as the wind continued blowing from that direction. It would take a north wind to blow the ice out into the lake and free the tugs unless they could fight their way through the trap.

The men spent their first night huddled in the boats with little fuel or food aboard.

Helicoper Aid

Sunday a United States Coast Guard helicopter lowered food and coal to the tugs which were stranded about five miles off shore in the eastern end of Lake Erie. The men had just started to set their nets when the vessels were trapped, and they hadn't even fish aboard for extra rations.

Capt. Wesley Widrick of the tug Irene Lloyd suffered a diabetic attack and his husky 22-year-old son, Lloyd, was lowered Sunday from the helicopter with insulin. A new device known as a hydraulic lift was used to place the son aboard the vessel.

A coast guard spokesman said 1,400 pounds of coal and between 400 and 500 pounds of food were collected by the Ontario Provincial Police under direction of Constable Art Hammond of Cayuga. The supplies were shuttled out by helicopter in nine trips.

The aircraft also offered to remove one crew member of the Irene Lloyd, 68-year-old Thomas Siddall, because of his age. Mr. Siddall, a member of one of Port Maitland's leading fishing families, scoffed at the offer and chose to remain with the ship until she got him back to shore.

Without Power 16 Hours As Storm Paralyzes Picton

PICTON, March 5.—A freezing rain, followed by a windstorm, swept over Prince Edward County Saturday night and caused the worst hydro and communications blackout this area has ever known. Power lines were knocked out at 8:45 Saturday night, and hydro service in Picton, the army village on the hill near here, the Royal Canadian School of Artillery and several other communities, was not resumed until after 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The area was left without power for 16½ hours.

Long distance telephone service Saturday night was confined to one emergency line through Wellington, and Mountain View, to Belleville. This line was limited to use in case of death. In some sections of the county falling trees and limbs broke wires, while in other areas poles toppled from the weight of ice on the wires and poles.

PICTON — (CP) — An estimated 5,000 persons were without heat, light, cooking facilities or telephone service in Prince Edward County today.

One of the worst breaks in the long distance telephone circuits was on the old Belleville road, near Mountain View. More than 20 poles were down in a two-mile stretch and dozens of wires on this line were tangled.

100 Poles Down

Cecil Armstrong, central office manager here for the Bell Telephone Co., said more than 100 telephone poles were down in the Picton area. There were no reports available on the extent of damage to telegraph lines, but telegraph service from here was cut off.

At seven o'clock Sunday night Greenbush and Rossmore districts were still without power, Picton street lights were out, and several communities lacked telephone service on lines inside the county.

Residents of Picton whose home heating units were operated by electricity were without heat throughout the 16½ hours. Many went to the homes of friends where coal, wood and oil stoves provided heat, while others took advantage of the day to remain in bed. Most morning church services were cancelled.

Professors To Learn Raises Individually

KINGSTON, March 5—(CP)—Staff members of Queen's University will be told individually whether they are to get requested wage increases, Principal R. C. Wallace said today.

Dr. Wallace issued a statement after a Saturday meeting of the university board of trustees at which salaries were reviewed in relation to the rising cost of living.

The staff asked for immediate wage boosts and an ultimate wage scale virtually the same as that at the University of Toronto. Other requests included an assurance that pension rights will be transferable in event of a move to another university.

Born and educated at Young's Point, he was the son of the late George Ayotte and Katherine Mullins. Mr. Ayotte was a farmer all his life.

He is survived by his widow, one son, Paul, at home, two sisters, Minnie, and Mrs. Joseph McMurray (Theresa), and two brothers, John and Harry, all of Young's Point.

Mr. Ayotte was a member of St. Mary's Church, and had been a member of the Holy Name Society.

Requiem mass will be said Wednesday at 10 a.m. in St. Mary's Church, and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Sickness Of Railmen Delays Some Trains

HAMILTON, March 5 (CP)—Sickness among railway workers delayed many trains during the week-end between here and London, W. J. Rupert, assistant superintendent of the Canadian National Railways here, said today.

He scoffed at suggestions that brakemen and conductors had gone on a "sick strike" similar to that in the United States recently. Yardmen here are seeking a new contract.

"We are working at full strength today and everything is normal," said Mr. Rupert, "There was a lot of bad weather all over last week and the yardmen came off shift soaking wet. By the end of the week the number off work was far in excess of normal."

Percy William Wilson

NORWOOD, March 5—(ENS)—The funeral of Percy William Wilson was held Sunday at 1:30 p.m. from the McConnell-Warner funeral home, Norwood, with burial in St. Mark's cemetery, Warsaw. The Rev. E. E. Pugsley officiated.

Pallbearers were Jack Stewart, Perrin Rork, A. A. Waddell, Armar Weir, Bert Lochhead, George Elliott.

Flower-bearers were Goldie Drain, Milton Drain, Reginald Buck, Raymond McGee, David Nixon, George Kearney, Robert Buchanan, Mayron Hill.

The graveside service was held by Masonic brethren and was conducted by Walter Bitten and Gerald Baker.

Startling Charges

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 5. (CP) — Startling charges of drunkenness, graft-taking and sex offences involving British police officers here, the government announced Saturday it is appointing a commission of enquiry to begin sittings soon. The charges, stating there is serious dissatisfaction among the rank-and-file of the police force, were made in the House of Representatives. No details were made known.

Roseneath Woman 85 Celebrates Birthday

ROSENEATH, March 5 (ENS) —Having the distinction of being the oldest lady in Roseneath village, Mrs. E. J. Milne was feted by her neighbors and friends at her home on her 85th birthday on Friday.

During the afternoon, representatives of the Roseneath Women's Institute and the United Church WMS called and brought greetings from their societies. Mrs. Milne is as active a member of both organizations as health will permit. Afternoon tea was served to the many callers.

Four generations were present at a birthday dinner in the evening for the near relatives. The large birthday cake, complete with candles, was made and decorated by a daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Keith Halstead, Bewdley, and Mrs. W. H. Rowden, Port Hope. Included among the relatives present at the dinner with Mrs. Milne were: Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Adams, Fenella; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Halstead, Bewdley; Miss Lois Halstead and Janice Rowden, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. John Nichol, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Leach and Mr. Robert Nichol, Roseneath.

Mrs. John McIntyre

The funeral for Mrs. John McIntyre, the former Jane Gillespie, who died February 26 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Drummond, 124 Park Street, was held March 1 at the Belleghem Funeral Home. The Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James' United Church conducted the service.

The pall-bearers were Morris Parry, John Drummond, Wilfred Davey, Arthur Elmhirst, Clifford Hutchison, Bert Scott. Burial was in Little Lake Cemetery.

Fire On Bus

MANILA, March 5 (AP) — About 20 bandits today fired on a crowded Manila-bound bus, killing a university co-ed, a small girl and a soldier. The bandits robbed the passengers and fled.

GM To Grant 5-Cent Boost

DETROIT, March 5 — (AP)— General Motors Corporation agreed Saturday to give its 350,000 production workers a five-cent hourly cost-of-living wage boost.

The move, announced after a conference with United Auto Workers (CIO) officials, is expected to lead to similar action by Ford, Chrysler and several smaller firms which have escalator wage contracts with the union. About 1,000,000 UAW members are covered by such pacts.

But UAW President Walter Reuther, meanwhile, announced the union would welcome a rollback of wages to pre-Korean War levels if prices were pegged tightly at the same mark.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

SCHOOL OPEN HOUSE

Prince of Wales public school will hold open house Tuesday night. At this event parents will be given an opportunity to observe activities in the various classrooms and become acquainted with the daily curriculum.

ART EXHIBIT

The Peterborough Public Schools' art exhibit was opened to the public at the library Saturday. It will be on display until March 17.

CITY HOUSECLEANING

The Parks Department has started annual spring housecleaning. Superintendent Armar Butcher reported this morning that employees are busy trimming the city's trees.

SERVICE STATION PERMIT

Imperial Oil Co. was granted permission by the council Friday night to build a service station at the southeast corner of Monaghan Rd. and Lansdowne St. The motion by Ald. J. E. Gillespie was seconded by Ald. Herbert Young.

COUNCIL INVITED

City council has been invited to the dinner of the Peterborough Christian Business Men at the Empress Hotel Saturday evening, March 10. Some of the members will be absent on a winter vacation. "Those who are not going south should attend, if possible," said Mayor Swanston. Acceptance was moved by Aldermen Burrows and Braund.

LINDSAY'S TAX RATE

Lindsay council adopted a tax rate of 39.5 mills at meeting Friday night that continued until after midnight. The rate last year was 47 mills, which on the revised assessment would be equivalent to 36 mills. Board of works employees asked for an increase of 10 cents an hour, and were granted 2½ cents.

HAIRCUTS THE SAME

The Peterborough branch of the Ontario Barbers' Association has assured local customers that there will be no immediate change in the price of haircuts. In two of Toronto's four zones the price of an adult haircut is now $1.00, but the 75-cent figure remains in Peterborough. Children's prices are 40 cents up to 5 p.m., but after 5 p.m. and on Saturdays the price is 50 cents. "Unless the cost of living takes a jump there isn't likely to be any change in local prices in the near future," commented Donald W. Moore, president of the association.

Two Women's Groups Hold Combined Meet

MILLBROOK, March 5 (ENS) —A joint meeting of Grace Presbyterian Ladies' Aid and WMS was held Friday at the home of Mrs. Cliff Larmer. Miss Agnes Johnston, the president, presided for the WMS meeting. The scripture reading and a short exposition on the life of Christ were given by Mrs. G. MacKay. Mrs. John R. Thompson introduced the new study book, "Our Share in World Mission."

Plans were made for the visit of Miss Ruby Walker, regional secretary for Saskatchewan and Manitoba, who is to speak in Grace Church on March 8, at 8 p.m. Miss Walker, who has done deaconess work in the west, will give a lantern lecture.

A short meeting of the Ladies' Aid with Mrs. Ken Moncrief, the president, in the chair, followed. Plans were made for the Irish supper to be held in the waiting room on March 17.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Bremmer, Mrs. Gerald Armstrong and Mrs. Marshall Larmer.

Churchill Improves

LONDON, March 5 (Reuters)—Winston Churchill, suffering from boils, is "getting on well," his doctor said today. It was not known when he will be able to resume his engagements.

Dollar Shows Drop

MONTREAL, March 5 (CP)—The American dollar today opened at 4⅝ per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, 1-32 lower than Saturday's close. That is, it took $1.04⅝ Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.92 15-16, down ⅛.

Judgment Held In Crash Case

Judge S. L. Smoke today reserved judgment in a car accident action brought by Francis Gibbons, Prince Street, against Peter Gravelle, Bridgenorth. The accident was September 7, 1949.

Gibbons claimed that Gravelle nosed his dump truck out on No. 7 Highway after coming out of the Keene road, blocking the south half of the highway. He said that to avoid a collision he swung his car to the north and was unable to get back again to the south side before he was in a sideswipe collision with an oncoming car driven by George McTaggart, Flat Rock, Mich.

The truck was not hit, and nobody in the two colliding cars was injured. But Gibbons, through his solicitor Gordon Farquharson, claimed it was Gravelle's negligence in failing to stop that caused the accident.

T. J. Carley, K.C., representing Gravelle, said that Gibbons should have seen the westbound American car as the highway there is straight. It was Gibbons' own fault that he was in a collision, Mr. Carley contended.

Mr. Farquharson conceded that Gibbons might not be the best of drivers but he did what any reasonable driver would have done under the circumstances to avoid the accident.

Prices Turn Lower On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 5 —(CP)— Prices turned lower in quiet trading on the Toronto stock exchange today.

Following three days of advance, they opened mixed and dropped lower.

Industrial declines ranged to more than a point. Papers, steels, utilities, constructions, textiles, foods, manufacturing companies and retail stores showed a majority of losses. Losses of $1 or more were recorded by Abitibi, Great Lakes Paper, Winnipeg Electric, Canada Cement and Massey Harris.

Base Metals dropped over a broad front. Consolidated Smelters paced the list with a decline of $1.25, Hudson Bay lost $1 and United Keno Hill was down ⅞. Other losses were fairly small.

Callinan Flin Flon, a standout last Thursday and Friday, was the most active base metal as it eased two cents but it showed only a small part of last week's activity.

Golds slipped from earlier gains. Senior producers were down fractions and junior producers were mixed with narrow price changes.

Western oils declined slowly.

Charles Edwards

The funeral for Charles Edwards of Otonabee, who died on Wednesday, was held Saturday at the Mather's Funeral Home. Mr. J. Blackwood of the Gospel Hall, Peterborough, conducted the service, assisted by Mr. J. McMullen of Toronto.

Pall-bearers were Harold Fife, Charles Elliott, Clive Edwards, Lorenzer Fife, Percy Manley, Herschel Welbourne. Burial was in Fife Cemetery, Otonabee.

57 Awarded Certificates Lakefield Commencement

LAKEFIELD, March 5 (ENS). Lakefield town hall was filled to capacity Thursday and Friday nights for the annual commencement exercises of Lakefield and District High School.

The Thursday evening program opened with two choruses conducted by music supervisor Mrs. Charles Renaud.

Eric Pearson, chairman of the High School Board and chairman for the evening, welcomed the guests, mentioned briefly plans for the new school, and predicted lower school taxes for 1951.

The boys in the quartet, Bill Twist, Dawn Pearson, Jack Curtain and Harry Rath were a sensation in their zoot-suits, dog-chains and bow ties.

The presentation of general proficiency prizes to students obtaining highest standing in their forms for 1949-50 then took place as follows:

Grade IX—Beverley Taylor won the Bailey trophy presented by E. W. Bailey.

Grade X—Jack Burger won the Erskine trophy presented by trustee E. H. Northey.

Grade XII—Gerald Burger, the Tanner trophy presented by George Tanner.

Grade XIII—Barbara Hamblin, the E. J. Millage trophy presented by Mr. Northey.

Miss Joyce Mathieson contributed a solo followed by the presentation of the IODE award to Miss Barbara Hamblin, highest grade XIII pupil, presented by Mrs. G. W. Smith and Mrs. J. Ornott.

Secondary graduation certificates were presented by trustee G. Hunt to Eiveen Boyce, Ruth Boyce, Alta Bullock, Gerald Burger, Faye Darling, John Deck, Rena Earnshaw, Rhoda Earnshaw, Donna Edwards, Frances Erskine, Ruth Garbutt, Garnet Graham, Ruth Graham, Hugh Hawthorne, Ruth Little, Joyce Mathieson, James Sloan, Derry Wilfond, Margaret Everett.

Miss Joyce Hutt sang a solo followed by presentation of the Intermediate certificates by trustee G. McIlmoyle to Doris Bancroft, Audrey Bennett, Mary Boyce, John Browne, Jack Burger, Margaret Calberry, Alma Cherry, Myrna Coons, Gordon Coyle, Margaret Dunford, Roderick Earnshaw, Mary Easson, Mary Jane Foster, Marilyn Fraser, Ross Freeburn, Barbara Graham, Nancy Graham, Sylvia Hudson, Marie Wilson, Donna Lean, Barbara Leonard, Mary McManus, Norma Nesbitt, Lynda Nichols, James Northey, Roger Northey, Melba Pavey, Denise Doubt, Dawn Pearson, Shirley Redpath, Eldon Stockdale, Beverley Truswell, Marie Tucker, Bill Twist, Elaine Wasson, Lenore Westlake, Don Mathews, Mary Ann Leonard.

Principal R. E. Sutton in a general report stated the opening enrolment for the school was 186 pupils, and is at present 185. Lakefield has 58 pupils, Smith 34, Harvey 23, Chandos 11, Burleigh and Anstruther 30, Douro 20 and Dummer 10; 21 pupils come on Coyle's bus, 49 on Pearson's and 45 on Brown's.

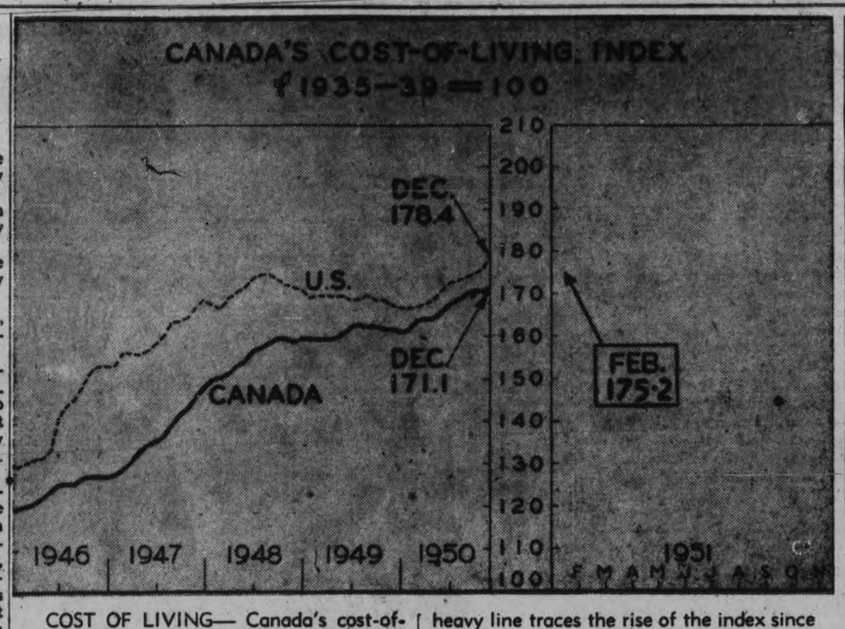
The average attendance for the year has been 96.7 per cent, which the principal stated is remarkable, considering the distance a great number of the pupils have to come.

Mr. Sutton said the contract had been given to Craig and Blackwell of Peterborough as architects for the new school which will consist of a gymnasium, shop, home economics room, library class room, science room, commercial room, art room, cafeteria and three standard class rooms.

Piano solos were given by Misses Frances McPhee, Eleanor Northey and Donna Lean.

Everett Sloan, principal of the public school, representing the Lions' Club, presented the first prize of $10 to Dawn Pearson as winner of the public speaking contest, and second prize to Miss Kathleen Webster.

A one act play "Sweet Mystery" was presented by the students. The cast included Doug Darling, Denise Doubt, Frances McPhee, Elaine Wasson, Anne Richardson, Joan Creighton, Gordon Blake, Eugene Sabitino.



Next was heard a saxophone quartet composed of Principal R. E. Sutton, Jim Sloan, Gordon Blake and Charlie Redpath in several numbers.

Mrs. Mary Martin, accompanist for the commencement, was presented with a gift by Miss Anne Richardson as a token of gratitude from the students.

During the evening Principal R. E. Sutton introduced the staff: Miss Jean Benning, B.A., Miss Harriet Elliott, M.A., Joseph Maloney, B.A., Lloyd Shepherd, B. A., Claire Sisson, B.A., Miss Audrey Wood, B.A., and H. C. Renaud, director of music.

The program was arranged by the students' council composed of the following representatives: Grade XIII, Ruth Little, Ken McCracken; Grade XII, Gordon Blake (president), Anne Richardson, (secretary); Grade XI, Alma Cherry, Richard McCracken; Grade XA, Nancy Doubt, Jack Gordon; XB, Eleanor Northey, John Pue (treasurer); Grade IX-A, Arlene Crowe, Roger Higgins; IX-B, Eleanor Jessup, Jack Windover.

On Friday evening the commencement closed with a dance, music for which was supplied by Charlie Redpath and orchestra.

COST OF LIVING— Canada's cost-of-living index as compared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, took a big jump to 175.2 as of February 1, a boost of 2.7 points over January 2. It was the largest monthly gain in more than two years. The heavy line traces the rise of the index since the beginning of 1946, while the light dotted line indicates the trend of the US index. The two figures are not directly comparable, but merely indicate corresponding trends.

Cost-Of-Living Index Zooms To Highest Peak On Record

OTTAWA, March 5 (CP)—The official cost-of-living index, which took from August, 1939, to the end of 1950 to climb 72.5 points, went up 2.7 points in the first month of 1951.

The Bureau of Statistics reported Saturday that its chart of what it costs to live in Canada has prices higher than they've ever been before, up to 175.2 points from 172.5 the month before.

The January price-climb is the highest monthly increase since a 2.8-point advance in August, 1947. The biggest increase last year was a 2.1-point rise in June.

As an indication of what to expect for February, the bureau said its index of wholesale prices in February for 30 industrial materials shows an advance of 5.0 points. There was an increase from 207.3 points in January to a peak of 212.3 for last month.

The wholesale index is based on 1926 prices equalling 100 whereas the cost-of-living index uses 1935-39 prices as its base.

The 2.7 increase during January in the cost-of-living index reflects price climbs for meats, vegeatbles, men's wear, piece goods, footwear, furniture, floor covering and house furnishings, as well as tires, tobacco and hospital rates.

All index sub-groups showed gains to all-time highs. The food group rose 4.2 points to 224.4; fuel and light increased from 141.5 to 141.7; home furnishings climbed from 179.8 to 185.1; clothing advanced by 2.3 points to 192.4 and higher prices for tires, tobacco and hospital rates moved the miscellaneous group from 135.8 to 137.0.

Search Abandoned For Newspaperman

CLAYTON, N.Y., March 5—(AP)—Authorities Sunday night called off an international search for a missing New York Times newspaperman feared drowned in the St. Lawrence river.

Officials of the United States and Canada disclosed Saturday they had been conducting an air, water and land hunt for Edward O. McEvoy, 50, the Bronx.

McEvoy last was seen about Feb. 23 attempting to cross the St. Lawrence on skis from this Jefferson county community to Sugar Island, off the Canadian shore.

Police Chief James Stage said it was feared that McEvoy had fallen through the pitted ice.

Sugar Island is in the Thousand Islands chain.

COBOURG, March 5—(ENS)—Cobourg Figure Skating Carnival held its dress rehearsal Sunday at the recreational centre for the carnival its members will present Wednesday night. Seventy - five girls, from three years up, will take part. They were trained by the club professional, Shirley Luffman, formerly with the Canadian tour of the Barbara Ann Scott troupe. There will be visiting artists from Port Hope, Oshawa and Toronto.

Theme of the carnival is a magic carpet which takes the sepctators on a world tour, stopping at various countries where costumed skaters perform national dances.

Attempted Murder Charge For Sailor

WINDSOR, N.S., March 5 (CP)—George Miller of Toronto, 23-year-old naval rating, was charged here Saturday night with the attempted murder of a canteen owner at nearby Newport Corner.

Percy M. MacDonald told police he went into a back room in his store shortly after changing a $10 bill for Miller, stationed at a nearby naval radio station.

He said a bullet crashed through a window, missing him by inches, as he bent over to pick up a newspaper. The canteen owner said he could give no reason for the shooting.

Miller will appear in court at this Annapolis Valley town today.

Ski Conditions Poor

COBOURG, March 5—(ENS)—Rain spoiled skiing Saturday at the Northumberland Forest Ski Club. Locked in by the thick forest, the ski trails retained the snow long after it disappeared from the rest of the countryside.

Skiing was fair until Saturday's downpour ruined things. Like most other ski resorts in Ontario, conditions were much below average this winter due to the weather.

Picture Pamphlet

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—The state department has got up a picture pamphlet about life in a 'typical small town—Lebanon, Conn.—and will try to get it behind the iron curtain by methods which are being kept secret. It is part of the "campaign of truth" to show people abroad that life in the U.S. is not the wretched thing that Kremlin propagandists try to make it appear.

Latinize Language

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5—(AP)—The Chinese Communist radio at Peiping today said a new "latinized" written language has been created for the Yi people, an obscure primitive tribal people of southwestern China. Ancestors of the Yis reputedly inhabited what is now Sikang province before the original Han (Chinese) people settled there. Their recorded history goes back to 2,600 B.C. The Red broadcast did not say why the new language had been latizined instead of using regular Chinese characters.

Leaves Iron Lung

TULSA, Okla., March 5—(AP)—A 28-year-old polio patient left an iron lung Sunday for the first time since Nov. 3 to give birth to a seven-pound daughter. Physicians delivered the baby of Mrs. P. T. Sowden, Jr., by caesarian section in her 40-minute leave from the lung. Both are doing fine.

Right At Home

COBOURG, March 5—(ENS)—There was a fire on Saturday and the firemen didn't have to take the reels out. It was right in the fire hall. A chimney got on fire and the alarm was put in. To the surprise of the volunteer fire brigade, they learned it was at the fire hall. No damage was done and the fire burned itself out.

Apsley WI To Sponsor Hobby Show

APSLEY, March 5 (ENS). — Apsley Women's Institute will sponsor a hobby show in May, it was decided at the WI's March meeting held on Thursday at the hame of Mrs. W. Lean. The show will take the place of the May meeting and will be held at the home of Mrs. Bert McIlmoyle.

In charge of Thursday's meeting was Mrs. Norman Reddick.

Speaker for the meeting was the Rev. C. A. G. Spence, who gave a paper on pioneer days, cimpiled from the diary of Phillip Harding who came to Highland Grove in 1865 and later to Apsley, where he became a canon of the Anglican Church.

Earliest records of the district, Mr. Spence disclosed, showed the population of Burleigh as 28, with taxes of $255 collected. In Anstruther, Chandos and Cardiff Townships the population and taxes were: 20, $48; 32, $86; 4, $122. Monmouth, Harcourt, and Bruton Townships had no settlers and the same amount of taxes.

In the first records of taxes paid in Anstruther, the amount of $2 is shown as having been paid on the land on which Apsley is now built.

Mrs. Newberry thanked Mr. Spence. Mrs. Charles Smith read a short history of the Clydesdale WI. Mrs. Newberry conducted a historical quiz won by Mrs. W. Lean. Mrs. Martin Reddick and Mrs. Norman Reddick, assisted by Mrs. Hales, served lunch.

Preaches First Sermon At Millbrook On Sunday.

MILLBROOK, March 5 (ENS)—The Rev. W. H. Heustin, who was inducted into the charge of Grace Presbyterian Church, Millbrook, and Centreville Presbyterian Church on Wednesday in Centreville, preached his first sermon in Grace Church Sunday evening.

He chose as his text Matthew 5 verse 48 "Be ye perfect, even as your Father in heaven is perfect" and Philippians 3 verse 14 "I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." He said that the highest calling of all was to be a Christian, to know, to love, to serve and to witness for Jesus Christ. The three things necessary for a Christian were service, sacrifice and suffering.

Mrs. G. A. Spicer gave a vocal solo "Open the Gates of the Temple." Mrs. Muspratt was at the organ.

Mr. Heustin was born near Vankleek Hill, Ontario, the son of William Heustin and the frmer Louise Isabella McIntyre. He attended Vankleek Hill Collegiate Institute and later McGill University, Montreal, graduating wtih his B.A.

He graduated as Licentiate in Theology from the Presbyterian College, Montreal. Mr. Heustin was rdained by the Presbytery of Picton in First Church, Hopewell, Nova Scotia on May 30, 1940. For the first five years of his ministry Mr. Heustin served in the pastoral charge of Hopewell and Eureka in the presbytery of Pictou, Nova Scotia. In 1945 he accepted a call to the Chesterville, Dunbar and Morewood charge in the presbytery of Brockville.

In 1941 Mr. Heustin was married to Mary Ellen Walker of Lachute, Quebec. She is a registered nurse, They have three children, Ian Walker, 6, David McIntyre, 3½, and Jean Catherine, 2.

Following the service Sunday evening a social hour was spent in the Sunday schoolroom to give the parishioners an opportunity to meet Mr. and Mrs. Heustin. Joseph Burns acted as chairman and called on the Rev. T. G. Husser of St. Andrew's United, and the Rev. A. A. Chote of St Thomas' Anglican churches, who welcomed Mr and Mrs. Heustin to the community and Mr. Heustin to the ministerial association. Miss A. Johnston, president of the WMS, Mr. Larmer, chairman of the board of managers, J. Burns, superintendent of the Sunday School, and David Armstrong, of the elders also spoke words of welcome.

Refreshments were seryed by the Ladies' Aid under the direction of the president, Mrs. Ken Moncrief.

A REMINDER TO EMPLOYERS ✓
—that graduation time at Canadian Universities is fast approaching
The demand for university graduates is brisk this year due to the impact of defence production on an already buoyant economy. In addition, the number of graduates seeking employment is smaller than during the past two years.
Employers who have not yet placed their orders with the Executive and Professional Division of the National Employment Service would be advised to do so without delay.
The National Employment Service provides the means of bringing together graduates and employers often separated by long distances. N.E.S. officers are experienced in screening applicants according to your needs.
Employers may also be able to find the part-time employees they need from among the several thousand undergraduates now seeking summer employment by calling their local Employment Office.

There Is No Such Think As Free Education

This is Education Week, one of the very few "weeks" to which we pay any attention. But every year during Education Week ideas are expressed about education which convince us, more than anything else in the world could do, that education is at a low ebb in our dear land, and that we need more of it. Last week, for instance, the Canadian Trades and Labour Congress put itself on record as favouring education which is "free at all stages to all those who wish to take advantage of it"; we quote from a speech by the president, Mr. Percy Bengough. Let us begin by pointing out that there is no such thing as free education. Education always costs somebody something, and in Canada education is paid for by the taxpayers. We presume that the T.L.C. is recommending that the universities be included in our provincial school systems, and that the fees which students now pay should be abolished.

There is something to be said in favour of such a plan. But it would be the wildest folly to suppose that the universities could be thrown open to everyone, without payment of fees, unless the university standards were raised to heights at present undreamed of in Canada. Universities to accommodate even a quarter of our High School graduates would have to be enormous, and they would suffer from the ailments incident to gigantism. We must point out, also, that the big expense of university education at present is not the payment of fees, but living for several years in a university city. Is it suggested that all university students should be subsidized for this purpose?

We would be strongly in favour of an augmented system of scholarships which would enable young people of limited means to go to the universities—if they could show that they would benefit by the sort of education which a university gives. But it must be said that there are many people in Canada today who moan about what they might have done if they had had a university education who, in actual fact, were never promising candidates for university study. University standards are low enough now; let us not lower them still more to please people who cannot make the grade when standards are not too demanding.

It is surprising how many people there are in Canada who believe that universities are a preserve of the well-to-do. This is not the case, and has never been the case here or in any other country. There have always been ways in which talented young men could get a university education if they wanted it badly enough. In Canadian universities today, most students have a very limited amount of money. In many cases they have earned that money themselves, and in some cases they earn as they study, by doing part-time jobs. Rich playboys and society girls in search of a good time are a very small minority in Canadian universities.

It is not a hardship to have to pay for a university education. We do not value what we get for nothing, and that may be why education is so little valued in Canada today. We pay lip service to education; we pretend that we like it, but when the going is hard most Canadians fall by the way. If there is one thing a Canadian really hates, it is using his head. As a nation we do not really care about education or culture; we pretend that we do so, because it flatters our national ego; but the truth is profoundly different.

We value the things which have cost us hard work and money. Those who doubt it might be interested to read the Autobiography of Neville Cardus, one of the greatest of living music critics, and a very great journalist. Cardus was unfortunate as few Canadians are; he was born in the slums of Manchester, an illegitimate child, and his mother was a prostitute; he had just four years of bad schooling, and went to work, as his own sole supporter, at the age of thirteen. Cardus educated himself the hard way, by reading and by living, and he has become a man of true distinction—in his way, a great man. This is what he has to say about education, and about making education easy:

"I have stored my mind and heart with good things; if I live another fifty years there will not be enough time to explore and savour to the full this harvest. Such harvests need to be jealously preserved, and we should offer constant thanksgiving for them. I don't believe in the contemporary idea of taking the arts to the people; let them seek and work for them."

There speaks a man who knows what he is talking about. If we want to destroy education in Canada, we have only to push as many people into the universities as would like to go, no matter how clogged and burst the universities may be by the crowd. Let us keep our universities for our best minds, and let us be sure that our best minds are able to attend them. But let us never deceive ourselves that everybody, or nearly everybody, should go to a university. And let us never deceive ourselves that education is free; at the cheapest it can only be bought by the hardest and most unpopular kind of work—brain work.

The Happy Senator

Perhaps the happiest politician in the United States last week was Senator Tom Connally of Texas, chairman of the combined committees hearing debate on the issue of sending U.S. troops to Western Europe. It is not often an Administration member can sit back and watch Opposition members knock out Opposition critics, and at the same time pave the way to the Administration member's real objective. Yet that is precisely what the snorting Senator from Texas was able to do last week, and he was obviously happy doing it.

Republican Senator Wherry had introduced a resolution barring the sending of U.S. troops to Europe without Congressional approval. The earlier Administration proposal was to send troops on Presidential authority. A number of Republican and expert witnesses were called to support the Wherry resolution, and they did so emphatically. Two other Republicans then appeared before the committee and demolished the case of their isolationist colleagues.

Harold Stassen, former vice-presidential candidate, and Governor Thomas Dewey of New York were the two. Mr. Stassen denounced the resolution and crushingly countered angry remarks by Senator Wherry. Governor Dewey spoke at much greater length, and so effectively that, when he was through, observers agreed that the Wherry resolution was through, too. Actually, the resolution never had much of a chance, but administration of the death blow by a Republican apparently infuriated its sponsors.

It also set the stage for introduction of a compromise resolution by Senator Connally. This resolution, it is said, will modify the original Administration proposal, without limiting the President's power to order U.S. troops to serve abroad. After hearing overwhelming expert opinion favouring this course, it is thought the committees will give ready approval.

Impossible Wiring Now Possible

We make no pretence of expert knowledge on electrical power and wiring, but we have followed with envy the progress of other cities on this continent in placing power lines underground. We have repeatedly asked why Peterborough's unsightly overhead wires could not be put underground, and why underground wiring was not undertaken in the new housing areas at least. Officials and local experts hedged. There were reasons, they darkly hinted. The wires continued to go overhead. Now a new day has dawned. The very same Utilities Commissioners have seen a new light. Transfer of power lines from poles to underground conduits will begin in two years' time. That is very good news to eye-sore Peterborough, and we congratulate the Commission on its plans.

Two years are a long time away and then only a beginning will be made, probably on circuits in the down-town area. It cannot be said that official Peterborough moves with haste in these regards, but it can be affirmed with full truth and some pride that the Utilities Commission undertakes what it does soundly, wisely and well. If Peterborough folk have due patience over the Commission's policy of wait and see, they will in the end be rewarded. So, in the year 1953, they will have underground wiring on some streets, international and supply conditions being favourable and the Commissioners of that year being in the same frame of mind.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A shortage of horsehides is reported. And have you ever tried to skin a worn-out tractor?

A Hollywood director says that 70 per cent. of movie stars are in the grip of a fear complex. Unlike their audiences, who are subject to sudden nausea.

An opera singer has offered to baby-sit for $500 an evening, including a few lullabies in the fee. And presumably a few concert pianists will take work as odd-job men, at a comparable rate.

"If you were awakened at night by your house being on fire, what's the first thing you would do?" says an advertisement. And the Kingston Whig Standard sensibly replies, "We'd get up".

A new type of scarecrow is on the British market, which "makes a loud bang and waves its arms every twenty minutes." Pooh, we've had those over here for years, but we call them politicians.

The English town of Swindon is giving tobacco plants to all its old age pensioners, so that they may raise their own. From what we know of home-cured tobacco, there will be fewer pensioners in Swindon quite soon.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

EVEN in these degenerate days of radio-gramophones and television there are people who want to buy a piano, and it is to them that my remarks are directed. I do not propose to discuss the merits of the various makes; they each have their own characteristics, it is true, but there is a good deal of difference between the various models which they produce, and each individual piano itself shows a certain amount of variation. Thus I will have very little to say on new pianos. I will say, however, that the saving in space effected by the new small-size pianos is in my opinion offset by a marked inferiority of tone. This brings one to the fundamental question: for what purpose do you require a piano? If it is to be regarded as an accessory to a scheme for interior decoration it is the woodwork and the design that matter; what goes on inside the box is of little or no importance.

I ASSUME, however, that my readers are more interested in my views on the musical aspect of the purchase of a piano. If you decide on a new piano your task in selection is simplified. You may be reasonably certain that the instrument is in perfect condition, and if imperfections show up they are inherent in the piano itself. Speaking in general a grand is a better proposition musically than an upright. On the other hand it is somewhat more expensive and takes up a good deal of room. Moreover there are many uprights that are better than baby grands—do not be led away by false snobbery into buying an inferior grand.

COMING to second-hand pianos the most striking characteristic about them is their cheapness. In spite of the awe-inspiring rise in the cost of living a good second-hand piano may still be picked up for a very reasonable price. For this we have to thank the modern craze for radio, television and other gadgets which have spelt the decline in music-making in the home. The swing towards the miniature piano, too, has thrown a good number of excellent large uprights on the market. In spite of this there is a good deal of junk for sale. How is the innocent would-be purchaser to distinguish between the good and the bad, not to speak of the great mass of the indifferent?

A USEFUL opening gambit is to enlist the aid of some disinterested person who knows something about pianos for a frank opinion. Even this is not sufficient. After all it is the man who buys the piano who has to make the final decision, and the opinion of an expert is so often hedged round with qualifications that it is sometimes hard to make up one's own mind. If he advises without hesitation not to buy a certain piano his advice should be accepted. Let us assume that the purchaser has found nobody to advise him. How is he to choose aright? He should at first, if he does not know what a good piano sounds like, try a good one. From then onwards it is a question of using his ears, his hands and his head. First his hands. The touch of the piano should be responsive. It should not be loose or flabby. If there are any notes that stick or will not play he should regard them with the gravest suspicion. The touch should be even throughout—that is to say that if one note requires a certain amount of effort to make it speak its next-door neighbour should require almost exactly the same. Of course the lowest notes have a heavier touch than the highest notes. That is because the hammers are larger and heavier, but in a good piano the touch is graded by insensible degrees from one end of the keyboard to the other. The pedals and dampers should be in good working order. If they are not they may need only a slight adjustment. A look inside the instrument should usually suffice to ascertain this. At the same time any broken strings, hammers, etc., should be noted.

AND now we come to the vexed question of tone. Even when the piano is tuned and in good working order opinions will differ. It should also be borne in mind that where the hammers have received much wear the tone will suffer, though it is a comparatively easy job for tuner to put this right. What I like in a piano is a clear, round singing tone from top to bottom. Any tinniness in the treble or muzziness in the bass is bad and may be incurable. If the piano is badly out of tune it is a much more difficult business to say what the tone will be when it is tuned—one's verdict is bound to be largely guesswork. One inference can be made: if the vendor of a piano has not taken the trouble to have it tuned it is almost certain that it has been neglected, if not ill-used. Nevertheless it is sometimes possible to get a good piano in time before neglect has taken its toll.

ALTHOUGH I have intentionally "soft-pedalled" the woodwork of the piano the appearance of the instrument usually gives some clues to its treatment and what to expect from the inside. If it has been badly chipped or scratched, if there are those circular marks that betray the presence erstwhile of the beer-mug, or worse still the flower-vase, one may reasonably expect to find flaws elsewhere than on the surface. The wood should be also inspected for the presence of those unpleasant little insects that burrow their way through wood and leave tell-tale layers of fine sawdust. If not taken in time they will damage the instrument irreparably and attack other furniture and woodwork in the house. They can, I believe, be checked by spraying DDT.

ONE last word. It is worse than useless to buy a bad piano. This applies particularly when one is buying a piano for children to practise on. A bad instrument may very well result in inculating a lifelong aversion to music in a child. Needless to say it should be tuned regularly. Twice yearly is about the minimum in this climate, though most pianos need more frequent attention. Small adjustments and minor repairs become necessary from time to time, but it is astounding how little of this is necessary if a piano is kept in a reasonably even temperature and played regularly.

UNCONSIDERED TRIFLE

A boy fresh from school was given an appointment by a business man with a view to entering into his employment. After testing his knowledge in various directions, the interviewer rapped out: "The first essential in business is a large fund of general knowledge. Tell me my boy, for what was Louis XIV chiefly responsible?"

Without a second's hesitation the boy answered: "Louis XV, sir."

Letters To The Editor

MEASLES

Sir:

One day my Mother said "You must stay home from school today,
And I was nearly six years old and hadn't missed a day.
I coughed and sneezed, I felt so hot I had to go to bed,
My legs ached and my head—it hurt, and wasn't my face red!

At first I said it wasn't fair, it really did seem mean
To have to stay tucked up in bed when it was Hallowe'en,
But say—just in a day or so I really didn't mind,
'Cause I had all the nicest things and everyone was kind.

They sent me fruit and chocolate bars, and ice cream for a treat,
I had to give my brother some, I had so much to eat.
They let me have the scissors, too, to cut out
dolls and things,
I coloured all the magazines; the days went by with wings.

I scattered papers every where, Mom never said a word,
She read me lots of stories too, the best you ever heard.
Just once she scolded, that was when I spill-
ed the cocoa cup,
I nearly cried—she kissed me quick and said
"I'll clean it up."

It took a lot of patience too to wash the sheets and spread,
And once I spilled the button box underneath the bed.
The times she came upstairs one day, I counted fifty twice;
When I get big I'm going to buy her something really nice.

I thought that she was busy but I guess she thinks it's fun,
For she said when I was well again she would get something done.
So don't get scared if you get sick and think it is the wheezles,
'Cause you can have a real good time, yes,
even if it's measles.

Some of the children just now might like to have this.

COMMENT ON THE COUNTY FOREST

Sir: I would like to make some comment on the much talked about County Forest. It seems for the past few years, there has been a lot of dissatisfaction amongst the ratepayers as well as the county members in connection with the large amount of money that has been spent on this project, and practically no returns coming back. No doubt there are considerable merits in the contention, but on the other hand, I do not believe that it ever was the intention of the founders of this project that it would ever be a money-making scheme for the county. Was it not for a forest preserve in conjunction with other counties that were fostering the same idea?

However I do understand in the dying days of the 1950 county council the members saw fit to embark on a lumbering scheme, and appointed the chairman of the forest committee at a salary of nine dollars per day to carry on this work, he to be the sole proprietor to cut and market the same at the best advantage he could for the county; the only stipulation that was handed to the chairman that he was to confine himself to the timber that was damaged slightly by fire or large timber that had practically matured.

There has been considerable undue criticism about the chairman which I feel he does not deserve as I think that he has carried out the intention of the 1950 county members one hundred per cent. I have been informed that he has one hundred thousand feet or probably better now on the skid waiting the saw. And I understand that there has been an estimate placed on lumber of forty dollars per thousand over and above all expenses in handling same for the county, which I sincerely hope will net then more, but I have grave doubt if it will do it.

However I think the chairman has been sincere and honest under the trying circumstances that he had to contend with on account of the timber that he was instructed to cut being scattered over a large area of the 4,600 acres, and I think that it is almost impossible to make very much profit under the system that he was instructed to carry out.

The whole matter looks to me like straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel, as far as the county members are concerned. It appears to be the consensus that the county forest has cost far too much money for the returns that they are getting out of it by both the ratepayers and the county members, and in this I do not disagree, but there is no use in crying over spilled milk; the money has been put into it, and we will just have to be content with whatever we can get out of it.

However this lesson taught by the elaborate expenditure of money on a project that will never net the county a profit on the amount of money involved has not in any way prevented the county council in embarking on a much more elaborate deal and no profit in sight, only high taxation.

Should the lumbering activity of the county this year net them four thousand dollars or even better, it will take five years of the same profit to pay one year's expense that the county assessor will cost this county including the local municipalities over and above what it has cost in former years for assessing; and might I ask what profit are the ratepayers getting out of it? Only the burdensome penalty of much higher taxes, unless they rob our roads of the much-needed repair on same. Therefore I think there is much room for criticism of this unnecessary expense of money when there is not one thing being done that the local assessors and the county council cannot do themselves if they go according to the assessment act.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth....And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. (Gen. 1: 1, 26, 27.)

Thou hast dealt well with thy servant, O Lord, according unto thy word....Thy hands have made me and fashioned me: give me understanding, that I may learn thy commandments. (Ps. 119: 65, 73.)

I will sing unto the Lord as long as I live: I will sing praise to my God while I have my being. (Ps. 104: 33.)

As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness. (Ps. 17: 15.)

For we know in part, and we prophesy in part. But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away. When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things.

For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known. (I Cor. 13: 9-12.)

"WHAT ABOUT FORMING A POPULAR FRONT?"

Windsor Spitfires Lose Twice To Barrie 6-0 and Marlies 5-0

By The Canadian Press

The fluctuating fortunes of Windsor Spitfires have taken a downward turn.

The Spits, whose mid-season splurge changed them from also-rans into contenders for the championship of the OHA's junior "A" division, ran into a rough bit of schedule-making that called for four games in five days—all against top-notch opposition.

They took the first one, beating the front-running Barrie Flyers 4-3 last Wednesday night. But then they ran out of gas. The fourth-place Guelph Biltmores shaded them 3-2 in overtime Thursday night. And what happened to them over the weekend was sheer nightmare.

They entertained Barrie Saturday night and took a 6-0 pasting. Then they visited Toronto Marlboros, with whom they had been tied for second place, and were drubbed again, 5-0.

The double whitewashing virtually ended Windsor's hopes of taking the league title Four points behind Barrie, the best they can do in their two remaining games is tie the Flyers for the top spot—and the leaders have two games in hand.

Goalie Folds

Apart from their own lack of scoring punch, Windsor's double defeat was mainly due to the failure of goalie Glen Hall to keep on performing the miracles of puck-stopping magic he has produced most of the season.

Spitfires generally operate on the principle that everybody tries to get as many goals as possible while Hall wories about the defensive work. The youngster, who leads the league in shutouts, is accustomed to stopping 40 or 50 pucks a game while restricting the opposition to a goal or two.

But against Barrie and Marlboros he lost his magic—and his team-mates lost their shooting eye.

Jerry Toppazzini and Real Chevrefils dented Hall's armor twice Saturday night, with Don Emms and Bill Hagan getting one apiece. On Sunday Danny Poland of Marlboros sank a pair and Eric Nesterenko, Earl Balfour and Bob Cooper also got aboard the gravy train.

In both games the tired Spitfires foundered aimlessly and let the opposition outplay them most of the way.

Clinch Race

Other OHA weekend action was highlighted by the virtual clinching of the individual point-scoring race in the junior loop and the opening of the round-robin playoffs in the major division.

In a decision that seemed tailor-made to the convenience of sharp-shooting Lou Jankowski, both St. Catharines Teepees and Oshawa General substituted graduates from juvenile ranks for their regular goaltenders Saturday night, and Oshawa Lou celebrated by firing four goals and picking up three assists as Oshawa won 11-5.

Jankowski's chief contender for the scoring title, Ken Laufman of the idle Guelph Biltmores, was left far behind. He now trails the leader by nine points. Oshawa centre Alex Delvecchio picked up three goals and two assists to move past him to second place but he's still seven points back.

Defenceman Ted O'Connor helped himself to a pair of tallies and Herve Dejordy and Bob Attersley added one apiece at Teepees' expense. Bill Young got two for the losers, others going to Frank Martin, Bibber O'Hearn and Jim Robertson.

The juvenile goalies weren't entirely to blame for the slaughter. Teepees' Marvin Edwards had 42 shots to handle and Oshawa's Denny Pallister looked at 39 as both clubs played wide-open hockey.

In another Saturday night game, Galt Black Hawks moved into seventh place and guaranteed themselves no worse a tie for the last playoff berth by whipping the last-place Waterloo Hurricanes 7-3.

Warsaw Gets Second

LAKEFIELD, March 5—(ENS)—Warsaw trimmed Lakefield Merchants 8-1 here Saturday to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-five EPHL semi-final series. Sparked by Patterson, Evans and the Lonsberry boys, the visitors had too much before a good-sized crowd. It was a rugged fray with 15 penalties handed out.

R. Calberry got the lone Lakefield goals from Dunsford in the 1-0 first frame. Then Warsaw tore in to tally five in the second, Patterson scoring three and Smith and Lonsberry one each. The latter and Evans each had three assists. In the third, Patterson, S. Lonsberry and L. Lonsberry counted the goals, L. Lonsberry aiding on two, and S. Lonsberry one. Teams:

Lakefield: Goal, Blake; defence, Coons, Knox; centre, Chittick; wings, Hockaday, Dunford; alternates, Hamblin, P. Calberry, Morrison, Wilford, R. Calberry, Sloan, Lambert.

Referees—Romhanyi and Menzies.

Keene Evens Series With Hastings

KEENE, March 5 (ENS). — Keene defeated Hastings 11-9 Saturday to even up their best-of-five EPHL semi-finals at a game each, the third one being Tuesday in Hastings. It was an open, clean tussle before a small crowd, with Jack Mackness shifted up front and sparking the winners' attack, Hastings had a 6-0 edge in the first frame when Keene caught fire to come on and win.

Greenley scored three, Crowley, Edwards and Mueller getting one each for Hastings in the first, as Stevenson got two assists, and Petigrew, Thomas, Greenley and Laver had one each.

Then Keene got rolling for two by Mackness and Cowie. Laver and Greenley scored again in the second, an assist each going to Brown, Stevenson and Laver. Keene tallied five, Mackness having a pair and Kemp and the Sellaby boys one each, with an assist apiece going to Kemp, Cowie and Mackness, Burns helping twice. In the third, Stevenson got the only Hastings' goal, but Mackness and Cowie counted two each and Burns one for Keene. Mackness, Burns, Heafield and G. Sellaby each had an assist. Teams:

Keene: Goal, E. Musgrave; defence, Shearer, Anderson; centre, Cowie; wings, L. Sellaby, G. Sellaby; alternates, Mackness, Kemp, Burns, Whalen, Davidson, D. Musgrave, Heafield, Houle.

Hastings: Goal, McKenty; defence, Brown, Pettigrew; centre, Crowley; wings, Oliver, Edwards, alternates, West, Lockhart, Greenley, Laver, Stevenson, Thomas, Mueller.

"Y" Volleyball

Saturday play in the YMCA Volleyball League saw Fleas beat Bees 15-12, 15-0, and 8-2, after Bugs and Spiders defaulted the first game. Mosquitoes buzzed to victory over Locusts 15-8, 15-12, and 8-3. Moths nibbled wins over Ants 15-10, 16-14 and 1512.

Spiders now lead with 30 points, one more than Mosquitoes. Bees have 24, while Ants, Moths, Fleas and Locusts are tied up with 18 each, Bugs having 12 to date.

Bruins Nip Wings Hawks Clip Leafs

NORWOOD, March 5 (ENS)—Bruins edged Wings 2-1 and Hawks downed the Leafs 2-1 here Saturday in peewee hockey. Leeper got the Bruins' goals from Hefernan as Bedore scored for the Wings. Smith counted the Hawks' tallies, an assist each going to Burtt and Hannon. Rusaw scored for Leafs. Teams:

Bruins: Nolan, Ferguson, Brown, M. Millett, Reddon, R Millett, Chappell, Leeper, Hefernan, Honey, R. Stewart, J. Stewart.

Wings: H. Thompson, Bedore, Kavanagh, Johnson, McManus, Gollogher, Ferrian, Shorten, Long, B. Thompson, Scott, Fredericks.

Hawks: W. Ranson, Hannon, Burtt, Scott, McNeely, Johnson, Mackey, G. Millett.

Leafs: K. Thompson, Rusaw, Gordon, Cassidy, Smith, D. McManus, Hannigan, Anderson, Paxton, Shorten, Mullens, Telford, Parton.

Oddfellows Oust Lindsay To Go Into Group Finals

Junior hockey records for Civic Arena, went by the boards Saturday night as more than 1,500 fans watched with bated breath as Bun Kingdon's flying Oddfellows swept to victory 8-6 over Lindsay Kinsmen in the fourth and vital game of their best-of-five semi-final set.

Saturday's win marked the third in a row for the well-coached Link squad over their fighting Scugog rivals after dropping a tough overtime opener 5-3 at Lindsay, February 20, and it enables Oddfellows to advance against Oshawa in a best-of-seven final series for central Ontario junior "B" honors. The series will commence this week.

Really Fast

Wide-open hockey featured the fourth battle between the well-matched teams as the speed merchants fled hither and yon with reckless abandon, Kinsmen taking the chances on an all-out effort only to find Links ready to do likewise and up the ante. It was a swell scrap.

Bob Wyatt rose from a sick bed to lead his mates to victory with a sparkling display, though weary at the finish. The big boy parked three discs behind the bewildered McGuire, two in the fast first frame but in each case it was the hard-working Jim Morrow who set up the play, with smooth centre star Dean West lending a hand on one and sinking one marker in his usual good showing.

Scored a Pair

Ab Buckton, who skated miles and proved effective after a two-game absence due to illness, scored two glittering goals, including the final tally while dependable Ray Douglas and the ingenious Lefty Doris, rendered yeoman service throughout, the former setting up three while the latter sank one and assisted twice as the unit had a total of eight points to match the West trio. Though not as effective in a scoring way, the line of Brian Robinson, Ken Floyd and Bill Stewart toiled hard all the way playing their parts, particularly in a defensive way, as Robinson's stick-handling wizardry and checking ability and the hustle of Floyd and Stewart, proved big factors.

Army Armstrong played a smashing game both ways behind the blue line closely followed by his mates Dean Wasson, Don Clapper and Jim Shearer who gave their all, in a fine showing.

In fairness it must be said that 10 penalties gravely affected Kinsmen's offensive. Links drew but three miscues in a deserving show as referees Calhoun and Crombie paired well and ruled indiscriminately.

Lindsay went down fighting in a great series, and they congratulated the victors and wished them luck in the finals.

ROLLINS ON ROAM AS CANADIENS ROARING—That wandering boy in shots caught at a recent Canadien-Toronto game at the Montreal Forum, is Goaler Al Rollins of the Maple Leafs. The leading contender for the Vezina Trophy had a tough night against the Habs as three goals got by him. He is seen fanning the breeze on a Canadien shot, that didn't go in.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

Our next big open bonspiel is set for Monday, March 12. It is an all-week affair. Get up your own mixed rink and enter. The committee would appreciate your co-operation.

T. Doughty, J. Fanning, R. Dawson and E. O'Toole are curling today in the Hamilton bonspiel.

Dr. R. Clark's Lindsay rink was on the short end of some good-natured kidding on Saturday evening. They enjoyed it as well—it's all part of the game.

Tomorrow night we will publish Wednesday night's draw. It will be mostly vice-skips, and leads and seconds. Watch this column.

Just by way of a change on Saturday afternoon the vice-skips were chosen skips, and they did a good job. The winners were: H. Williamson, E. Lowes, C. Crane, H. Doleman and H. Appleton.

Results—Sturgeon Trophy

Preliminary round—B. Dench won from H. Dulmage; Dr. C. McKee won from B. Harrison; R. F. Downey won from B. Ashmore; H. Hamblin won from J. Brown; R. Johnson won from A. Ingram; K. Bissett won from J. Fanning; T. McArthur won from O. Price; S. Lowe won from D. Bell; Dr. R. Clark won from A. W. Smith; D. Charlton won from O. Steer; T. Doughty won from F. Rankine; F. Stenson won from J. Sinclair. Final round—C. Lawrence won from J. Hall; J. Dutton won from B. Grant.

Timothy Geohagen And Yukon Eric Headline Mat Card

Two of the strongest men in sport will be the main bout opponents when Yukon Eric, the powerful Alaska lumberjack, meets Timothy Geohagen, the Irish strongman, in the wrestling ring at the Brock Arena on Tuesday night. Yukon Eric has racked up an outstanding record both in the lumber camps of the north woods and in the wrestling rings of the continent, largely through his amazing strength. Timothy Geohagen's physical power earned him the title of "The Strongest Man in Ireland."

Tommy O'Toole, mat star from Washington, will oppose Sonny Kurgis, talented grappler from Columbus, Ohio, in the semi-final. Jack Wentworth of Alabama, will wrestle Pierre LaSalle of Montreal, in the first bout.

Marines Gain Semi-Final In OABA Play

Peterborough Marines' cagers fell short of breaking their high-scoring record of 135 points Saturday night in Owen Sound due to a low first half. But with a 60-point effort in the second they walloped Owen Sound Royals 91-41 in the return game of the Ontario intermediate "B" basketball series. The Marines won the series 171-96 on total points, winning the first game here a week ago 80-55.

This win places the local quintet into the Ontario "B" semi-finals for the first time in a number of years. The first game of the new series will be Wednesday in Toronto against the Church of the Messiah, coached by the well-known Canadian basketball player Shag Park.

The new opposition played in the Toronto church league and is reported to have pasted all teams. With several Toronto Argos football players aboard the Toronto team easily defeated the Toronto district winner of the OABA to meet the Marines.

Saturday night's game in Owen Sound was one of the worst defeats handed out by Marines in six league and four playoff games. Only the 135-29 game with Port Hope exceeds Saturday's mark.

Plato Good

Teacher Fred Plato did some basketball teaching on his own. Not at the first game against the Royals, Plato more than made up for his absence Saturday night and racked up 16 points in the first half and 17 in the second for a total of 33. Ted((Nipper) Payne, leading scorer for Marines kept up his first game's pace with 24 points.

Due to work, the first game's high scorer, Jim Thorburn, failed to play Saturday's game. Coach Gord McIntyre said that the team missed Thorburn who would have contributed with his fast-breaking play with Doug MacPherson. "If Thorburn had played, the score would have been well over 100," said Coach McIntyre.

Plato, Rocky Kidd, Dardson, MacPherson and Payne all contributed points in the first half as the Marines led midway through 28-8. But the Royals rallied briefly with Georgas and Binkley scoring six and seven points respectively. The half ended with the Marines up 31-22. With Kidd and MacPherson controlling the backboard and shooting passes up the floor to Plato and Payne, the Marines ran away in the second half. Payne contributed 21 points and Plato 17 as the locals outscored the Royals 60-9.

Rocky Kidd and Bill Trimm were banished in the second half with five personal fouls when the play became rougher. The Marines then slowed the game down to keep a free-for-all from breaking in the last five minutes.

Lineups:

Marines (91)—Payne 24, Plato 33, Dadson 8, MacPherson 6, Kidd 11, Trimm 1, Butcher 8.

Owen Sound (41)—Binkley 18, Georgas 10, Matheson 1, Hamilton 1, Murhpy 2, Morrison 2, McLerron 3, Dane, Bell, Bonnor.

Apsley Takes Win

LAKEFIELD, March 5 (ENS)—Apsley defeated Buckhorn 14-5 in their Bush Hockey League playoff game here before a good-sized crowd. It was a fast tilt and rather rough. Buckhorn might take the return if they tried more shots on the net. In the first period for Apsley, Houle scored two and Howden, Harris, Brown and Tucker one each, as Williams got a brace for Buckhorn.

Eady and Howden tallied in the second for the A's with Fawcett flinging one in for Buckhorn. Harris, Eady, Brown and Batten tallied singles and Houle two for Apsley in the third, Easton and Shearer scoring for the losers.

Teams:

Apsley—Goal, Spencely; defence, Brown, Tucker; centre, Watson; wings, Eady, Batten alternates, Houle, Harris, Howden, Delahaye.

Buckhorn—Goal, Muskrat; defence, Fawcett, Hall; centre, Shearer; wings, Hunt, Barr; alternates, Barcroft, Shearer, Williams, Coones, Easton.

Referees, Blewett and Dickson.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Last Wednesday, the Petes beat Kingston Nylons here to open their best-of-five puck series to declare an Allan Cup contender. With the Nylons playing a patty-cake sort of game. But they didn't act like powder puffs in the return tilt in Kingston Friday. They tried to give the Petes the business and it ended up with big Patterson (No. 4) slugging Chum Fryia to the ice with a stick over the head. So, it looks like the gloves are off now and the old rivals will be really feuding the rest of the way. Nylons won the second game, and it's even-stephen as they meet in the third clash here tonight. It should be a dandy and possibly their last local meeting, so we look for a big crowd on deck.

* * * * * *

As mentioned before, this playoff series is to declare a team for Allan Cup (CAHA) playdowns, the loser of it dropping back into OHA group finals 'gainst the Belleville-Eagles' suvivor. The Eagles are in Belleville tonight, down one game in their three-of-five group semi-finals. Return one then will be here Wednesday. Scribe Carver of Bella Villa tried to ride us the other eve for calling the Petes and Eagles to finish one-two in the group race. He was rather confused when we pointed out that they did finish one-two. You see Nylons and Queen's never had their replay of a protested game, so actually Eagles finished a point ahead of Nylons—but didn't bother forcing the replay, figuring Nylons would likely beat Queen's anyway.

* * * * * *

Rebuttal Ala Kingston

Our recent explanation of this point brings a comment from Mike Rodden, Kingston scribe, thusly: "In rebuttal it may be said that on Nov. 24 Queen's, using an extra player, shut out Nylons 4-0. A protest was lodged and upheld, and the game re-scheduled for Dec. 12, but mild weather intervened. To make matters worse, the game carded for Dec. 18 was also postponed." He then goes on to say Nylons and Queen's arranged to play two four-point games. Sure, because they also postponed another tilt in the Christmas holidays. What kind of a rebuttal is that? And why should mild weather force a postponement in a big city like Kingston where they have artificial ice—of a sort—and don't need to play on outdoor rinks? Come, come, Michael.

PMHA officers and coaches have been doing a fine job this past winter and the results show with three teams now going into OMHA semi-finals. Al Watkins' midget Marines —with Ed Woodcock aiding Al—await word now on their next series. The McGillis Eaglets (who are handled by Jack Byers and Don Floyd) beat Belleville 6-2 there on Saturday to sweep their bantam round 11-4, and they'll likely meet Barrie in provincial semi-finals. Johnny Godfrey's juvenile Oddfellows edged the Quinte team 2-1 in Belleville and gained the round 11-9 and will probably meet St. Kitts in semi-finals. Fine stuff, boys. We may hear today when their next playoff series commence.

IOOF-ers Erase Lindsay

The winding Scugog River will be swollen today with the tears of hundreds of puck fans up Lindsay way. The Kin figured they had their junior "B" semi-final group series clinched when they beat our IOOF-ers in the first playoff. But Bun Kingdon's scrappy squad fought back to take the next three and they now meet Oshawa for the group title. 'Twas 8-6 here Saturday before more than 1500 noisy fans, and a dandy duel. Bob Wyatt starred with three tallies, while Morrow, Buckton, Dean West, Lefty Doris and others all shone. In fact, they turned in a nifty team effort against strong rivals to earn the decision. We think they'll take Oshawa Bees, also.

Two of our cage teams in provincial playdowns came through in excellent style on Saturday. Bev Goulding's juvenile PCI-ers overcame an 11-point deficit to trim Regiopolis College of Kingston 35-15 at the Collegiate and take the round 61-52. Lionel Hempstead and Jim Hendry led the scorers for the Peterborough boys. PCVS seniors won a 66-46 exhibition o'er Toronto Western Tech the same night as part of a twin bill. St. Kitts meet the local juves here next Saturday in another round. Up at Owen Sound, Gord McIntyre's intermediate 'B' Marines mauled the northerners 91-41 to capture their round by 171 to 96 and meander into Ontario semi-finals. They'll be playing Church of the Messiah in Toronto on Wednesday.

Buffalo Drops Game To Indians In 5-4 Tilt

By The Canadian Press.

The American Hockey League, nearing the end of its 1950-51 schedule, completed another heavy weekend schedule with little or no change in the standings.

Buffalo, eastern division leaders, dropped a 5-4 decision to the last-place Springfield Indians but the Bisons remain well ahead in their section.

Cleveland Indians, tops in the western section, shaded Hershey Bears 5-4 to maintain a healthy lead.

In other games, Providence downed Cincinnati 4-1 and Indianapolis defeated Pittsburgh 3-1.

PCVS Juveniles Get Series From Kingston

By DON GRANT.

PCVS' juvenile cage quintet successfully survived the first round of the OABA playdowns here Saturday night by defeating Regiopolis College 36-15. This was the second game of the two-game points-to-count series, PCVS wininng the round 61-52.

Regiopolis, except for several players, provided little offensive work, failing to pass the ball enough when within the offence zone. At times they did penetrate the PCVS zone defence, but again failed, this time on their shooting. The small home crowd wondered how the Kingston college team ever took the tall, fast-breaking PCVS team in the first game 37-26 a week ago.

The Garnet and Grey gave Regiopolis a rough ride for the first half as they controlled the backboards with height and dazzled them with quick plays while in the scoring area. The quintet of Lionel Hempstead, Jim Hendry, Dave Langhorne, Murray Grafstein, and Bill Stewart were most effective.

Their Best Heat

After the half the PCVS players joined Regiopolis in the slow-moving, poor-passing and poor-shooting game which was only broken several times by a quick check and rush by the Regiopolis cagers in the third quarter, their best. Hempstead, Hendry and Stewart led the PCVS quintet in the first quarter when they went up 14-1. Regiopolis checked better in the second and held PCVS 10-5 as both teams dropped into a sluggish game five minutes before half-time.

Latimer, Francis and Delisle rallied the Regiopolis quintet in the third and they kept even with PCVS with short stab attacks. Latimer's hook shots evenually gave Kingston a 6-5 score for the quarter. Regiopolis tried long floor-length passes in the fourth, temporarily disorganizing the Garnet and Grey, but Bryan Young intercepted several and brought PCVS back up the court. They managed to outscore Regiopolis 6-3.

Lionel Hempstead, the smallest man on the floor, was the highest-scoring player with 10 points, one more than teammate Jim Hendry, who scored on pivot shots mostly in the second. Grafstein and Langhorne each had five for PCVS.

Next Saturday the St. Catharines juveniles will be at the PCVS gym in the first game of the two-game points-to-count series in the second round of the playoffs. Two years ago when PCVS won the Canadian juvenile championship the games with St. Catharines for the Southern Ontario honors were the best, packed with speed and scoring from beginning to end.

The lineups:

Regiopolis 15 — Martin 1, Delisle 4, Francis 4, Latimer 5, Atuchal, McNamee, Errasti, Stone and Morey.

PCVS 35 — Mempstead 10, Hendry 9, Grafstein 5, Langhorne 5, Stewart 3, Cunningham 2, Young 1, Fowler, Ash, Johnston and McIlraith.

Beat TCS Cagers In Doubleheader

PORT HOPE, March 5.—Upper Canada College took both ends of a Prep School basketball doubleheader here Saturday, defeating Trinity College School 79-65, in a senior game, and 44-35 in a junior affair.

Dave Moore with 27 points led UCC in the senior game. Tom Akesson was next in line for scoring honors with 17 points, while Jerry Pink had 14. Walker with 21 paced the losers with DuMoulin scoring 16 and Phil Muntz 12.

The winning juniors were sparked by the 24-point effort of Jerry Aziz. Jim Gray scored eight. Bill Ryley and Kit Cowan each came through with eight points for the losers.

Walcott Tries Again For World Title

DETROIT, March 5 (AP). — Jersey Joe Walcott, a 20-year ring veteran, makes his fourth try for the world's heavyweight title against champion Ezzard Charles here Wednesday night.

Charles, with an eight-year advantage on the 37-year-old challenger, rules a 1-3 favorite. He will be putting his crown on the line for the seventh time since he fell heir to it by decisioning Walcott in Chicago June 22, 1949.

The International Boxing Club expects the 15-round bout to draw a capacity 17,000 fans and a gross gate of $100,000 at Olympic Stadium.

Made Games Chief

MONTREAL, March 5 (CP). — The appointment of Lorne Lindsay of Montreal as chef de mission of the winter games at the 1952 Olympic games was announced here Saturday by Canadian Olympic Association.

Trinity College Wins

PORT HOPE, March 5.—Trinity College School defeated Upper Canada College 4-2, in a Prep School hockey league game here Saturday. The line of Bob McDerment, Gord Currie and John Long led the winners accounting for all four goals. Currie scored a pair, the others one each. Bob Hogarth and George Brown were the UCC marksmen.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Charlie Conacher took a big hitch on the National Hockey League scoring title 16 years ago tonight when he scored four of Toronto's 10 goals against Montreal Canadiens. With one of the hardest shots in hockey, Conacher finished on top of the scoring table in 1935. He quit playing in 1940 and coached Chicago Black Hawks from 1948 until last spring.

Minor Puckists Rub Out Belleville Boys

Belleville Arena was the scene of two sparkling hockey duels Saturday night as minor hockey playoffs continued with Peterborough bantam and juvenile teams again victorious over their Quinte rivals. Jack Byers' speedy bantams racked up a 6-2 win in the curtain raiser to win the round 11-4 while Johnny Godfrey's fighting juvenile Oddfellows squad edged out a thrilling 2-1 verdict to win their round 11-9 and advance further against western opposition probably St. Catharines. McGillis Eaglets will meet Barrie.

Belleville scored first at the three-quarter mark in the bantam opener but the Brown brothers combined nicely to tie up the battle on a neat play in the second with Jim scoring. Hull and Hagerman, who starred for Belleville, again put their mates ahead for the only other marker in a close second frame. Eaglets swarmed around the Quinte net in the third and Heffernan twice, Rusaw, Garvey and Floyd all found the range with Godfrey, Floyd and Davis each garnering assists. Penalties were evenly divided at five apiece in the fine fast struggle. It was clean too. Every Eaglet played well in this game to earn star rating.

Looked Swell

Oddfellows showed at their very best in the night-cap to get a sparkling, though hard-earned victory over the smart Belleville juveniles. After a hectic but scoreless first frame, Belleville opened the scoring near the halfway mark on a fast thrust by Lally. Oddfellows came strong, seconds later and Kenny Pammett picked up a pass near the red line, sailed across and fired a high hard one to the upper corner to put his team one up again on the round. It was nip-and-tuck from there on as both teams gave all in a great showing of speedy even hockey. The well-coached Oddfellows squad were equal to their task and finally scored the all-important clincher as Leo Sullivan combined with Paul Doris, who starred throughout on two lines, to give their team a brilliant triumph. It was a rugged, hard fought game but clean and the better team won.

McGillis Eaglets: Goal, Curtis; defence, Forrestal, Buckley; centre, Godfrey; wings, Floyd, Heffernan; alts., R. Brown, Keeting, Rusaw, Sutherland, Mahoney, J. Brown, Davis, Garvey.

Belleville: Goal, Kingston; defence, Walmsley, Bovay; centre, Green; wings, Hagerman, Hull; alts., Burns, Wright, St. Denis, Pringle, Block, Culloden, Sleeper, Gill.

IOOF Juves: Goal, West; defence, Church, Kimball; centre, Pammett; wings, Sullivan, Ferguson; alts., Doris, Hope, Cupola, Caravaggie, Gooley, Jones, White, Buchanan.

Belleville: Goal, Barclay; defence, Goyer, Stephens; centre, Jones; wings, Phillips, O'Brien; alts., Meagher, Cook, Thompson, Latchford, Lally, Allen, Hurst.

Toronto Loses To PCVS In Cage Tussle

Toronto's Western Tech basketball team received a jolt from Coach Bev Goulding's senior Garnet and Greys Saturday night at PCVS. The Tech quintet recently knocked out of the Toronto Collegiate cage semi-finals was turned aside 66-46 by the PCVS before the smallest crowd of the boys' basketball season.

Western Tech did not produce the brand of basketball expected of one of Toronto's strongest squads. This was probably because their star, George Stulac, was hounded throughout by the PCVS checks so that he could not lead any long attack.

Only once or twice did the Tech boys break loose but left themselves open for PCVS breakaways which kept the locals up by three points throughout. Except for the under-basket work of George Stulac, Western showed little offensive power to break through the PCVS zone defence.

He Scored 2-0

Stulac, who has broken the individual single game scoring record for Toronto twice this year with 36 and 39 points a game, was bottled with the close checking of Al McIlraith. In spite of McIlraith's watchfulness, the clever Toronto ballhandler dropped in 20 points. Not since Don Griffin pounded the PCVS court have PCVS fans seen a player with the deception of Stulac and the Garnet and Grey did well to hold him to 20.

Berketa was fiery with his stabbing checks after which he dribbled quickly up the floor. There the quick break would fall dead. He also dropped in several long field attempts with ease. Jack Douglas and Frank Parker, other Toronto standouts, seemed to have "off" night despite scoring efforts of six and 11 points respectively.

PCVS' Ted Evans turned in his best show for the 1951 season. He was a continual thorn in the side of Western's passing plays by intercepting or forcing jump-balls. On the offensive work Evans guided well settling the plays and scored 16 points.

Al Northcott continued his brilliant scoring pace by racking up 16 points mostly on his specialty, a quick check followed by a breakaway or on just straight breakaways. All the forwa handled the ball neatly. Terry Brown, a senior B player, worked well in the higher bracket.

The lineups:

Western Tech 46— Stulac 20, Douglas 6, Parker 11, Berketa 7, Tos, Krey, Graydon, Tilley 2, Herriot.

PCVS 66 — Northcott 16, Ash 7, Thompson 5, Brown 3, Frise 8, McIlraith 8, Evans 16, Cranfield, Young 3.

Walter Knox Athletic Great Dies In Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5 (CP)—Walter R. Knox, 73, one of Canada's all-time great athletes, died in a hospital here on Saturday. A winter visitor, he suffered a stroke a few days ago.

For 20 years, beginning in 1900, Knox broke track and field records. During his career he won more than 400 first prizes, 126 seconds and about 150 thirds.

In the recent Canadian Press half-century poll, Knox was third behind Percy Williams and Bob McFarlane in the ballotting for Canada's outstanding track and field performer of the last 50 years.

Knox won the all-round professional track and field championships of North America in 1913, taking seven of 10 events.

The next year he won the world championship in a match at Manchester, England, garnering six firsts in eight events over the British champion.

He was a native of Orillia, but in recent years had made his home at Lowville, N. Y., where he was a miner's broker.

He is survived by his widow and a sister, Mrs. Belle Know Bellamy of Edmonton.

Helped Young Athletes

As coach for the Ontario Athletic Commission in the middle 20s, he travelled the province's secondary schools, passing on his remarkable athletic talents to thousands of young athletes who got their start from his expert tutelage. He coached one Canadian and one British Olympics track and field team.

Coaching activities branded Knox a professional during the height of his career and he never participated in the Olympic games. However, when he was reinstated as an amateur at the age of 55 he demonstrated his exceptional condition by taking part in the Ontario shot put championships.

In his younger days he and his brother John became known as prospectors in northern Ontario. They held several mining properties in the Shining Tree district.

Mr. Knox will be buried today at Wellington, Ont.

Broda Shuts Out Hawks Rangers Set Tie Record

By MEL SUFFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

After considerable early-season moaning about the adverse effects on the box office of tie games, it was only proper that New York Rangers should set a National Hockey League record in that department.

The Rangers came from behind in New York Sunday night to gain a 2-2 deadlock with Montreal Canadiens. Saturday night the Rangers had seen the Bruins come from behind to earn a 3-3 tie in Boston.

The two ties brought to 20 the number for New York this season, one better than the mark set last year by Montreal.

Besides strengthening the positions of New York and Boston in their hunt for playoff positions, the Deadlocks added fuel to the campaign started by the Rangers earlier this season for return of the overtime period. They have argued that overtime would reduce the number of ties and curb fan frustration resulting from the number of unsettled games.

Montreal Weakened

Five games were played in the NHL during the weekend, and the result was to weaken Montreal's chances of getting into the playoffs while slightly reducing the chances of Toronto Maple Leafs overhauling the league-leading Detroit Red Wings.

In Montreal Saturday night, the Red Wings beat Canadiens 3-1 before 14,543 fans, and in Toronto the Leafs shut out Chicago Black Hawks 3-0 before 12,994.

In the second Sunday night game Boston took over sole possession of third place by plastering Chicago 10-2 to the delight of 7,887 fans in Boston Garden.

The weekend was a big one for Woody Dumart, who scored five goals for the Bruins, one Saturday and four in the Sunday night affair.

Rookie Ed Kryzanowski and Johnny Peirson were the other scorers, with Peirson's goal nine seconds before the end of the game producing the 3-3 tie.

Topper Toppazzini, former Bruin, scored two of New York's goals with rookie Reggie Sinclair getting the other.

Veteran Milt Schmidt assisted on three of Dumart's goals in the Sunday night onslaught. Ed Sandford assisted on another as Dumart boosted his all-time NHL goal-scoring total to 196. Sandford collected two goals as did Pete Horeck, while Paul Ronty and Vic Lynn brought the total to 10. Adam Brown got both goals for injury-riddled Chicago.

Broda Blanks Hawks

In Toronto Saturday night, veteran Turk Broda celebrated his return to the nets by blanking the Hawks. Max Bentley got two Toronto goals and Cal Gardner the others.

The game was featured by a match misconduct penalty to Toronto's Gus Mortson for swinging his stick at Adama Brown in the third period. He remains suspended until his case is dealt with by league president Clarence Campbell. Brown received a major penalty in the fight that ensued.

Hawks were again hit by injuries in the game at Toronto. Defenceman Bill Gadsby aggravated an old leg injury and will be out for a while, and Doug McCaig suffered a 10-inch cut on his left cheek.

The Detroit-Montreal game Saturday night was marked by a game misconduct to Maurice (Rocket) Richard for fighting in the penalty box with Leo Reise. The offence carries an automatic $50 fine but no suspension.

Canadiens had a 1-0 lead in the first period on Kenny Mosdell's unassisted goal. But Gordie Howe tied it up shortly after and goals by Glen Skov and Red Kelly sewed it up for Detroit in the third period.

Chuck Rayner, New York goaltender, had to be replaced in the Sunday night game at New York. Emil (Cat) Francis, netminder of Cincinnati Mohawks of the American Hockey League, took over for the third period after Rayner retired with an arm injury suffered the previous night.

Longden Boots Moonrush Home

ARCADIA, Calif., March 5 (AP) In his 41 years, Johny Longden has learned a lot about riding horses.

It paid off Saturday for Anita King, the former silent-screen star, and two close friends, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Luellwitz.

Longden booted the 10-1 shot, Moonrush, home to victory in the 1¼-mile $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap over 13 others of the best still racing after an injury-ridden Santa Anita season.

It was the third triumph for old Mr. Moneybags from Taber, Alta., in the classic. He won it astride Noor last year and on Thumbs Up in 1945.

This time, Longden took Moonrush to the front early and stayed there except for a brief few strides near the wire.

Many of the 53,000 spectators thought Moonrush was drifting out coming off the last turn. But Longden said it was all planned. He took his mount out where the racing strip was faster. The track was no better than good after a week of showers sleet, and a few flakes of snow.

"I knew it was cut up on the rail," he said, "so I got out where it was firmer."

A. G. Vanderbilt's filly, Next Move, on the other hand, went inside, and although she caught Moonrush near the 16th pole, the latter went ahead again to win by a neck. Sudan was third. Time for the race was 2:02 3-5.

US Commander Praises Pats

WEST CENTRAL SECTOR, Korea, March 5—(CP)—Lt.-Gen. Mathew Ridgway, commander of the United States Eighth Army, has sent a message of congratulation to Canadian troops under his command after their baptism of fire in Korea.

The message to Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone, commander of the 2nd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, read:

"Congratulations on your first fight. Best wishes to you and all your command."

In a 12-day campaign that ended last week, the Patricia's spearheaded the advance in their sector, pushing eight miles northward against firmly-entrenched Chinese forces.

Institute Hears Debate On Blundering Men

HARWOOD, March 5 (ENS)—The Harwood branch of the Women's Institute held an open meeting in the community hall Thursday evening.

It was decided during the business session to pay the remaining $2 towards the area fee. Also decided to sponsor the Girl's Garden Club this year. Each member was asked to send out a post card to former members or friends asking for a 25 cent parcel for a summer bazaar. Two dollars was voted towards the Crippled Children's Society. The Institute decided to discontinue the winter euchres.

Miss Barbara Bates sang "Always;" Mrs. Crick gave an humorous reading entitled "Betty of the Baseball Team" and Pauline Drope and Phyllis Isaac played two piano duets.

The highlight of the evening was the debating teams from Cold Springs and Camborne, debating on the subject, "Resolved that a warmhearted blundering man has done more for the world than the frigid wise man."

Mrs. Herb McKinlay and Mrs. Allan Linton upheld the affirmative and Mrs. Eldred Lean and Mrs. Allan Bowman the negative.

Mrs. Arthur Lawton moved a vote of thanks. Community singing with Mrs. Garnet Isaac playing the piano was enjoyed by all.

Refreshments were served by the Institute members after the meeting. The next meeting will be April 5th, and the annual meeting and election of officers, at the home of Mrs. Charles Burrison, Harwood-Gore's Landing road.

WI Members Hosts To Roseneath Women

ROSENEATH, March 5—(ENS)—The members of Roseneath Women's Institute were hosts to the ladies of the community last Thursday afternoon at a social gathering. The president, Mrs. Harold Taylor, welcomed the guests. Progressive euchre and crokinole were played with Mrs. Bart Thackeray in charge.

The Institute colors, yellow and blue, were carried out in the color scheme, even to the score cards of the progressive games.

Following are the prize winners in euchre games: Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite, Mrs. Harry Down, Mrs. Alfred Pringle. Crokinole: Mrs. Fred Morris, Mrs. J. W. Pacey. A door prize was won by Mrs. Frank Adams. Mrs. A. Nill was the winner of the birthday prize.

A vote of thanks on behalf of the guests was tendered to the society by Mrs. Delbert Brisbin and Mrs. A. J. Campbell. A pot luck lunch as swerved by the members.

Not Ready Yet

MONTREAL, March 5 (CP). — Hon. A. A. Roberts, Canadian High Commissioner for South Africa, said in an address Saturday night that South African natives would not be ready for self-government for another 50 years. Mr. Roberts, addressing members of the South African War Veterans' Association, told of numerous superstitions still entertained by the natives and of the resultant cruelties inflicted on inhabitants.

New Socialist Group

LONDON, March 5 (Reuters). —Thirty-six leaders of 21 Socialist Parties all over the world formed a new "Socialist International" at a meeting which ended here Sunday night. It is a successor to the Socialist "Second International," which dissolved during the Second World War, and is a development of the International Socialist Conference, formed in 1948 as liaison machinery between Socialists all over the world.

Executive Editor

VANCOUVER, March 5—(CP) —Appointment of Himie Koshevoy as executive editor of the Vancouver Province was announced Saturday by A. W. Moscarella, publisher. Mr. Koshevoy, 41, was formerly managing editor of The Vancouver Sun. Before that he was city editor of the Sun.

Third P OTheft

BURLINGTON, March 5 (CP) —A gang that specializes in post office thefts is believed responsible for the Saturday night break-in of the post office here from which $5,000 in money, stamps, and registered letters was stolen. It was the third post office theft in the Toronto-Hamilton area in two weeks. The other two were at Willowdale and Oakville.

VOL. CII. No. 54 — MONDAY, MARCH 5, 1951

Tax Bills Up 86 Per Cent In Six Years

1945 Tax Rate Of 30.5 Mills Now 55.5 Mills

The people of Peterborough have nearly doubled their tax rate in the last six years.

The 30.5 mills of 1945 have been boosted to 55.5 mills for 1951. That is a spread of exactly 25 mills since the war ended.

And a 25-mill rate is equivalent to $25 for every $1,000 of your assessment. If the assessment of your property is $4,000, you are now paying $100 a year more than in 1945.

A taxpayer who contributed $103.70 to the city treasury in 1945 will this year pay $192.

Taxpayers may recall those war years from 1942 to 1944, inclusive, when the rate was 30 mills. The property owner who is paying $192 this year, got off at $108 down to $105 in the early forties.

That is an increase of 86 per cent in the tax rate since 1945. "It is almost breath-taking," a taxpayer commented to the Examiner today. Since 1926 he has paid a total of $3,371 in taxes on a property now assessed at $3,475.

For reference and recollection, the following are some of the tax summaries, with amount of taxes in one public school supporter instance, during recent years:

Year	P.S. Rate	S.S. Rate	Amount
1926	36	36	$148.34

Kenneth Dale Killed In Car Crash

Wife Badly Hurt Car Hits Tree Near Bowmanville

A former Peterborough man was almost instantly killed and his wife was injured Sunday afternoon when their car went out of control near Bowmanville and crashed into a tree.

Kenneth Dale, 28, of Ottawa, and his wife Grace, 23, were driving from Weston to Peterborough to pick up their four-year-old daughter Louise Ann, and then continue on to their home in Ottawa.

Now in Bowmanville hospital with minor cuts and abrasions, as well as suffering from shock, Mrs. Dale related that she was driving when the accident occurred.

Ran Onto Shoulder

When two mile east of Bowmanville, on Highway 2, the right wheels of the car ran onto the soft shoulder of the road. She pulled the wheel left to right the car and it skidded across the highway out of control. It turned over in the left ditch and smashed into a tree.

Dr. V. H. Storey of Bowmanville, who arrived shortly after the accident, said death was almost instantaneous.

Mrs. Dale was able to walk around after the fatal crash. But she was taken to Bowmanville hospital by a passing motorist. Her injuries were not serious.

With Grandparents

The small daughter, Louise Ann, was staying with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dale of High St. All her belongings were packed in readiness for the trip home to Ottawa with her parents.

Mr. Dale was a salesman for Schneider's meat packing firm.

He was born in Peterborough and took his primary schooling at Prince of Wales public school. At the age of 18 he joined the RCOC and served overseas for five years.

After his discharge he did not work again in Peterborough but went to Toronto where he was employed with Canada Packers. Next he became a traveller for Swifts' and two years ago became a traveller for Schneiders'.

The family moved to Ottawa last January.

While in this city he was a member of All Saints' Anglican church and Peterborough Lodge 155 A.F. and A.M.

He leaves his wife, the former Grace Jenkins of Toronto; his daughter, Louise Ann; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dale; three brothers, William, Robert and Donald, all of Peterborough; anad a sister Effie, Toronto.

Resting at his parents residence 1141 High St. until noon on Wednesday thence to Comstock Funeral Chapel where the funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Flu Hits 175 At PCVS

Colds and flu kept 173 students and two teachers away from lessons at PCVS Friday afternoon. Today the Collegiate's office was jammed with students waiting for a return-to-school slips after presenting a suitable excuse.

C. S. Browne, principal, said that on Friday morning 152 students were absent and three teachers. This is 12½ per cent of the enrolment in the school, nearly double the normal number usually absent at this time of year.

The flu hit three teachers who have classes on the third floor, V. R. Henry, James McNabb and Arnold Noftall. They were the only teachers away this morning. Last week another third-floor teacher, H. H. Graham, was away for two and a half days.

Leo McCauley, 53 Falls From Dam, Lost In Trent

TRENTON, March 5—Leo McCauley, 53-year-old lock tender, slipped from No. 6 dam in the Trent River system during Saturday's storm and drowned in the swirling waters of the river below.

McCauley was believed to have gone out on the top of the dam to put in stop logs. Investigation revealed a peavey or cant hook that he had carried on top of the dam. His hat was found a half mile downstream at No. 5 dam.

Police Chief McGeachie of Frankfort, who is investigating, said the man probably fell into the river on the upper side of the dam and went over the fall. The body had not been located tonight when grappling was stopped because of darkness.

During the afternoon when McCauley is believed to have fallen into the river, it was raining in this area and there was a high wind. Water was freezing on the top of the dam, making it very slippery.

F. Ellis and his sons, who have brought many bodies out of the river in this area, said they thought the body was probably in one of the quiet places in the river below the dam. Water in the area is between 10 and 12 feet deep.

Cavan Twp. To Vote On $2500 Arena Grant

ILLBROOK, March 5 (ENS)—Cavan township voters will go to the polls Friday to vote on the proposed township grant of $2,500 to the Millbrook-Cavan Memorial Arena.

If the electors approve the grant, the increase in the tax rate will be 1.7 mills on the taxes of 1951. Votes will be counted in Millbrook town hall Saturday at noon. Polls will be open from 10 a.m. to 6.30 p.m. Friday.

Hospital Asks City For $144,710

Expenses $875,225 Need $43,294 To Cover 1950 Deficit

Civic Hospital's board of governors is asking the city for $144,710.39 for 1951. The budget was brought down at a special meeting of the board on Saturday.

Of the total, $43,294.19 is being asked to cover the 1950 deficit of that amount. The remainder — $101,416.20—is for 1951 operation.

Total revenue expected is $773,809.23. Estimated expenses are $875,225.43.

Advances from the city to the amount of $24,000 for January and February have already been received.

The method of payment of the money has been suggested by the hospital as follows: January and February advances already received, $24,000; immediate payment of the 1950 deficit $43,294.19; for March, $9,916.20; and nine monthly payments (April to December) of $7,500 each, $67,500.

10-Month Revenue

For the final 10 months of this year, the board of governors expect revenues of $567,225.50. Actual revenue for January and February was $97,502.57.

Estimated expenses are $875,225.43, and the difference—$144,710.39—is what the hospital is asking from the city.

Revenue from patients from March to December is expected to be $99,125.50—$310,167 from public rooms, and $17,110 from nurseries. The 50-cent-a-day increase will add $8,996.50 to that.

From other sources, $180,600 revenue is expected. A small part of this will come from increases in minor charges.

A provincial grant of $36,000, cafeteria revenues of $55,000, county grants, and indigent payments bring up the estimated revenues to the $775,809.25 total.

In estimated expenses, salaries account for $522,803.77 of the expected $875,225.43.

Broken down, estimated expenses are as follows: administrative, $48,521.09; telephone and switchboard, $12,250.93; dietary, $179,794.36; housing, $54,779.37; power plant, $56,523.18; laundry and linen, $29,491.25; nursing school, $77,772.46; pharmacy, $60,466; medical and surgical supplies, $40,000; X-ray department, $26,012; operating room, $28,345.88; delivery room, $8,143.33; physiotherapy, $2,323.14; laboratory, $20,170.58; medical records, $5,082; taxes, $290; employees' hospitalization, $9,700; administrative nursing salaries, $49,495.81; nursery salaries, $15,439.88; other nursing salaries, $134,610; internes' salaries, $6,300; residence salaries, $9,713.92.

Thieves Crawl Into Gas Station Get No Money

For the second time in three months the service station of Douglas Mitchell on Sherbrooke St., outside the city limits, has been broken into by weekend thieves.

Valued at $250, the stolen goods include six unused tires and tubes; some spark plugs, two dozen ballpoint pens, and a quantity of cigarets, matches, tobacco, chocolate bars and candy.

The breakin was discovered by Mr. Mitchell at 9:30 a.m. Sunday when he arrived to open up the service station for business. His son Jim had worked there till 11 p.m. Saturday.

Through Hole In Wall

The thieves entered the building by squeezing through a hole in the wall that serves as a stovepipe outlet. It is about five feet from the ground and a square foot in size.

They removed the pipe on the outside and then pried off a piece of tin which was fastened over the outlet. Then the front door of the shop was unlocked by the thief who crawled in.

Main loss is the six unused tires and tubes, valued at $200. There was no money in the cash register which was left open.

Last December 10, thieves raided four shops in surrounding townships. Their loot was $360 in cash and merchandise. They smashed a window at Mitchell's service station but got no further. It is believed they were frightened off by the barking of a dog inside the building.

Provincial Constables Russell Pollard and L. H. Stinson investigated.

Civic Hospital Room Rates Boosted 50c-$1.50 A Day

Civic Hospital rates have been increased by amounts ranging from 50 cents to $1.50 a day, effective immediately. Decision to increase rates came at a meeting of the Board of Governors on Saturday. Superintendent John Hornal said today that the reason for the increase was the higher cost of everything—labor, supplies, food, drugs.

Rates went up too for rooms at the nurses' residence. Formerly nurses paid $19.95 monthly for their rooms; the charge now is $5 weekly.

Daily rate for private rooms has been increased from $9 to $10. For semi-private rooms, the rate is now $9, compared to the old rate of $7.50.

In public wards, patients will pay $1.50 more than they have been. Rates are up from $5 to $6.50.

An increased charge is being made also for newborn infants of mothers in public wards, semi-private and private rooms. In the wards, the daily rate is $2.50 and was $2. In semi-private and private rooms, the daily rate is $3 and was $2.50.

Non-resident Rates Up

An increase has also been made in charges to patients who are not residents of counties paying grants to the hospital. At present, Peterborough county and the united counties of Durham and Northumberland pay grants to Civic Hospital.

Formerly, non-resident patients paid 50 cents extra a day for public ward beds, and 25 cents extra for semi-private beds. There was no extra charge for private beds. The new charge is a flat $1.

Increases were also made in the charges for telephone service (from $1 to $1.50 weekly) and anaesthesia (from $2.50 to $3 an hour.)

"This trend to increased prices is regrettable, though unavoidable," Mr. Hornal said.

SEES ROBIN

Mrs. D. McColl, R.R. 10, Peterborough, reported seeing a robin near her home today. Excepting the robin which spent most of the winter in Ashburnham, this is the first reported to the Examiner.

Woman Suffers Fractured Leg

Knocked down by a car, Mrs. Larua Rumdelow, 580 Bethune St., had her left leg fractured Saturday afternoon.

Traffic Officer Claire McGillen arrived at the scene of the accident to find Mrs. Rumdelow lying on McDonnel St. in front of the car driven by George H. Beatty, 435 Albertus St.

Beatty said he was driving east on McDonnel St. He saw the woman walk out from the south curb and sounded his horn. But the woman started to run across. He put on his brakes, but slid on the icy surface and hit her.

Two witnesses to the accident said the driver of the car had no chance to stop. C. Bain, 523 Aylmer St., said the woman ran right out in front of the car and didn't give the driver a chance.

Mrs. H. Dalton, 227 McDonnel St., also said the driver had no chance.

Mrs. Rumdelow was taken to Civic Hospiltal where officials said today she was in good condition. Constables John Colin and Grant Gillespie helped in the investigation.

Travellers Hear Sam J. Whitehouse

Sam J. Whitehouse, general manager of Canadian Sealright Co., was the speaker at the luncheon Saturday of the Canadian Travellers' Club of Peterborough at the Empress. His subject was "Paper, Packages and People," with helpful ideas for the club members based on his own previous experience as traveller for Sealright. He was introduced by E. T. O'Brien, and the appreciation of the meeting was expressed by Art Goodier.

Guests at the luncheon were: A. B. Holmes, W. Porter, Robert Desormeaux, Doug Warner and Ken Narbidge. Doug Delaney was chairman in the absence of president Don Meredith. The club has completed plans for their spring Bunny dance.

Snow And Sleet Tie Up Traffic On City Streets

Sleet and snow falling Saturday turned roads icy and were partly responsible for six accidents reported to police.

About noon Frank Heffernan, RR 8, Peterborough, slid on ice into a hydro pole at the east end of Lansdowne St. at the CNR crossing when he braked his car because he heard a train whistle and saw the wig-wag going. Constable Robert Menzies investigated.

Missed Traffic Light

The first accident at Hunter and Aylmer Sts. where the new traffic lights have been installed was reported Saturday afternoon.

Robert D. Meredith, 490 Sherbrooke St., said he didn't know about the lights and drove north on Aylmer St. through against a red light colliding with a car driven by Kenneth Blodgett, 380 London St. Constable Grant Gillespie investigated.

A truck angle-parked with the tail end sticking out about nine feet from the curb was hit by another car being pushed west on Charlotte St. Driver of the car was Douglas Carson, Etobicoke, near Toronto. He said he put on his brakes because of traffic and he slid to the right on the icy surface and his right front fender caught the front bumper of the truck driven by Jack Huggins, 147 River Rd. Constables Eldon McDonald and Sherman Keliele investigated.

Collide On King St.

Two cars collided on King St. as one was attempting to pass another opposite Louis St. Both were travelling east. The first car was driven by A. Douglas McDonald, 2 Crescent Street. The second by Frederick Doherty, Lakefield.

Doherty said McDonald made no signal to show he was going to turn. McDonald said he had not started to turn when the collision occurred. After the impact, Doherty went on and came back to rest against a hydro pole. Constable George Moore-Gough investigated.

Driving out of a lane north of Brock St. into George St., William Lee, 20 Leahy's Lane, said he was unable to stop on the ice and slid out into the street and met in collision with a car being driven north by Bruce Foote, 192 Charlotte St. Constable Louis Rodreque investigated.

In another accident Mrs. Laura Rumdelow, 580 Bethune St., was knocked down by a car driven by George H. Beatty, 435 Albertus St., and suffered a fractured left leg.

FIRST FOXHOUND MEET in Peterborough County was held on Sunday at the Rifle Range and was attended by 75 hunters and dog fanciers and 31 dog entrants. Victoria and Bruce Report Year Of Progress

VICTORIA and GREY SHOWS ASSETS OF $38,000,000

The SIXTY-FIRST ANNUAL MEETING OF THE VICTORIA AND GREY TRUST COMPANY was held in the Council Chambers, Lindsay, Ontario, on February 21st, 1951, at two o'clock, p.m. Mr. T. H. Stinson, K.C., acted as Chairman.

The minutes of the last Annual Meetings were read and confirmed. Mr. G. E. Phelps was appointed secretary of the meeting. Mr. Phelps read the notice calling the meeting and the certificate of the Secretary of the Company proving mailing of notice to shareholders.

The Chairman then called upon the secretary to read the Directors' Report to the Shareholders; a copy of which Report is printed herein.

The President, Mr. T. H. Stinson, K.C., addressed the meeting. He expressed his pleasure at the large turnout of shareholders and welcomed the many visitors from a distance and locally who attended the meeting and were friends of the Company. The President then addressed the meeting as follows:

MR. T. H. STINSON, K.C.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is always a great satisfaction to the Board of Directors to know that not only are the Shareholders interested in the operation of the Company but others are interested in the success of the Company as well. It is exceedingly pleasing in a financial business to have the people of the community in which the operation is carried on concerned about the success and development of such a business in their community, so it is with a great deal of pleasure that I extend to you the thanks of the Directors for your presence with us to-day.

In the statement which you have received for the year ending the 31st day of December, 1950, it is stated that this is the 61st year of operation of Grey and Bruce Trust and Savings Company and it is the 55th year of operation of The Victoria Trust and Savings Company and it is also the first annual meeting of the amalgamated Companies known as Victoria and Grey Trust Company.

A few months ago your Directors unanimously recommended to the Shareholders of the Grey and Bruce Trust Company and The Victoria Trust and Savings Company that the companies be amalgamated under the name of Victoria and Grey Trust Company and the Shareholders of the two companies voted overwhelmingly in favour of such an amalgamation. We welcome here to-day our friends from Owen Sound. We, in Victoria County, are delighted to be associated with the good people of Grey and Bruce who have carried on a successful financial business in those Counties since the year 1889. The Owen Sound district is one of the real fine districts in the Province of Ontario and their people are imbued with enterprise ambition and the spirit of fair dealing which are the greatest forces that lead to progress. The Grey and Bruce Trust Company has been well managed for many, many years and has enjoyed the confidence and loyalty of the people of that district in a large way; and if I were talking to a strictly Victoria audience, I think I could truthfully say the same thing about The Victoria Trust and Savings Company.

The two companies were of similar size, conducted successfully the same type of business for many years in the Province of Ontario, and consequently an amalgamation seemed the right thing and it is planned to provide the same facilities and services by the amalgamated company as each of the companies maintained in its respective offices prior to the amalgamation.

The Board of Directors of the two Companies combined to form the first Board of Directors of the amalgamated companies and our relationship since amalgamation has been very happy and very harmonious.

Mr. George D. Fleming who was the President of Grey and Bruce and who is the Chairman of the Board of the new company is unable to be with us to-day owing to illness but he telephoned and asked me to say to this meeting, on his behalf, that he is very happy in connection with the amalgamation of the two companies and has every confidence that the amalgamated companies will succeed, develop rapidly and give the best of service to the people of the communities in which the Company is actively carrying on business.

It is my firm belief that it was in the best interest of the Shareholders of the two companies to amalgamate. They have much in common and a friendly feeling existed between the companies for many years. Combining their assets, operations and experience it should result in increased business and earnings, thus benefitting the Shareholders and others interested in the Company. The pooling of the assets will provide a wider diversification of security for the shareholders and depositors, thus strengthening the position of all.

The amalgamated company with assets of upwards of 38 millions of dollars and a long history of service in the Province of Ontario should enjoy a high standing among Canadian Trust Companies.

It is planned to list the shares of the amalgamated company on the Toronto stock exchange which should provide a wide and ready market for its shares at all times. The new share certificates are in the process of being printed and will be distributed as soon as the same are received from the printers. I have pleasure in presenting to you, for your approval, statement of the amalgamated company's affairs as of the 31st day of December, 1950 and I believe you will find this statement most satisfactory.

The combined earnings of the companies have increased; the combined assets of the companies have increased and the number of persons now holding shares in the company is 957. The Company, in its five offices, serves our 37,000 clients and customers, and with branches extending from Owen Sound south-east through Cannington, Lindsay, Peterborough and Belleville gives an excellent territory for the development of a substantial trust business.

When Canadians compare their fortune in 1950 with the lot of citizens in most other countries they will agree that they have, throughout the year just ended, enjoyed a large measure of happiness and prosperity. There has been tragic instances in which much property was destroyed, many lives lost, such as the Winnipeg flood, but comparatively, the fruits of the land and of the toil of the people have been plentiful, taxation has been tolerable and life in general has been peaceable and amiable; but it is too much to hope that the same easy conditions will prevail in 1951. Canadians, in this year, may expect to be called upon to work harder and longer, to produce more, to enjoy less, to pay higher taxes. The inescapable fact is that this country must make itself ready to battle for its life and freedom.

One of our Statesmen, in a recent public address, said "The current danger facing democracy is not only Communism or subversive ideas but the apathy, indifference and complacency of good people. Today, more than ever," he said "with the world in turmoil, confusion and instability, it is up to every good citizen to try to find stability and solidity. We are suffering from apathy, indifference and lack of logic". The Speaker further stated that there is too much talk of social security for people, forgetting that the money is to support so-called social security measures is what they pay in taxes. The more you apply so-called social security, the more money it takes and that must of necessity come from the citizens of Canada as Governments can distribute no benefits that individuals, through their labours, do not provide. Life being as it is some one has to plough and reap, plant and build, to exercise qualities of initiative, foresight and daring; only this totality of productive effort can provide a real and enduring basis for material welfare. Abraham Lincoln once said "you cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves."

World conditions are so very serious and the general public is doing so little thinking about the whole situation that I do think that a meeting of this kind should not pass by without bringing home to the people to some extent the seriousness of the present day conditions as we can only get out of our troubles and difficulties through the loyalty, toil, labour, honesty and thrift of our citizens as a whole. Canadians must work harder than before, pay more taxes and live less well if they want to lick inflation. The problem of inflation is the problem of controlling spending and if we spend more and produce less, the country can be ruined by inflation created in that way as completely as by war. The safeguard against inflation is more production.

To put the matter simply, if we, as a nation, insist on doing less and less for a dollar we can hardly complain if, the dollar does less and less for us and I think it is the duty of every one of us to try and bring that home to our people at every opportunity.

I think it should be clear to all of us that we have to do a great deal more 'every day' work in Canada if we are going to maintain the standard of living we have reached. This obligation rests on us individually and severally. We should not have to wait for the Government to provide the leadership to impose regulations forcing us to realize our obligations. Personal responsibility is a plain implication of the conditions of survival in freedom and security.

This year 1951 is an ominous and its course depends upon our loyalty, wisdom, realism, energy and faith. We shall receive what we deserve of good or ill. To spread the spirit of honest responsibility and to apply it daily is the main task of citizenship in this new age. It is the duty of every good citizen to do his or her share to help create an era of universal peace, freedom and prosperity. An era in which the soul of man, released from fear and tyranny, can attain in this life, full measure of the spiritual fulfilment which is contemplated in the Great Design for man—let us go forward in Faith and without fear. One sometimes wonders if the administration of human affairs has not become too great a task for human wisdom and that our guidance and help must be sought from Almighty God.

A Trust Company is purely a service organization. Its progress will depend upon the quality of its service and the successful performance of the tasks entrusted to it. The essential ingredient in successful performance is an efficient and courteous staff which possesses not only technical skill but what is equally important because of the nature and scope of the trust company business, a well developed understanding of human relationships. We are fortunate indeed in the calibre of the men and women who make up our organization. It is through their efforts that we have been able to make such excellent progress this past year and it is on them that our future progress depends. On behalf of the management of the Company I would like to say how much their efforts have been appreciated.

The all round increase in the company's business which has taken place is indicative of the team play which exists in all the offices of the Company. The growth as shown by the balance sheet is not something which just happens. It represents hard work and the progress made during the past year is attributable to the loyalty, vigilance and interest of the staff and the good-will of the public that we serve.

I am now going to call upon my good friend John Fraser, of Owen Sound, one of the Vice Presidents of the Company, to move the adoption of the annual report and the motion for adoption will be seconded by Mr. H. J. McLaughlin, also a Vice President of the Company.

The Chairman then called upon Mr. John G. Fraser of Owen Sound, and Mr. H. J. McLaughlin, K. C., of Toronto, Vice-Presidents of the Company to move and second the adoption of the Report. In moving the adoption of the Report Mr. Fraser spoke as follows—

MR. JOHN G. FRASER

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:—

I am very pleased to be present at the first Annual Meeting of the new Victoria and Grey Trust Company and may I add my appreciation to the confidence reposed in our new organization by the very healthy return of proxies from our shareholders.

I regret the absence, through illness, of our Chairman of the Board, Mr. G. D. Fleming, as it was largely due to his efforts, together with Mr. Stinson and Mr. McLaughlin that the merger has been brought to a satisfactory conclusion.

The amalgamation of the two Companies with greater financial strength and the pooling of assets will provide wider diversification of security behind the shares thus strengthening their position. Both Companies have carried on in much the same way and with equal success over a period of years. May I mention here that the Grey and Bruce Trust and Savings Company was six years older than the Victoria Trust Company having been established in 1889.

Our field, the Province of Ontario, is open to us, and it is up to us to go forward with confidence, balanced with security. It is truly a land of milk and honey, with its mines, forests, paper mills, manufacturing plants and agriculture. Where could anyone find greater possibilities or opportunities.

We are looking forward to great things from our new Company and I know this can only be brought about by the co-operation of our shareholders, directors and staff.

The gratifying figures we have before us to-day are due in a large degree to the efficiency and aggressiveness of the members of our staff and it is fitting that I say "Thanks" to them for a job well done.

And now, Mr. President, I have much pleasure in moving the adoption of the 61st Annual Statement of the Victoria and Grey Trust Company for the year 1950.

In seconding the adoption of the Report, Mr. H. J. McLaughlin, K.C., spoke as follows,—

MR. H. J. McLAUGHLIN, K.C.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is an honour to have the privilege of seconding the motion for the adoption of the annual report for the Victoria and Grey Trust Company at this first annual meeting following the amalgamation.

I regret that Mr. George Fleming, the Chairman of our Board, could not be here to-day and take an active part in this meeting. We old Victoria directors looked forward to having the old Victoria shareholders meet the former President of the Grey and Bruce Trust Company, who has given such outstanding leadership in bringing about the union and in working out the problems of the continuing Company since the union became effective. He has been a great advocate of the benefits of amalgamation to both old companies and has given many hours of many days and weeks to these problems. He has, with your President, given a leadership that has been most helpful and which has been much valued by the old Victoria Directors. I do hope that the time is not far off when you will meet the Chairman of your Board.

Looking at the first statement of Victoria and Grey Trust Company, an old Victoria shareholder must be impressed with its similarity to statements of Victoria in past years. One does see:

(1) That the gross assets of the new Company are approximately twice those of Victoria alone of a year ago.

(2) That the Estates Department is twice that of Victoria a year ago plus a million dollars.

(3) That the gross assets of the Company are about two millions up over the gross assets of the two companies at the end of 1949.

(4) That the earnings of the Company are a little over the total earnings of the two components of the preceding year.

It is all very satisfactory, a good record that presents the problem to the Board and management as to how to keep up with the records of growth on all sides of the Company in the year 1950 and preceding years. However, that is not a new problem; it is just the same challenge that the directors and managements of both old companies have faced at the beginning of each new year for several years back, a challenge that they now face together and that I am confident will be met and beaten again in the year 1951.

In that connection we are very happy with the way the personnel of both old companies are working together under the general managership of Mr. George Weeks ably assisted by Mr. R. G. Thomas. They are moulding the new company into a single progressive enterprise with the objects of increased and better service to our customers and a little better return to our shareholders on their investment and backing.

I am glad to see the dividend rate at 8%—exactly where the Victoria rate was in 1932 when I first came on this Board. That is a reasonable return on the shareholders' moneys in the Company, including the reserves, and is a rate that the directors hope to maintain. We must be fair to our shareholders at the same time as building up the Trust Company and keeping it strong, making it always stronger. It is a better Company now than any of its component parts ever were and I am confident that it will continue to increase in strength and in the confidence of its widening public.

May I repeat what I have said before at shareholders meetings as to my own confidence in the future of Canada and with it the prosperity of its citizens and of this Company. The past year has served to emphasize the wealth that is being added to the people of Canada in the expanding reserves of oil and iron, of titanium and uranium and of other metals. Hydro power is continually being developed in Eastern Canada, very much so in our own province of Ontario, and cheap power now seems to promise to our west coast a repetition of the aluminum development of the Saguenay.

This country has since the end of World War II done a good job on the financial side with a much more than balanced budget each year, a policy which it is the evident intention of the government to continue.

With so much basic soundness this Company should do well in the years ahead of it.

I have pleasure in seconding the adoption of the report.

The Chairman then called upon Mr. G. A. Weeks, the General Manager, to discuss the Balance Sheet in detail. Mr. Weeks addressed the meeting as follows,—

MR. G. A. WEEKS

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen,—

You have in your hands a copy of the Directors' Report to the Shareholders which the Secretary has just read. You have listened to the excellent addresses of the President, Mr. Fraser and Mr. McLaughlin, Vice-Presidents who have moved and seconded the adoption of the Report. As one of those who have had a part in its preparation it is my privilege now to discuss in some detail the Report with you. Before turning to the Report, I would like to first say something on this historical occasion about the two Companies which now form Victoria and Grey Trust Company.

For some years I have been given the opportunity of addressing you as an officer of The Victoria Trust and Savings Company and to tell you of the modest growth and development of the Estates Department of The Victoria Trust and Savings Company which was my responsibility until 1945 when I became Manager of the Company. Since 1945 I have discussed with you each year the Balance Sheet of the Company, and each year told the story of a continuous growth and expansion which was characteristic of The Victoria Trust and Savings Company from the time of its origin. Each year I felt that we had reached the pinnacle of our progress and that it would be impossible to come before you the next year and report a further growth of the Company.

I remember in 1945 which was the Fiftieth Anniversary of The Victoria Trust and Savings Company my father who was then the Manager of the Company and who was always and still is a great optimist, after reviewing the growth and development of the Company for fifty years pointing with pride to the fact that the Company had attained the status of a ten million dollar company which had been the aim of the founder of the Company, the late Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, my father said at that time that there was no reason why we should not raise our sights and look forward to our Sixtieth Anniversary as a Company of twenty million dollars.

I am sure that even my father with all his optimism never expected that we would come within a few thousand dollars of achieving this target in a short five year's time but we did and I am permitted to come before you as the manager not of a twenty million dollar company but as the manager of a company with assets of over $38,000,000.; a company which now ranks among the leading trust companies of the Province of Ontario.

One year ago there were two outstanding trust companies in rural Ontario: The Grey and Bruce Trust and Savings Company of Owen Sound and The Victoria Trust and Saving Company of Lindsay. Both companies had a remarkable parallel in their growth and development. Both companies were owned by the people of their own communities and their growth was made possible by the character of the men who were responsible for the management of the affairs of the company. All through the years the men at the head of each company were men of integrity and responsibility in their respective communities. They commanded the respect and confidence of the people. In 1950 these two strong companies by the authority of their shareholders amalgamated as one company. If you wind together two strong cables of equal the result is a cable stronger than either of the adjoining parts and the same is true of the amalgamation of these two strong companies. You have now in the Victoria and Grey Trust Company a company that ranks among the leading trust companies of the Province both for size and strength.

The similarity between the two companies extended even to the fact that each company by the excellence of the service rendered to its people had reached almost the maximum growth that it could achieve within its own community. Each company felt that it must look farther afield if it was to continue to grow and develop and must obtain a further field for expansion. The Grey and Bruce opened an office in the City of Peterborough where they received a welcome from the citizens of that City and the surrounding community. After five years the office in Peterborough gives every indication that they are on the way to equal and perhaps surpass the parent company. One year ago The Victoria Trust and Savings Company opened an office in the City of Belleville and received from the citizens there a genuine welcome and while it is a little early for promises there is every reason to believe that with the larger field in which to operate the Belleville office can expect at some time in the future to also equal or surpass the parent company.

The amalgamation has welded together two great companies who have extended the maximum service and received the maximum support from their own communities. The amalgamated company has now a larger field in the Cities of Belleville and Peterborough in which to expand their business and to look forward to an unlimited growth for many years in the future.

The amalgamation while presenting technical problems has been carried out with an understanding and co-operation that I feel must have even surprised the Directors of both companies. No problems presented themselves that were not readily solved by the joint Board of the Company. The greatness of each company has been preserved. The Victoria and Grey Trust Company is not a glorified Victoria Trust Company nor is it a swollen and expanded Grey and Bruce Trust Company but it is a single united company able and determined to take its place in the ranks of the leaders in the Trust Company field. Nothing can prevent its march of progress. Its field of operation is now the Province of Ontario and it recognizes no county boundaries.

Let us now turn to the Balance Sheet.

On the Assets side, the value of Office Premises and safe deposit vaults is shown at $238,685. and represents the book value of the Company's offices which are owned by the Company at Owen Sound, Lindsay, Cannington and Peterborough and includes equipment in the Belleville office. These figures have been arrived at following years of consistent write-off at each office and represent only a small part of the actual physical value of the properties. All offices have been well maintained and are a credit to their communities.

Mortgages and Agreements for Sale

The total mortgages amount to fifteen and a half millions of dollars as against a total last year of approximately fourteen million dollars, being an increase of one and a half million dollars. During the year there has been collected in interest $765,000., a full 5 per cent. on Mortgage Principal and these cash collections are equal to the interest earnings which indicate that the mortgage interest is being fully collected.

Mortgages represent better than half of the total investments of the Company exclusive of estate and trust funds and are the most satisfactory source of earnings of the Company's diversified investments. Principal collections amounted to $3,500,000. or better than 20 per cent. This indicates the mortgage investment is in excellent condition and I would suggest to you that these mortgages are premium mortgages. The mortgages have been inspected and the work of entering them on our books has all been done and the great majority of them are mortgages that are substantially reduced in principal.

BONDS

Bonds amount to $11,740,000. which is an increase of $300,000 over the combined totals of one year ago. Of this total $7,700,000. are Government bonds; $2,400,000. are Municipal bonds and the balance amounting to $1,600,000. represent the bonds and debentures of the leading industrial corporations of the Province of Ontario. The market value of the bonds which the Company holds is greater than the amount shown on the Balance Sheet.

STOCKS

The total amount of stocks is $2,400,000, representing between eight and nine per cent. of total assets of nearly $28,000,000. exclusive of Estates. Once again, the market value of stocks exceeds the amount shown on the Balance Sheet and these stocks are the obligation of the outstanding industrial and financial companies of our country. In investing in stocks the policy is to select only such stocks as are basic of our country; industries which are part and parcel of our economic life; stocks which have established long record of dividends paid and successful operation. They are purchased with a view to providing a fair return on the investment. Capital appreciation while always welcome is not the primary consideration in the selection of these stocks. They have an advantage from a tax standpoint as dividends bear a much lower taxation rate than interest earned on bonds and mortgages. A conservative holding of well selected stocks is an advantage to the Company's investment portfolio.

The above assets together with some collateral loans made on the security of bonds and the Company's own stock together with cash on hand constitutes the assets of the Company.

On the liabilities side, you will observe mortgage liability of $22,593. This represents cases where loans have been made and a small existing mortgage could not be paid off until it was due. In such cases a loan is made including the existing first mortgage which is then paid off when the same comes due and until such time as it has been paid represents a liability.

The next item "accrued liabilities" is monies received from customers for the purchase of Canada Savings Bonds which came in at the close of the year and there was not sufficient time to purchase the Canada Savings Bonds for the customers before the Balance Sheet was prepared. This liability has, of course, since ceased to exist and existed only for the interval required to obtain the Canada Savings Bonds for the customers.

The reserve for Federal and Provincial income taxes of $123,000. is the amount of the tax payable in 1950 less the amount previously paid on account. You will notice from the Balance Sheet that the estimated tax was $178,500; the difference was paid on account during the year.

The capital stock subscribed and fully paid amount to $1,988,350. It would be nice to see this figure brought up to the even $2,000,000.

The General Reserve Fund now stands at $1,200,000. and does not include some tax paid reserves which your Directors have over a period of years considered it prudent to set up against unforseen contingencies.

Guaranteed Investment Certificates total $17,256,000 as against $16,041,000. a year ago or an increase of $1,200,000. Guaranteed Investment Certificates are the lifeblood of the Company as it is from this source of money that mortgages can be loaned. The short term of the investment which is five years offers the safest and most convenient form of short term investment that is available to the public.

Trust Deposits amount to $10,559,000. which is an increase of $200,000. over a year ago. This class of money costs less to the Company in actual interest paid but its earning power is not as great as the Guaranteed Investment Certificate funds. The two companies have always maintained a high liquid position with Dominion, Provincial and Municipal bonds and our present liquidity is over 100 per cent.

The profits for the year before taxes amounted to a little over $414,000. which compares favorably with the combined profits of the companies in 1949 of $366,000.

Regular dividends have been paid at the rate of 7 per cent. Depreciation written off buildings $22,497. and $63,791. was transferred to General Reserve. Out of the Balance carried forward from last year a dividend of $7.50 was paid in accordance with the agreement to the Victoria Trust and Savings Company shareholders and the balance is shown in Profit and Loss of $27,842.

Our Estates Department now shows total assets of $7,022,000. which is an increase over the corresponding figure of a year ago of around $600,000. Growth in estates business, however, cannot be measured in net increases. It is quite possible for a trust company to have a very active and satisfactory year in its Estates Department and still show a net loss in total assets, for it frequently happens that in some years the distribution of assets exceeds the amount of new business. During the year 1950 the total amount of new business amounts to $1,700,000. and duirng the year $1,100,000. has been distributed among beneficiaries.

The Estates field is unlimited and we can look forward to an increasing growth in this department. During the year we have been notified by solicitors and by individuals of many wills that have been drawn in which the Company has been named as executor.

We are now well started on the year 1951 as Victoria and Grey Trust Company and the past is behind us; a past that has been most satisfactory to both companies and while, Mr. President, it is given to no man to foretell the future with complete accuracy nonetheless possessing as I do an inner knowledge of the intrinsic value of our mortgages, stocks and bonds, the guidance of directors of experience and wisdom, the support of a loyal and able staff, the faith which I have in our country and the belief that our public leaders can meet and solve the problems which surround us, I am convinced that we can look forward to 1951 as a year of assured progress and expansion of the Victoria and Grey Trust Company.

The Chairman then called for discussion of the Balance Sheet before putting the motion for adoption, Mr. E. N. Cooper of Meaford, a Vice-President of the Company, spoke as follows—

MR. E. N. COOPER

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen and Fellow Shareholders,—

"It is a pleasure, Mr. Chairman, to be here to-day at the first Annual Meeting of Victoria and Grey Trust Company; to meet some of my friends who I have not had the pleasure of meeting since the amalgamation and to meet and make, I hope, new friends from among the shareholders who are here to-day.

We have a splendid statement and the speakers have done an able job in presenting the statement to the shareholders present today. I was interested in coming to Lindsay for another reason. It is some forty years ago as a young lad that I went through Lindsay. I do not remember a single building; I do not remember the old Victoria Loan Company and so I feel a stranger to Lindsay except for one thing. For many years I have been meeting people out in public and I am not handing any bouquets to this district when I say, I do not believe that any town in the Province of Ontario has sent out into the world as many men who have left wonderful records as has the Town of Lindsay. I think of our own able leader Leslie Frost, Premier of this Province as among this group. It is true that while we talk in terms of physical assets sometimes we forget the personal element, the moral side that must be there to keep up the reputation of these companies as they go on through the years. I was reminded of this some ten months ago when a friend mentioned to me that he had heard there was some talk of an amalgamation with the Victoria Trust and Savings Company. I told him that I had heard there was some talk but I did not know the Victoria Trust very well except that I knew Will and Hugh McLaughlin and if the Victoria Trust was anything like Will and Hugh, it would be a great concern to be connected with.

It is true that without leaders of high moral character that go with the management of good companies, the assets would not mean so much if they were in the hands of people who did not possess these necessary qualities.

A few days ago one of our customers to whom I had been recommending our Guaranteed Investment Certificates for some years told me that he had been offered some other investment at a higher rate of interest. I said to him—did you make the investment? He said no, I did not; all through the years I have been buying the Company's Guaranteed Investment Certificates and I have been able to sleep at night.

If the Company can continue to attract and hold the right kind of personnel and carry on with assets such as we have, surely you as shareholders will also be able to sleep well at night. It has been a pleasure to meet with your former Directors; I found them grand to get along with and every move we have made so far in this amalgamation has brought pleasure and I hope in the future it will bring profit.

Mr. L. G. Mills of Mills, Spence & Co. Ltd., Toronto, also addressed the meeting as follows,—

MR. L. G. MILLS

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen of Victoria and Grey Trust Company,—

It is an honour for me to attend the first meeting of the amalgamated Company. It was my privilege to meet the Directors in the various phases of the discussions before amalgamation and I could not help but feel and know their sincerity. There was nobody grinding his own axe. They had only one interest and that was the interest of the shareholders and the little I had to do in bringing together the two groups to talk over the affairs of the amalgamation was a real pleasure and I have the greatest confidence that the Company will go forward to serve the people of Ontario outside the big cities and there is a real place for expansion in Ontario.

I was very impressed with the proceedings here to-day and everything augurs well for the future.

There being no further discussion, the Chairman put the motion to the meeting and the motion was carried unanimously.

The following were elected Directors of the Company for the year 1951 or until their successors are appointed,—

W. L. Brown, E. N. Cooper, Dr. A. L. Danard, S. A. Flavelle, G. D. Fleming, J. G. Fraser, Campbell Grant, K.C., Dr. R. Howey, W. B. Lemon, T. A. Mackay, F. G. MacKay, K.C., G. S. Matthews, G. D. McLauchlan, H. G. McLaughlin, K.C., W. W. McLaughlin, K.C., W. H. Morton, F. G. Perrin, G. H. Shipman, T H. Stinson, K.C., L. A. Walden, C. E. Weeks, K.C., and Col. P. H. Wills.

Messrs. Harold A. Shiach, F.C.A., Douglas J. Sales, F.C.A., C. L. VanWyck, C.P.A., and Charles Gaviller, C.A., were appointed auditors for the year 1951.

By-Laws Numbers A-1 and A-2 being By-Laws for the regulating of the affairs of the Company were unanimously confirmed by the shareholders.

A resolution of the shareholders extending a hearty vote of thanks to the officers and staff for the valuable and efficient manner in which they had discharged their duties was unanimously passed.

The meeting adjourned at 4.30 p.m. Following the Annual Meeting a meeting of the Board of Directors was held in the Company's office at Lindsay, and the following officers were elected for the year 1951,—

Chairman of the Board—Mr. G. D. Fleming.

President—Mr. T. H. Stinson, K.C.

Vice-Presidents—Mr. E. N. Cooper, Mr. J. G. Fraser, Mr. H. J. McLaughlin, K.C., Mr. T. A. Mackay, Mr. F. G. Perrin.

General Manager—Mr. G. A. Weeks.

Assistant General Manager—Mr. R. G. Thomas, K.C.

Treasurer— Mr. K. D. Johnston.

Canadians Give Red Troops Dose Of Medicine

By ED JOHNSON

WITH THE CANADIANS, Central Front, March 4. (AP) — "It took us quite a spell, but we finally got into battle," and gave the Chinese Reds "a taste of our medicine," a Canadian infantryman remarked.

"We'll build that up to plenty more—we intend to give them a good dose of it."

That's the attitude from private up to Lt.-Col. J. A. (Big Jim) Stone, commander of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, serving in Korea.

He, like his men, seems full of confidence.

With a little prodding they'll tell of some of the things that happened to them after they first arrived in Korea Dec. 18.

While training for mountain fighting near Miryang, they picked up a wounded Korean civilian and took him to an aid post.

Capt. Ed Karpetz of Spiritwood, Sask., asked the doctor to remove a bullet from the Korean's groin.

The battalion, from private to Big Jim, contributed to keep the Korean's family going until he got back on his feet.

Outfit Soaked

They tell of how, when they first went into battle Feb. 19, the whole outfit was soaked to the gills from an all-day, all-night rain.

They captured an icy mountain peppered with Chinese Communists thick under the growth of scrubby pine trees.

"We had a little trouble," said Stone quietly.

Col. Stone said the battalion went into the fight with great confidence, but were cautious because many of the men were green.

The greenies, he said, went into battle with confidence because they "were Patricias," and besides "30 per cent of the men are veteran professional soldiers from both wars who know their business."

As they watched an attack on a cold, almost inaccessible mountain ahead on a rugged route to the 38th Parallel, Big Jim quietly remarked:

"We're pushing ahead steadily and trying to give them a good dose of it, you know."

Tribute to Composer

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP) — Broadway Sunday night paid tribute to composer Richard Rodgers' 25th anniversary in show business in a television show featuring Mary Martin's television debut. Rodgers himself accompanied the South Pacific star in his own music.

150 Peterborough Reservists Defend Toronto From Attack

A taste of action was given the 50th Heavy AA Regiment and the 28th Technical Skuadron over the weekend when they took part in Exercise Roundup, a mock air attack on Toronto. One group of air attackers was turned back before reaching Toronto while other attackers were destroyed over the city, theoretically, in exercises designed to test ground and air defensive operations.

Bad weather postponed the roundup on Saturday after several other previous postponements. It was run off Sunday but without the participation of three Vampire Jet fighters and eight Harvards from Montreal, which were forced back to home bases due to a low ceiling.

Mustang fighters and Harvard trainers from the No. 424 City of Hamilton and No. 420 City of London squadrons assembled at Downsview Airport to join forces with the No. 400 City of Toronto squadron.

150 Strong

More than 150 officers and other ranks left with the 50th HAA Regiment and 28th Technical Squadron Friday night from the armouries under Lt. Col. Maxwell Clarke. They were assisted by 16 men from the Signals Corps from Vimy, 15 from the Royal Canadian School of Artillery at Picton and 10 from the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps at Kingston.

The 25-vehicle convoy travelled throughout the night and arrived at Downsview Airport at 7.30 a.m. This overnight scheme was a new experience for the units and the men had breakfast in the rain and cold. The provincial, local and Toronto police cleared passage for the rolling trucks and guns.

The exercise was rained out Saturday. Early Sunday morning the ack ack regiment set up the guns and shortly after were warned of approaching aircraft. The radar equipment got the planes on its beams and the guns were directed through the relaying system and followed the aircraft on the runs on the airport. All the time dynamite ground charges laid by the engineers threw mud, snow and water over the men as though the planes were dropping bombs.

None of the guns was fired. Officers were afraid the concussion would break windows in nearby homes.

On several close-in attacks the radar and predictor failed to cope with the aircraft which were hedge-hopping and strafing the field. Bdr. Trevor Davies and Bdr. Garth Clark then directed the "firing" of the guns to ward off the attacking planes.

Technical Men Busy

The men of the 28th Technical Squadron had their hands full Friday night on the convoy and worked throughout Saturday. En route they replaced a vehicle's starter in the rain and darkness so that the truck returned to its place in the convoy without delay.

For the last eight miles of the trip the squadron's new breakdown truck towed 25 tons of 3.7 ack ack gun, a truck and supplies over the icy highway. The wrecker also helped provide the two reserve force units with breakfast at 4 a.m. Saturday by supplying air for the stoves from its compressors.

Lt. W. R. Knight, AQMS Charles Quick and Staff-Sgt. Gaunt were in charge of recovery and workshops for the engineers. They worked throughout Saturday at Malton and Toronto repairing the trucks belonging to the convoy.

Air Exercises

Sixteen Harvards of the Hamilton and London squadrons took off from a rendezvous point over Lake Simcoe area. They were to make a simulated run over the city. Assigned to intercept them were Harvards of the Toronto squadron. After leaving Downview the interceptors became lost in heavy clouds but over Cobconk made their contact. The interception was considered a success.

The mobile radar units were set up at Oshawa and Downview (the Peterborough units). Another unit was at Scarboro. The 16 Harvards were detected long before they reached the city limits.

While the Harvards were over Lake Simcoe, two other formations were battling elsewhere. Eight Mustangs were poised for an attack on Toronto and four Vampire jets were to track them down. None of the radar sets picked up the attackers and the Vampires finally, in theory, destroyed them over Toronto's east end.

Only two-thirds of the scheduled manpower and equipment were used during exercises—light anti - aircraft regiments from Brantford, Welland, St. Catharines and Midland cancelling plans.

The exercise had been planned for more than six months. It embraced 500 men and 36 aircraft and was over in less than five hours.

Buys Contract

HOLLYWOOD, March 5 (AP)—RKO Studios announced Sunday it has bought the contract of British actress Jean Simmons from J. Arthur Rank Productions. The deal was closed by Howard Hughes, managing director of RKO. Miss Simmons has been a top British star since she portrayed Ophelia in Laurence Olivier's Hamlet.

Kennel Club's Fox Hound Field Trials

The Kawartha Kennel Club held their first fox hound field trial on Sunday at the Rifle Range on the Norwood Road. Officials were pleased with the turnout of dog fanciers, 75 in all. It was the club's first attempt at a winter field trial of this nature and although the weather was balmy, it was not favorable to enable the animals to scent, due to the crusty, and later, wet snow conditions.

Field judge William Thompson dog breeder and judge for 35 years, said the meet was the largest aggregation of fox hounds and beagles to ever be assembled in the Peterborough district.

The Beagle Club committee, although it was strictly a trial for fox hounds, let some of their small dogs run and attended to the numbering of animals and "starts."

Plenty Of Jack Rabbits

During the two runs, one each in morning and afternoon, jack rabbits were flushed by the hundreds, spectators said, and two fox were noticed at a distance but were not run down.

Special prizes to the oldest handler, Henry Little, and the youngest, Robert Lacey, Jr., were presented. Each man with a dog at the hunt received two cans of dog food.

Humorous highlight of the meet was the case of the lad in a locked car. Jackie Niece, aged 2, was left in his father's car with the motor running for a moment while he went to find a parking space. The child locked all the doors so that his father could not get in again. It took several hunters and spectators a long time to pantomine directions to Jackie before he finally rolled a window down.

The meet was under direction of David Henderson, field marshal; Robert Runnett, field secretary; and directors, Frank Millard, William Joiner, James Shook, William McMahon and Bud Lloyd. Judges were William Thompson, Herbert Routley, C. Ashby, William Jewell and Cecil Hayes.

In the event that readers think that fox hunting in Peterborough County closed on Feb. 28, it can be pointed out that game regulation 126, legislated two years ago, allows hunting the year round in Peterborough and 29 other counties in the province.

Largest H. & S. Attendance At Church Service

About 175 mothers of school children, representing all of the Home and School Associations in the city, and the officers of the Home and School Council on Sunday evening marked the opening of Education Week by their attendance in a body at the service in the Salvation Army Temple.

Attending a church service prior to the date set for the week which stresses importance of education by special meetings, advertising and broadcasts, is an annual procedure in this city. This year it was marked by the largest attendance with representation from every city association. The various churches of the city are picked in rotation for this observance.

Centre of the Temple auditorium was reserved for the ladies and a particularly fine program was enjoyed.

The band played a meditation on "The Church Is One Foundation" and other selections. Mrs. Reginald Jones, soloist, sang "Stranger of Galilee."

Major C. C. Everitt chose the text for his sermon from Judges 13, "How is a child to be trained. What is he to be."

He spoke abuot the responsibility of schools and homes to the community and he stressed that the most important question of today is "What will our children be tomorrow?" for on this depends our future — not the development of atomic power.

Mrs. James McLeod, religious education convener, was in charge of arrangements for the church attendance, with Council president Mrs. C. G. Collins.

Lee-Woodcock Rites At Norwood

NORWOOD, March 5—(ENS)—The weding took place quietly on Saturday of Eva May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Woodcock of Norwood, and George William Lee, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Lee of Hastings. It was solemnized by the Rev. John Shannon, at the parsonage of the Pentecostal Church.

The bride was wearing an afternoon dress of blue crepe, the lines of the skirt broken by a full lace peplum edged with matching crepe. She had a veil of white net caught to a halo of light blue flowers and wore a corsage of pink carnations. As bridesmaid, Miss Luella Lee, only sister of the groom, was wearing a navy taffeta tunic dress and a white veil caught to pink flowers. She also wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Ralph Nelson was attending the groom.

A reception was held at the bride's home, her mother receiving in a two-piece wine crepe dress and wearing a corsage of red roses and lily of the valley. Also the groom's mother who wore navy and a similar corsage.

About 25 were guests at the wedding dinner, which was served by the bride's sister, Mrs. J. Osborne, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Woodcock, Misses Betty and Aura Woodcock, and Mr. Norman Lee.

The bridal couple left later for Chatham, the bride wearing a wine topcoat with black hat and accessories. They will live in Oshawa.

Pickering Woman Attends Prospectors Meet

TORONTO, March 5.—(CP). — Mrs. Pauline Leary of Pickering, one of the few women attending the 19th annual convention of the Prospectors' and Developers' Association, admits she'd rather try to raise the money to finance a mine than fight black flies and wield a pick and shovel.

She's done both, however. One of four children of a prospecting father, she and the rest of the family spent years trying to develop a base metal property on the western fringe of Timagami forest reserve, 50 miles northeast of Sudbury.

Her father took his daughters, Pauline and Mona, and his sons, Wilfred and Joe, north 27 years ago when he became restless living in the city.

They paddled and portaged for three days after leaving a launch on Lake Timagami to reach the mouth of the narrow river where the abandoned mine site was supposed to be. They staked five claims, formed a company and called the mine Delhi.

Mrs. Leary's father, Louis Lahay, 83, still is president of the company. Since the mine was formed all have taken turns at working the property and raising funds.

She has talked fellow-employees at an aircraft plant where she worked during the Second World War into buying shares; talked financial men in Toronto into the same project, but the property still hasn't paid off.

However, the family hasn't given up hope—prospectors never do.

Spring Hat Tea A Tonic For Bad Weather Saturday

It was the Spring Hat Tea — but those who travelled any distance Saturday afternoon to the YWCA were perhaps thinking more of storm helmets, ear muffs and rain protectors. Variable March weather is what must be endured in advance of the lovely springtime of budding flowers and gay hats.

As a morale lifter this second annual hat show was probably the very best for such a day. Tea guests looked upon a sea of bright, new straws with veils, flowers and pert feathers, upon the heads of all the girls of the Members' Council, as well as on the models who each made four or five changes.

Miss Maralin Munro introduced the hat parade with a few general comments. She noted that the closed, head-hugging silhouette is the thing this spring, varied to be attractive on short or long hair. The style and appeal lies in the simplicity and neatness. "These hats are designed to make the husband or man in your life say "Oh what a nice hat," she said.

Nearly all the hats had veils—eyebrow veils, tie-on face veils, full-length face veils, or were covered all over with unusual flowers, in a deep rose shade worn by Mrs. Crawford who was dressed in grey.

A lime green straw was startlingly trimmed with scarlet coq feathers and veil. A most becoming style for a brunette, it was modelled by Mrs. Spiro Zakos. Miss Ruthann Brown wore a pert cellophane straw, cut high in the back to suit her short hair style. A smart black and white milan straw was trimmed with veiling with tiny dots all over.

Coffee color straw was again in the picture, nice with trimming of soft brown velvet. A beige turban had straw buttons all over the crown and was trimmed with red and worn with a red straw handbag. Favored for spring is navy so the navy and white hat was worn with a white straw bag will no doubt find favor. There was a lovely soft braid tricorne in navy, most suited to the older woman.

The other models were Mrs. Gladys Swingler, Mrs. Marlow Banks, Mrs. Donald McGillen, Miss Mayme Cathcart and Miss Edith Miller.

Tea assistants made their own choice of hats and seemed each to have found one becoming and complimentary to her own outfit. These were not commented upon by Miss Munro but they did not escape notice, perhaps mostly on the servers who were Miss Helen Kelly, Miss Dorothy Harle, Miss Ella Down, Miss Kay Calladine. Mrs. Carl Byman, Miss Doreen Samis, Mrs. Stanley McBride, Mrs. Oswald Price, Mrs. William Petrie, and Miss Ruby Leach who was in charge.

Miss Annie Williams, tea convener, had selected a wonderful variety of spring flowers for the centre bouquet, arranged in a wide cut glass dish, and highlighted it with pink tapers.

The tea pourers were Miss Leta Brownscombe, Miss Caroline Caroline Littlefield, Mrs. Walter Perks and Mrs. John Hornal.

Mrs. E. A. Killingbeck, president of the Council, and Mrs. T. J. Carley, president of the Y Board were then replaced by Miss Helen Edmison and Mrs. H. T. Rehill.

Mrs. T. Cook was tea room hostess and Miss Jean Hammond was assisting in the foyer.

The decorative setting, featuring hats, was arranged by Miss Esther Meiklejohn. Mrs. Roma Brindle convened the show and selected the models.

A table of home baking in the hallway did a good business with Misses Jean McIntyre, Rayma Brown and Elva Robson the saleslades, and home made candy was sold by Mrs. Stuart Wright.

Miss Yvette Simoneau looked after selling tickets on two draws. The food basket was won by Mrs. H. Vinette and Miss Margaret Rutherford was winner of the prize for guessing the number of beans in a bottle.

Misses Winnie Hunter and Helen Zakos at the treasurer's table admitted about 175 guests to the tea. Many friends had tickets but found the weather too nasty to come out in. So, the total receipts for this event should be a good start on the objective for the World Service Fund.

UK Woman MP Urges Two-Price Rationing Plan

LONDON (CP) — Introduction of a "two-tier" rationing system in the United Kingdom, whereby surplus commodities would be available at higher prices, is recommended by Mrs. Jean Mann, Socialist member of parliament for Coatbridge and Airdrie.

The proposal was made in a signed article appearing in the February issue of the Lancashire Clarion, an official Labor publication.

Six weeks of nursing her husband through illness, Mrs. Mann said, had taught her a lot about food shortages and the gap between the rich and poor.

"There is a reluctance to increase rations because it would mean raising the food subsidy which is pegged at £400,000,000 (about $1,200,000,000) she wrote. "Why not bring in the extras and sell—as in Dublin—off the ration?"

Already Getting It

She described as "fallacious" the official answer of Labor party spokesmen who contended that her proposal would allow the "haves" to get a greater share of the extra rations than the "have-nots." Under the present system, she said, the "haves" were already getting more because they either knew how to find the extras or could, afford expensive alternatives.

The rich could afford lemon sole while others had to buy herring or haddock. Price of cheese also ranged from 18 to 50 cents a pound.

"So don't let us be a humbug," said Mrs. Mann. "Whether it is a fish shop, the fruit and vegetable stand, the grocer, baker or draper, the two-price, two-quality system is in operation and the big purse always wins."

DOROTHY DIX

Why Are Brothers, Sisters Instinctively Antagonistic?

DEAR MISS DIX: You tell us how husbands and wives can live peacefully and happily together. What about the children of these happy couples? Please tell us how brothers and sisters can live in peace and harmony with each other.

M. E. L.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: Harmony in the family circle is like harmony between nations. Everybody believes in it and is for it, and nobody knows how to bring it about.

Perhaps the reason that brothers and sisters do not get along amicably together is because they are too much alike. They have too many of the same characteristics. Oliver Wendell Holmes once said that the reason that families broke up and scattered to the four corners of the earth was that this is nature's remedy for keeping the Joneses from being Jonesed to death and the Smiths from being Smithed out of existence.

Little Savages

Or perhaps the reason that brothers and sisters squabble when they are children is because they are children and hence little savages with all of a savage's selfishness and greediness and lack of consideration for others.

Certainly most households in which there are children are places of turmoil and warfare but, curiously enough, the brothers and sisters who fight like cats and dogs among themselves will turn on any outsider in a united attack and rend him limb from limb. Nor do these inter-family feuds that sometimes last from the cradle to man and womanhood often leave any bitterness. Sometimes they engender a hatred that lasts as long as life does, but generally the brothers and sisters who kicked and scratched each other all through their childhood are devoted to each other in spite of the knocks they have given and received.

It would be easy enough to give a formula for promoting peace and harmony between brothers and sisters. They would only have to follow Mother's oft-repeated advice: "You must love your little brother." "You must be good to your little sister." "You must divide your apple with Charlie." "You must let Jenny play with your new doll."

But it would take divine power to make the youngsters follow the rules. As long as children are children they will follow their instincts, which are belligerent rather than pacific.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What do you think of a man of 60 marrying a woman of 48? They both have grown children, unmarried and living at home. The woman has a good job. He has a fair job. Owns his own home and is very thrifty. Would the disparity in age make any difference?

A FRIEND

ANSWER: Nobody can tell how a marriage will turn out or whether a couple will be happy when married, but it seems to me that this marriage has all the elements of success in it, provided they don't try to live with those unmarried children. Two sets of grown sons and daughters would wreck any home. Inasmuch as they are adults and should be self-supporting, why not let them set up their own homes and go their own way in life?

There is no disparity of age between a man of 60 and a woman of 48. They are virtually the same age. They have the same background and traditions and tastes and habits. The difference in age only counts when we are young. I am strong for middle-aged men and women, people in their fifties or sixties, marrying if they can find suitable mates. Old people need companionship and they cannot find it in their children who naturally want to amuse themselves and gad about. And old people need their own homes in which they can do as they please, instead of having to be unwelcome guests in their children's homes.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am engaged to a young man who makes a good salary and is upright, honest and a hard worker. He is a home lover, owns his own home, is considerate and kind, not only to me but to everyone. He loves me and all my friends say I am the luckiest girl in the world, but somehow I can't bring myself to marry him. I don't love him. I have tried to force myself to love him, but I can't. Shall I marry him just for the sake of chance on learning to love him, or give him up?

KAY

ANSWER: Give him up. He is too fine a fellow to have his life ruined by being married to a woman who doesn't care for him. No woman can do a more dastardly deed than to deceive a man about her feelings for him and marry him just for the sake of getting a meal ticket.

OTTAWA —(CP)— Curtseys and bows soon may become as "streamlined" in Canada as they appear to have become already in South Africa.

An official at Government House said the sweeping curtsey and the deep bow have been missing around here for some time. He was commenting on a Capetown dispatch which said these social formalities have no place at vice-regal functions there.

"In the days before the war when there used to be a drawing-room the ladies used to make deep curtseys upon presentation," said the Ottawa spokesman. "But such is no longer the case—except for instance in the presentation of debutantes."

On other occasions the men "merely give a bow of the head" and the women "a little bob."

In Capetown, Mrs. E. G. Jansen, wife of South Africa's new governor-general, was quoted as saying that "an ordinary friendly greeting accompanied by a slight inclination of the head . . . is a suitable form of greeting."

London Jeweller Shows Huge Pearl

LONDON —(CP)— A pearl now in the showrooms of a Regent Street jeweller is described as "one of the biggest ever known."

Mounted in the form of a pendant, the pearl is of the creamy-white variety and is slightly irregular in shape. It measures between 1½ and two inches in length and approximately 1¼ inches in width at its widest part.

In addition to its size and beauty the pearl "tells the time." A neat platinum watch, studded with emeralds and diamonds, has been set into the back of it. The rarity of a pearl large enough to accommodate a watch can be gauged by the fact that the largest pearl of modern times measured two inches in length and roughly four inches in circumference.

IF YOUR LITTLE GIRL has a Chest Cold you should apply a 'Mecca' and Mustard Poultice.

Don't take chances on a Chest Cold—it may become very serious. A poultice made up of two tablespoons of Mecca and a teaspoon of Mustard brings excellent results. It relieves congestion and reduces inflammation—prevents blistering. In severe cases change the poultice twice daily. Mecca Ointment is sold by all druggists—35c, 50c (Tube), 70c and $1.40.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"He's a different kind of pointer—he points at steaks instead of birds!"

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Fancy Bread, Not Cakes Will Make Lunch Different

Eating lunch together every day with the staff of a big business office has a way of loosening the tongues and starting up confidences.

One young man revealed that he loved having a muffin in his lunch so much that he had learned to make them, and now made them for all of these who carried lunches in his home—about five I think he said.

One married girl admitted that her mother always got up early—even now—(for she lives in her mother's home) and packs her lunch for her to make sure it was nutritious. I think that was by way of boasting. But she did come through with one face-saving job—she had made the nut bread she was eating at the moment.

To change the locale—a reader of this column—Mrs. Alex. P. who has nine children, five of them of school age who carry lunches—plus one husband, ditto.

She wants fancy breads instead of cake to make the lunches "different"—and better than so much "sweet" for the children.

What I have chosen for this purpose are a little more durable than cake, and each has a good nutrition feature.

Apple Sugar Muffins

Four tablespoons shortening, ½ cup sugar, 1 beaten egg, 1 cup each milk and chopped peeled apples, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 cups sifted flour, 3½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup crushed corn or bran flakes. Cream shortening and sugar and beat in egg. Sift flour and sift again with the baking powder, salt and ½ teaspoon of the cinnamon. Sift again. Add dry ingredients alternately to creamed mixture with the milk. Barely stir in apples and corn flakes. Fill greased muffin tins 2/3 full of mixture. Mix 2 tablespoons sugar with the ½ teaspoon cinnamon and sprinkle on top. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 20 minutes.

Date Bread

One and one-half cups dates chopped fine, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1⅛ cups boiling water, 2/3 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup flour, ¾ cup whole wheat flour, 1 teaspoon each salt and baking powder. Wash and stone and cut up dates, add soda and boiling water, mix well and cool. Add the sugar, beaten eggs, butter and vanilla. Sift the flour with the salt and baking powder and sift them into the mixture, tipping the remaining bran into the mixture unsifted. Turn into buttered loaf pan and bake 1¼ hours at 275 deg. Fahr.

Banana Bread

One and three-quarters cups sifted flour, ¾ teaspoon soda, 1¼ teaspoons cream of tartar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, 2/3 cup sugar, 2 well-beaten eggs, 1 cup mashed bananas. Sift flour, soda, salt and cream of tartar together 3 times. Cream shortening well, cream sugar into it, then beat in eggs and beat well. Sift in flour mixture alternately with the mashed banana until all are used. Bake into buttered loaf pan at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour.

Boston Brown Bread

One cup each rye flour, cornmeal and wheat flour, 2 teaspoons soda, ¾ cup molasses, 2 cups sour milk, 1½ teaspoons salt. Nuts and raisins are optional. Sift together the flours, soda and salt. Stir in molasses and sour milk. Bake or steam in greased baking powder tins filled two-thirds full and tightly covered. Steaming time is 2 hours. Baking time is 1 hour at 350 but loaf is not as good.

DATE BRAN MUFFINS
To Make Your Mouth Water!

¾ cup milk	¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup Post's Bran Flakes	3 tablespoons sugar
½ cup finely cut dates*	1 egg, well beaten
1 cup sifted flour	3 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening
3½ teaspoons baking powder

- Pour milk over bran and let stand 5 minutes. Add ½ cup finely cut dates to bran mixture. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Add egg and butter to bran mixture and mix well. Add flour, beating only enough to dampen all flour. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven (425°F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 10 muffins.

*Raisins, prunes or figs may replace dates.

6—In Memoriams

BURNS—In loving memory of Ralph Burns, who passed away one year ago today.
You went without farewell,
And said goodbye to none,
But heaven's gate was open wide
And a loving voice said "Come,"
We often sit and think of you,
When we are all alone.
No one on earth can take your place,
The grief is all our own.
Days of sadness still come over us,
Tears of sadness often flow.
Memory keeps you ever near us,
Since you've gone one year ago.
—Sadly missed by wife and sons.

LEHMAN—In fond and loving memory of a dear daughter, Marie James, who passed away three years ago.
"Gone but never forgotten."
—Ever remembered by father, mother, sisters and brothers.

MEEHAN—In loving memory of a dear son, Kenneth Ross Meehan, killed in action March 5, 1945.
There is a link death cannot sever
Love and remembrance last forever.
—Mother.

Harry Edwards Buried In Hastings Cemetery

HASTINGS, March 5 (ENS)—The funeral was held today of James Henry (Harry) Edwards, 54, of Hastings. Mr. Edwards died Friday in Lang after a long illness. He had lived two months in Lang.

He was born in Otonabee Township, the son of Bertha May Warner and the late William Edwards. Educated in Lang Public School, he was a tanner by trade and a member of Hastings United Church.

He is survived by two sons, Harold and Walter, both of Toronto, four brothers and five sisters, Mrs. Laverne Partridge (Beryl) of Simcoe, Mrs. Charles Kemp (Isabelle) of Scott's Corners, Mrs. Otto Scriver (Daisy) of Villiers Corners, Mrs. Isaac McNevin (Lottie) of Omemee, Stanley of Peterborough, Wallie of Hastings, William of Bowmanville, Gordon of Norwood and Charles of Lang.

Service was held at 3.30 p.m. today at the home of his brother Wallie of Hastings, the Rev. J. M. Ritchie of Hastings Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial was in Trent Valley Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Cecil Scriver, Sherman Scriver, J. R. Jones, Idea Bonds Jr., Ross Wilson and Robert Forthan.

Car Stolen, Recovered Mile From Hastings

HASTINGS, March 5—(ENS)—A 1935 model car, owned by George Smith, was stolen from in front of the Royal Hotel at Hastings on Saturday night.

The car was recovered Sunday morning about one mile east of Hastings, near the farm of William McGrayne. Smith, who is from Campbellford, is boarding in Hastings, where he is employed at the Trent Canal.

Smith said that when he came out of the Royal Hotel about 10:30 o'clock Saturday night, his car was missing. When he could not find it near the hotel he notified Leonard Switzer, the local chief of police, who in turn notified provicial police at Campbellford.

Revive Hobby Of Collecting Cigar Bands

VICTORIA, B.C. — (CP) — Nearly 1,000 stogies went up in smoke to provide a hobby for Grant O'Hara Johnston of Victoria.

There are only four cigar-band collectors in Canada, apparently, but there are 200 throughout the world and they have organized, or banded together, in the International Cigar Band Society which publishes its own magazine.

More and more people are jumping on the cigar band wagon, Mr. Johnston says, as the once-popular hobby revives.

Mr. Johnston began collecting bands as a newsboy in Saskatoon. The master collection of 50,000 bands is owned by the president of the society, G. A. Greasby of Milwaukee.

Mr. Johnston's relatively modest collection is a miniature gallery of great men and events: Romeo and Juliet, Aida, Hamlet, Sir Wilfred Laurier, Chamberlain, Queen Victoria, Lord Tennyson, Velasquez, John Ruskin and so on.

Elaborate Designs

The bands range in size and design from simple quarter-inch ones to elaborate circles, two inches wide, which used to be carried on cigars distributed at Christmas or on special occasions.

The cigar band was born in Cuba about 1854 when a tobacco magnate found that some merchants were substituting cheap stogies for his choicest Havanas. He designed a small paper circlet to prevent counterfeiting.

Though 80 per cent of the society members don't smoke, Mr. Johnston puffs regularly on a cigar.

There's a rule of etiquette attached to cigar-smoking: the puffer should remove the band before he smokes the cigar. The theory is that if he left the band on an expensive cheroot, he would be advertising his ability to buy the best.

Convicted On Gaming Charge Three Men Fined $150 Each

Ronald Horton, Edward Alberico and Neil Harrington were found jointly guilty of keeping a common betting house at the Modern Recreation Club on Charlotte St. and each fined $150 and costs in police court today.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, said he accepted the evidence of Provincial Constable John Wesley Miller, undercover man who provided most of the crown's evidence against the three accused.

Except for one error in a date which the officer admitted, the magistrate said: "In my view (the evidence was not seriously shaken."

In answer to the argument by the accused men's counsel, T. J. Carley, KC, representing Horton and Harrington and W. B. Gordon representing Alberico, the magistrate said: "I believe I should take notice (of the racing language used) and the same meaning that the ordinary man would..."

Kept For Bets

Magistrate Philp said there was evidence that the premises was kept open for the purpose of taking bets. He said evidence that the racing form and racing results of the Toronto Telegram were consulted by one or two of the accused supported that belief.

There was also the evidence that one man had come into the club room and asked for a racing form. He consulted it, placed a bet and said he might phone back later to place a bet.

On another occasion after answering the phone, Horton said "Ma's sure a real bettor."

To which Harrington answered, "If I could pick winners like her I would put this place out of business in a week."

Swim Together

The magistrate at first said that Alberico would be fined $100 because there was no record of any similar offences convictions against him. However, when he was told Alberico had previous convictions as a found-in and Alberico admitted them, the magistrate said: "In that case I believe they should all swim together."

Mr. Gordon said he was going to consider whether or not he would appeal the conviction. Mr. Carley was not present at the police court. He was represented by Trevor Clarke.

Evidence in the case was heard Feb. 7 and 14. It indicated that Constable Miller, using the name John Wesley and working at the CGE, became a habitue of the Modern Recreation Club.

He gave evidence from his notes of numerous conversations over the phone which meant to him that bets were being received and relayed to the home of Edward Alberico.

He was in the city from Nov. 9 to Jan. 13 when a provincial police anti-gambling squad raided the Modern Recreation Club and picked up a number of found-ins and Horton. Harrington and Alberico were charged

Mowry's Triple High

Holly Mowry of McGillis showed the way in triples last week in the City Bowling League with 867 as his team led in pinnage with a neat 3,650 mark. The same squad was tops in singles with 1,251, while Bill Miller took single honors with a fine 355 for the Moore men. He had an 829 threesome as Ross Hopkins of Bond's had 831, including a 308 single. Other good counts were: Ben Wilson 327, Harold Killen 315, Ed Young 313 and a 763 triple, H. Mowry 312, Mike Caccavella 305 and Herb Correll 302 in a 792 threesome.

McGillis whitewashed Esquires to round out a big night, and the brush was applied by Bond's against Swartz. The others were 4-2 margins for Cavanagh's, Sunocos, Moore's and Fashion-Craft over Campbell and Best, Dunn's, Shockey's and Clapper's respectively.

Escape Drowning

ORILLIA, March 5 (CP)—Two men escaped from drowning in Lake Simcoe Sunday when their automobile went through soft ice as they drove out to a fishing shack on the ice. Tom McNeil and John Seager scrambled to safety while the car sank out of sight.

Warkworth Blacks Out As Limb Snaps Wire

WARKWORTH, March 5 (ENS) Saturday night's high wind dropped a tree limb across ice-loaded power lines just outside Warkworth and caused a two-and-a-half hour blackout in the district.

Most damage was done at the chick hatchery of W. J. Newman at Norham, a mile south of Warkworth. Mr. Newman had 30,000 eggs in incubators at the time, and 6,000 chicks in electric brooders. Power was cut off at his hatchery for three hours.

Mr. Newman said today he could not yet estimate the damage.

Although roads were icy, no accidents were reported and nobody was injured during the weekend's storm. District residents brought out coal-oil lamps and candles for the blackout.

Signed Up 308 To Assist In Defence Work

PORT HOPE, March 5.—Civil defence plans are well underway in Port Hope. Defence Controller R. Ridd Elliott announced Friday that 308 persons with special qualifications or duties are already in the town civil defence plans.

Fire Chief Jack Record will lead a special force of thirty volunteers to train in special firefighting duties.

The defence committee is advertising for 16 men to take classes in first aid and rescue work under Sam Bradley. The course is aimed at giving the essentials of this training in four to six class periods.

Conduct Questionaire

Plans are also underway to conduct a household questionnaire on civil defence. It is hoped that this survey will reveal how best the citizens may be served and also to what extent they have progressed in the matter of helping themselves.

The survey will be made by street wardens under ward captains. The captains will provide a trained senior neighbor for each neighborhood or street whose duty it will be to assist residents by means of information and advice on the best possible way to care for themselves in the event of disaster.

Warble Fly Control Passed In Dummer

WARSAW, March 5—Dummer Council at its meeting on Thursday passed the warble fly by-law and on motion of Councillors Hamblin and Gallaher appointed Wellington Lobb warble fly inspector.

The collector's time to collect balance of the 1950 taxes was extended to April 1 on motion of Councillors Sloan and Gallaher. On motion of Olver and Gallaher the insurance on the rink will be paid by the township. General accounts totalling $577.21 were ordered paid on motion of Olver and Sloan and road accounts for $890.06 were ordered paid on motion of Hamblin and Gallaher. It was decided on motion of Hamblin and Olver to purchase a sprayer to be used in warble fly control.

"Small houses can give people big ideas!"

"Sounds funny, I know. But this house might have given you the same idea I had — if you'd been in my shoes the other day.

"I'd just dropped around with my son Bob and his family to see how their new house was getting on. It seemed to me to be just perfect for them. Cute, trim and practical. But small. There certainly wouldn't be room for anyone but them.

"Suddenly the thought hit me — What if I had to move in with them because I didn't have enough to live on after I'd retired?

"Then and there I resolved never to let that happen. Sure, there may be plans for paying old-age benefits to everyone someday. But I'll need extra income to make sure that I'll be completely independent. And the best way to get it is by increasing my life insurance.

"That plan seemed so logical I wondered why I hadn't thought of it before. And when I saw my agent I discovered how flexible life insurance can be — how it fits my own needs and my wife's need for protection.

"So now I'm building security for myself and my family the best possible way — with life insurance!"

17 Fatalities Reported Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press.

Seventeen persons died violent deaths in eastern Canada during the weekend, 16 in Ontario and one in Nova Scotia.

Traffic accidents accounted for eight of the deaths, followed by fires which caused five, two drownings, a fatal stabbing and a fall down a flight of stairs.

Roy Farran, 41, died in a Toronto hospital Sunday of injuries received in a two-car collision on the Queen Elizabeth Highway Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martin, Hamilton, died in the crash.

A skid into a tree wrecked the automobile of W. Harry Boult, 21, of Brookland, Ont., and killed him and his friend, William McGool, 21, of Collingwood, Ont. Wartime shipmates, McGool and Boult had met Saturday for the first time since their discharge from the RCNVR.

A bus collision killed Alfred Rockburn 55, Ottawa, on the outskirts of that city, and Kenneth Dale, 28, also of Ottawa, died when his car crashed into a tree near Bowmanville.

Norman W. Miller, Huron county clerk, died near Goderich when his car collided with a Department of Highways grader.

Five Children Die

Fire raged through a home in Thessalon, Ont., killing the three young children of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Gibson. Police said Mrs. Gibson was absent shopping when the fire broke out, leaving Betty, 3, Bobby, 2, and Linda Marie, 1, asleep in bed. An overheated stove was blamed for the tragedy.

Two more babies died in Sudbury, when an oil stove exploded in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Labelle. Mrs. Labelle had stepped into a neighbor's home, leaving Denise, 3, and Albert, 19 months, asleep.

At Trenton, Leo McCauley, 53, fell into the Trenton river Saturday and was drowned. The body of the federal government lock tender has not been recovered, although his hat was found a half-mile downstream from where his peavey was discovered. A Liverpool, N.S., inquest will be held into the death of Richard Johnstone Gibbs, 24-year-old crew member of the minesweeper New Liskeard, who failed to return to his ship Wednesday. His body was recovered from the Mersey river Saturday: Police said they found no evidence of foul play.

In Toronto, Mrs. Marie Lopees, 24, was charged with murder following the fatal stabbing of her husband with a butchcrknife. Police said the stabbing came at the height of a drunken argument in which Johnny Lopees, 26, dared his ex-CWAC wife to stab him.

Edward H. Hills, 77, died in hospital Saturday of injuries he received in a fall down the cellar stairs of his rooming house. A coroner found the death accidental.

More Blood Donors

TORONTO, March 5 (CP). — Immediate response by Canadian citizens to the federal government's request for blood and blood products for the armed forces has already resulted in increased registration of volunteer blood donors across the country, H. H. Leather, national blood donor chairman of the Canadian Red Cross Society, said Sunday At least an additional 100,000 bottles of blood will be needed in 1951 to met the new armed forces and civil defence commitments.

Correspondent Killed

TOKYO, March 5 (AP)—War correspondent William H. Graham, aviation editor of The New York Journal of Commerce, died Saturday of injuries received when a plane in which he was riding crashed into the sea. He was the seventh allied correspondent to die as a result of plane accidents in connection with the Korean war. Six others have been killed in ground action, three are missing and presumed dead, and two have been reported captured.

Plan Referendum

CANBERRA, March 5 (Reuters)—An Australian Labor party conference decided by a vote of 20-16 Sunday to introduce legislation providing for a referendum on the abolition of the Senate. Abolition of the Senate is a plank in the Labor platform. The last Labor government increased by 22 the membership of the Senate, now dominated by that party.

Weekly Newspapers Seek Representation

MONTREAL, March 5—(CP)—Delegates to the two-day winter meeting of the association of French-speaking weekly newspapers in Canada Saturday adopted a resolution asking that the group be represented in future appointments to the senate and the Quebec legislative council.

At noon, the 80 delegates from Quebec, New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba and Alberta were luncheon guests of Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal and officers signed the city's Golden Book of distinguished visitors.

Anti-Communists

PESCARA, Italy, March 5 (AP) The first section of the anti-Cominform "Italian Workers Movement for Independence and Unity" was founded Sunday. It is headed by former Communists Valdo Magnani and Alco Cucchi. Magnani and Cucchi resigned from the party last January.

Fish Exports Up

OSLO — (CP) — Norway's exports of canned fish in 1950 were higher than in any year since the war. Total exported last year was 35,532 tons, compared with 29,355 tons in 1949 and 33,809 tons in 1948.

Sweden's Position

STOCKHOLM, March 5 (Reuters).—Sweden can mobilize "in a short time" an army of 20 to 30 divisions of the usual west European size, Defence Minister Alan Vought said Sunday.

Odds and Ends Just Personal Rolling Your Own; Landlord

By JACK SCOTT

Finally found a way to cut my cigarette bill in half. There's a new roll-yer-own machine, available in some of the smaller tobacco shops, that turns out a cigarette about as long as your your forearm. Which then chops into five individual cigarettes, pretty as you please. Mathematician in the office figures them at seven-tenths of a cent apiece and you can roll 50 in less than 15 minutes . . . My thanks to Rev. Milton Little, of the Carman United Church at Sardis for including some of this corner's words in a sermon on "Brotherhood Week" . . . Why is it that women simply adore those wicked looking guys in the movies who wear moustaches, but threaten divorce if their husbands contemplate a little foliage on the upper lip? . . . The movies I've most enjoyed in recent weeks are "Father of the Bride" and "The Men" . . . An invitation to attend a "special preview" of "Vancouver's finest food store"! What will they think of next? I'd rather not know.

The Passing Throng

Best way I know of observing the Passing Throng is to perch up in the high seat of any railway or bus station shoe shine stand. Better than a movie . . . I'd just as soon read an illustrated seed catalogue as any best-seller . . . Among the books I don't ever want is one called "The World Finder." This is one of those Thesaurus-type things that have done so much to ruin good writers. A brochure gives an example. You take the bare sentence, "She was troubled by her memories." Then, consulting The Word Finder, you will be able to make it come out horribly like this: "White-lipped memories haunted her heart, ghostlike and withered. Her heart ached with the lingering pain of stirred and dusty memories. Memories surged, weary and comfortless, through her darkened heart." Best rule for good writing I ever heard came from Lew Gordon, a great newspaperman: "Keep it Simple" . . . Don't go much for dialogue stories, but I've been enjoying a collection called "Cinderella Hassenpfeffer" in which Little Miss Muffet appears as follows:

Der wee Fraulein Muffet
Onsitten der fuffet
Upeaten der curders mit whey.
Ein spider upsnook
Und took ein look
At der Fraulein und crawlen away.

Oh! To Be in Ireland

I've always wanted to go to Ireland. Closest I've ever come was about 12,000 feet directly above it, looking down from the window of a TCA North Star . . . Andy Lytle passes on a little vignette of a certain parish in Donegal where, on Christmas Eve, the police politely sent up word to a pub that they would have to raid it at eleven, and would the customers mind going across the fields to another pub which they wouldn't be raiding until half past eleven. So, at eleven, all the customers trooped over the fields in the darkness, and at half past eleven back they came after collecting the customers from the other pub, and at midnight the police solemnly retired to their barracks with the whisky thoughfully supplied by the two publicans.

Poem For Landlords

A poem I like for landlords and landladies who reject children: "Are you the wisest, strongest race? And can your praise be sung? You are the only mammals that turn away the young" . . . Longfellow had some potent words on the subject, too: "Ah, what would the world be to us, if these children were no more? We should dread the desert behind us worse than the dark before" . . . Happy to add the name of the Wynyard Advance, at Wynyard, Sask, to the list of weekly papers retailing this stuff. Wish we could get a paper in Moose Jaw . . . A lady in Santa Barbara, California, sends along some old clippings of the late O. O. McIntyre. One I enjoyed tells of how he became a columnist. "It seems incredible," he wrote, "that one could start life as uneducated as I was and yet aspire to journalism. While others were studying I was often blocking off pencil-made newspapers. I picked up so little knowledge at school that it was not until after I married that I began studying history. For two years I devoted two hours each night to reading history. To this day I do not know a single rule of grammar. Everything I write is by ear. There is no doubt that I chose the hard way, however. No one can realize how I have dreaded expert criticism of my writing. To this day I am not sure of them, and so fearful have I become that I never read my column in type lest some humiliating error leap from the printed page" . . . I think Odd McIntyre's last words to his wife, beloved since childhood, are particularly poignant. Said the dying writer: "Turn your face toward me so I can see you."

Big Press Roars

There's no more thrilling sight and sound than a big newspaper press roaring its way through a high-speed edition. If you've never been through a newspaper office you ought to make a date to be shown around The Sun . . . Wonder how many men wear horn-rimmed glasses merely as an affectation . . . So many new spring hats on the girls downtown yesterday and a note from a pal in Toronto: "We were lucky enough to have it well below zero. The little ones enjoyed it, I think, and we must get them out again as soon as they have recovered from their pneumonia" . . . What perfume can weave as magic a spell as the scent of ski wax?

8 MP's Promise Air Grievance Of Mailmen

TORONTO, March 5 — (CP) — Eight hundred angry postmen from more than 14 Ontario centres heard eight members of parliament promise to put their grievances before the federal government.

The postmen are protesting against working conditions created by once-a-day mail deliveries, which were recently instituted by the postmaster-general as an economy move.

Delegates to the meeting attended from Welland, St. Catharines, Brantford, Kingston, Willowdale, Brampton, Peterborough, Niagara Falls, Kitchener, London, Galt, Sudbury, Stratford and intermediate points.

Prior to the one-delivery system, postmen worked a 44-hour week, with one week off in 12 to compensate for Saturday work. Their starting wage was $1,800 a year, rising by $120 annually to a maximum of $2,340.

District Lodge Figures In Toronto Divorce Case

TORONTO, March 5 — Chief Justice McRuer on Friday granted Francis Tomlin, telegraph office manager, here, a divorce decree nisi from his wife, Eva. Costs were assessed to a second defendant, Howard Hunter, and the action against Ralph Rehor, Cleveland industrialist, a second co-defendant was dismissed without costs.

Mrs. Tomlin and Hunter did not testify but Rehor contested the action.

Witnesses told of activities involving the three defendants while they were at Ava Lodge, near Peterborough, in the summer of 1948. His Lordship said the lodge "was nothing but a summer dive."

The Chief Justice asked Rehor, "you mentioned drinking in Mrs. Tomlin's room with a boy present. How old was the boy?"

"Ten years, I think," Rehor replied.

"Do you think that very discreet?" His Lordship asked. "In this country one can be sent to jail for that sort of conduct. It is contributing to juvenile delinquency."

Very Lucky

Chief Justice McRuer said "I think the conduct of this woman (Mrs. Tomlin) with this defendant (Hunter) sufficient to allow a decree nisi. I will not make any definite finding with respect to Rehor. I think he is very lucky to get out of the case."

Elizabeth Tomlin, mother of the plaintiff, testified they owned Ava Lodge from 1945 to 1950. "Eva was a tennis player," she said. "She always had lots of boy friends. She was a great favorite with the boys.

"It was nothing but a continual drink, drink, drink, at the lodge. Rehor would buy a case of liquor and take it into his room. They would drink it, Eva and the other girls and men."

"Ralph, Darling"

"How would she address Mr. Rehor," Francis Chambers, counsel for the plaintiff asked?

"Ralph, darling."

"How often would they go out?"

Every day he was there she was with him," Mrs. Tomlin said.

"What did Rehor call you?" E. A. Richardson, counsel for Rehor asked?

"Mother. All the guests called me mother."

"Did you take a drink on several occasions in his room?"—"No, never."

Ava Lodge was not run on temperance lines, the Chief Justice commented.

"No you couldn't do a thing about it," Mrs. Tomlin testified.

Says Both Kissed

Another guest, Frank Darwean, of Bedford, Ohio, said the guests used to kiss both Mrs. Tomlin senior and junior, when they came to the lodge and left it.

"There has been drinking every time I have been up there. In fact I think that is why the guests went up," he said. "Doors in the lodge were never locked. After returning from fishing trips, I would find guests, including Eva, in my room."

"Did you ever have drinks alone in your room with Mrs. Tomlin, Jr.?" Mr. Richardson asked.—"Yes."

"On her bed?"—"Yes."

"Did she kiss you and call you darling in a car?"

"I have never been in a motor car with her."

"You haven't had that experience," Chief Justice McRuer said. "Did she kiss you and call you darling at any time?"

"Yes, at the Lodge,' Darwean said.

Drinking Invariably

Rehor testified Mrs. Tomlin would call the guests, "honey, dear and drink with them. She was drinking invariably."

"Did you ever go to her room when you were not fully dressed?" Mr. Richardson asked.

"I might have had just pyjamas on," Rehor said.

He denied having any relation with Mrs. Tomlin while they were at a hotel in Buffalo. He said Mrs. Tomlin asked for a lift as far as Buffalo one time when he was going home to Cleveland.

"Would you not say your conduct with Mrs. Tomlin was rather indiscreet?' Mr. Chambers asked.

"Just about as indiscreet as anybody else's conduct up there," Rehor said.

"KISSING BANDITS" — The Winfield brothers—Kenny, 32, and Albert, 29—may be arraigned Monday on charges of being the "Kissing Bandits" who twice in two weeks held up at gun point a branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale, in Montreal. In addition, Detective Chief Wilfrid Bourdon said, the two will be charged with four minor holdups involving grocery and drug stores while Kenny will be accused of being the "Gay 90's" bandit who robbed a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia. With them will be a woman accomplice, Louise Montembault, 23, who police said will be charged with helping in the second holdup of the Banque Canadienne Nationale. The two alleged gunmen picked up their nickname of "Kissing Bandits" when, on their first armed visit to the Nationale bank, they stole both money and kisses from women clients. The "Gay 90's" tag was pinned on to the lone gunman who held up the Bank of Nova Scotia branch while wearing heavy, theatrical makeup.

Not Impressed By Awards

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 5 (AP) Oscar contenders campaigning frantically for Hollywood's biggest prize may be sobered by the words of Luise Rainer.

The Viennese actress holds the record for the most amazing achievement in Academy history. She won the top acting award two years in a row—in 1936 for "The Great Ziegfeld" and in 1937 for "The Good Earth." She is remaining here for a brief visit—her first in many years—after playing before the local footlights in "Joan of Lorraine."

I asked her how she felt about the two gold statuettes and how they affected her career. (She left Hollywood soon after her honors.)

"They meant nothing to me," she answered bluntly. "Oh, I was honored to be chosen. But at the time I received them I was so confused and unhappy and they made no impressions on me."

Got Everybody Mad

I asked if she would be present for this year's awards, which will be given March 29. "No," she replied. "I wasn't even there when I was to get my own awards; so why should I be now?" She recalled the events with a smile.

"I got everybody mad at me," she recalled. "On the night I was to get the first one, I was coming home from my honeymoon with Clifford Odets. When we arrived, the telephone was ringing madly. They told me to hurry down and get the award.

"The following year we had gone out to a friend's house. Nobody had told me I should have been at the Academy. They finally tracked me down and told me to hurry down for the award again. They were indignant and thought I was trying to insult the Academy."

Miss Rainer terms her Hollywood experience "a disaster."

She attributed her departure from Holywood to a variety of factors. "I was naive and unsophisticated and confused by everything," she said. "I was terribly unhappy with my marriage. And I was terribly tired; I did eight pictures in my three years here.

"I'm afraid there was a great deal of bad feeling at MGM when I left. But I don't see why there should have been. The studio had done all right with me. During most of the time I was paid $250 a week.

Juggling Words To Fix Agenda

PARIS, March 6 (AP).—Deputies of the big four foreign ministers today started sifting ideas and juggling words in an effort to fix an agenda for the proposed meeting of their chiefs.

At the first meeting Monday, two agenda proposals were presented—one jointly by Britain, the United States and France, and the other by Russia.

Each faction suggested that the foreign ministers talk about a peace treaty for Germany and methods of relieving tension in Europe.

The Russian proposal mentioned "the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany and consequent withdrawal of the occupying powers." The westerners came in with "problems relating to the unity of Germany and preparation of a treaty of peace."

The western powers proposed an "examination of the causes of international tension in Europe and the means to secure a real and lasting improvement in relations between the United States, France, Britain and the USSR."

Two Fishing Tugs Locked In Icefield

PORT MAITLAND, March 6—(CP) — Two Lake Erie fishing tugs, the Irene Lloyd and the Lincoln R., today remained locked in a giant icefield five miles from this port.

Five other fishing craft have been freed from the ice floes in which they were caught Saturday. Three of them prepared to try to smash through the ice today in an attempt to free the tugs still trapped.

John Miner, 14, was taken off the Lincoln R. by U.S. Coast Guard helicopter Monday. Nine men still on the tugs told the Coast Guard men they were in no immediate danger and insisted on staying on their vessels. Food, warm clothing, cigarettes and fuel supplies have been dropped to them from the helicopter within the last two days.

On a per capita basis, net Provincial debt declined from $127.56 to $119.92 in last eight years.

Can Fine Richard $500 Or Suspend Him For Fracas

MONTREAL, March 6. (CP)—For allegedly attacking Referee Hugh McLean in a New York hotel lobby Sunday, Maurice (Rocket) Richard can be fined $500 and/or suspended from hockey for a term to be decided by National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell, it was indicated today.

(In Toronto today, Campbell confirmed that the penalty is provided for in NHL regulations, but declined further comment before conferring with McLean and officials of the Montreal Hockey Club Thursday or Friday.)

A $500 fine would be the heaviest ever imposed on a Major Hockey League player, but Campbell made it clear that he would make no decision in Richard's case until he had completed a full-scale investigation.

The investigation of Richard's conduct will embrace allegations that he attacked Referee Hugh McLean in the lobby of the Piccadilly Hotel in New York Sunday morning.

The powers of the NHL league president, in such cases as that of Richard, are covered in a league bylaw and are not covered in the general rules which are

RCMP Checking Sabotage Story

OTTAWA, March 6 — (CP).—Justice Minister Garson said on Monday he is making inquiries through the RCMP whether Communists are engaging in attempted sabotage or other activity in the industrial area of Oshawa.

The minister, replying to questions by Gordon Higgins (PC-St. John's East), said so far he has not received any information on the matter from the RCMP.

Mr. Higgins asked if any attempt has been made to sabotage the industrial capacity of the Oshawa area or whether Communists are active among the workers there.

Bad Blizzard, Cold Wave Hit Prairies

No Relief Sighted In Cold Spell, Traffic Halted

EDMONTON, March 6. (CP) — An unseasonable blizzard has sent temperatures tumbling and paralyzed traffic in many parts of the prairie provinces.

Record lows for March have been established in many areas. And weather officials Monday night said there was no relief in sight from the late-winter cold spell.

Calgary Monday reported the coldest March day in its history as the Mercury dropped to 21 below. Edmonton also had its coldest March 5 with a temperature of 20 below.

The situation was largely the same in other prairie regions, with temperatures well below zero.

The Weather Office in Edmonton reported that the strong bone-chilling winds which have accompanied the blow are expected to abate somewhat today in Eastern Alberta and Western Saskatchewan. However, extreme cold temperatures will continue.

Meanwhile, the Winnipeg Weather Bureau posted storm warnings for Regina, Brandon, Yorkton and Winnipeg. The bureau forecast that snowflurries and blowing snow would be general from Regina to Fort William by tonight.

One Death Reported

So far, one death has been reported due to the storm. Although 55 persons were stranded in two stalled buses for almost 24 hours on the the highway near Calgary Monday with only heat from the slowly-turning motors to ward off bitter sub-zero temperatures, all were rescued unharmed. Dead

Deny Sick DP Girl Lashed To Her Bed

TORONTO, March 6 (CP). — A 22-year-old Polish-born girl who came to Canada two years ago was admitted to a mental hospital today for care and observation after suffering a nervous breakdown Monday and being kept under restraint in her west-end rooming house over night.

Dr. C. Cleland, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital here, said lack of space prevented her admittance Monday night. He said he had been told by two doctors looking after her that she was under sedative and resting quietly. Her name was not made public.

Two police officers, called by the girl's landlord, said they found her bound with a clothesline. One of the doctors, who had given her a sedative, denied a report that she was lashed to her bed.

"We used three blankets, bundled her up and pinned her inside them to keep her from hurting herself," he said.

Want Their Money

WINNIPEG, Mar. 6. (CP) —An RCMP escort left Sunday for Oshawa, to bring back Nick Panko, 34, of Fork River, Man., to face a charge of theft of $8,319 in municipal funds. Panko was formerly secretary-treasurer of Mossey River municipality, which lies near the west shore of Lake Winnipegosis, north of Dauphin. He was arrested in Oshawa Saturday night after being sought since Dec. 4 on a missing-person complaint entered by his wife.

Gen. Eisenhower Appoints Army Officers

PARIS, March 6 (AP).—Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters today announced the appointment of six Europeans and one American to top posts in the North Atlantic military command.

From Europe, Eisenhower named three Britons, two Frenchmen and one Italian to assist him.

Eisenhower's chief of staff, Lt.-Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, announced these appointments:

Lt.-Gen. Marcel-Maurice Carpentier, French Army, to be deputy chief of staff for administration;

Air Vice-Marshal E. C. Hudleston, RAF, deputy chief for plans;

Maj.-Gen. Terence Sydney Airey, British Army, assistant chief for intelligence;

Maj.-Gen. F. W. Festing, British Army, assistant chief for organization and training;

Rear Admiral Ferrant Capponi, Italy, Navy, assistant chief for personnel and administration;

Maj.-Gen. Pierre Louis Bodet, French Air Force, assistant chief for plans, policy and operations, and

Maj.-Gen. Edmond H. Leavey, U.S. Army, assistant chief for logistics.

Headquarters Work

Gruenther's announcement said "these senior officers will be concerned primarily with operations and functions within the staff structure at supreme headquarters."

Commanders of the Atlantic Pact's land, sea and air forces, plus regional commanders, were expected to be named soon.

Britain's Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery also is expected to be named to a high post, probably as a deputy to Eisenhower, who now holds the title of supreme commander, allied forces in Europe.

Returns From Tokyo For Special Talks

TOKYO, March 6 (CP)—Brig. Frank Fleury, Chief Canadian Liaison Officer with Gen. MacArthur's headquarters here, will fly to Ottawa this weekend for talks with defence officials.

The discussions will complete final administration arrangements for the arrival in Korea of 5,000 troops of Canada's Special Force now stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash.

The 5,000 troops are in addition to the 1,000 men of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry which went into action in Korea more than a week ago.

New Chinese Offensive Shaping Up

Ridgway Confident UN Troops Able To Hold Line

TOKYO, March 6. (CP) — Parka-clad United States Marines attacking over new-fallen snow drove slowly ahead today in Central Korea. The Chinese Reds resisted bitterly.

The Marines pushed toward the key communications hub of Hongchon, 15 miles north of recaptured Hoengsong. Some elements were 11 miles from Hongchon.

On the Marines' right flank, elements of the U.S. 2nd Division were reported to have advanced more than a mile despite the snowstorm. This was in an area southeast of Hoengsong and north of a lateral highway.

AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky said the infantry men found "hundreds of enemy dead" in the area.

On the West-Central front a US 1st Cavalry tank-infantry team captured Yongdu Monday and thrust eastward toward Hoengsong, 16 miles away. The lateral highway between the two towns was a No Man's Land. Heavy fire came from Communist-held hills on the north side.

In this area the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry attacked Communist positions one to four miles east of Yongdu as part of the Commonwealth 27th Brigade.

British, Australian and New Zealand troops fought along with the Patricias through a six-inch snowfall which slowed the whole allied push east of Seoul.

Moving Up

The Chinese Reds were believed to have concentrated their largest front-line forces at Hongchon. Gen. MacArthur said another big Red force—the Chinese third field army—is moving toward the front from northeast Korea to support the Communist 4th field army.

Count's 'Sins' Trip Him Up

VIENNA, March 6 (Reuters)—Austria's modern "Don Juan," a fantastic figure who waltzed across Europe leaving a trail of "wives," has been jailed for swindling.

"Count" Guenther Martikan, dapper would-be aristocrat said to have used four noble aliases, was found guilty Monday of obtaining 1,000,000 schillings ($4,668) by false pretences.

He was sentenced to 5½ years at hard labor.

Police said he had "married" at least three rich women, and that he had served in the gestapo.

During the hearing he asked reporters for a fee for having brought them such an interesting case.

The prosecutor told the court that Martikan, moving in the best circles, became intimate with the family of a rich Belgian industrialist. Martikan said the industrialist's wife fell in love with him, gave him golden dollars and a new Chevrolet car.

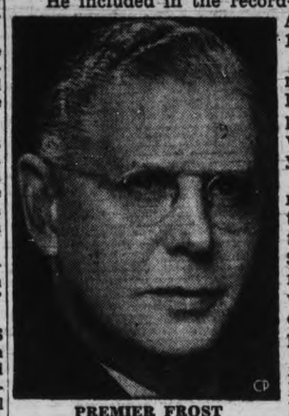
But he was in love with her 17-year-old daughter, Monika, and eloped with her in the Chevrolet, together with the dollars and some of the family jewels, the "lover" said.

Show Previous Effort To Murder Mrs. Guay

QUEBEC, March 6 (CP) — Prosecutor Noel Dorion told a criminal assizes jury today the Crown would show that Mrs. Arthur Pitre proposed to a taxi-driver—10 days before the time-bombing of an airliner at Sault Au Cochon in 1949—to take young Rita Guay for a ride "and blow her up."

Mrs. Pitre is the friend of J. Albert Guay, jeweller who was hanged Jan. 12 for master-minding the time-bombing of an airliner Sept. 9, 1949.

Addressing the 12-man French-speaking jury, Dr. Dorion said the woman showed the taxi driver a parcel and told him to place it in the taxi.



He said the driver refused although the black-haired woman remarked it would be "a dangerous but profitable trip."

Gov't Will Supply Free Text Books For Grades I-VIII

TORONTO, March 6. (CP)—The Ontario Government will wind up its fiscal year March 31 with a $1,276,000 surplus after paying a new $1,500,000 grant to hospitals and putting an extra $14,500,000 into debt retirement funds, Premier Frost announced today. The surplus compares with a forecast of $166,030 a year ago.

In his 12,000-word Budget address to the Ontario Legislature, the Premier predicted a $598,000 surplus in the next year in the face of a general increase in subsidies and grants to municipalities and reductions of roughly 2½ per cent in taxes on amusements and race track betting.

He included in the record-breaking $265,000,000 budget April 1, the beginning of the 1951-52 fiscal year:

PREMIER FROST

(1) Readjustment in amusement or hospitals tax on liquor lounges. The tax will be imposed in any place which provides any entertainment beyond background music;

(2) The amusement tax rate will be reduced from 15 to 12½ per cent;

for the new year an item of $2,000,000 to meet the cost of a new government policy—provision of free text books to children in Grades I to VIII in public and separate schools.

The budget contained no new taxes nor increase in existing rates. It announced three tax changes, effective

(3) The race track pari-mutuel tax will be adjusted from its present flat 12½ per cent rate to a sliding scale from 10 to 14 per cent, depending on the size of the betting pool. The tax, plus the amount retained by the track, will be a constant 19 per cent. Under the old tax it ranged from 21½ per cent on pools up to $20,000 down to 17½ per cent over $50,000. The net effect will be roughly a 2½ per cent cut in the tax take, based on experience last year when most betting pools were under $20,000.

Two other tax measures were forecast, neither with any important bearing on provincial revenues. One provides that the person purchasing premises licensed to sell beer or liquor pay the transfer tax to the provincial liquor board; previously the vendor paid the tax. The other will be covered in amendments to the Succession Duty Act to clarify certain sections.

Inflation Upsets Frost's Estimates

Thrust upwards by the flood tide of inflation, the province's income and spending in the present fiscal year far outran Mr. Frost's estimates of a year ago. He had forecast gross revenue of $238,260,780 for the year which ends March 31. Today's revised estimate—based on 10 months actual and two months estimated—is for income of $260,457,000.

Gross ordinary expenditure also soared from the estimate of $238,094,750 a year ago to $259,181,000 today. Part of this was accounted for by the extra payment into sinking funds for debt retirement—$21,698,000 compared with the estimate of $7,198,000—and the $1,500,000 grant which will be paid to hospitals before the end of this month.

The increases in revenue over estimates reflected booming business conditions. Corporations tax produced $71,500,000, $6,500,000 more than the estimate of $65,000,000. It is the province's biggest single source of revenue.

Highways—gasoline tax and motor vehicle licences — yielded $5,100,000 over the estimates — lands and forests almost $1,000,000 more. Liquor revenue was up $2,000,000 to $39,000,000 from the estimate of $37,000,000. Other big gains over the estimates: hospitals, or amusement, tax $1,400,000; succession duty $1,500,000; race tracks $1,159,000; security transfer tax, $1,200,000; land transfer tax, $700,000.

Four Departments Go Over Estimates

On expenditures, Mr. Frost remarked that in the present year only four of the 15 government departments would spend more than the amount estimated a year ago. There were: highways, up $6,580,000; health, up $1,067,050; education, up $849,000; and the prime minister's department, up $199,000.

For the next fiscal year, gross ordinary revenue was placed at $265,980,000 and expenditures at $265,382,000.

Discussing the surplus in the present year, Mr. Frost said revenues had proved more buoyant than the government anticipated. The extra revenue had been used to reduce the net debt by applying it to sinking funds. The province's total sinking funds now stood at $90,850,000 as a result of the government using the eight consecutive surpluses since it took office in 1943 to cushion the funded debt.

The government had a creditable record of debt management, said Mr. Frost. In the eight years ending next March 31 it had added $218,793,555 to the physical assets of the province through highway improvements, provincial lands and buildings, rural power lines and sundry other projects. It had invested $648,001,428 in human resources—agriculture, education, health and public welfare.

Despite these combined investments totalling $866,800,000, our net debt will have increased by only $45,618,953 in those eight years, while on a per capita basis it will have actually declined from $127.56 to $119.92."

This year the government was paying $23,000,000 from ordinary revenue for capital expenditure; last year the amount was $29,300,000. "We are again able to say that of every dollar of capital expenditure we have paid over one-third from our ordinary revenue."

He table statements showing the gross debt at next March 31 at $707,649,383, up $13,640,049 in a year; the net debt at $541,060,244, up $32,240,913; the funded debt at $592,142,500, up $6,791,651; and contingent liabilities—securities, such as those issued by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario—at $497,239,815, up $100,098,686. A $110,000,000 Hydro bond issue more than accounted for the increase in liabilities.

Continue $1,500,000 Hospital Grant

The new $1,500,000 hospital grant will be continued in the next fiscal year, said Mr. Frost. At a press conference he explained that is based on a varying formula depending on the service the hospital renders to indigent patients. For

Say Profit Margin Control Now Being Considered

OTTAWA, March 6. (CP)—The Commons inched along Monday in its process of giving legislative approval to the Government's powerful new Department of Defence Production. After a bitter debate last week, the Chamber approved the principle of the Enabling Bill and then bogged down in a slowly-moving study of 41 complex clauses. The discussion was highlighted by several clashes among Progressive Conservative members and Prime Minister St. Laurent and Trade Minister Howe, who have been sharing the job of piloting the legislation.

Outside of the Commons, Mr. Howe said during a CBC broadcast that the Government, while still opposed to a general price freeze, is considering commodity margin-of-profit control as one means to fight inflation. The Government will "have something to say on that before many weeks go by."

He warned, too, of the probability of restrictions in the civilian commodity field, such as the banning of the use of chrome on motor cars and the use of steel in certain components in washing machines.

Contests Clause

At one point in the Commons, George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and his supporters contested a clause authorizing the Defence Production Minister—Mr. Howe is slated for the job—to delegate powers to other persons. The section was put to a vote and passed by a standing vote of 57 to 21.

At another point, Mr. Howe and Mr. Drew pitched into one another after Mr. Drew said he wondered whether the Trade Minister would get any advice from the C. D. Howe and Company Limited, an engineering firm with which Mr. Howe severed business connections 16 years ago.

That, said Mr. Howe, was the "cheapest remark ever made in this House of Commons," and Mr. Drew, by making the statement, had dropped in the estimation of the House.

"I never thought too much of him before," Mr. Howe added, "but I shall think less of him from now on."

Disagree On Bill

Then, Mr. St. Laurent and Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quadra), collided over an interpretation of the bill.

Mr. St. Laurent, in response to a question, said its provisions were broad enough to carry it through a war.

Mr. Green felt that statement indicated clearly that it was a war measure.

Mr. St. Laurent, his voice rising, disagreed. It was part of the measures being taken by the Atlantic-Pact community to prevent war. It was not war legislation.

Mr. Green persisted in referring to the bill as war legislation and Mr. St. Laurent shouted him down with the cry that that was "an absolutely wrong assertion to make."

As the defence production debate unfolded, Mr. Drew urged the government to consider establishment of an independent judicial or semi-judicial body, such as is used in France to supervise the use of extraordinary legislative powers in time of emergency.

LONDON, March 6—(Reuters)—Ivor Novello, world-famous British actor, author and composer, died early today. He was 56. He died of a sudden attack of thrombosis in his London flat.

Independence Move For Tripolitania

LONDON, March 6 (AP).—Informed sources say Britain will publish a proclamation today setting up a provisional government in Tripolitania as the first step toward granting self-rule to the former Italian colony in North Africa.

Mahmoud Muntasser, former member of the Administrative Council, is expected to be named president of the new government, to be known as the Council of Regency and Government. It eventually will join with Cyrenaica and emerge as an independent Libya. The new government is to take office Thursday.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion Public Weather Office at 9.30 a.m. EST today:

Synopsis:

The western storm was centred over Southern Manitoba this morning and moving toward Hudson Bay. This storm brought near blizzard conditions to the Canadian prairies on Monday, and the accompanying cold wave sent temperatures to between 20 and 30 below zero over Saskatchewan and Alberta. Monday night Winnipeg dropped from 31 above at midnight to four below zero at 7 a.m.

Due to the northward motion of the storm only Northwestern Ontario will feel the full shock of the cold air and temperatures in the White River region will tumble to near zero tonight.

Today Southern Ontario will be in a strong southerly surge of warm air and temperatures will climb into the 50s by this afternoon. Colder air from the west will enter southwestern Ontario tonight and drop temperatures to the mid-20s by early morning.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Wednesday:

Eastern Lake Ontario and Haliburton regions:

Sunny and very mild today, clouding over tonight. Wednesday cloudy and mild at first, turning colder in the afternoon. Winds south 20, shifting to northwest 15 Wednesday afternoon. Low tonight and high Wednesday at Trenton 40 and 45, Killaloe 35 and 40.

Summary for Wednesday. Cloudy. Turning colder.

Toronto Prices Ease In Quiet Trading

TORONTO, March 6 (CP) — Prices eased in extremely quiet trading as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Trading was almost at a standstill and volume for the first three hours of 860,000 shares was about 40,000 fewer than the same period yesterday.

Utilities, agricultures, constructions, banks, retail stores and manufacturing companies showed a majority of losses in the groupings. Most price changes were fractional but there were several exceptions. B.C. Electric Pfd., Aluminum. Canadian Dredge and Goodyear were off $1 and Canada Wire B was up $2.50. Imperial Oil was active as it climbed to a new high with a $3 jump to $39.50.

Western oils were mixed. Royalite, Federated Petroleum and Okalta firmed while Calgary and Edmonton, Del Rio and Pacific Petroleum declined.

Golds barely moved.

Central Gains Win

Central defeated Queen Elizabeth 8-3 yesterday at the arena in their School Hockey League meeting on the work of three players. Bob Gardner scored two goals and aided on five more, while Stewart Brooks counted three markers and helped on three, with Doug Patterson scoring three and assisting on three. For the losers, Wally Whitnell and John Johnston each had a goal and an assist, Jim Hall tallying the other marker. Teams:

Queen Elizabeth—Medland, W. Harrison, Dillman, Frise, G. Harrison, Lymburner, Cameron, Hall, Willis, Tighe, Johnston, Whitnell, Lyon.

Central — Matthews, Butler, McGinnis, Patterson, Brooks, Gardner, Williams, Tranter, Dunford, Gray, Brown, Martyn.

Referee, D. Lawless.

A Western Canada senior contest at Regina was held up for more than 2½ hours as the Saskatoon Quakers' train was late.

Ships Collide In Dense Fog

LEWES, Del., March 6 (AP)—Two ships collided this morning in fog-shrouded Delaware Bay. One of them radioed a few minutes later that it is "probably sinking."

Radio reports to the coast guard identified the vessels as the SS Bertha Brovig, a 2,415-ton vessel of Norwegian registry, and the 3,365-ton Danish freighter Uranienborg.

The Bertha B ovig, which normally carries a crew of 30, sent out a radio call for assistance shortly after the collision.

At mid-morning, the coast guard in New York said the skipper of the distressed vessel had radioed that he would try to run the ship aground somewhere in Delaware Bay "if my power holds out."

The message said that water was pouring into the number two hold and that the vessel was settling slowly.

Bruce McNevin Widely Mourned

LINDSAY, March 6 — The funeral of Bruce McNevin, former member of parliament for Victoria county, Monday afternoon, was one of the most largely attended here in many years.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, with an estimated capacity of more than 1,000 people, was crowded with men and women of the town and district. The service was conducted by the minister, Rev. D. McQueen, following a private service for the bereaved family at the McArthur funeral home.

Pall bearers were: Donald McNevin, John Moore, Harvey McNevin, Harvey Dundas, Huber Burke and Kenneth Thorne.

Honorary flower bearers were: A. M. Fulton, KC, Dr. W. D. Thomas of Bobcaygeon; William Newman of Lorneville; Dr. Hugh Logan, Herbert McFadden, A. T. Lacey, Joseph Tangney and Cecil Nugent. Burial was at Riverside cemetery.

Lindsay Rotary Club attended in a body, the town council was fully represented, and there were also present many of the officers and members of the Farmers Union Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of which Mr. McNevin was president for years.

Magna Carta Invoked By Deserting Seaman

WELLINGTON, N.Z.—(CP)—A New Zealand seaman who deserted here after signing on a ship in England invoked Magna Carta when he was faced with deportation.

Under New Zealand law, a deserting seaman is liable to deportation to the country where he signed on. Under Article 29 of Magna Carta, however, it is prohibited to exile or banish a freeman from his country.

J. B. Weir, counsel for the seaman, Ronald Albert Murphy, contended that to deport a New Zealand citizen meant exile and was in conflict with Magna Carta.

Magistrate M. B. Scully rejected the plea.

"Defendant will be placed on board a ship to leave New Zealand for the country in which he was engaged," he said. "Upon reaching that country, the seaman may proceed as he thinks fit as to his returning to New Zealand, when and how he likes, other than as a deserting seaman. There is no restriction on his entering his own country in the ordinary way. This falls short of exile or banishment from his country."

Notice of appeal has been lodged.

Chilly River Wade Marks Right Of Way

THANINGTON, Kent. England, (CP).—Colin Clough, 32-year-old antique dealer, stood on the bank of the River Stour, stripped down to a bathing suit he was wearing underneath his clothes and waded slowly across the river.

It was a winter day and the water was cold. But Clough wasn't just out for a prank. His idea was to establish a right of way across the river, whose footbridge was swept away by floods in 1929.

"Someone had to map the old course for a footpath survey," said Mrs. Clough. "My husband felt it was his duty."

Officials said other volunteers have raced houndreds of miles of footpaths, negotiating hedges, quagmires and even bulls, to prepare for a survey to be completed within six months.

New York Hunter Takes Pot Shot At Crow But Bags Fireworks Factory Instead

PEARL RIVER, N.Y., March 6—(AP)—A hunter took a shot at a crow here Monday—and blew up a small fireworks plant.

No one was hurt, but the blast rocked communities a dozen miles away in two states and frightened the hunter so badly he jumped into a river in his flight.

Fire apparatus and ambulances responded from six neighboring villages.

Frank Perkins, Jr., 24, crouched behind a thicket. He could not see the half-a-dozen frame buildings of the Barnabas Fireworks Co. about 50 yards away.

He aimed his shotgun at the bird and fired.

The shot hit a building about the size of a two-car garage.

Fireworks material in it blew up. The concussion set off blasts in the other buildings, spaced about 50 yards apart, levelling all of them.

Quit Communism Or Resign Red Dean Told

LONDON, March 6 (CP). — Organizers of a Jan. 25 national pilgrimage to Canterbury Cathedral called Monday on Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the cathedral's Red Dean, to quit communism or resign.

A letter sent to the 77-year-old dean said he is trying to serve two religions simultaneously—Christianity and communism—and added:

"As loyal Christians we do believe that it is impossible to serve two masters and so we must ask you now to dissociate yourself from communism or else resign from the office of the Dean of Canterbury."

Dr. Johnson told a reporter he had no comment.

The letter was sent by Viscount Craigavon, Lt.-Gen. Sir Giffard Martel and their colleagues who organized the Jan. 25 pilgrimage to Canterbury at which thousands of Britons prayed for the triumph of Christianity over communism.

The letter said: "We would say too, that we are much distressed that Canterbury Cathedral, an ancient shrine of Anglican Christendom, should be desecrated by one, such as you, who so zealously serves the sworn enemies of God."

Dr. Johnson recently expressed approval of Prime Minister Stalin's "war is not inevitable" speech.

MacArthur said it comprises several army corps, possibly up to 90,000 men.

Despite losses of an estimated 22,250 troops since the United Nations resumed its limited offensive Feb. 21, the Chinese and North Koreans are believed to number 300,000 in South Korea.

Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of allied ground forces, told a press conference that the Reds have plenty of men to launch a big counter-offensive.

But he expressed belief such an attack is not imminent. Ridgway added that his forces "at the moment" could stop a Red offensive.

He spoke confidently of his Eighth Army's capabilities and praised the support he has received from MacArthur.

Heavy Artillery Fire

The Reds pumped artillery, mortar and machine-gun fire into the attackers Monday, but fell back. Air spotters reported an estimated three Chinese battalions directly ahead of the Marines, from five to six miles north and northwest of Hoengsong.

On the east-central front, Korean Reds fought bitterly today from dugouts on rugged ridges near Taemi, a mountain stronghold from which they were routed Monday. Taemi is 10 miles northwest of Pangnim, eastern road junction of one of the main east-west highways running to Hoengsong and Seoul.

Plant Now Returned To Paper's Control

BUENOS AIRES, March 6 (AP) —The printing plant of the independent newspaper La Prensa, closed by order of a federal judge last week, was returned to the paper's control Monday.

It was immediately padlocked by federal police, acting on a complaint in federal court that the editor, Alberto Gainza Paz, and others had violated state security laws.

Federal Judge Roberto Durrieu first ordered the plant closed during an investigation of street fighting outside the newspaper last Tuesday in which one La Prensa employee was killed and 15 other persons were injured. The clash occurred when employees of the paper, shut down for more than a month by a strike of the pro-government News Vendors' Union, tried to resume their jobs.

24 Building Permits Issued In February

Estimated property value of building permits in February was $17,114 more than in the second month last year.

Twenty-four permits amounted to $75,945 They were: two garages $950; two houses $18,600; 24 miscellaneous permits $56,395. Total for the month $75,945; and for the two months $149,552.

In the miscellaneous group was a permit for $17,000, estimated value of the new Imperial Oil service station at Monaghan Road and Lansdowne St.

Twenty-one miscellaneous permits in February, 1950, represented $58,831 new building values; and the total for the two months was $117,081.

Expect To Field Two Brigades

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP). — Canada now expects to field army brigades of roughly 6,000 men apiece both in Korea and Europe this year.

The country, with a population of 14,000,000 and a military policy stressing air power, has never tried anything like that before in peacetime.

But the federal government has accepted the obligation to do so to back Canada's commitments to the United Nations and the Atlantic Pact organization.

The Korean contribution, when the brigade gets into action within the next two months, will rank third among those powers which have sent forces to that theatre, being outstripped only by the United States and Britain. Three destroyers and an air transport squadron have been under U.N. command for months.

Present indications, barring an early end of the Korean war, are that the dual overseas army role will require around 18,000 to 20,000 men either serving abroad or training at home to rotate with or reinforce men who are abroad.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

FLU HITS TWO MORE

Two more PCVS teachers were absent today from school classes due to the flu, G. B. Goulding and Allan MacQuarrie, to bring the total teachers absent to five. Principal C. S. Browne said the present outbreak hasn't reached epidemic proportions among the students yet: 131 were absent Monday from classes. V. R. Henry, James McNabb and Arnold Noftall are the other teachers ill.

MAKE WAY FOR ADULTS

Vendors of comic books are finding that adults are customers too. One store with a lunch counter faces the unusual problem of having young men pick comic books off the shelves, then park at the counter keeping regular coffee drinkers off the stools while they digest the books—but alas they forget to order they are so absorbed in the antics of the heroes and heroines.

NO POLICE COURT

No police court was held today when Magistrate W. R. Philp KC was not on hand to hear any cases. Neither provincial police nor city police had any prisoners to bring before the court and no cases had been adjourned to today. In police court Monday it was evident Magistrate Philp had caught a severe cold.

Dollar Down Slightly

MONTREAL, March 6 (CP) — The American dollar today opened at 4 15/32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, 1/32 lower than Monday's close. That is it took $1.04 15/32 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.92½, down ⅛.

Cruiser Ontario Battered By Storm

ON BOARD HMCS ONTARIO AT PEARL HARBOR, March 6—(CP) — This 8,000-ton cruiser pulled into the United States Hawaiian naval base here Sunday after encountering heavy weather in a week-long trip from Esquimalt, B.C.

Highlight of the trip from Esquimalt was a storm Feb. 27 which forced the Ontario to heave to for 11 hours, tore away one of the ship's whalers, damaged another beyond repair and battled a third until it was temporarily useless.

The cruiser is spending only two days here before continuing to Pago Pago. She is due in Brisbane, Australia, March 24.

OBITUARIES

WALTER SELWYN HETHERINGTON

Most of his life a Peterborough resident, Walter Selwyn Hetherington, 191 King St., died Monday after a long illness at his residence in his 67th year. He was born in Bobcaygeon, the son of Stephen Hetherington and Eleanor Southeran.

Besides several nieces and nephews Mr. Hetherington is survived by a sister, Mrs. J. S. Ferguson of Birchcliff, Ontario. For 30 years he was an employee of the James Hamilton Company. He was a member of George St. United Church.

The funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the residence by the Rev. A. A. Mathews of George St. United Church. Burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

Soon Produce 20 Jets Month Howe Tells MP's

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP).—The Canadair aircraft plant at Montreal is expected within the next few months to be producing F-86E jet fighters at a rate of 20 a month, Trade Minister Howe said Monday.

This production rate can be stepped up "anywhere to 50 planes a month," he added in the Commons, as soon as government-furnished property becomes available in larger volume and as soon as Canadian-produced engines are in production. The F-86E now is equipped with engines imported from the United States.

Reviewing Canadian defence production, he said the CF-100 Canuck fighter is coming into production at Malton with expectation that output there would be boosted to 20 planes a month. He could not say just when the first plane will come off the assembly line.

Thoroughly Tested

The Canadian-developed Orenda engine, with which the Canuck will be powered, has been thoroughly flight-tested and will be in quantity production by midsummer.

He said 1,000 Harvard training planes are being produced. Preparations are being made to produce the Wasp engine, the Harvard power plant, at the Pratt and Whitney plant near Montreal.

The heavy Harvard order will probably bring about the reopening of Canadian Car & Foundry Co.'s aircraft plant at Fort William.

At the same time the de Haviland Aircraft Co. of Toronto has obtained a substantial order for Beaver aircraft from the U. S. Government.

Arrangements have been made for the production of accessories in the de Havilland plant. Production is being increased in magnesium castings and a great variety of products which go into the Orenda engine, the CF-100 and other aircraft.

PRINCESS PATS go into action in Korea as elements of the famed Canadian infantry unit move into hilly country to clash with Chinese Communist troops. The Canadians were last reported to be still among the foremost troops fighting with the Eighth Army in the west central sector and were vigorously probing the enemy's next line of defences. A strong patrol went forward from the main United Nations line in that area and returned intact after a brisk fight.

To Close Street Allowances Near School Site

COBOURG, Feb. 6 —(ENS)— Cobourg town council will draft a bylaw to close certain unopened street allowances near the proposed site of the east end public school, it was announced at last nights meeting of the council.

After the bylaw is advertised, anyone opposing closure of the street allowances will have an opportunity to record it. Mayor Jack Burnet informed two delegates from the school board last night that arrangements had been made tentatively to acquire extra land to bring a new street to the required width in the vicinity of the proposed school site.

Council is making enquiries in regard to changing the old parking meter heads and putting on an improved type. The old ones were out of order half the time and motorists were assuming that most of them were not operating and were parking without inserting the necessary coins.

The Business and Professional Women's Club wrote to council to point out that at a recent musical sponsored by the club there was nobody to operate the stage lights and that the opera house was filthy. The matter was referred to the property committee to investigate.

Council gave second reading to a bylaw amending the $30,000 debenture issue of last year for the recreation centre balance, by changing the interest rate from three to three and one-half percent, a more attractive rate. Second reading was also given to a bylaw to issue $20,691 worth of debentures to complete the sewage disposal plant.

Named Co-ordinator

TORONTO, March 6 (CP). — Air Vice-Marshal Thomas Lawrence has been appointed civilian defence co-ordinator for the county of York at a salary of $3,600 a year, it was announced jointly Monday by Mayor Hiram McCallum, Toronto, and Reeve Elmer Brandon, Swansea. Mr. Lawrence is on pension from the RCAF.

Men Get Fussier Says Aged Barber

WINNIPEG — (CP) — Russ Lavers, 68, has been a barber for half a century and estimates he has done 324,000 haircuts.

He claims that customers are "fussier nowadays." And he says "the men are just as vain as the women. Some are worse. Young fellows come here asking for a permanent wave, and lots of them have finger-waves."

Lavers never cut anyone's throat, but there were times when he felt like it, he said. Apart from the fussy and irascible ones, he recalls that one man died in the chair while he was shaving him once in Sydney, N.S. "I finished shaving him," he said.

School Closed For Flu Boy Drowns In Canal

LINDSAY, March 6—Francis Thibadeau, 8, slipped into the canal at Bobcaygeon Monday and drowned before aid could reach him.

The boy out of school because a flu epidemic had caused authorities to close public schools, was playing with another boy, Lloyd McCullum, when he slipped in. The body was recovered in 15 minutes, but an hour of artificial respiration failed to revive him.

Mission Band Plans March Basket Social

FAIRMOUNT, March 6—Plans for a basket social were made Saturday at the March meeting of Fairmouth Mission Band, held at the home of Mrs. Roy Hooton. The basket social will be held March 17.

Mrs. Ed Johnston was in charge of the meeting and Joan Dunn and Joan Minnie conducted worship service.

Miss Mary Waters has accepted a position as X-ray technician at the Peterborough Civic Hospital.

No Statement

LONDON, March 6 (AP)—Doctors Monday night visited the King and Princess Elizabeth—both down with feverish colds—but issued no statement on their patients' progress. Doctors said earlier that the King's condition continued to improve satisfactorily and that the Princess' cold was taking its normal course.

13th Day In Coma

Women's Editor Dies

QUEBEC, March 6 (CP). — Georgina Lefaivre, 77, for 25 years women's editor of Le Soleil until her retirement several years ago, died Monday after a lengthy illness. Writing under the pseudonym "Ginevra," Miss Lefaivre had also been prominent in local charities.

Tell Prospectors Watch For Iron

TORONTO, March 6 (CP) — Canadian prospectors Monday were advised to keep an eye open for new iron ore finds.

The advice came from W. L. C. Greer ,resident geologist at Port Arthur of the Ontario Mines Department who addresses the annual convention of the Prospectors and Developers Association.

In his opinion, he sated, there now are oportunities far exceeding those of any preceding period.

E. O. Chisholm, resident geologist at Kenora, told the convention that the Newlund-Sioux area, District of Kenora, in Northwestern Ontario, has. within the last few months, become one of the most actively-explored areas in the province.

This followed underground development at the property of Newlund Mines, Ltd., and the recent discovery of gold on Neepawa Island, 20 miles to the east.

"In the past year 3,000 claims have been staked and more than 50 mining companies have taken options," he said.

The prospectors and developers, with delegates present from across Canada, Monday opened three days of meetings with election of officers, including re-election of Mrs. Viola MacMillan of Toronto as president, a position she has held since 1944.

Arranges Funeral

HOUSTON, March 6 —(AP)— An hour after he called an undertaker to arrange his own funeral, the owner of a night club was found dead Monday of a shotgun wound. Jerry Simpson Dunivan, 57, was found dead in the garage by a friend. An employee of a funeral home said Dunivan had called and tried to arrange his own funeral. Dunivan had called numerous times before to do the same thing.

Excused By Judge

PITTSBURGH, March 6—(AP) —John Fink, called for criminal court jury service, asked Judge James O'Toole Jr. to be excused. He said he would lose work as a landscaper. "Your work is just beginning now, I know, because I once was a landscaper," Judge O'Toole replied. "So, I'll dismiss you from service.'

Ontario Separate Schools To Get Larger Tax Share

TORONTO, March 6 —(CP)— Ontario Separate Schools will receive a larger share of taxation under a new interpretation of the Ontario Separate School Act of 1863 handed down Monday by the Ontario Court of Appeal.

The new interpretation, which hinges on the words "resides" and "site," was handed down on an appeal by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tytgat of Colchester North Township, against their assessment as Public School taxpayers.

The court's ruling concerned section 56 of the act which states that "no person shall be deemed a supporter of a Separate School unless he resides within three miles of a direct line on the site of the schoolhouse."

The Appeal Court ruled that measurements may be taken from any point within the property on which a building is located. The courts had previously held that the distance must be measured from the school building to the taxpayer's residence.

Since there are more than 500 Separate Schools in rural areas in the province, with an enrollment of more than 20,000 students, it is expected a number of borderline cases will be affected. The court's ruling also applies to cities, but is rarely applicable as urban taxpayers usually live within three miles of a Stparate School.

A Plea For Canadians To Be Themselves

The British writer J. B. Priestley, now visiting Canada, spoke from a Toronto C.B.C. station Sunday evening and made a friendly but strong plea for Canadians to consciously develop their own social and cultural character. The population of Canada is now greater than the combined populations of the Scandinavian countries; there are therefore more Canadians than there are Danes, Swedes and Norwegians, Mr. Priestley remarked, yet he has found in this country too little that he can recognize as uniquely Canadian. He warned that despite a country's potential for greatness it can never become great unless it has a strong, native culture. Without a culture of her own Canada will be flabby and eventually must give way before the assault of the United States.

Such a warning as this comes with great force from a visitor like Mr. Priestley. He has put his finger on our greatest weakness. To be thoroughly British is a good thing for a Briton; to be thoroughly American is good for an American, but copies of either are dross. Mr. Priestley was not arguing that Canada should counter the strong American influences by importing more British books, music, plays and actors. He urged Canadians to look to themselves, to bring back to Canada the hundreds of its ablest writers, artists, musicians, historians and scholars who have been lured from their native land and to provide them with the incomes and opportunities they need. He urged Canadians to continually impress on their governments, local provincial and federal, the essential importance to Canada's strength of a Canadian way of life, of Canadian thought, in short, of culture. If Canada, so rich in material things and in skilled men of science and industry and commerce, has not enough native sons to paint the Canadian scene in colour, words, music, and to interpret Canadian character in history and philosophy, let Canada import a planeload of artists and scholars, Mr. Priestley suggested.

Canada must know what it is, what it has been, and in what direction it is heading. It can know this only through its artists and historians and philosophers. If a casual, keen-eyed visitor cannot discern a Canadian culture it is time we did something to make it manifest. It is no excuse to say that Canada is a growing nation and has not had time to develop its culture. Give us time, people may say. There is no time; if we cannot develop a native, characteristic culture which is Canadian, Canada cannot endure, despite its minerals, its industrial and agricultural wealth, and its hard-working people busily and ably increasing its material store. What is the body without a backbone? What is flesh without spirit?

"O God! O Montreal!"

A Canadian sculptor named Robert Roussil has shocked Montreal with a seven-foot statue called 'Peace'. It is not the subject which is causing an outcry but the artist's symbols of it: a dove and a male and female nude. It is a big piece of work and mounted on a big pedestal, so the sculpted group is on view outside the art gallery, instead of inside. Unless the statuary is taken indoor and hidden from public view the police will take action against the gallery's owner.

The complainants against the work say it is a "sexy statue". Montreal, despite its cosmopolitan and artistic pretensions is, it seems, still the Montreal of seventy-three years ago. Then nude statues were called 'vulgar,' as Samuel Butler heard when he discovered a copy of the famed Greek figure, the Discobolus, banished to the museum's storeroom. The museum's custodian explained to Butler that the statue was "rather vulgar."

Stowed away in a Montreal lumber room
The Discobolus standeth and turneth his face to the wall;
Dusty, cobweb-covered, maimed and set at naught,
Beauty crieth in an attic and no man regardeth:
O God! O Montreal!

"The Discobolus is put here because he is vulgar—
He has neither vest nor pants with which to cover his limbs;
I, Sir, am a person of most respectable connections—
My brother-in-law is haberdasher to Mr. Spurgeon."
O God! O Montreal!

"Preferrest thou the gospel of Montreal to the gospel of Hellas,
The gospel of the connection with Mr. Spurgeon's haberdashery to the gospel of the Discobolus?"
Yet none the less blasphemed he beauty saying, "The Discobolus has no gospel,
But my brother-in-law is haberdasher to Mr. Spurgeon."
O God! O Montreal!

Today Canada's largest city has a law which forbids displaying nude or semi-nude statues, and an artist's interpretation of 'Peace' is harried by the police. Montreal still stands in need of Samuel Butler's "Psalm."

Mrs. Green's Recitals

Last night, from station CHEX, Mrs. Agnes Logan Green played the last of a series of eight recitals which she has broadcast this winter, sponsored by this newspaper. We are happy to have made it possible for large numbers of people to hear Mrs. Green, a musical artist of whom Peterborough may well be proud. This newspaper considers it an honour to have been associated with such a series of recitals, and it is a matter of keen gratification to us that in Mrs. Green and the Coventry Singers (heard in a similar series before Christmas) Peterborough has musicians worthy of the attention of an informed audience anywhere in Canada.

For a variety of good reasons it is not possible for this newspaper to present every able musician in Peterborough on the radio. However, the newspaper is strongly conscious of its duty toward the musical life of the city, and we hope that it is clear from our broadcasts that we do not consider that our function stops short at criticism alone.

Is Peterborough To Have A Summer Theatre?

A letter which appears elsewhere on this page today, from the manager of the Summer Theatre, brings up the question of whether or not the Summer Theatre will be able to continue its productions in Peterborough this year. The Board of Education, because of a complaint from one of the neighbours of the Queen Mary School Auditorium, has refused to rent that theatre to the players again and has offered the P.C.V.S. auditorium instead. For reasons which appear in his letter, Mr. Sadlier considers that alternative dangerous from a business point of view, and considers taking his company of actors elsewhere.

We find it hard to believe that the Board of Education was forced to deny the auditorium to the Summer Theatre because of the complaint of one taxpayer; it seems almost as though the Board were looking for an excuse to get rid of the Summer Theatre. Why? Has it been a bad tenant? If there are any reasons which have not yet been made public, let us hear them.

If, however, it was a single complaint which brought about the Board's decision, let us examine that side of the affair. It appears that there has been threat of injunction against the Board for maintaining a nuisance; this is a serious matter, for if renting the auditorium to the Summer Theatre constitutes a nuisance, renting it to any other group must constitute a nuisance too, and the auditorium has been closed forever—by a single complaint. The auditorium cost a great deal of taxpayers' money, and if the taxpayers cannot use it there has been some serious mismanagement somewhere. Surely such an elaborate auditorium was not built for the simple purpose of a school assembly hall?

There are two thousand people in Peterborough who were fairly regular attendants at the Summer Theatre, as Mr. Sadlier points out. Is one complaint to outweigh their wishes in this matter? If there are other complainers, let us hear from them; let us know who they are; if their inconvenience is very great, let us know its nature. Something which gives pleasure to so many people for ten weeks during the summer should not be snuffed out of existence by an unnumbered and anonymous group of protesters.

The Board of Education controls, in Queen Mary Auditorium, the finest public hall in Peterborough; the Board controls that hall as a body elected by the people of Peterborough. If the auditorium cannot be used for the Summer Theatre, which has proven its popularity, for what purposes can it be used? Can it be used by the public at all? And who controls the rental of it—the people's elected representatives, or the neighbours?

We feel that this is a matter of the keenest interest to the people of Peterborough, and in particular to those who have to remain in the city for all but a fortnight each summer. Our columns are open to discussion of both sides of the subject.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Mrs. Jean Mann, a Labour M.P. in Britain, wants to prohibit nail polish for women by law. Well, they've dealt with steel and railways, and the habits of women should not be beyond their range.

The average age of Ontario farm-owners, on their own testimony, is 60. And their average yearly income, also according to their own testimony, is $13.36, with the margarine manufacturers chipping at that.

Korea: Interim Balance Sheet

by
SEBASTIAN HAFFNER

GENERAL OMAR BRADLEY, Chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, stated this week that America has now 250,000 men in Korea. This means that the American forces in Korea must have been increased by nearly 100,000 men in the last three months, which in turn implies a definite and solid American decision to see the Korean war through to a successful conclusion at any cost.

APART from the Americans there are known to be about 50,000 other United Nation troops as well as 200,000 South Korean troops fighting in Korea. Altogether, therefore, the Allied forces number about 500,000 men. The Chinese and North Koreans are estimated at about 1,006,000 men together—about the maximum number that can be maintained by them in central Korea. Under existing conditions of supply and communication the enemy's two-to-one superiority in manpower is more than offset by U.N. superiority in firepower and complete domination of the air.

THESE figures suggest that barring full-scale Russian intervention, which would mean world war, a local defeat of the U.N. in Korea is now a prospect which can be ruled out; stalemate seems the worst that could be expected. On the other hand, these figures show that one can no longer speak of Korea as a minor war. It is a major war; considering that America is still in the first tooling-up stage of her remobilization, her effort of keeping 250,000 men fighting at a distance of over 5,000 miles from their home base, and simultaneously keeping another 250,000 Allied troops supplied over the same distance, must be tremendous.

NO exact figures of the cost of this effort are available, but they must run into billions of dollars. Moreover, the 250,000 men in Korea represent at the moment the great majority of America's fully trained regular troops. America has at the moment only 97,000 men in continental Europe of whom probably less than half are fully trained, equipped and organized divisional fighting troops. The Korean effort leaves only 100,000 more men (four divisions) to be spared for Europe in 1951, and for the security of Japan America has to fall back on two National Guard (Territorial) divisions.

AT first glance, thereafter, it looks as if the Korean balance sheet shows against the present local and tactical success a grave global-strategical unbalance. True, the Russo-Chinese-North Korean plot for the conquest of all Korea is being foiled; U.N. authority and the principle of collective security against aggression is upheld and enhanced; and the South Koreans, who, whatever the faults of their present Government, have shown conclusively that they do not want Communist liberation by fleeing in their millions from their liberators, are saved from the worst.

ON the other hand, European defence is not being built up as quickly as it could be without the Korean diversion, and other important areas like the Middle East have for the time being to be left almost undefended.

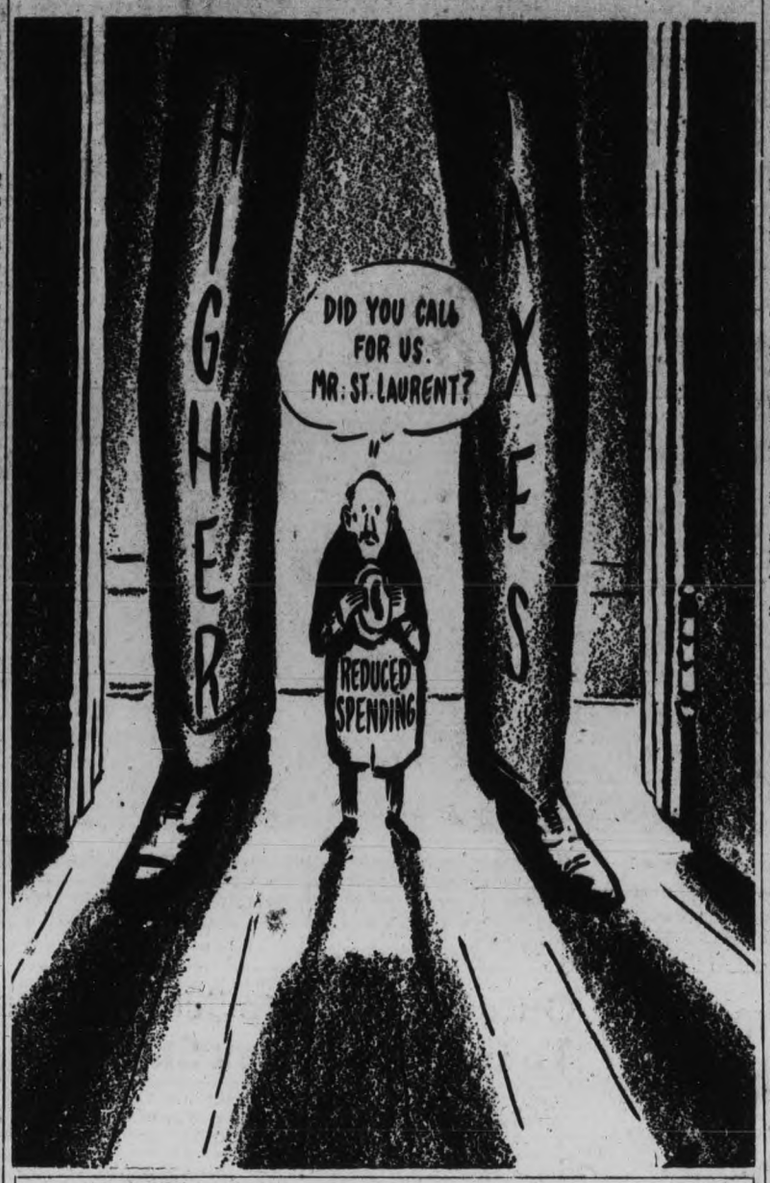
BUT this is still not the whole picture. In the opinion of Washington the following further positive factors have to be set against the drawbacks indicated.

1. Korea does not only tie down American forces but also Chinese forces. The effort to maintain and supply close to a million men in Korea leaves little Chinese surplus strength for an invasion of Formosa or an intervention in Indo-China. Both of these, it is believed here, were planned last summer; neither has materialized so far. Once established in Indo-China Chinese armies might have easily overrun Thailand (Siam) and linked up with Chinese Communist guerrillas in Malaya. All these dangers are for the time being forstalled by the Chinese commitment in Korea.

2. Against American losses in Korea must be set the gain of valuable experience. The American army learned, for example, that its standard bazooka of July 1950 was powerless against Russian standard T.34 tanks while a somewhat larger model can destroy them. They have also learned many new tactical lessons, both in land warfare and in land-air co-operation, which are now reflected in changed training programmes. Finally, the American troops engaged in Korea, who started the war as raw beginners, are now experienced veterans. General Bradley announced on Monday that the American services will soon begin to rotate troops in Korea, obviously not only for reasons of fairness but also to spread fighting experience throughout their forces.

3. The Korean war has provided the impetus for American and indirectly West European rearmament and for the speeding-up of the North Atlantic defence programme for Europe. While it is true that Korea leaves only four American divisions to be spared for Europe in 1951 there would not even be four divisions available for the purpose without the American remobilization effort which Korea has touched off. Nor would there be an Eisenhower command, a 10 billion dollar military aid programme, and a British and French rearmament.



4. If Korea had been evacuated when the Chinese intervened last November, the American public demand for retaliation against China by other means—bombing, blockade or even invasion in alliance with Chiang Kai-shek—would have become irresistible. This would have meant a far greater diversion from Atlantic and Middle Eastern defence than the war in Korea and it would in all probability have meant total war with China.

AS it is, hope has not been abandoned in responsible Washington quarters that local frustration or defeat in Korea may have a sufficiently sobering effect on the Chinese Communist Government to make them reconsider their present all-out alignment with Russia which has landed them in his mess, and to make them wish to avoid further foreign adventures. If this should come to pass, a negotiated peace would become possible, and the Korean war would prove to have been not the opening gambit in a general Asiatic war, but the substitute for one.

(Special to The Examiner from the London Observer.)

THE LONG AND SHORT OF IT

Letters To The Editor

NO MORE SUMMER THEATRE

Sir: I enclose a copy of a letter which I have addressed to the Peterborough Board of Education, hoping that you will make it public. I do this because I feel that the many friends of the Summer Theatre in Peterborough and the surrounding district should know what action I have taken in this matter, so that if it is impossible for the Summer Theatre to return to Peterborough this summer there will be no mystery about it. We would play in the P.C.V.S. auditorium if we felt that we could do so successfully, but I feel that the risk may be more than we can undertake. Having made our reputation in a charming and intimate theatre, where the audience enjoys great comfort and easy access to the outdoors, we would undoubtably suffer, and perhaps severely, by this change.

I assure you that it is with the deepest regret that I approach a decision on this matter. The Summer Theatre has drawn average audiences of 1,700 people a week; sometimes the numbers have mounted to 2,300. We are delighted to have given pleasure to so many people every week. The Canadian Theatre is growing rapidly and powerfully, and the Peterborough Summer Theatre has not been the least progressive unit of it. Circumstances over which I have no control, but which I believe are known to your readers, have closed the Queen Mary auditorium to us, and to the large numbers who make up our audiences.

This is particularly unfortunate because I may say, from a wide experience of auditoriums in Ontario, that the Queen Mary auditorium is the most beautiful, intimate and best-suited to theatre purposes of them all. I congratulate the ratepayers of Peterborough upon having built it. I am only sorry that they are not permitted full use of it.

With thanks to the many friends of the Summer Theatre for what I fear it may be necessary to describe as "past favours", I am,

Yours faithfully,
MICHAEL SADLIER.

(Mr. Sadlier's Letter to The Board of Education)

Board of Education,
Peterborough, Ontario.

Dear Sirs: The news which you have conveyed to me that you cannot rent the Queen Mary Auditorium to the Summer Theatre for the 1951 season comes, I must confess, as a severe blow. The company of which I am the head has worked hard there for two years, and has established a good reputation: some able Toronto and Montreal critics have been kind enough to describe the Peterborough Summer Theatre as the best of its kind in Canada.

I appreciate your consideration in offering me the P.C.V.S. auditorium in exchange. Hówever, my experience of that auditorium does not convince me that the Summer Theatre could continue its successful career there. It can be very uncomfortable in hot weather, and it is up a flight of stairs, which I fear might be a strong factor against it in the eyes of some of our older patrons. It is not to be expected that our audience would fill it, or even fill the centre section of it, for six nights a week, and actors know that nothing discourages future attendance like a poorly filled house.

Indeed, I fear that a move to the P.C.V.S. auditorium might mark the beginning of the decline of what has until now been a most successful project. I am doubtful as to whether I would be justified in taking such a risk, which involves not only myself but eighteen other actors and theatre workers who are engaged with me in the attempt to establish a native Canadian Theatre. I cannot at present make up my mind as to whether or not I should abandon the Peterborough project, and begin the work of establishing a Summer Theatre elsewhere.

Thanking you for the consideration which you have given me in this matter, I am,

Yours faithfully,
MICHAEL SADLIER.

PETERBOROUGH'S FEDERAL BUILDING

Sir: Rumour has it that plans are being drawn for Peterborough's Federal Building to house all government agencies and that it will also be used as a school to instruct employees of the Postal Branch of the Federal Government.

Our city has been clamouring for a postal or federal building ever since land was purchased on George and Sherbrooke Sts. some forty years ago. This site was (during the "30's") considered unsuitable and numerous locations were considered, a purchase finally being made on Charlotte and Louis Sts. One of the requirements stipulated at that time was that, ingress and egress must be available from two streets to avoid congestion.

It is generally conceded that public buildings erected in a commercial or business district reduce the potential business in that district and divert it elsewhere. Charlotte St. being one of the city's main thoroughfares and essentially a street given over to or developed by smaller business organizations will eventually come under this diversion and consumer traffic will be diverted rather than attracted to it by the addition of a federal building of considerable size.

Since the inclusion of a school is contemplated, will not this further reduce the commercial possibilities to say nothing of increasing traffic problems, parking during day time, and the slowing down rather than speeding up of vehicular traffic on Charlotte St.?

It is submitted that the number of people in the city having occcasion to visit or use the Federal building are limited in number compared to the total and therefore the site does not need to be central as may have been the case when the presently occupied Post Office and Customs House was erected.

It is open to question whether the ultimate size of our city was visualized when the Charlotte St. site was purchased; and does the site permit of future expansion should the need arise? This is also questionable.

If the above be true, and realizing that the opening of negotiations with the Federal Government at this time might result in creating:

1. Further delaying the building.
2. Possible political controversy.
3. A delay, causing increased costs—the following suggestions or plan is submitted as a means of further beautifying the city and solving (ultimately) one of our current problems—the Memorial Centre.

1. Since the Charlotte St. site was procured, growth and changes in the City of Peterborough suggest that the location of the Federal Building be changed. Serious consideration should be given to erecting it on all, or a portion of the north side of McDonnel St. west of George St. and east of Aylmer St. The city would then have the park bounded by the new City Hall, the Library, the Collegiate, the Armouries, Murray St. Church, the Y.M.C.A.—all more or less permanent structures.

2. If the above is acceptable, secure a release of the Charlotte St. site to the city with the provision that the city provide the McDonnel site to be available when necessary. If a delay should arise in the construction of the federal project, arrange for income from the buildings on the new site to accrue to the benefit of the city, as an offset to the cost of procuring the land.

3. The city having secured the Charlotte St. site should undertake to designate the site for the erection of the Memorial Centre. Should a greater land area be required for the Centre, purchase the houses on the west side of Louis St. and close the street. If the Memorial Centre project should be unduly delayed, the site on Charlotte St. could be rented for parking space until required for Centre purposes.

A great many may say: such a plan will cost a lot of money and the city or rather the citizens are already faced with large capital expenditures. This is probably true, but had the Centre been built on the eastern end of Hunter St. in 1943, the building would now be in operation and its cost then would have been substantially less than what its present or future cost will amount to, and it would have been producing revenue for the past six years.

The Centre located on Charlotte St. will be central; it can be constructed without detracting from the Memorial intent, by providing commercial space to rent, and ultimately the Centre as a revenue producing property will provide funds for use in the city's current recreational plans or the expansion of these in the years to come.

The suggestions put forward above must be viewed with long term consideration and it would appear that if the idea is sound no time should be lost in getting concerted action under way.

It is submitted that if the citizens are in accord with such a plan, ways and means can be found to make the plan feasible and operative. A presentation and request to Ottawa should be started now by our Council if the taxpayers are in agreement, together with the many associations throughout our city who will benefit and in particular the benefits that will accrue to the youth of tomorrow, our future citizens.

Perhaps Mr. Editor, your readers would care to express their opinions through the medium of these columns, and such views might serve the purpose of starting a plan of action.

Yours,
A TAXPAYER.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. For by it the elders obtained a good report. (Heb. 11:1,2.)

Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God. (Heb. 12:1,2.)

For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God. . . For we are his workmanship created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them . . .

Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens with the saints, and of the household of God: and are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone. (Eph. 2:8, 10, 19, 20.)

Vatican Scientists Trying To Identify Bones In Tomb

By PATRICK CROSSE

VATICAN CITY —(Reuters)— A small pile of human bones, nearly 2,000 years old, lies in a chapel next to the Pope's private library in the Vatican palace.

They were found within a few feet of the rough stone casket unearthed directly under the high altar of the Basilica of Saint Peter. The Pope has announced this grave to be without doubt that of the first apostle and first Pope.

Despite considerable pressure from some of the archaeologists who discovered the tomb, the Pope did not at the same time announce that the bones were those of Saint Peter.

Instead, he ordered them to be transferred to the little chapel flanking his private apartments in the Vatican Palace, where they are being carefully studied by scientists.

Although the greatest secrecy is maintained about these studies, it is understood that experts are first trying to establish their sex.

If they can definitely be identified as the bones of a man, and if their age can be fixed at approximately 1,900 years, then the evidence for their being the bones of St. Peter will have been greatly increased.

Rifled By Saracens

The fact that they were not found in the stone casket of the apostle's grave, but lying nearby, is easily accounted for. There is ample evidence that the tomb was rifled by the Saracens in the Sack of Rome in 846. When they grabbed the precious offerings strewed on it, they almost certainly broke open the casket.

But it is not known whether the Vatican scientists and archaeologists will even be able to show with absolute certainty, as in the case of the tomb itself, that the bones actually are those of the Prince of the Apostles.

All the evidence collected on the subject is expected to be made known to the world some time this year, when the Vatican publishes the findings of the archaeologists who carried out the 10-year task of unearthing the apostle's tomb.

These findings were originally expected to be published during the 1950 Holy Year. But it was only on the last day of the Holy Year, on Christmas Eve, that Pope Pius announced, "Yes, the tomb of the Prince of the Apostles has been found."

The publication of the archaeologists' findings will probably not be ordered by the Pope until the scientists have completed their examination of the little pile of bones in the third-floor Vatican chapel.

New Drug Store To Open On Charlotte St.

Fifty prizes worth a total of $300 will be drawn for during the three-day opening of the Parkway Pharmacy, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Prizes will include make-up kits, shaving and hair brushes, pen and pencil sets, and large boxes of candy. Ten prizes will be drawn for at 10 p.m. Thursday and Friday nights, and 20 prizes will be drawn for at the same time Saturday night.

Co-owners of the new drug store are Murray Irwin and Bert O. McLeod, both familiar figures to customers of their stores on Hunter Street East and Park Street.

Self-Service Counters

The new store is located on the premises of the old Fitzpatrick & Geraghty grocery on the north-east corner of Charlotte and Park Streets. It has been completely modernized. The front half of the store will contain mostly self-service counters. At the back is a modern open dispensary.

Manager will be Donald Irving, a graduate in 1949 of the University of Toronto's Pharmacy School. Since his graduation, he has been working with Murray Irwin in Ashburnahm. Don, who is from Hamilton, spent some time in the RCAF during World War II.

For two years Don has been lecturing in pharmocology to the nurses-in-training at St. Joseph's Hospital here.

RCNVR Veteran

Muray Irwin, a World War II RCNVR veteran, started in the druggist business with Mr. McLeod in 1938, served his apprenticeship and graduated from U. of T. in 1943. In 1942 and 1943 he won the John Roberts Scholarship for general proficiency.

For two years after graduation, he was in the Navy, doing research work at the Banting Institute. In 1945, he started his own drug store in Ashburnham, and since then has been a member of the Recreation Commission and is now a member of the Board of Education.

Mr. McLeod has been in the drug business in Peterborough for 20 years. At first, he came to this city to play hockey, went from here to Kansas City where he played professional hockey, and finally returned.

His first store was on George Street, and later he moved to 55 Park Street North, where his own business still is. In the years he spent on Park Street, he has remodelled and enlarged his store several times.

Remanded Week

TORONTO, March 6 (CP). — Mrs. Marie Lopees Monday was remanded a week on a charge of murder, laid following the fatal stabbing of her husband. Paraplegic Vet Justice Of Peace

TORONTO —(CP)— A paraplegic veteran of the Second World War was sworn in recently as the first justice of the peace at Ajax, 20 miles east of here. Kenneth Spence, 29, married and with one daughter, has been operating a stationery supply shop from his wheel-chair.

Mr. Spence joined the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals in 1939 and was wounded in Germany in 1945—nine days before the end of the war—when a land mine exploded under his jeep. In hospital for days, Mr. Spence lay in a coma unable to speak or move.

"They thought I was a goner," he said. "I clearly remember being anointed by a priest."

He attributes his recovery to three things—the will of God, medical skill of Dr. A. T. Jousse of Lyndhurst Lodge, and willpower. While at Lyndhurst, where the doctor is superintendent, Spence regained his spirit and the use of the upper part of his body.

"I owe Dr. Jousse just about everything," the grinning veteran said.

Someday he hopes to be able to walk again.

Turn Down Plan

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP) —The Senate Monday turned down a proposal to set the minimum draft age at 18½ years but approved increasing the term of service from 21 to 24 months. At present men from 19 to 26 are subject to induction and must serve 21 months.

WANTED!

EVERY HOUSEHOLDER In Peterborough To SAVE PAPER For Official Boy Scout PAPER DRIVE ON TUESDAY, APRIL 10

Canadian Pulp and Paper Association

2279 SUN LIFE BUILDING — MONTREAL, CANADA
R. M. FOWLER,
President.

Major-General Dan C. Spry, C.B.E., D.S.O.,
Chief Executive Commissioner,
The Boy Scouts Association,
306 Metcalfe Street,
Ottawa, Ontario.

Dear General Spry:

A few years ago The Boy Scouts Association of Canada in co-operation with the Canadian Pulp and Paper Industry achieved remarkable success in collecting waste paper which is a very important raw material in the manufacture of shipping cases, wallboard, roofing material and a host of other products.

Today, Canada is faced with a new and urgent need to prepare her defences and we are now embarked on a large programme of defence preparedness. This programme calls for additional supplies of packaging and building material for which waste paper must be obtained. In addition, Canadian industry is being asked to supply much needed civilian products to meet the demand for a higher standard of living all over the world. At the paper mills of Canada, waste paper supplies are at dangerously low levels and more is needed if the industry is to meet the combined demands of the defence programme and civilian requirements.

Once again the Pulp Industry of Canada is asking your co-operation as Chief Executive Commissioner of Canada to enlist the help of the Boy Scouts in the collection of waste paper with special concentrated effort during the balance of this year and the first six months of 1951.

The consumption of one ton of waste paper saves approximately one cord of wood. Trees are one of Canada's greatest natural resources and any contribution to their conservation is a worthy one indeed. The Boy Scouts of Canada can play a leading role in this respect particularly during the present emergency, and your co-operation to this end will be greatly appreciated.

Yours sincerely,

Ron Fowler
President.

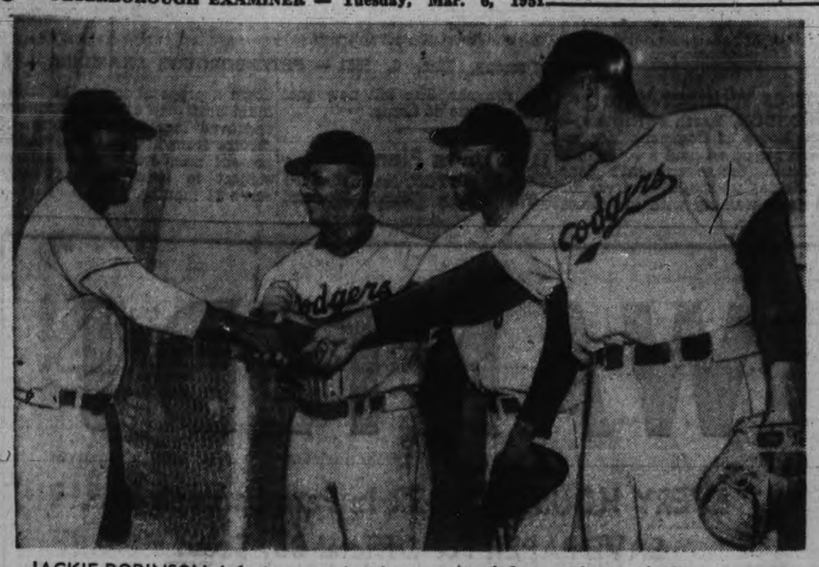
MRS. LENN SPEIGHT, BEDFORD, N.S.
"It's amazing how New Lux saves wear and tear. My sheets used to 'go' so fast but since I've been using New Lux in my washing machine they're lasting much longer."



MRS. GEORGE F. DYSON, VICTORIA, B.C.
"My shirts and sheets couldn't be whiter and they're just not fraying and tearing the way they used to. And New Lux doesn't cost a penny more than what I used before in my washing machine."

Why "beat up" your good shirts and sheets every washday when they come whiter, last longer washed only 10 minutes in New Jet-Power Lux? With New Lux you save half the tumbling and twisting, half the wear and tear.

Washing tests of all leading washday soaps used in Canadian homes show positively: New Lux in the washing machine gets white wash whiter in 10 minutes than any other washday product in 20 minutes. And, more important still, shirts, sheets, towels and table linens washed with New Lux wear better, last months longer. Start using Lux in your washing machine now.

Costs less to use — you get more soap than in any other washday product

Petes Go One Up On Series Beating Kingston By 7 To 2

The Petes turned back Kingston Nylons 7-3 here last night to go up one game in their best-of-five OHA senior "B" playoff series to declare an Allan Cup contender. Each squad had previously won on home ice, the fourth fray being in Kingston on Wednesday and the fifth, if necessary here on Friday.

It was a fairly fast and generally clean contest till out in the third when the opponents started roughing it up, though few penalties were called. The Petes drew all five in the game, two of them misconducts in the third to Jack Davison and Chum Fryia for criticizing Referee Jim Crombie. Several fights threatened, but no real damage was done. The visitors used sub-goalie Stone—with Udall a flu victim—and he turned in a good effort. The score was 2-2 in the first frame and 6-2 going into the even third chukker.

Jake Got Three

Jake Wade scored three goals for the Petes with Gus Leonard having a pair, and Drake Jopling and Ron Horton one apiece. Four assists were garnered by Arn Dugan, Chum Fryia aiding on two markers, and Honey Tompkins, Ron Horton and Gus Leonard one each. Joey Catlin counted two goals for the visitors, Watts getting the other, as an assist apiece wen to Aitken, Joyce, Murphy, Gerow and Partis. The Petes played without Garvey and West, the former injured in Kingston and the latter ill.

Wade scored early on a corner passout from Dugan, and a bit later Horton made it 2-0 on two forward passes by Tompkins and Dugan with nice finish. Dugan hit the post on another, and then the Nylons battled back with Watts tipping in one on a combination play near the goal-mouth with Aitken and Joyce. Davison drew a high-sticking penalty but was back when Kingston tied it up as Catlin zoomed around defence with Murphy's pass to blast the disc into the twine in fast stepping.

Cost A Goal

Plumb drew a penalty in the second for holding and it cost a goal as Gus Leonard tore in hard to slap home Fryia's rebound with Goalie Stone down on the ice. It was hot up-and-down hockey for a space with each net-minder in turn on the jump, and play quite clean. Fryia was thefted and then Gus Leonard hit the mark in close on a corner passout after a play was built up by Horton and Fryia. Wade made it 5-2 shortly when Dugan fought back around the net to slip out the biscuit to his waiting mate who blasted it fast into the oven. Wade got another on Dugan's rebound near the close on a partial breakaway with Nylons pressing. Davison was gated for high-sticking them.

Stiff checking marked the third heat and lots of arguments with the referees. Catlin took a forward pass on a play with Gerow and Partis to tear in with but one man to beat and he made no mistake. Tompkins got the nod for tripping but was back and nearly tallied on Stone, who made a swell save lying down. Davison drew a misconduct when a fight threatened for arguing, and Fryia was chased shortly for riding the referee from the bench. It kept hot and rough the rest of the way, with the Petes having a good margin on play the final five minutes and peppering Stone. Jopling finally got one by him when his slap shot on a corner passout from Gus Leonard caught a corner of the cage. Teams:

Nylons: Goal, Stone; defence, Murphy and Watts; centre, Partis; wings, Catlin and Gerow; alternates, McKeown, Joyce, Aitken, Armstrong, Harrison, Potts, Plumb and Patterson.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Horton and Tompkins; centre, Dugan; wings, Wade and Mason; alternates, G. Mason, Fryia, J. Mortimer, Floyd, Collins, Davison, E. Leonard, Jopling and G. Leonard.

Referees J. Crombie and A. Bellemer.

Lakefield Ties Series Against Warsaw, 7-5

LAKEFIELD, March 6 ((ENS)—The Lakefield Merchants turned back Warsaw Flyers 7-5 here last night for their first win in three starts of the best-of-five EPHL semi-finals. It was a fast, fairly clean tussle before a good-sized crowd of fans, the ice held-up well.

Warsaw took a 3-2 lead in the first with Smoth scoring twice from L. Lonsberry and the latter getting another from Patterson. Knox and Chittick counted for the Merchants, Sloan, Wilford and R. Colbarry each earning an assist. Lakefield slapped in three in the second, Sloan scoring two and Chittick one, as Knox got an assist. L. Lonsberry tallied from Patterson for the other side. Evans hit the twine in the third for Warsaw, but Hamblin and P. Calberry clinched matters for the home team.

Lakefield — Goal, Blake; defence, Hamblin, P. Calberry; centre, Chittick; wings, Hockaday, Dunford; alternates, Coons, Knox, Sloan, Wilford, R. Calberry, Morrison, Dracup.

Referees— Romhany and Leggitt.

Lakefield Victors

LAKEFIELD, March 6 (ENS).—Lakefield beat Havelock 7-3 to take their OMHA juvenile round 14-5. They now meet Elmira or Powassan in the semi-finals. In the first period, Twist and Heffernan scored on an assist each from Henry and McCracken. The latter got two and Twist and Heffernan one each in the second, with the latter player and Coyle each aiding once. Twist scored from Coyle in the third. B. Laing got two and Chase one for Havelock, as J. Laing and Ruttan each earned an assist. Teams:

Havelock — Goal, Drummond; defence, Kumpf, Pollock; centre, B. Laing; wings, Pollock, J. Laing; alternates, Ruttan, Heath, Chase, Bales, McCabe, Thompson, Smith, Patterson.

Lakefield — Goal, Wingett; defence, Sabatino, Pearson; centre, McCracken; wings, Pue, Heffernan; alternates, Spencer, Henry, Hunter, Wilson, Coyle, Twist, Darling, Brown.

Referees—Nigh and Hamilton.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A copy to hand of a recent program put out by Hershey of the American Hockey League. It starts off: "The subject of the sketch in this program is Hershey's flashy young centre, George (Red) Sullivan, team's top scorer for the season. His consistent play as a scorer and playmaker, as well as his continuous hustle all the time, has caused favorable comment throughout the entire AHL all season. Red is 21 years old and moved up from St. Catharines, a junior team, right into the big time with Boston Bruins. But he was still 19 and it was deemed necessary to give him a chance to absorb more knowledge of the game the way the pros play it."

* * * * * *

The Ashburnham redhead, who started OHA junior "B" play with Lakefield, and then with the Oddfellows here ere going to "A" company in St. Kitts, says his greatest thrill was the "hat trick" he performed in 1949 Memorial Cup playoffs. He scored three goals in two and a half minutes against Oshawa as St. Kitts won 8-5. George returns to Peterborough each summer to play baseball and softball—his softballers winning city honors last year. There's some talk of him going out with the senior ball-playing Petes this summer. He is a fine infielder and has pitched quite a bit of minor ball, too.

* * * * * *

PMHA-ers Roll Along

There's sorrow in minor puck circles around Kingston and Bella Villa—and Oshawa previously—since our three PMHA clubs rubbed out all Central Ontario opposition to go into the OMHA semi-finals. Knocked Oshawa entries out first, then the midget Marines ousted Kingston, while the bantam McGillis Eaglets and juvenile IOOF-ers pushed Quinte crews into the discard. Juves will play St. Catharines or Weston in semi-finals, midgets tackle St. Kitts, Barrie or Toronto, while the bantams go against Barrie or Toronto—we believe the former. Maybe ere column's end, we'll have the latest info.

* * * * * *

Next senior "B" puck playoff here is tomorrow eve at 8.30 when Belleville Redmen tangle with Eagles in the third of their best-of-five OHA group semi-finals. Loser in the series hangs up kit for the season while the winner goes into group finals against the team which loses out in that series betwixt Petes and Nylons. Latter teams meet in their third fray tomorrow in the Limestone City. Not much time left, folks, to see these playoff games as the sawoffs are on in earnest. Don't pass up the remaining jousts this week and next, as there may be a long, quiet spring with little or no hockey seen up this way.

* * * * * *

Eagles Claw Redmen

Mick Magee's scrappy Eagles clawed out a nice 9-4 win right in Belleville last night to even up that semi-final series at a game each. Don't think both those clubs won't be hustling in the third one here on the morrow! Eagles returned to form to earn this one and again showed some of that old fighting spirit in dumping the cocky Redmen before the home crowd. Bill Crowley doesn't believe in waiting around to score, he'd just as soon get a hat full in the first few minutes. Joe Rochetta and Doug Mortimer are others with the same idea. The Eagles' defence was in stalwart form to bounce the Reds all over the pond, and Ross Nicholls was very tough to beat in his twine tepee. A win Wednesday for Eagles would give them a nice edge and pretty well start the Quinte crew on the skids.

* * * * * *

Those Kingston Nylons rather irritate a person. They play hockey until they see they're well beaten and then they try to rough it up—that is away from home. They always try to rough it up on home ice, figuring (and rightly) that many refs are really "homers" at heart and listen to the crowd. Though the Petes didn't figure Referee Jim Crombie a "homer" here last eve—as he gave them all the five penalties, two of 'em misconducts. It was a fair game, plenty exciting in the third frame but the Petes earned the 7-3 win all the way. Jake Wade's return helped a lot, he, Dugan and Gus Leonard being potent on the attack. Don Floyd was another hard worker, but they all hustled. They could wind it up in Kingston on the morrow but, if not, they'll have to do it here Friday for sure.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

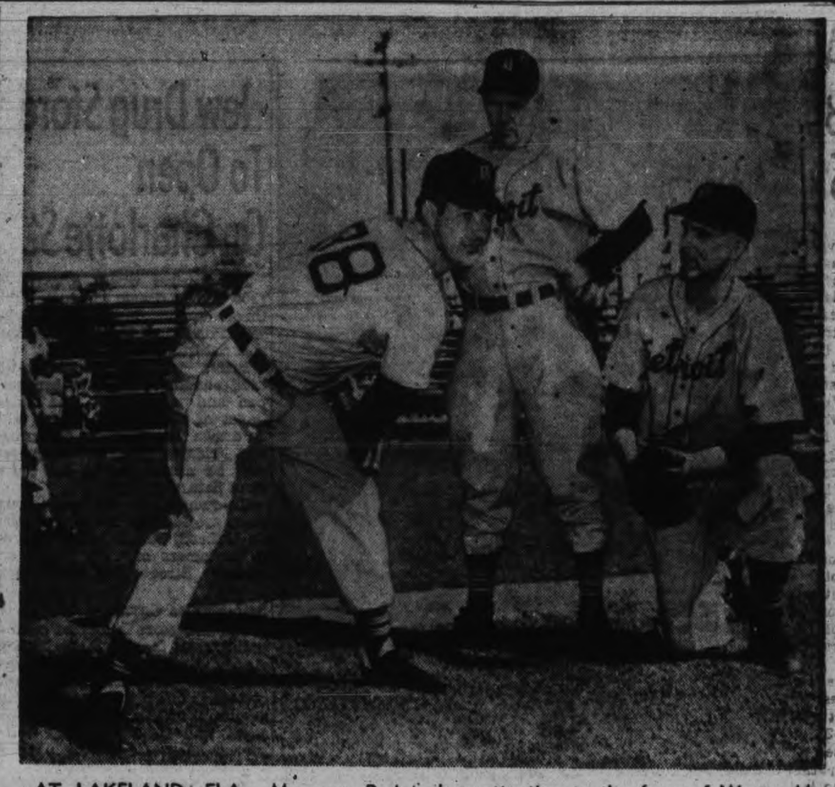
Boston Bruins Monday night recalled defenceman Ed Reigle, one of their farmhands, from their Hershey American Hockey League club.

Reigle will remain with the Bruins until Hay Laycoe rejoins his National Hockey League teammates in about two weeks.

Laycoe, recently acquired from Montreal Canadiens, broke a left instep bone in practice last week.

Detroit Red Wings won a showdown battle 3-1 from the Toronto Maple Leafs Monday night in an expensive way—losing centre Metro Prystai for three weeks.

Prystai, a Red Wing spark plug, suffered a "small fracture" of the upper right leg and will be lost until the playoffs, manager Jack Adams reported.



Adams described the injury as a "shadow fracture." Prystai was hurt in the third period after a hard body check. He'll miss the remainder of the regular season, Adams said.

Montreal fight promoter Dave Castilloux Monday night sent out an appeal for someone to replace Gus Mell, booked to fight Rocky Brisebois here next Monday.

Mell was slated to fight on the same card as Johnny Greco, defending his Canadian welterweight title against Willie Ketchum, but withdrew from his bout with Brisebois because he couldn't get in shape.

NEW COACH—Clem Crowe, 47-year-old Notre Dame star of the 20's and coach of Buffalo Bills from 1946 to 1949, has been signed as coach of the Ottawa Rough Riders in the Big Four Football League. Coming from Baltimore Colts, he succeedes Wally Masters.

AT LAKELAND, FLA.—Manager Red Rolfe (centre) of Detroit Tigers and veteran relief hurler Earl Johnson (right) pay close attention to the form of Wayne McLeland, rookie from Dallas where he racked up 21 wins last season.

Eagles Trounce Redmen To Sew Up Semi-Finals

BELLEVILLE, March 6. — A four-goal explosion in the first three minutes of the game sent the Peterborough Eagles roaring to a 9-4 victory over the Belleville Redmen here last night. The victory tied the semi-final senior "B" series between the squads, the Reds having defeated the Eagles 8-3 in the first battle. The third game of the series will be played in Peterborough on Wednesday night, and the fourth here in Belleville on Friday.

A crowd of 1,643 fans sat almost stunned as the Eagles cut loose with a terrific first period offensive. Four goals rattled past Irvine in the Redmen net in three minutes and 23 seconds before the homesters could find their hockey legs. Crowley batted home the first pair, scoring in 14 seconds of play and adding another 54 seconds later, Coombs banged home Rochetta's pass at 2:37 and D. Mortimer slung home a solo at 4:03.

Doug Got Two

D. Mortimer fired home his second goal at the 15:00 minute mark and the Redshirts broke the egg at 19:12 with Johnny Green hitting the hemp on a line play with Mulvihill and Wardhaugh.

The Reds had an edge in the second period but were outscored 2-1 while the squads broke even on the scoring in the last heat with a brace of goals each.

It was rugged hart-hitting hockey with referees Bill Gleason and Stan Scrutton handing out 14 sentences, eight of them going to the high-flying Eagles. Nicholls, the Peterborough goalie, drew a sentence in the third period when he bumped Vern Goyer as the big forward was going past his net. Greenlaw sat that one out. Fisticuffs threatened to break out momentarily but the officials ruled with a firm hand and nothing of a serious nature occurred.

A Strong Defence

When the homesters finally found their stride, they met a stiff effective Eagle defence with the back-of-the-blueline troops of the birds hitting the Redshirts hard, often and heavy. The homesters were not nearly as effective in front of the Eagles' net as they were last week, and they missed close-in opportunities on several occasions. Goyer, Peter Jones and Ross Mason had what looked like sure goals but with Nicholls in the Eagles' cage coming up with a brilliant performance they were outlucked and outguessed.

The Eagles' passing plays were clicking like castanets and they grabbed every opportunity to race away on breakaway plays as the desperate Reds threw their forces up front in an effort to wipe out that four goal deficit.

Jerry Desjardines, Ross Mason, two Rocket juniors, made their debut in senior hockey last night. Flanking Peter Jones, who was one of the stars of the game, the roughers came through with flying colors and they were one of the best lines out there. Tommy Schreider and Schmidt turned in good efforts offensively but the entire Red defence did not look good at times, especially on that fatal three minutes in the first period. Vern Goyer and Johnny Green shone and deserved a better fate.

Rochetta turned in his usual brilliant performance for the Eagles with Crowley, the Mortimers, Milne and Nicholls in starring roles.

The teams:

Belleville: Goal, Irvine; defence, Bastedo, Schmidt; centre, Wardhaugh; wings, Mulvihill, Green; subs, Desjardins, Mason, Schreiber, Moher, Jones, MacDonald, Goyer, Semark, Tripp...

Eagles: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Burns, Montgomery; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley, Coombs; subs, Hill, E. Mortimer, D. Mortimer, Greenlaw, Milne, Munroe.

Referees: Bill Reason, Stan Scrutton, Kingston.

All NHL Teams But Hawks Still In Race

MONTREAL, March 6 (CP). — Everybody but the wobbly Chicago Black Hawks is in the race for a National Hockey League playoff spot. But games last week nearly eliminated one of the aspirants.

Detroit and Toronto are assured of a playoff spot. League statistics released today showed Wings won 35, lost 12 and tied 13 games up to and including March 4. Leafs had a won-lost-tied score of 33, 13 and 13 for the same period.

In Monday night's game Detroit made it 85 points with a 3-1 victory over Toronto.

But three teams—Boston, New York and Montreal—are fighting hotly for the last two playoff entries. Bruins, who tied two and won one last week, currently hold down third place with 57 points.

Just one point back of them are New York Rangers, whose two ties and one victory last week set a league record for deadlocks—20. Montreal Canadiens, who used to hold the league's record for ties (19), won, lost and tied one last week for 53 points.

With only nine games remaining in the schedule for Canadiens and Rangers, the Montrealers will have to win a major share if they hope to edge past the New York club into the playoffs.

Chicago Far Out

Chicago trails far out of the picture with 36 points.

In the individual scoring race, Detroit's Gord Howe added a goal and an assist last week for 73 points, 16 ahead of Maurice Richard. Howe had 32 goals and 39 assists while Richard, the league's top goal scorer, has 37 goals and 18 assists.

Howe tallied a goal and assisted on another against Toronto Monday night to make his point total 73.

In the goaltending department, Toronto's Turk Broda got himself a shutout to bring him within one of the seven scored this season by Detroit's Terry Sawchuk. Broda continues with the best individual record, a 2.11 average.

Toronto increased its penalty record from 711 to 738 minutes. Toronto's Gus Mortson added 10 minutes to his 130 of last week to stay with his club in the lead.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Gordie Howe of Detroit garnered another goal and an assist in Monday night's game with Toronto to climb 18 points ahead of his nearest rival, Montreal's Maurice Richard, in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Howe now has 33 goals, only four less than Richard's 37, and 40 assists, 22 more than the Rocket's 18, for 73 points. Richard has 55 points.

Sid Abel of Detroit moved to within a point of tying Richard on an assist Monday night and left Max Bentley of Toronto and Milt Schmidt of Boston one point behind in fourth place.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts.
Howe, Detroit	33	40	73
Richard, Montreal ..	37	18	55
Abel, Detroit	30	24	54

Red Wings Clip Maple Leafs 3-1, Edge Closer To Title

DETROIT, March 6 — (CP).— Detroit Red Wings appear to be a shoo-in for the National Hockey League championship.

Coach Tommy Ivan's talented puckchasers took a stranglehold on the top rung in the league standing Monday night as they breezed to a 3-1 victory over the runner-up Toronto Maple Leafs. The win shoved them six points ahead of Leafs, with the 70-game schedule fast drawing to a close.

Leafs have 10 games left to play—one more than Detroit—and still have a chance to catch the fast-stepping Wings. But it's a slim one. The two clubs meet at Toronto Wednesday for their last meeting of the regular schedule and a Toronto victory will be a "must" if Leafs hope to overtake Detroit.

If anything, the remaining schedule favors Detroit, who have won six, tied four, and lost three against Toronto this season. Three of Detroit's remaining nine games are against tail-end Chicago, while Leafs meet the hapless Black Hawks only once.

Red Wings also have two games against the fifth-place Montreal Canadiens, meet New York Rangers twice, and Boston Bruins once. Toronto has a single encounter left with Canadiens and meet Boston and Rangers in four and three game encounters, respectively.

Typical Hockey Display

Detroit's largest crowd of the season, 14,372 fans, was treated to a display of typical playoff hockey Monday night. It was a rugged, body-checking contest with Detroit jumping into an early lead on a penalty to Leaf's Tod Sloan and then letting Leafs carry the play to them.

Only nine penalties were called in the cleanly-fought game, but two of them had a part in three of the four goals.

A first-period tripping penalty to Sloan opened the victory route for Red Wings. Glen Skov soon blasted home Sid Abel's pass, and a minute later, Gordie Howe taped a soft 10-footer past Goalie Turk Broda in the Toronto net.

Sid Smith connected for the lone Toronto goal in the opening period while Abel was sitting out a penalty. Red Kelly ended the scoring before the second period was two minutes old.

Detroit won their key victory the expensive way—losing centre Metro Prystai for at least three weeks.

The sparkplug of the Red Wing sextette suffered a "small fracture" of the upper right leg in the third period after a hard body check. Manager Jack Adams reported after the game that Prystai would be lost to Wings until the playoffs.

McGill Challenging Ab Demarco's Lead

NEW YORK, March 6 (CP).— Ab Demarco, Buffalo Bisons' veteran playmaker, continues to pace the American Hockey League in scoring, but Jack McGill of Providence is challenging his supremacy.

Demarco, who has topped the league most of the season, has 97 points on 33 goals and 64 assists in games through Sunday, March 4. McGill raised his point-total last week to 91 with 25 goals and 66 assists. Grant Warwick dropped to third place with 87 points.

Freddie Glover of Indianapolis increased his consecutive games for goal scoring to 11 to set a league record. Glover, who notched his 100th tally last week, tops the goal-getting department with 44. McGill's 66 assists lead the league.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh leads goaltenders with an average of 2.33 on 149 goals allowed in 64 games. He also leads in shutouts with six.

Flyers Blast Generals 10-3

By The Canadian Press.

Barrie Flyers hammered 10 rivets into their claim to first place in OHA Junior A standings Monday night by blasting Oshawa Generals 10-3.

Flyers won in a walk over the sixty-place brass, grabbing a 5-0 lead in the first period, matching a Generals' pair in the second, and outscoring the visitors 3-1 in the final.

Defenceman Jim Morrison topped the scoring with three goals, followed by Doug Towers and Don Emms with two each, and singles by Jack White, Real Chevrefils and Chuck Wood. Alex Delvecchio, Stan Mills and Chuck Woods bellied the local nets.

Softball Conference

HAMILTON, March 6 (CP).— The 34th annual meeting of the Ontario Softball Association will be held at London, Ont., April 6 and 7, Vern Clark, acting secretary, said Monday night. Senior team representatives meet Friday morning with minor teams gathering in the afternoon. General sessions will be held Saturday.

Rising Prices Increase Government Revenue But Affect Spending

145% Expenditure Increase Over Pre-War Days Due To Inflation—Frost

TORONTO, March 6. (CP)—A 145-per-cent increase in Provincial expenditures over pre-war days is largely the effect of inflation, coupled with a heavy population increase, Premier Frost told the Legislature in his Budget Speech today. The dollar is worth only 58 cents compared to its 1938-39 counter-part, according to the cost-of-living index, Mr. Frost said. Population of Ontario jumped 840,000 in the last 12 years. Allowing for these two factors, the Premier said, "We are spending little, if any, more than our predecessors in 1938-39. The principal factor has been the inflationary rise in prices."

The provincial treasurer dealt with the problems of inflation as they affect provincial finances.

Causes Deterioration.

Although rising prices buoyed up certain government revenues, "the net effect is to cause a deterioration in the provincial budgetary position."

"The Federal Government has entered the three main fields of direct taxation, to which the Provinces are constituationally confined," Mr. Frost said, "and in two of them its rates threaten near monopolization of the potential yield."

Ottawa had assumed all income taxes. Federal corporation profit taxes of 38 per cent compared with seven-per-cent provincial levy on corporation earnings.

"The heavy levies imposed by the Federal Government in these two fields greatly circumscribe the effective operation of the province in the performance of its assigned functions."

Several of the provinces's main revenue sources were based on factors other than earnings and did not automatically rise along with prices.

Value Drops.

The gasoline tax, boosted to 11 cents on the gallon in 1947, was worth only eight cents in terms of what it can buy. On the basis of pre-war purchasing values, the average passenger car licence now was worth $4.70.

More than half of the province's total ordinary revenue did not directly reflect inflationary influences, the Premier said.

Ontario had little influence on general price levels, compared with controls within the power of the Federal Government and the Bank of Canada.

Federal spending on National Defence found the province still with a backlog of capital construction deferred during and after war. Population growth and new communities required new municipal financing.

Kept for Essentials.

"All expenditure— public a nd private— should be confined to essential purposes only," Premier Frost said. "As far as the government of Ontario is concerned we will co-operate to the full limit.

"We have worked harmoniously with the Federal Government to maintain employment and income. We are just as prepared to work together in the interest of a stable price level."

The Premier said that a year ago his budget speech noted a levelling off in prices and economic activity, with various soft spots in the price structure.

"The danger today is not one of deflation but of inflation," he said. "No one can be sure of where it will end."

Defies Authorities

SALINA, KAS., March 6—(AP)—A language professor, locked out of his classroom, today defied Kansas Wesleyan University authorities to keep him from teaching his students. Prof. Jose Guzman Baldivieso, a native of Bolivia, held his Spanish class on a college staircase Monday. Baldivieso was dismissed last week because of an economy move.

RECENTLY COMPLETING a specialist course in Toronto, Dr. William Dennis Blastorah, of Harwood, will continue his medical career in New York City. While holidaying at his Harwood home, the community presented him with a club bag at a parting in the community hall.

Ontario Plans To Improve Rural Phones

TORONTO, March 6.—(CP).—The Ontario Government has its ear to the telephone party line.

Premier Frost, in his budget speech to the Legislature today, said $100,000 was being set aside to launch a plan of improvements to rural telephone systems, which had generally lagged behind technical improvements elsewhere.

In a press conference, he told reporters that science had found a way to send phone messages, as well as power, over rural hydro lines.

It might even be possible to reduce the number of people on party lines through technical refinements of the power - line method, he said, adding with a smile that it might take away one of the enjoyments of rural phone users.

Won't Interfere

Mr. Frost expanded on the throne speech prediction of pending legislation aimed at modernizing and consolidating rural phone systems under the direction of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

There are about 300 rural telephone systems, he said, and the Government did not aim at interfering with their autonomy.

But the rural hydro system had about 300,000 customers, and modern science could bring telephone messages on power lines right to their fuse boxes, if it was feasible.

Plan 2½% Cut On Race Betting

TORONTO, March 6.—(CP).—The two-buck bettor will get a slightly better chance to get his money back on Ontario race tracks this year.

Premier Frost, in his provincial budget speech in the Ontario Legislature today announced a revised scale of taxes on race track pari-mutuels which, in effect, cuts the rate of taxation by about 2½ per cent.

Last year the tax was a flat 12½ per cent., increased from the old 10-per-cent. rate. Coupled with the amount race tracks are permitted by the federal Criminal Code to retain, that took a 21½ per cent slice off betting pools of $20,000 and under. The Government-plus-track take on the next $10,000 was 20½ per cent., and it came down by one per cent. on each aditional $10,000, winding up with a 17½-per-cent. cut on everything over $50,000.

The new tax starts at 10 per cent. on the first $20,000 and moves on up to 14 over $50,000. With the track-share, this works out to a 19-per-cent. slice off every betting pool.

The speech said the way things worked out last year, it appeared that the result of the new system would be to cut the tax by 2½ per cent.

20,000 Sq.-Mile Area Surveyed For Oil, Gas

TORONTO, March 6 — (CP) — Mines Minister Gemmell said Monday night his department is surveying a 20,000-square-mile area west of James Bay for possible oil and gas formations.

Speaking in a free-time political network over a CBC Ontario network, Mr. Gemmell said a mines department geological party has moved in drilling equipment by airplane, tractor and canoe and has sunk test holes.

In southern Ontario, the government was considering measures to control deep-well drilling to avoid any threat to community water supplies. The mines and planning departments had investigated the problem in 65 Ontario centres.

Bomber Crashes

STAUNTON, VA., March 6 — (AP) — An overdue B-26 bombe. from Langley Air Force Base crashed and burned on a mountainside near here late Monday night. State Police said first reports indicated there were no survivors. At least two bodies have been found.

Pay $3,400,000,000 In Wages To Set Record For Year Frost Says

TORONTO, March 6 —(CP)—Ontario marked up a hatful of economic records in 1950, Premier Frost told the legislature in his budget speech today.

Highlights of the boom year were a record of more than $3,400,000,000 in estimated wages and salaries and a gross production estimated at more than $7,000,000,000.

Wages and salaries increased at least six per cent over 1949, the premier said. The province's production figure stacks up against an estimated production for all of Canada of $17,700,000,000.

"Never before was there produced such a large volume of manufactured goods," Premier Frost said. "Ontario's primary industries—farm, forest and mine—also record a prosperous year."

The premier sketched in the broad outlines of the economic picture in 1950:

A combined public and private investment total of $1,513,000,000, topping of a six-year figure of nearly $6,000,000,000.

Net Income Up

Net income from farms and other unincorporated business of $920,000,000 compared with $905,000,000 the previous year.

Population increase at the rate of nearly 10,000 a month, continuing a 23-per-cent growth since 1939.

Completion of new housing units and converted residences totalling 33,163, for a six-year total of 142,561.

"Record levels of production were shown in an increase in physical volume of output made possible by the expansion in our industrial structure, increased use of power-driven machinery and an efficient labor force of 1,800,000 men and women," Premier Frost said.

"The construction industry alone received contracts of almost $600,000,000, an increase of 42 per cent in value terms. Residential construction was the largest single category, making up nearly 40 per cent of the total. Employment in Ontario increased measurably during the year.

High Purchasing Power

"The high levels of employment and income, which were characteristic of 1950, gave Ontario's citizens a purchasing power that raised the level of retail sales almost eight per cent above the previous year."

Ontario's salaries and wages topped the average Canadian figure on a per capita basis. For the year they averaged $761 for every man, woman and child in Ontario, compared with $599 for Canada.

Estimated Ontario population had risen steadily from 3,708,000 in 1939 to 4,612,000, which was 32.7 per cent of the Canadian total. The province got about half of all immigrants to Canada since 1946, although a general immigration decline since 1948 was reflected in Ontario. Last year's figure was 39,041.

Premier Frost said final figures will show 1950's net farm income about the same as in 1949. Tobacco production was down $5,000,000 and dairy production was lower, but an increased value of $13,000,000 in hay and clover crops was expected to offset declines in other crops.

Total net income of farms and other unincorporated business increased $15,000,000 in Ontario during 1950, despite a $12,000,000 decline in the national figure. The province had about 32 per cent of total Canadian net income from these sources.

Sounds Warning

The premier sounded a cautionary note: that the $6,000,000,000 new capital investment since 1945 had contributed to inflation. But it would aid "tremendously" in absorbing increased population and meeting the demands of increased production.

Present indications were that federal defence expenses in the coming fiscal year would take almost nine per cent of the gross national product, Mr. Frost said. "Undoubtedly it will absorb a considerably larger proportion than that of our provincial product."

Estimated capital investment in 1950 of $1,513,000,000 was 38.8 per cent of the Canadian total. The estimated breakdown of this figure by industries showed investments of: $153,400,000 in primary and construction industries, $242,800,000 in manufacturing, $301,000,000 in utilities, $313,400,000 in trade, finance and commercial services, $317,700,000 in housing and $246,600,000 in institutional and government building.

U.S. Papers Enjoy Greatest Circulation

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 6—(AP)—The greatest circulation in history, 54,877,000 copies a day, was recorded last year by United States daily newspapers, according to a N. W. Ayer & Son survey released Monday.

The record, which also represents the greatest increase in circulation ever made in one year, was reported in the 83rd annual edition of the Philadelphia firm's directory of newspapers and periodicals.

The increase of more than 2,500,000 copies made in 1950 was the 11th straight year in which newspapers have added to their readers, the survey showed.

Revised System On Taxing Tabled By Frost

TORONTO, March 6 (CP). — Federal government proposals dealing with a revised system of federal payment for provincial taxing rights, were tabled in the Legislature today by Premier Frost, at the conclusion of his budget address.

The proposals, still under negotiation, would not come into effect until April 1, 1952, and the provincial budget was drawn up without reference to them. They were made at the Ottawa Federal Provincial Conference last December.

In the tabled report, Premier Frost said the proposals involved three changes which would, if put into effect, give Ontario $117,400,000 in the 1952-53 fiscal year for federal use of provincial tax rights, compared with $110,000,000 under the terms of the 1947 tax proposals.

Mr. Frost said that upward adjustment of guaranteed minimum payments was offered in recognition of higher expenditures.

A new option was offered, which would benefit only Ontario, raising the guaranteed minimum payment about $2,00,000. It applied to tax rates on personal and corporate income.

Two modifications in the method of computing payment for provincial tax rights were also proposed, which would have the effect of raising payments slightly. They deal with adjustments in the payment, based on the year 1948, for changes in provincial populations and gross national product.

Too Many Helpers Fire Chief Complains

BRAMPTON, March 6—(CP)—Fire Chief Matt Gowland reported to town council Monday night that over-enthusiastic citizens were getting in the way of his men every time they answered a call.

The situation was getting so bad, chimed in Mayor Harold Lawrence, that at one recent blaze a group of citizens grabbed a fire hose and began playing a stream of water on the fire.

Council decided another type of interference would be preferable. In future police will step in when the "volunteer firemen" try and lend a hand.

Charge Steel Worker

BALTIMORE, March 6—(AP)—A young steel worker was charged Monday night with the strangulation slaying of 56-year-old Thelma Parker last Thursday. Irving Herman Donner, 25, was arrested Friday. His description fitted that given by four of Miss Parkers neighbors who said they witnessed the slaying from their windows.

Congregations Of District Join In Service

ROSENEATH, March 6—(ENS) A large congregations attended a union worship service in Roseneath United Church on Sunday evening. Members were present from Centenary and Fenella United churches, also St. James' Anglican Church. The members of Roseneath YPU attended the service in a body.

Hall Adams, president of the YPU, was in charge of the service, assisted by the Rev. R. C. White

George Kemp, Fenella, a member of the Gideon organization, was guest speaker. Mr. Kemp spoke of the origin of the Gideons in Wisconsin in 1898. It had now reached every continent. This organization is made up of Christian businessmen and they are a living testimony to God and work in conjunction with the church by placing millions of copies of Bibles and New Testaments throughout the world, in hotels, with the armed forces, and in public schools, hospitals and prisons.

The mixed choir of 20 voices of Fenella United Church were in charge of the service of song with Mrs. Laurie Hope as organist and Mrs. Donald George, choir leader. The full choir contributed an anthem, "Come Unto Me"; a quintete of young ladies, Misses Gene Waldie, Audrey Down, Margaret Duncan, Nora Campbell and Mary Jewell sang "Whispering Hope" and a vocal solo, "The Holy City" by Mrs. Donald George, concluded the special numbers by the choir.

The oldest person in the large congregation was Mrs. E. J. Milne, 80.

Charges Saunders Doesn't Know His Job

HAMILTON, March 6—(CP)—Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, said Monday night Hydro chairman Robert E. Saunders didn't know his job.

"He's got no more licence to be in Hydro than I have," Mr. Thomson said in an address to a joint meeting of three Hamilton ridings.

He compared Ontario's Hydro production with that of Quebec province.

"Manufacturing production between 1939 and 1949 has increased four times in Quebec, three times in Ontario. Per capita, Hydro consumption in Quebec is 6,600 killowatt hours, in Ontario 2,700 killowatt hours. The Aluminum Company uses twice Toronto's domestic and industrial consumption; rates are .36 cents in Quebec compared to .58 per kilowatt hour in Ontario."

Sees Canada Growing As Industrial Giant

NEW YORK, March 6—(CP)—The magazine U.S. News and World Report says Monday that Canada will rapidly grow into the 'industrial giant of the north' but large amounts of new capital are required to spur development of her industries.

The magazine estimates that American business invested at least $1,000,000,000 in Canada during 1950 and the total U.S. investment now is around $5,000,000,000 and "growing steadily."

The one big shortage is people, the magazine notes.

Board's Maintenance Sheet Shows Net Surplus $1,499

Maintenance account of the Board of Works in 1950 showed a net surplus of $1,499.24 as recently reported by City Engineer A. E. Chalmers in his annual report.

Total maintenance expenditure was $315,833.17, which was reduced by credits of $66,732.41 to $249,100.76. And total appropriation for the work was $250,600.

Details are set forth under two general headings of maintenance and new work.

Maintenance of roads: Cleaning pavements, $21,612.91; cleaning streets, $4,948.20; street maintenance, $42,054.87; pavement maintenance, $2,739.25; street oiling, $15,016.61; snow removal, $17,-159.58; sanding roads, $10,027.61; resurfacing, $2,988.40. Government To Give

Class A hospitals it will amount to $1.65 a day for actual days of treatment of indigent patients. The amount ranges downwards in other classes. The grant is in addition to existing hospital grants.

The new payment, together with other grants and assistance on new construction, would increase provincial grants for hospitals in the next year to more than $10,000,000.

Other assistance was planned for hospitals; grants of 30 cents a patient per day would be made organized out-patients departments of general hospitals at a cost of $168,000 a year; the government would increase the payment for infant indigents to $1 a day by adding 40 cents to the existing 60-cent payment by municipalities; $100,000 was provided for maintenance grants to isolation hospitals and isolation units in general hospitals.

Development of New Curriculum

The decision to provide free text books in primary schools was a development of the revised school curriculum, said Mr. Frost. Where possible, text books were of Canadian origin. Books of non-Canadian origin were revised for Ontario use. The cost was substantial and the government decided to relieve parents of the expense by re-imbursing school boards for expenditures in 1951 on approved text books for Grades I to VIII up to an amount of $3 for each pupil of average attendance. Boards of education in cities like Toronto, Hamilton and Windsor already provided free books in public schools and this would relieve them of the burden.

Subsidies Up 10 Million

Subsidies and grants to municipalities would rise by more than $10,000,000 in the next year, from $89,600,000 to $100,756,000. Biggest share, $48,145,000, would be for education for which grants in the present year were $43,720,000. There was no mention of any changes in the basis of grants.

University grants in the next year would amount to $5,687,000, an increase of $1,345,000. Biggest grant goes to the University of Toronto—up $1,170,000 to $4,187,-000. Queen's University at Kingston and the University of Western Ontario at London will each get $550,000, increases of $50,000. Three other uhiversities will have their grants boosted by $25,000—Hamilton College of McMaster University at Hamilton $150,000; the University of Ottawa to $150,-000; and Carleton College at Ottawa to $100,000.

Net ordinary expenditure of the Department of Education next year would amount to $63,200,000, an increase of $6,000,000.

Recognize Work

Mr. Frost mentioned advances in facilities for care of aged persons. Many municipalities had built new homes for the care of the aged as the result of the government' policy, instituted two years ago, of paying 50 per cent of the cost. The Government now planned to recognizes the work done in this field by religious and fraternal organizations and would provide them with capital grants of $1,000 a bed for construction of new homes.

Great strides were being made in health matters. Ontario had the lowest death rate among the provinces from tuberculosis. Preventive service was being emphasized in treatment of the mentally ill, aimed at keeping patients active in ordinary life rather than in institutions. The Government was prepared to carry out promptly its undertaking to provide $2,000,000 for cancer research, announced in the House Feb. 13.

The Department of Reform Institutions planned to emphasize this year improvement of facilities for women, extension of its rehabilatation service for alcoholics and expansion of academic and vocational training porgrams.

Registration Growing

Motor vehicle registration in the the province was now approaching 1,100,000 and the number was still growing. Ontario had one motor vehicle for every four persons in the province. In the next year, the budget provided $93,200,000 for highways—$46,000,000 on ordinary account and $47,200,000 on capital. Although the highway program had priority, it was dependent on the supply of materials in the face of the federal government's defence program with which Ontario would co-operate in every possible way.

In the last year, 33,000 new rural customers had been given Hydro service. It was planned to make power available to an additional 30,000 in the next year.

Plans were also under way to impreve rural telephone service and $100,000 was provided in the budget for this purpose.

Want Conservation

In administration of the Department of Lands and Forests, the government's aim was to spend revenues of the department on conservation of forests rather than apply them for other purposes .It was spending four times more than when it took office but the epenxditure was thoroughly justified by advances in fire protection, insect control and advanced forest management.

On housing, the budget provided $1,500,000 to continue the government's programs. However, efforts to encourage house construction were dependent on availability of federal government National Housing Act loans, on supply of materials and manpower and on desire of municipalities to take advantage of housing schemes.

Six centres—London, Windsor, St. Thomas, Ottawa, Kingston and the iron-mining community of Atikokan in northwestern Ontario—had entered into land-servicing agreements with the province for house construction. Negotiations were proceeding with Sudbury and the town of Matheson in the Timmins district. Provincial share of the cost was about $1,000,000 and the programs would make about 2,400 lots available for housing.

Hit New Peak

In 1950 house construction hit a new peak in Ontario, with 31,-663 new housing units constructed and another 1,500 housing conversions. At the end of the year, 27,512 housing units were still under construction.

Capital investment by the province and municipalities in the present fiscal year was more than $345,000,000. The Ontario Municipal Improvement Corporation—set up a year ago to assist municipalities finance certain types of public works—had purchased municipal debentures amounting to $914,050.

The premier reviewed federal-provincial relations, tabled reports of proceedings at the last confernce between the provinces and the federal government, and reiterated Ontario's desire for old age pensions at 70 without a means test. He set out details of the tax agreement offered by the federal government at the conference, without any comment on Ontario's stand.

Mr. Frost—who became provincial treasurer when the Progressive Conservative Government took office in 1943 and continued in the post after his party's election in 1945 and 1948—reported that 1950 was a record year for business activity in the province. Ontario accounted for more than $7,000,000,000 of Canada's estimated gross national product of $17,700,000,000. Mining production of $363,000,000 was an all-time high, up $40,000,000 over the previous year. The construction industry received contracts of almost $600,000,000, a 42 per cent increase. Retail sales were eight per cent above the previous year.

Evidence Fails To Warrant Dangerous Driving Charge

Not sufficient negligence had been shown to prove a charge of dangerous driving against Adrian Devlin, 474 Park St., Magistrate W. R. Philp KC ruled in police court Monday, but there was enough to warrant a conviction of careless driving.

Devlin was fined $15 and costs.

The two charges arose from an accident in which his car knocked down Mrs. Robert Cutmore, 588 Water St., the evening of Jan. 29 near the east curb of George St. at Dublin St.

Husband of the young woman who was knocked down, Robert Cutmore, testified that he and his wife were walking west on Dublin St. toward George St. to catch a bus to go south. When they were about 10 yards back from the sidewalk, he saw a bus one block north.

Walked Ahead of Wife

He quickened his pace walking ahead of his wife to make sure they caught the bus.

"When I came to the corner," he said, "I could see nothing coming." He did see a car which appeared to him to be parked at the east curb with its parking lights on about half way down the block toward London St.

He walked about three yards out into the road and looked south again and then saw a car with parking lights on "almost on top of me" about a car length away.

"I jumped to the middle of the road out of its path." He said the car went past him between him and the east curb he had just left.

"The next thing I saw was my wife sitting on the ground," he said. He believed his wife was more shaken up than anything. She spent 12 days in hospital.

Devlin's car stopped opposite the north sidewalk of Dublin St. A passenger got out and came back to him and his wife and the car backed up to about the middle of Dublin St. He and the passenger, Devlin's cousin, James Devlin, Dalhousie St., helped Mrs. Cutmore into the Devlin car and waited five or ten minutes for the police.

Asking Cutmore to agree that George St. was very well lighted at that point, W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, defending Devlin asked "You could see a car even if it hadn't its lights on couldn't you?"

"Yes, sir, if it was in the middle of the street," Cutmore replied.

Differ In Details

Evidence of the other witnesses for both the Crown and the defence differed a good deal concerning the details of the accident and the surrounding events.

Mrs. Cutmore said when she first looked down George St. before she stepped off the curb she could see no traffic coming. When she had taken a step or two from the curb, she looked south and saw a car coming toward her along the east curb. She tried to get back out of the way from the car's right fender, but she couldn't step back quickly because it was very slippery under foot.

She believed she was hit twice by the car, by the front fender and the rear fender. As far as she knew, she suffered no permanent injuries.

Close To Curb

From the moment she first saw it, the car seemed to be hugging the east curb and didn't turn out to avoid her. She said the car had only its parking lights on.

A witness to the accident, Harry Keith, was walking north on the west side of George St. south of Dublin. He said after the car passed him "rather fast" he watched it and it "kept edging closer to the east side of George St. as it was going along."

The next thing he noticed was the woman lying on the boulevard at the south-east corner and the car stopped. He couldn't say what lights were on the car.

Percy Edwards, Lakefield, was walking south on the west side of George St. north of Dublin St. He said the car seemed to him to be coming "pretty fast." He said it had its headlights on.

Traffic Officer Gordon Trennum said there was a mark leading directly from the right rear wheel back south for about 30 feet "right up against the edge of the street." He said Devlin was "very nearly" drunk.

Devlin said he had the lights on his 1950 model car on low beam. He saw a man and woman coming out of Dublin St. about on the George St. sidewalk. He thought they would stop at the curb.

He was looking straight ahead of him and then he heard his cousin shout "You hit them."

He stopped quickly and then backed. He said he had been driving about six feet out from the curb. He said Mrs. Cutmore "must have walked right into the side of it, (his car)." He said he felt no bump.

Had Three Beers

"I wasn't drunk at all," the accused man said. He told the court he had had three beers between stopping work and having supper. Asked by Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, if he saw Cutmore jump from in front of his car, Devlin said "He never was in front of my car. I can't see him out there at all."

Jim Devlin said he saw a woman walking in front of a man. When the car was about two car lengths away from them, the woman was on the pavement of George St. His cousin's car was about the width of a car out from the curb.

He shouted to the driver to stop "That woman hit the side of the car!"

The car stopped quickly and he found her lying at the rear wheel. He said Adrian Devlin then drove ahead out of the line of traffic..

Recalled to give evidence, Mrs. Cutmore said "I didn't walk into the side of it (the car)."

Union Leaders Plan To Ask New Increases

TORONTO, March 6 (CP) — Union leaders indicated Monday night that a new round of wage increases may be sought as a result of the 2.7-point climb in Canada's cost-of-living index announced Saturday.

Two top labor leaders—C. H. Millard and George Burt, heads of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and the United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL) respectively—said in interviews Monday night that their unions will seek higher wages to meet the rising living costs.

Mr. Burt said his union will seek wage increases for employees of the Ford Motor Co. of Canada. The union's contract agreement with Ford will be open for negotiation March 29.

Mr. Millard said the steel union will increase its demands because "all signs point to another record increase in the cost-of-living during February. As our negotiations proceed our hourly wage demands will have to be increased."

He indicated that new wage demands will probably soon be made for workers in the Algoma Steel Corporation plants at Sault Ste. Marie and Port Colborne. The steel union has 200 locals in Canada, the majority of them in Ontario.

Building Boom

WINNIPEG — (CP). — Planned and actual building construction in Winnipeg reached $1,007,0000 before the end of February with 179 buildings involved. Records show the total in the same period last year was $683,700.

Another $800,000 Required To Complete New Hospital

The directors of the St. Thomas-Elgin county are asking the two municipalities to provide an additional $800,000 to meet the increased cost of building their new general hospital.

These grants are based on a 60-40 proportion, which assesses $480,000 to St. Thomas and $320,-000 to Elgin county. In December 1949, the taxpayers of St. Thomas voted in favor of granting $840,000, and the county taxpayers approved a grant of $560,000.

First grants amounted to $1,-400,000, and the additional requirement is $800,000 for a total of $2,200,000. A deputation will approach the Ontario Department of Health to determine the possibility of securing additional grants to those already guaranteed.

Total estimated cost of construction, exclusive of equipment and furnishings is revised at $2,-850,000 of which $2,050,000 is assured through grants and money bylaws, leaving the sum of $800,-000 to be sought from the city councils. Total cost may reach $3,500,000, nearly $1,000,000 in excess of the original estimate. Present contemplated accommodation is for 293 beds and 66 bassinets.

Ontario Government Beats Non-Confidence Votes As Speech Debate Ends

TORONTO, March 6. (CP)—The Ontario Legislature concluded its month-long Throne Speech debate Monday with four recorded votes upholding the Government. A solid Progressive Conservative vote of 49 defeated three Opposition want-of-confidence motions and approved—over a combined Opposition vote of 32 — the Government's motion for an address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. The vote was a formal test of Government policy as outlined in the Throne Speech.

The CCF motion charged the Government with continuing the "prodigal practices" of previous governments in handling natural resources, and with failure to provide municipal tax relief, improve farm marketing laws and remedy the "breakdown" of the Federal-Provincial housing program.

It was defeated in a 60 to 21 vote which saw 11 Liberal members vote with the government against it.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver had his own non-confidence motion, which found criticism of government policy on natural resources to the period since the Liberal administration lost power to the Progressive Conservative party in 1943. The Liberal group has faced repeated legislature criticism of former Liberal government forestry policies.

Rap House Building

The Liberal motion also alleged government failure to take a lead in house-building and to remedy "obvious defects" in labor laws. It was defeated, together with a Labor-Progressive motion criticising old-age pension policy, by a vote of 49 to 32.

CCF Leader Joliffe, winding up the opposition side of the throne speech debate, dwelt at length on questions ranging from housing to hospitals, but ended his address with a strong criticism of Communist appeals to the popular desire for peace.

Noting that the Labor-Progressive party spokesman, A. A. MacLeod (Toronto Bellwoods), had spoken on the "very obvious" need of world peace, Mr. Joliffe said: "Peaceful statements don't necessarily indicate a peaceful policy."

Special Policy

Education Minister Porter reviewed the government's two-year policy in altering school courses, and said a $20,000,000 building program is planned to relieve overcrowding in special schools and institutions operated by his department.

More than 100 communities are experimenting with an altered school curriculum in elementary and high schools. Mr. Porter said. Aim of the changes is to establish four levels of education in the schools and achieve "one long sequence of development."

He said local school boards and teachers are being given wide autonomy to choose courses and textbooks.

Standards of education have been maintained despite the increase of students completing high school studies and higher standards. The percentage of successful high school matriculation candidates had risen from 79.65 in 1924 to 80.39 in 1950 although the number of candidates had doubled in the 26 years.

Urges Election

Harry Nixon, former Liberal premier and member for Brant, urged Premier Frost to call an election this year, and said the province had never been given the chance to vote on his administration since he assumed party leadership in 1949.

"The people like to elect their prime minister" Mr. Nixon said, "and it might be wise to trust the people to do it some time this summer." Mr. Frost made no comment.

Advertising of oleomargarine would be controlled by a bill introduced by Agriculture Minister Kennedy. The bill would bar misleading claims, statements that margarine is connected with any dairy product besides skim milk, and pictures of dairy scenes from margarine packages and advertising.

Regulations dealing with margarine would also be enforced by inspectors and laboratory analysts provided for in the bill.

Replace Boards

A second bill would replace the present three-man boards which arbitrate milk prices with a single arbitrator, who would be a county judge. The bill also lists specific cases in which the milk control board can refuse to issue licences. Previously the board was allowed to use its own discretion in refusing licences.

Mr. Nixon, referring to a recent legislature address by Premier Frost, denied he had walked out of any federal-provincial conference during Liberal party administration in Ontario.

Premier Frost "torpedoed the conferences he attended back in 1945 and 1946," Mr. Nixon said, although the premier had since changed his mind about federal-provincial relations.

The member for Brant defended former Liberal administration of forest policies in Northern Ontario, which Mr. Frost had termed "milking the forests."

Appeal To Businessmen To Complete Trial Census

An appeal to Peterborough businesses to complete the trial census of local retail, wholesale and service of establishments by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics was made Monday by A. F. Holmes of Ottawa. He was guest speaker at the Rotary Club's weekly luncheon.

Special assistant to the chief of the merchandising and services section of the bureau, Mr. Holmes said that only 32 per cent of the forms, asking for sales in 1950, stock on hand, amount of payroll and number of employees, have been returned to Ottawa. The bureau wishes to complete the trial census before the census proper opens in June. It needs between 80 and 90 per cent of the questionnaires.

If this trial census is completed, Peterborough will be the only city in Canada with exact figures for 1950 in its retail, wholesale and service businesses. The census will also indicate the city's growth in these businesses since the last census in 1941.

Beginning October 1 enumerators canvassed the city retailers, wholesalers and service businesses offering public services, to obtain local census of distribution. The purpose of the trial census was to test new techniques and procedures to be tried in the 1951 survey. Other Canadian localities are having similar census of population and housing.

Growth Since 1941

Mr. Holmes said that the preliminary results show 459 retail, 54 wholesale and 154 service businesses in the city. Census figures in 1941 were 370 retail, 42 wholesale and 139 service businesses.

Peterborough is the only Canadian city to be checked on the distribution. It was chosen because it is a representative community, is composite and has a diversity of business comparable to a metropolitan city.

Mr. Holmes said that the five-way breakdown of the 10-year census includes population, agriculture, housing, fisheries and distribution. The bureau later issues reports on the Canadian life.

Activities of Bureau

Speaking on the bureau's activities Mr. Holmes said that it issues a quarterly report on consumer credit in the retail field on 12 types of businesses such as department, furriers and jewellery stores. These reports show where the consumer credit goes in Canada. Through these the government knows the extent of consumer credit and they had some effect on the regulations published last fall.

Some of the bureau's difficulties discussed briefly were: commodities, outstanding orders, consumer credit and census of distribution. Mr. Holmes dealt with the purposes of the bureau such as its helping other government departments, helping internal and external trade, helping individuals and keeping a record of Canada's growth.

Mr. Holmes was introduced by Clare Collins and thanked by John McColl.

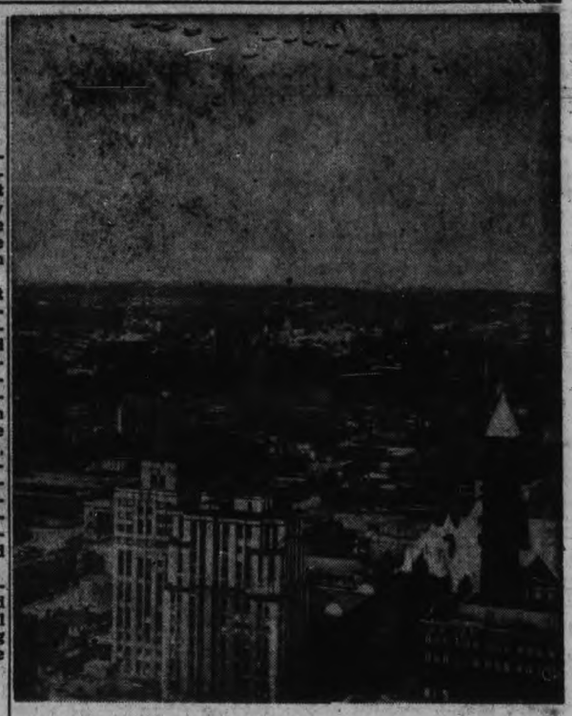
CNR Announces New Agreement



MONTREAL, March 6 (CP)—Canadian National Railways announced a new agreement with certain classes of railway workers which embraces rule changes and increases in wage rates averaging 14½ cents an hour.

The railway said in a statement that negotiations had been concluded between negotiating committees representing Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway Conductors and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and Canadian National Railways, governing the services of locomotive firemen, helpers, hostlers, hostlers' helpers, conductors, trainmen, switchtenders, yardmasters and assistant yardmasters, Central and Atlantic Regions, including all employees in engine, train and yard service, Newfoundland District.

The revised wage rates are effective from last December 1, and the changes in rules from April 1, 1951. The contract covering both wages and rules is for one year from April 1.

The Navy means Business!

Canada's Navy is the largest this nation has ever had in time of peace . . . and still expanding. Canada's Navy intends to play its full part in the defence of freedom and the protection of our shores and sea-ways.

More Ships to be manned!

In its accelerated programme of expansion more ships — from cruisers to mine sweepers — are being commissioned. Ships . . . more ships . . . is the aim.

More Men to be trained!

More men are needed to operate these ships and the large naval establishment behind them. There are immediate openings for good men in all branches of the R.C.N., but particularly needed are men to train for the technical trade branches, including:—

ENGINE ROOM • ELECTRICAL • AIR MECHANICS
COMMUNICATIONS • SHIPWRIGHTS

To join the Navy, you must:

- Be aged 17 to 25 (29 in some specialized categories)
- Have a Grade 8 education or better
- Be physically fit
- Be a Canadian citizen or other British subject.

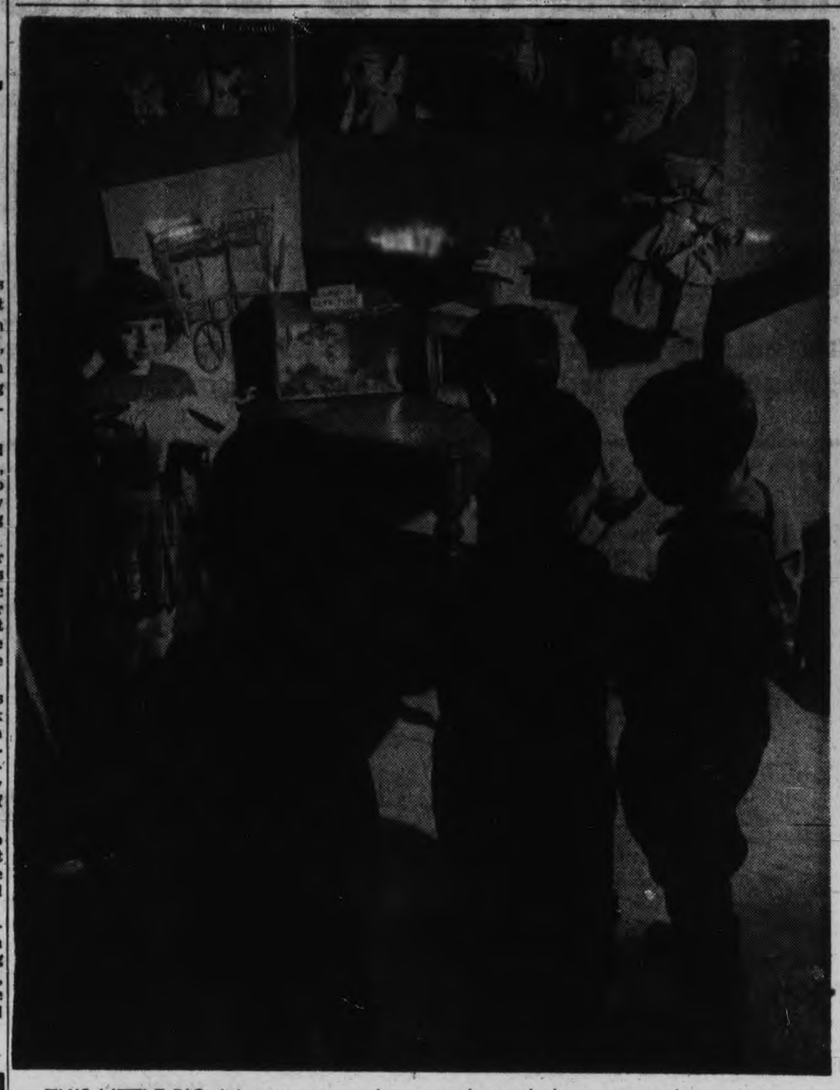
War Housing Disposal To Wait Year

1952 Fixed As Year For Clearance Of Hatton Property

Disposal of the wartime houses on the Hatton property at the west end of Charlotte St. has been suspended, presumably until 1952, when the agreement between Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and the city terminates.



An arrangement for proposed sale of the houses to occupants, contingent on their removal to other properties, was tentatively projected last year, but nothing came of it.

The general agreement for clearance of the area which is adjacent to the land of Civic Hospital, should be due next year for consideration. Until then, it is understood the tenants continue in occupation without any change in terms.

When that west end site was chosen for the erection of a block of houses for wartime production workers, it was definitely understood that they were for temporary use, and that the property would be cleared at the end of the war.

Technically, there has been no peace settlement, but sentiment of the council has been that the houses have served their original purpose.

In the meantime Canada has become engaged in another war with resulting shortages of building materials, discussions of controls, and virtually an extension of the form of national economy adopted during the former emergency.

THIS LITTLE PIG did not go to market, Sharon Kathleen Gallagher might be telling her Grade I Central School classmates who dropped in to the Public Library after school to have a look-see at the pupils' art exhibit. The pig is made of papier-mache and round about are masks, puppets, garden dioramas and chalk and crayon sketches done by pupils of all the publice schools. 3 Men Guilty Of Keeping Gaming Place

$75, Costs Levied; Nine Found-Ins Fined $25 Each

An attempt to defend themselves from conviction on a charge of keeping a common gambling house failed in police court Monday and Borden Herron, 680 Little St., Alphonse Spencer, Armour Rd., and Leonard Vyse, 683 Little St., were each fined $75 and costs.

As a result of the conviction of the three men as keepers of common gaming house, nine men pleaded guilty to being found-ins and paid fines of $25 and costs each.

Herron and Spencer called in their defence two of the men charged as found-ins, Joseph Wesenberg, 220 Caddy St., and Frank Vyse, 683 Little St., brother of one of the accused.

Both Wesenberg and Vyse said they had seen no rake-off taken or paid any themselves in the crap game the night of Jan. 6 in Herron's home.

"Just Friendly Game"

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw KC asked Vyse, "You say it was just a friendly game?"

"Just a friendly game," echoed Vyse.

Keith Deck, 754 Walkerfield Ave., who was called in Spencer's defence said he was with Constable John Wesley Miller, the undercover provincial constable who provided most of the crown's evidence against the trio, the whole evening of Jan. 5.

"He asked me four times that night to go down with him," Deck said.

"You admit there was a game on?" the crown asked Deck.

The witness said "A legal game yes."

Leonard Vyse told the court he was not calling anyone in his defence. None of the three men went into the witness box.

In argument on the evidence heard, Spencer said "It was the first night I was down there." He said he thought he was going down to take part in a stag party.

"Constable Under Influence"

He said Constable Miller was under the influence of liquor the night of the raid, Jan. 6, and "I don't think his evidence should stand up in court anymore than anyone else's."

The crown's case depended on whether or not a rake-off was taken, the magistrate said. He said the constable gave evidence that rake-offs were taken in three separate instances.

"I accept the evidence of Constabel Miller in this case," he said.

Deck pleaded guilty to being a found-in but asked permission to address the court. Given permission, he said he was asked by the constable four times to go to Herron's home.

"Is it right for a police officer to take a man to a common gaming house knowing that it is a common gaming house?"

"I don't know that I should answer that," the magistrate said. The discussion then branched off to the subject of why everyone at the house should be charged as a found-in whether he had paid any rake-off or even taken part in the game.

Everyone A Found-In

The magistrate read out the section of the criminal code involved. It made no differentiation between men actively engaged in the game or mere spectators. Everyone was a found-in.

"I think $27.50 is a little bit in excess," said Deck. "I think $10.00 and $2.50 costs may be sufficient if I may be so bold." There was general laughter in the court room at this.

Crown Attorney Bradshaw said Deck was lucky not to be charged with a public mischief by giving a wrong name to the officers the night of the raid.

The other men who pleaded guilty and were fined $25 and costs as found-ins were: Frank Vyse, Joseph Wesenberg, Frank McCormick, RR 1, Omemee, Eric Porter, 129½ Hunter St., David S. Martin, 438 Edison Ave., Don Doran, RR 1 Omemee, John T. McMahon, 5 Maniece Ave., and Earl Carveth, 438 Edison Ave.

One man, Henry C. Dunn, 375 Holloway Drive was given an adjournment until March 9.

Electric Washer, Chair Saved As Home Burns

The frame home of Alfred Wright, his wife and two children was destroyed by fire with all its contents Monday afternoon. The house is on the 13th line of Seymour township.

The fire was believed to have started from a defect in the wiring near the chimney in the second floor of the house. In an hour-and-a-half there was nothing left.

Farmers from the area flocked to try to help, but the flames were engulfing the building and there was little they could do. About three-quarters of an hour after the fire started a pumper from the Campbellford fire department arrived, but by then only the frame of the home was standing and it about to collapse.

They pumped water onto a nearby garage, so that sparks would not ignite it as well.

Only one chair and a washing machine were saved. No one was hurt.

A hired cook first discovered the fire and the alarm was given over the rural phone, but all efforts to save the house were of little avail.

The Wrights have two children, Jean, 15 and Arthur, 12.

Convertible Top Is Slit Open

The canvas top of a 1951 convertible car was slit open and a knitting bag, containing two pair of gloves, and a pair of black sandals taken from the rear seat as the car was parked in the lot behind the customs house on Charlotte St. Monday night.

The car was driven by Mrs. Jack Richardson, 1295 Monaghan Road. She said she went into the coffee shop at the Empress Hotel with a friend, Mrs. Ken Robertson, 489 George St.

When they returned about 11.45 p.m., they found the articles missing. They called police and then Mrs. Robertson discovered the slit in the roof to let the thief reach the door handle and unlock the door.

Constable Claire McGillen investigated.

$6,000 Option On Calf Pays Off; It's A Boy!

"Lifloc Macaber Re-Echo," a Holstein matron in the Lifloc herd owned by Norman McConkey, presented him with a $6,000 calf Sunday morning. It is a young male son of Elmcroft Wager and Macaber Re-Echo under pre-natal option to the Maple Cattle Breeders' Association. Had this Re-Echo cow brought forth a baby heifer, the Maple people who were here recently were not interested. Their bid of $6,000 was for male issue. Presumably Mr. McConkey was keenly hopeful that the Holstein cow he bought down in the Brighton country would not fail him in the gender of offspring.

Cattle breeders, these days are not so interested as they used to be in the male sex of their herd births. The emphasis is on heifer calves to grow up as milk producers. But, this Lifloc baby was an exception.

Option With Strings

When representatives of the Maple Cattle Breeders' Association recently visited Lifloc Farm and bought the young bull, Clyde Hill Royal Elsie Lad, which Mr. McConkey imported from the United States, they took an option on the calf of "Macaber Re-Echo", providing it was a male.

The men from Maple were interested in securing an eventual sire from the Re-Echo line for their artificial breeding unit. If it had come a heifer it was still of value to Lifloc herd in the fact that both its dam and granddam have outstanding milk production records.

Early last winter "Re-Echo Mae Burke", owned by John Houck of Brampton completed a new world record of production, and her daughter, "Lifloc Macaber Re-Echo" is now completing another record. But, that is another story.

The "Mae Burke" record was celebrated at Brampton with ceremony in which Holstein producers and representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture participated.

Pay Tribute

Several hundred farmers assembled in Brampton town hall to pay tribute to the performance of "Re-Echo Mae Burke", which traces to a good Holstein herd near Brighton.

With two big records on the maternal side, the Lifloc bull calf born at the week-end acquires outstanding value as a prospective sire of milk producers. If it had been a daughter it would still have commanded attention and price as a newcomer in the Re-Echo line.

Mr. McConkey was stricken with flu on Saturday, and only today was able to get up for an hour or two. Briefly on his feet again he confirmed the report of his Re-Echo cow's gift to him.

Books To Cost City $2,000 Less

Premier Leslie Frost's report that the Department of Education will pay for public and separate school text books will mean that $2,000 and perhaps more will be lopped off the Board of Education's expenses each year.

K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, said the board spent about $2,000 on readers, spellers and arithmetic books last year. The board also bought "permissive" text books for such subjects as social studies.

Mr. Frost, in his budget speech, said the provincial government had decided to relieve parents of the cost by re-imbursing school boards for expenditures in 1951 on approved text books for Grades 1 to 8 up to $3 for each pupil of average attendance.

With 4,000 pupils attending public schools in the city, the board could receive up to $12,000 for books.

In the past, pupils have been paying fees of from five cents to 20 cents and been supplied text books which they could keep. In the last few years this fee has not come near paying for the books.

Mrs. McIntyre Funeral

Pallbearers at the funeral of Mrs. Jean McIntyre, the former Jean Gillespie, were Morris Parry, John Drummond, Wilfred Davey, Arthur Elmhirst, Clifford Hutchison and Bert Scott. Mrs. McIntyre, widow of the late John A. McIntyre, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Drummond, Park St. The Rev. F. W. Craik, St. James' United Church officiated, and burial was in Fife's Cemetery, Otonabee.

Man Found Dead On Floor Rooming House

James Duncan, 51, was found lying dead on the floor of his room where he boarded at 223 Princess St., Monday afternoon by a fellow boarder.

Dr. C. B. Waite, provincial pathologist, performed an autopsy this morning but no results were known by noon today.

Police reported that Duncan had been a heavy drinker during weekends. His liquor permit book revealed that Friday he bought two 13-ounce bottles of whisky and Saturday a 26-ounce bottle and a 13-ounce bottle.

When they examined his room none of the liquor was found.

He last ate Saturday noon. Mrs. Edna Bigelow, his landlady, said Duncan was in his room all day Sunday.

Monday morning another boarder, Louis Kroch called Duncan and asked if he were going to work. Duncan said he wasn't.

At noon Kroch went into Duncan's room to see how he was. He reported that Duncan "looked badly." He refused to have anything to eat. Kroch got him a drink of water and left some water in an empty whisky bottle for him.

About 5.15 p.m. another boarder, Albert Lane, went into his room to see how Duncan felt and found him lying dead on the floor.

Coroner Dr. H. G. Carleton was called and he ordered a post mortem.

Fanciful Variety and Designs In Public School Art Exhibit

What schoolchildren are up to these days with paints, crayons, scissors, paper, string and lots of glue, is getting a big showing in the gallery of the Public Library this week. It is an exhibit of the art work carried on in the Public Schools, directed by Miss Constance Wagar, supervisor of art, and by the classroom teachers. It is a startling, gay and fascinating show. Even if children do not gawk at what they have done, parents will. The variety is remarkable, the ingenuity wonderful. On view are all sorts of things from big mural designs to papier-mache dogs and puppets which really do dance when strings are pulled.

There are Easter eggs, solid, colorful paper ones, (Grade 2). There are paintings made by daubing fingers in paint and then waving them over a big sheet of paper in time to music. There are big murals, usually group projects, with fanciful designs cut out from paper, or stencilled, with bits of glue and blobs of color to vary the work; there are several really fine murals, interesting in design and color, for instance, the long one in the main gallery, on the theme of insects. The legend below is excellently printed.

Wax Crayons

Wax crayons are back in use again in the schools, and among the more interesting and pleasing exhibits are designs made on scratch-boards, the colored wax being put on layer over layer and scratched off according to mood or intention.

There are stained-glass windows; made from paper, colored by the pupils, then oiled and varnished to make them translucent in front of light. The lead of the windows is made from cut-out black paper designs pasted on the colored paper.

S. J. Black Heads Rotary Club

Sidney J. Black was chosen Monday as the Rotary Club's president for 1951-52 to succeed Ald. Hugh Waddell. Ald. John Dewart was elected vice-president, Peter LaBranche secretary, and John McColl treasurer at a meeting of the 1951-52 board of directors.

Members of the board of directors elected at Monday's noon meeting were: S. J. Black, Clare Collins, Maxwell Comstock, Jack Dewart, Robert Maybee, Gordon Monkman and B. F. Smitheram.

Mrs. Edith Welch

The Rev. Ivan Morgan of Murray St. Baptist Church officiated at the funeral service Monday for Mrs. Amy Edith Welch at the Comstock Funeral Home. Mrs. Welch died suddenly on Friday. Pallbearers were D. A. Loomis, W. G. Shiner, Walter Garbutt, Stanley Gillespie, David Luther and Robert Dorrell. Burial was at Little Lake Cemetery.

Five City Youths Arrested By OPP On Breakin Charges

With the arrest of five Peterborough youths since midnight, provincial and city police believe they have nabbed the gang that is responsible for recent breakins into nearby rural service stations.

Lodged in the County Jail at 1:30 p.m. today and each facing two charges of breaking, entering and theft are:

Claude Norman Johnson, 17, 627½ Oxford Street;

Ken Meeks, 332 Euclid Avenue;

Neil May, 17, Antrim Street;

Paul Henry Thompson, 18, 121 Hazlitt Street; and

Douglas Alfred Johnson, 17, 650 Armour Road.

They were remanded in custody today at noon today and will appear Wednesday morning in police court.

Police say several other arrests —all involving 'teen-agers — are pending.

Two Charges Each

The five are charged with breaking, entering and theft at the Mitchell service station, Sherbrooke St., early Sunday; and the Brookside service station shortly before midnight Monday.

Earl Tully, proprietor of the Brookside pavilion, saw the men enter his garage and he called the provincial police. When the officers arrived the culprits made a run for it. At least one got away in a car and two or three others were observed running away.

Detective Sergeant W. A. (Bud) Clarke and city police worked all night and morning in co-operation with the provincials in rounding up the suspects.

Four tires, 10 spark plugs and other auto accessories stolen from Mitchell's have been found. And at least two tires stolen from Tully's.

Two Statements

It is understood that at least two youths have given statements admiting these two breakins, but they deny any knowledge of the four breakins over the weekend of December 10 that netted thieves cash and merchandise valued at $360.

No cash has been found among the loot to date, police say. At press time a full inventory of the recovered stolen property—nearly all car accessories—was not available.

Entry to the Mitchell garage Sunday was made by crawling through a stove pipe outlet, after a covering piece of tin was pried off. Missing goods—valued in all at $250—were reported to be six unused tires and tubes; spark plugs, ballpoint pens, and a quantity of cigarettes, matches and tobacco, chocolate bars and candy.

Value of the tires, tubes, motor oil and auto parts taken from the Tully service station has not yet been assessed.

Cash On Line

No longer will the "wash the dishes" act work in local restaurants; it will be cash on the line or else. The department of health said today that more than 50 per cent of the restaurants have installed electric dishwashers. Last year new regulations forced restaurants to have at least three sinks. Most decided to install the new dishwashers. Health officials are pleased with the new system for it eliminates the human touch.

GOOD SPEECH, BOSS—Reconstruction Minister Winters and his attractive wife greet Prime Minister St. Laurent wnth big smiles after the prime minister in his capacity as Liberal leader addressed the National Liberal Federation advisory council in Ottawa. The party's policy-making body held a three-day session in the capital.

Magistrate Travels Big District

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)—Until two years ago, Fred C. Cornell of Fort Frances had been in a courtroom only once.

But last year he presided at more than 800 civil and criminal hearings as magistrate of Rainy River district.

At present he is acting magistrate for a stretch of the northwestern Ontario frontier ranging north about 300 miles to Red Lake and including courtrooms at that isolated mining centre and at Kenora, Fort Frances, Rainy River and Atikokan.

There are about 50,000 people in his territory.

Mr. Cornell is a quiet-spoken man standing six feet four. He has the privilege of performing civil weddings, although he has been asked to do so only once since magistrates and judges received that authority last year.

Sometimes he presides at the preliminary hearing in a murder case, but for the most part his cases are minor—infractions of the Liquor Control Act, traffic cases, and violations of provincial law.

Common sense is his stock in trade. He had no legal training when he was appointed a magistrate. He was a logging contractor and miller. And as a miller, he was exempt from jury duty under an old-time law.

But he was sworn once for a grand jury, and that was his only court appearance before he became a magistrate.

Woman Aged 96 Observes 7th Birthday In Hospital

Mrs. John Robert Reynolds celebrated her 96th birthday at the Civic Hospital Monday. Formerly of Bethany, Mrs. Reynolds has been a patient at the hospital for the past seven years as a result of a hip injury. The no-visitors ban at the hospital did not dampen Mrs. Reynolds' spirits. She spent the day writing letters and enjoying the view from her room window on the third floor overlooking the city.

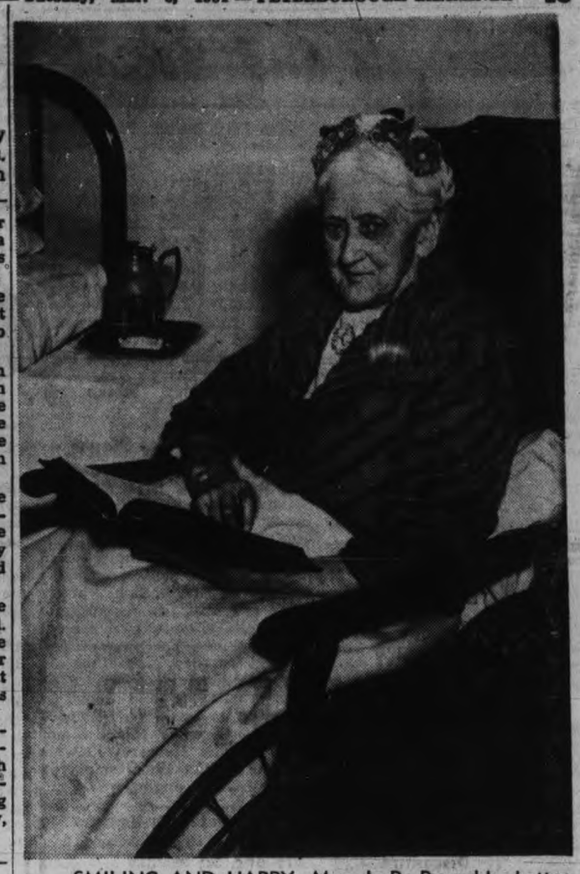
Formerly from Bethany and Cavan, Mrs. Reynolds is affectionately known as Aunt Kitty by her friends and the nurses at the hospital. She was the former Katherine Smith, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith.

Expert Tailoress

Before her marriage, Mrs. Reynolds was an expert tailoress and was employed with the Newton Brothers of Cavan. Following her marriage, she and her husband farmed in Cavan township. They were both active workers in Bethany United Church and Mrs. Reynolds taught the Young Men's Bible Class. She was also active in the Ladies' Aid and a life member of the Women's Missionary Society.

Mrs. Reynolds and her only son Calvin continued farming in Cavan for several years following her husband's death. In 1921 they purchased a farm one mile south of Bethany where her son still lives.

Approximately 14 years ago Mrs. Reynolds fell and broke her hip and spent many months in a cast and then required crutches for walking.



After her son's marriage, she refused to remain idle and kept house for many families who needed help.

Seven years ago her leg began to cause trouble and amputation was found necessary. In spite of her age she came through the ordeal with flying colors. Since then hospitalization has been necessary.

Always smiling and happy she is remarkable, was Superintendent John Hornal's comment. She reads the newspaper every day and has excellent hearing and sight for her age.

Last summer when the move was made to the new hospital. Mrs. Reyonlds spent some time at Queen Mary Hospital. Later she moved to her new home at the Civic Hospital, where she is quite contented.

When visitors are again admitted to the hospital, Mrs. Reynolds will be happy to chat with any who call. But in the meantime, the mailman is bringing the greetings, "Happy Birthday, Aunt Kitty."

SMILING AND HAPPY, Mrs. J. R. Reynolds, better known as Aunt Kitty, celebrated her 96th birthday at the Civic Hospital Monday. This is the seventh birthday that Mrs. Reynolds has spent at the hospital where she has been a patient since her leg was amputated seven years ago.

World Be A Lot Happier If More Worked With Hands

By JACK SCOTT

VANCOUVER, Mar. — I had begun the agonizing and annual job of hacking down the blackberry vines in the jungle we call a back yard. Come June or July I see me lying on a patch of lawn there with a tall and frosted drink.

When the Doc ambled down the path I was into my second wind and feeling good. There is something about getting a blackberry vine out by the roots that satisfies.

"I like to watch you work honestly," the Doc said. He lowered his weight to the garage steps and rolled a cigarette. "If more men worked with their hands and fewer worked wtih their brains it would be a lot happier world."

"Good," I said. "The other shovel is in the basement. I'm in favor of keeping you happy."

"My trouble is the same as yours, Junior," the Doc said, ignoring the invitation. "I went through life without enough sweat. Too much wear and tear on the brain cells. Not enough callouses on the hands."

"Oh, it's tough, all right," I said. "Now all you've got is a steady annuity, a daily oportunity to go fishing and a life of leisure. You know where your callouses are. Anyhow, I know a lot of weary guys who work with their hands who'll swap even."

"Maybe so, but a man who hasn't labored has missed something in life."

"An aching back."

"Something much more," the Doc said. "I'm prepared to argue that the man who toils with his hands knows a sense of accomplishment and peace that never comes to the man who works with his wits."

"Mitts versus wits," I said, joining him on the steps. "This I must hear."

Pleasant Ache

"One summer when I was in medical school I got itching feet. I was suddenly not at all sure that medicine was what I wanted. That was the summer your dad and I worked with the survey gang in the Rockies." The Doc's face mirrored his memories.

"That must have been an experience."

"Was. I remember we'd come into camp at night ready to drop. We'd strip and run into a stream for a shock treatment. Then a meal that would satisfy a hungry grizzly. I remember lying in my bed roll looking up at the stars and the sweet ache in my bones. Absolute contentment."

"That sweet ache. Me, too, Doc."

"I didn't know you'd ever done an honest day's work," the Doc said.

"Ran away from home once. Went down to Oregon to pick cherries back in the valleys east of Salem. We worked 14 hours a day in the trees. I remember that feeling. Be so damned tired and bruised and numb and I'd lie in the sweet-smelling hay in the barn and it was a real good feeling. Some nights I'd be so weak and floaty I'd laugh right out with happiness. There was an old berry-picker slept next to me. He thought I was crazy laughing like that, all weak and boneless."

"Well, then, you know," the Doc said.

"But is that a feeling of accomplishment? I bet you had a deeper feeling of accomplishment when you held up one of those new born babies and whacked it across its bottom."

"Tell you the truth, Junior, it never meant much to me. Even a trick operation never gave me anything more than a temporary lift. Just a kind of fever and excitement, but nothing that satisfied you. Right away I began to worry about the next patient."

"I suppose that's true of all brain work," I conceded. "There's never any pinnacle to it. The crest is always ahead."

"Exactly," the Doc said. "If there were a machine that measured these things it would show more real contentment and achievement in the man who has dug a clean trench than in the man who split the first atom."

Two Types

"I think I'd accept your theory on this except for one small item," I said.

"Fire away."

"Well, I've seen too many dog-tired, grimy, wornout guys on street cars and busses heading home after work. I may have felt guilty and a parasite, living on my wits, but I honestly never envied them."

"Ah, but you forget that the white collar people on those same busses are every bit as weary as the laborers. The grime of physical work will come off with pumice. No soap will wash away the fatigue of mental labor."

"Maybe you're right," I said. "Certainly I know a lot of white collar workers who dream of escaping to the hard, rewarding work of a farm. Often think myself I'd be happier just sawing wood all day."

"Probably not," the Doc said, "but it's human to go back to the simple things to find a purpose in life. Read any biography of Tolstoy."

"Those dirty old annuities keep clouding my vision," I said. I got up and began to yank at one of the more stubborn vines, but I lost my wind now and I'd lost some of the feeling of enjoyment in the work.

"It'll be a nice place to lie around in summer," the Doc said, getting up.

"That's the idea," I said, and suddenly it looked like a lot of work ahead.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL

Mrs. S. Malsch, president, opened the regular meeting of Central Home and School Association Monday evening with prayer.

A violin solo by Bob Hutchinson who was accompanied at the piano by Max Clarke was enjoyed.

Attendance prizes were won by the classes of Misses Richardson, Bennett, Esplen and Crown.

Mr. L. Bird addressed the parents in an exceptional talk on education. Title was "Head, heart and hands for years to be" and explained how children should be taught to use their heads to make their own decisions, their hands to be willing workers and stick to it like the pioneers and their hearts to have faith to carry them through.

He also spoke about the individual training given in the school. A very instructive film for the parents, "Learning to understand" was then shown.

Refreshments were served after the meeting by Mrs. E. Williams and her committee.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL

Father's night was observed at the meeting Monday of Queen Alexandra Home and School Association and usual business procedure was dispensed with. President Mrs. P. S. Dallin extended welcome to the fathers attending. Teacher Miss B. Hart and mothers Mrs. E. Outram and Mrs. H. Shelby were at the door. Mrs. J. Johnston, newly appointed religious education convener was introduced and spoke briefly of education week. Mrs. J. Arnott and Mrs. F. Shaw reported on health and publications.

Mr. Art. Black took the chair for a program by the fathers.

Barber shop songs by the put-put quartette and the inter-scholastic four were enjoyed and this group offered an octette medley. Mr. Harry Norhrop and son Terry delighted with piano duets, Spanish dance, Fiddle Faddle and Dizzy Fingers.

Mr. George Gatfield led a sing song for which Morris Duke accompanied at the piano.

Speaker was Mr. Alex Sinclair, recreation director, who outlined the education aspect of recreation in Peterborough. He was introduced by Mr. W. B. Gordon and thanked by Mr. F. Shaw.

Mr. Art Bacon mc'd a quizz in the 20 Question style with Messrs. Howden, Perry, Millen, Shaw, Mason and Axford the questioners.

Then, wearing pretty paper aprons, the fatthers served refreshments which had been prepared by Mrs. Harold Thomas and committee.

The attendance prizes went to Miss Hart's room and Miss Bonnycastle's room in the junior school.

Clothes For Every Occasion Shown In Spring Revue With Widest Variety Yet

In the fashion garden of the Jeanette Scott Chapter, IODE, (on the stage of the Collegiate auditorium) Monday night paraded the most varied revue of spring and summer clothes yet presented. The variation extended from lingerie (show-off slips, peignoirs and gowns) to glamorous evening gowns, the gap filled with everything for the well-dressed woman at home, in town or country, or at the beach for swimming and sunning.

And to keep the children right up to date with Mother, the youngsters of several chapter members participated in a showing of adorable small-size costumes. The young models did beautifully on the stage, even to the tiniest. Michael Turner in a very nautical sailor suit felt that he should have the spotlight and took a place at the fore.

Three Highlights

The three things mentioned with most interest in comments after the show were: The wedding gown; The bathing suits; The chignons.

The gown may well be considered the loveliest ever seen in Peterboro for it is an exact copy of the Canadian design which was shown in Britain over the weekend as this country made a bid for European fashion trade. Lovely Mary Helen Matthews models the gown and the matching lace headdress which has a hint of the Oriental in its styling.

Swiss-made bathing suits are new here. They are set apart by the hand-embroidered flower motifs, the all-around elastic band instead of boning to hold the strapless in place, and the fact they are all of fine wool. Another striking suit modelled was of cherry red nylon.

Now the chignon is the news in 1951 hair styles, being a way of hiding the difficult process of letting one's own hair grow in, or enabling the comfort of a short style and also the faminity of long hair for a glamorous occasion. Mrs. Mort Knox wore her chignon throughout the evening, sometimes tucking into it pretty flowers to enhance the dress she was modelling. Junior model Ann Lewis, who had a sleek and glossy short hair style that suited so well when she wore play clothes and bathing suits, went sophisticated with a side chignon in a date dress. And Mrs. Max Comstock covered her short hair with a chignon of white daisies tied with velvet ribbon when she wore a pretty semi-evening dress.

Quality Showing

The show revealed that local buyers are bringing here as smart clothes as can be found anywhere, combined with quality. They looked well from the stage because they are good material, well made, well tailored, and therefore easy to wear. The models being mostly chapter members are all unprofessional and do not always measure up to the figure proportions used by designers so sleeves were sometimes wrinkled and waistlines out of order, but these faults are remediable.

In coats there is shown the much-talked of pyramid coat, the all-purpose travel coat, and the shortie with the up-and-down sleeves, and featuring the full swing back. Also the gabardine coats for rain or shine.

Suits of all wool tartan plaids looked nice for casual wear. For Easter Sunday there is a nicely tailored monotone tweed, one color picked up in the lavender hat and gloves. The combination of plaid and brown suiting was new, the jacket featuring new length sleeves and the loose or belted look. One very neat navy suit is expressly designed for girls under 5' 5".

Navy led the way in the spring afternoon dresses. Several basic frocks worn with scarfs and flowers indicated their possibilities. One with very slim appearance was really very free in the skirt because of the all-around permanent pleats. It was finished with the fresh white touches on neckline and sleeves. Crosswise stripes in navy print made up a very attractive and wearable dress.

Designer's Triumphs

Labelled a trousseau number was a three piece costume. The navy taffeta wrap-around skirt and bolero jacket were removed to convert the sunni-gold silk frock with halter top for informal dancing. Well liked among the dressy styles was a very full-skirted navy taffeta frock with brilliant buttons down each side, worn by Mrs. J. A. McNeil. A scalloped closing on navy crepe was also accented by brilliant buttons. A charming suggestion for the summer wedding, dinner or dancing was a dainty blue lace frock with off-shoulder decoliette to be covered with a matching jacket.

Office and everyday wear was taken care of in the wool skirt and blouse and sweater set combinations. For later on there were wash skirts and pretty pastel cotton blouses. The ideal vacation costume of sun dress and play suit was nice in navy linen and blue denim. Cool crease-resisting denims were featured in the play clothes. Terry cloth dry-off suits and wraps in carnival design and plain were shown for beach wear.

For television viewing and loafing, dressy lounging pyjamas and housecoats were suggested. Pale blue nylon made up in a floor length coat style was called the "travel coat" because of its packability. Luxurious pink satin and lace made the gown and negligee set and pale pink nylon the gown and peignoir.

Concluding the show with the wedding scene, models representing the guests in formal evening attire took their places, Mrs. B. R. Smyth in green taffeta frock was soloist and the bridesmaids, Anne Lewis and Audrey Allen, were in frocks of violet and spring sun gold The bride's mother, (Mrs. James Matthews, mother of the bride model), modelled a beautifully suitable gown made on flowing lines with trumpet skirt of ciral pink crepe.

Commentator Brenda Davies called attention to the make-up, the flowers and the jewelery and to box style handbags featured. Mrs. Davies also spoke of the suite of jewelry, locally manufactured, which enhanced her appearance in an evening gown for the second chapter of the show.

Personnel

The adult models were Miss Anne Heideman, Mrs. James Matthews, Mrs. Gordon Harrison, Mrs. B. R. Smyth, Mrs. Mort Knox, Mrs. Max Comstock, Mrs. J. A. McNeill, Mrs. E. G. Turner, Mrs. Ken Robertson, Miss Mary Helen Matthews, Miss Audrey Allan and Miss Ann Lewis.

The youngsters were Barbara Northrop, Mary Allin, Vicki Weir, Vallery Smith, Peter McGuire, Alma Boate, Tommy LaBranche, Bobbie Godson, Carol and Jeannie Kelly, Michael and Marilyn Turner.

The committee in charge included Mrs. Philip Turner, convener, Mrs. B. R. Smyth, assistant, Mrs. E. G. Turner, models, Mrs. Ken. Kingston, decorating, Mrs. Harry Northrop, tickets, Mrs. John A. McColl, wardrobe, Mrs. P. J. LaBranche, publicity, Mrs. R. T. Bogle, ushering.

The Revue will be presented again this evening.

Draw prizes for each evening have been donated by local merchants.

THIS STATUE by Robert Roussil, depicting "Peace," now on display in front of the Galerie Agnes in Montreal has become a bone of contention. Police say that it contravenes a city bylaw banning the outdoor exhibition of nude or semi-nude art. But art lovers claim its true to life and there's nothing wrong with exhibiting it.

Gloria Swanson Scores At 51 In Hits On Stage, Screen

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK — (CP)—It was eight years ago that glamorous Gloria Swanson voiced the sentimental wish "I'd like to finish off my movie career in a nice way—with an exclamation point instead of a dreary period."

Eight years later, she is still a box office best seller on the stage as star of "Twentieth Century" at Broadway's Fulton Theatre and as film start in the hit movie, "Sunset Boulevard." On both radio and television she is one of the busiest and most successful of performers. In the business world she is a successful manufacturer of new plastics, alloys and smart dress patterns for textile manufacture.

In the stage version of "Twentieth Century," which is attracting $23,000 a week and more on Broadway where $16,000 gross is adjudged to be a hit, she is playing the glamorous screen star which she is, in fact, in real life. Her role in "Sunset Boulevard" won her acting awards from nationwide critics' polls and such praise that she is one of the chief candidates for the Film Academy award.

Discusses Honors

Discussing the many new honors which have come to her at the age of 51, she seemed to take delight in quoting a headline from the Oklahoma City "Daily Oklahoman" which said: "Here's Gloria Swanson: at 51, she's still the bee's knees."

Miss Swanson doesn't take her age too seriously, despite the fact she doesn't like to be reminded she has had such a long career. It started when she was 14 years old and her aunt took her to Essanay Studios in Chicago. The next stop for young Miss Swanson was Hollywood, starring in Mack Sennett bathing beauty comedies.

"When anyone speaks of age," she said, "I often wonder what would have happened to Romeo and Juliet if they had lived many, many more years than they did.

Favors Comedy

"Although 'Sunset Boulevard' gives me a serious and tragic role, what I get most fun out of are the roles which make people laugh.

"I've often wondered what would have happened if I had pursued my orginal serious intention to be a singer. My first talking picture was 'The Trespasser' and I sang a song called 'Love, You're Magic Spell Is Everywhere.' I don't know how good a singer I was, but Elsie Janis coached me on how to sing this song.

"What Elsie Janis taught me and what I learned from Grace Moore helped me a lot, especially when I moved over to talking pictures and to speaking stage roles. I haven't done any singing in stage or movie roles since 1935, but those singing lessons made my speaking voice higher and now it has settled into a good, normal speaking voice."

If you happen on Broadway these days you can see and hear the ever youthful Gloria Swanson either on stage, screen or television. Failing these, you can find her in a half dozen or more other enterprises.

Tradition Ties Italy's Women To Burden of Family Life

By JOHN MYERS.

ROME — (Reuters) — After five years of emancipation, Italian women still show little desire to leave the strict circle of home life in which they have lived through the centuries.

The church is a strong influence in keeping the man's world and the woman's world apart in Italy. Although the Vatican does not condemn career-girls, it exalts home-loving womanhood as a vital pillar of Christian society.

Giuseppina Palumbo, a left-wing member of the Senate and one of 41 women in Italy's first fully democractic parliament, seemed to hold a minority view when she told a magazine recently:

"The contribution of women to social life is broadened by passing from the family circle into the outside world. Men and women should know each other completely in public as well as private life."

Prefer Home Life.

Beneath this statement the magazine printed the results of a questionnaire sent last year to 1,000,000 Italian women belonging to all classes of society and asking in effect if they thought that woman's place was still in the home.

Ninety per cent replied that they gave absolute preference to domestic life as the only sphere in which women can fulfill their natural duties of wife and mother. This high percentage of women regarded any but domestic work as a dire necessity only to be done if the men's wages were not enough to support the home.

Needed In Home

All the women questioned agreed that a mother's lack of constant vigilance over her children did irrevocable harm both to them and to society in general.

Millions of Italian women, mostly unmarried, work in shops or offices. But the number of girls willing to risk losing marriage prospects by starting careers in law, medicine, journalism or other professions is small. But domestic service as cook, maid or housekeeper, being more "womanly," is considered fully honorable.

Italian woman encroach little even on the more prosaic activities of men. For instance, it is still rare to see an Italian woman driving a car.

Changed Little.

In the primitive Italian country-side, woman's hard-working lot has changed little with the centuries. It is not unusual, even today, to see a peasant jogging down a rough mountain track on his mule, while his wife trails behind on foot bearing a huge burden.

Italian women, although they have voted with enthusiasm since the war, are not expected by their men folk to know much of politics or world affairs.

Yet the average Italian girl does not rebel against being forbidden to travel or go out too often alone, which might give her the reputation of being immoral. She sees nothing unusual, in the fact that her boy friend may not take her to visit his home, where his parents and relations would only wish to entertain an official fiancee. She is chaperoned to parties and dances by a bodyguard of relations.

These rules of conduct are not as strict today as they used to be, especially in the cities. But tradition is dying hard.

Adopting of Homeless Child One Of Finest Human Acts

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have been married ten years and the only sadness in our married life is that we have no children. We both love them dearly. We have had it in mind to adopt a child, but friends tell us not to do so. They say if we do we will regret it very much. Will you please advise us on this subject?

Dorothy Dix

MRS. E.

ANSWER: I have answered this question a thousand times in this column, but I'll gladly answer it again just as long as there are a man and woman left to ask it who have a longing for little children in their arms and there are little children who have no arms to go to.

As I have said over and over again, I do not think that there is anything else that a human being can do that is so fine, so altruistic and so far-reaching in its consequences for good as to take a little lonely, loveless, homeless, nameless child and give it a mother's and a father's love and rearing, a good home in which to grow up and a place in society.

Risk Is Inevitable

Whether the stork brings you your babies or you get them out of an orphan asylum, they bring care and anxiety and a certain element of risk. That is inevitable, for nobody can absolutely foretell how a child will "turn out," as the phrase goes, and whether it will be an honor and a comfort to you or a source of sorrow and disgrace.

But that happens with one's own children just as often as it does with adopted ones. Not many of us could climb our family trees very far without finding some ancestor whom we hope and pray our little Johnny, or Janey, wouldn't "take after." Given a good home, love and a decent upbringing, environment will go a long way toward offsetting any heredity, and it is a good bet that the adopted child will turn into the sort of man or woman that you wish your own son or daughter to be.

As to where to get a child, you have only to apply to some orphanage or child-finding society who will investigate you far more thoroughly as to your fitness to take the child than you can possibly investigate the child your are taking. The best proof that adopting children has brought happiness to many lonely childless homes is to be found in the fact that most of the places where children are to be given away have long waiting lists of people who are anxious for them.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: As soon as we were married my wife set herself to correct what she considered my faults and blemishes and to make me over according to her own ideas. She found fault with everything I did and said. My dress, my table manners, my voice, the statements I made, the phrases I used all came in for bitter censure, and for me to transgress her code brought on a scene. If I protest at all my wife declares that she "will let me make a fool of myself if I choose," etc., etc., until she makes me feel that I bore her to death and that she is ashamed of me. I dare not send her flowers because they are sure to be the wrong kind, or get there at the wrong time, or nobody is wearing flowers. I cannot even carry a conversation because I speak too abruptly, or am too positive in my statements, or I am argumentative, so all that is left for me is to keep silence and then be accused of being dumb. Can you make any suggestions about how matters can be helped?

J. C.

ANSWER: I am afraid not. A fault-finding woman can never be reformed, because she is always so self-righteously convinced that her persecutions are all for the good of her victim. Why women don't marry men of whom they approve in the first place, instead of marrying men who are apparently everything they disapprove, is a mystery past finding out. It can only be explained on the theory that they get a kind of sadistic pleasure out of tearing their husbands apart as they do their dresses and hats and making them over according to their own tastes.

The only remedy I can suggest for dealing with her is to give her a dose of her own medicine. Criticize her as severely as she criticizes you. Show up her faults and foibles. Turn the spotlight on her peculiarities and you can frighten her into silence. She will be afraid of retaliation.

DEAR MISS DIX: I was going steady with a young man with whom I was in love. He would slap me any time I did or said anything he disliked. He never told me he loved me. I just took it for granted. I introduced him to a girl friend of mine and he has married her. Do you think I will ever love again?

PUZZLED

ANSWER: If you can love a man who beat you up when you peeved him, and mourn his loss, I should say that your capacity for love was so great that nothing could stop you from loving any man who came along.

Urges Ottawa Establish National Educatio

TORONTO — (CP) — Although education in Canada is administered by the provinces, the federal government should take the responsibility for Canada's intellectual life and the production of the Canadian citizens, says Mrs. J. D. Detwiler, national education secretary of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

In a statement issued in connection with "Education Week," March 4-10, Mrs. Detwiler suggested the federal government should appoint a co-ordinator for education to work with provincial departments in order to establish a "Canadian pattern" of education.

She also urged federal government scholarships for provincial exchange students, to assist young Canadians to become better acquainted with the rest of the Dominion, and post-graduate scholarships for research in literature and history which would be tenable in Britain and Europe.

Establishment of at least one degree-granting federal teacher training college was also urged. She said such a college should be divorced from political control or "provincial bias" and should establish standards which would result in the development of a Canadian way of life.

Show B.C. Homes At Athens Meet

VICTORIA, B.C. (CP) — Pictures and plans of two modern Victoria homes will be shown as Canada's contribution to an exhibit at Athens, Greece, on the progress of housing construction since the war.

The display for the triennial convention of the International Council of Women at Athens later this month was arranged by Mrs. Elsie Shepherd of Victoria, chairman of housing and town planning on the Dominion's National Council of Women.

Mrs. R. J. Marshall, of Agincourt, Ont., National Council president, will accompany the exhibit to Athens.

One of the two houses chosen is priced at $8,000, the other about $10,000.

Education Part Of Defence For Survival

OTTAWA —(CP)— George Drew believes education must become part of Canada's defences if she is to come out on top in the world-wide struggle for survival.

"Never was there more reason to recognize," says the Progressive Conservative leader, "that the whole future of Canada will depend on the kind of education which Canadian children receive in our homes, our churches and our schools."

The former premier and education minister for Ontario, and now opposition leader in the Commons, gave his views in a statement prepared for Canadian Education Week, March 4-10.

He called on Canada to extend to every youngster the opportunity of receiving a "good education," for, says Mr. Drew, "in the world-wide struggle in which we now are engaged, education will play a decisive part."

Education Shapes Character

For it is the character of its people, he adds, which will determine the destiny of every nation. And education will help shape that character.

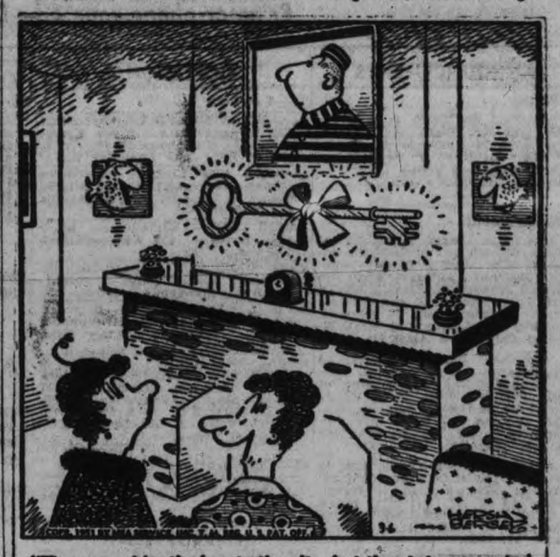
Decay and destruction of powerful nations march through the pages of history, principally because normal purpose failed to keep abreast of material advantage.

And history tells us, too, says Mr. Drew, of the survival through the centuries of nations with little natural wealth: "The character of the people surmounted the most severe trials."

Therefore it was important that "we should do all that we can to extend the opportunity to every child to receive a good education."

Teach Living

"We should also insist that while education teaches our children how to make a living, it will also teach them how to live.



"The money, comfort and material security which education helps to assure, may in themselves bring little satisfaction unless ethical and spiritual qualities have been developed which give understanding and appreciation of all those finer things in life, which bring true happiness."

Mr. Drew adds:

"I hope Education Week will emphasize the need for giving to young Canadians those qualities of mind and heart which are the strongest defence against the evil force which so seriously threaten the good life we now are trying to preserve at great cost and comfort."

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"They gave him the key to the city, but the state presented him with that uniform for trying to use it!"

See Texas Look In Summer Styles

DALLAS, Tex.—(AP)—You'll be seeing the "Texas Look" at country clubs and resorts this summer.

This was demonstrated to fashion writers as the initial summer showing of Texa dresses manufacturers got under way.

Opening the two-day showing was the collection of Malouf-Holmes, showing simple, thriftily-priced cottons in the shorts-shirt-skirt combinations that have become the American summer leisure uniform.

Cool, washable outfits for golf, tennis or loafing were shown in high-color chambrays and cotton broadcloth, with the special tailored touches that distinguish the designs of the casual southwestern stars.

Chaiken showed a series of sleeveless, full-skirted cottons in such colors as deep red, peacock, bottle green and lilac, as simple as grandpa's nightshirt, but capable of being dressed up or down by accessories.

Most of the styles shown will retail at less than $20, wash like a handkerchief and look cool and fresh.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Easter Hot Cross Bun Time So Make Them At Home

To make two dozen hot cross buns at home will cost you about one-third of the price of them in the bake shop.

If you are hunting for ways to ease the strain on your purse strings, that ought to impress you.

I do not want to antagonize any professional bakers but there is something about a well-made homespun bun that appeals to my homely appetite.

Try these anyway—for it is fun working with yeast.

Homemade Hot Cross Buns

Three and one-half cups sifted bread flour, ½ cup scalded milk, ¼ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 4 tablespoons good quality shortening, ½ cup cold water, 1 package dry granular yeast or 1 cake compressed yeast, 1 egg, washed and dried raisins or currants—one-half to 1 cup, grated rind of 1 lemon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg (or cinnamon if preferred). Sift the bread flour and measure it. Heat the milk to scalding point over very low heat. Meanwhile measure the sugar, salt and shortening into a large bowl, and when scalding not pour the milk over them and stir until all ingredients are blended. Add the cold water to this mixture to cool it to lukewarm then crumble the yeast cake into it and stir to dissolved. If granular type of yeast is used add it first to cold water, let stand 5 minutes then stir it into the scalded milk mixture. Stir in 2 cups of the sifted flour. Add the unbeaten egg and beat until batter is very smooth. Add remaining flour and the raisins or currants, lemon rind, nutmeg or cinnamon; beat well. Turn into a greased bowl for which you have a good cover. Plastic cover with elastic in edge is good enough if dough is well greased on top. The surest way to keep the outer surface of the dough soft is to brush it with melted butter or salad oil.

The dough may be stored for at least three days. You may shape the buns as you need them or shape them at once without chilling.

Pat the dough out on floured dough and cut into twenty-four squares. Shape each one into a ball, and place in even rows in 2 greased 8-inch pans. Cover well with heavy towel and let rise until doubled. Time is about 1½ hours if temperature is 80 or 85 deg. Fahr. With scissors snip a cross in top. Let rise 10 minutes longer.

Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 15 to 18 minutes. Do not burn.

Cool on cake rack. Frost with:

Plain Frosting

Beat 2 tablespoons margarine or butter until creamy, then begin beating 2 cups sifted icing sugar into it alternately with 3 tablespoons cream or milk until both are used up. Add ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Carefully outline the cross-cut, with this frosting.

Day-old Hot Cross Buns are delicious toasted.

MAMMA LOVES DADDY

That's why she will want him to buy this nice home near to his work (near Monaghan Road and Wolfe Street). Of course, she will love the large living-room and modern kitchen, the three nice size bedrooms make it ideal for the larger family or for the renting of a room or two. There are many other features we think you'll like, including a fine lot and low taxes. It's priced at $8,400, with easy terms arranged. Telephone Mr. Houck 8402.

LIKE A CAT

up a tree, costs are climbing; so for the man who can see a good thing and is quick to grasp it, here is a two-year-old home which can be bought for $6,500, with $2,000 down. Fully modern, it has a 16' living-room, modern bathroom and kitchen. There are two good bedrooms. Situated on a good lot west of Monaghan, near Lansdowne For appointment to see, Telephone Mr. Houck 8402.

DON'T BELIEVE US

when we tell you about this brick home near Stewart and Hunter Streets which has a living-room 14x31, spacious combined dining-room and kitchen with built-in sink and cupboards, four lovely bedrooms, 2-piece bathroom and separate toilet, new hot water furnace. Don't take our word for it when we tell you it's beautifully decorated, but if you wish a grand family home or one in which you can have a swell income, call us and we will show it to you. The price is $8,900, and low down payment will be accepted from reliable party. Telephone 8402 or 5345.

Combines Triumph

MARMORA, March 6—(ENS)—Teams representing Combines and Trail Rangers of the Rawdon Township Hockey League met at the Dr. Hamilton Crawford arena on Monday evening in the first of two games of finals, the Combines winning 7-6. Playing for Trail Rangers as all season, was Jack Wellman, who at the age of 52 is probably the senior hockey player in Hastings county this season. Although establishing a good lead in the first period the Trail Rangers allowed their opponents to creep up on them in the succeeding periods. L. Reid for the losers and Bateman for the Combines got three goals for their respective teams. There was a small crowd to witness the encounter. It is hoped to play the second deciding game on the same rink on Friday evening. Teams:

Combines—Goal, Ray; defence, Ritchie, D. Morton; centre, J. Reid; wings, Bateman, Don Reid; alternates, M. Reid, Doug Reid, Hadley.

Trail Rangers—Goal, Barton; defence, Faulkner, Wellman; centre, Lannigan; wings, L. Reid, Mumby; alternates, R. Reid, Leonard, Cooper, J. Morton.

Referee, G. Wellman; linesman, G. Lavender.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Vancouver badminton stars captured four out of five titles in the national badminton championships at Winnipeg, 19 years ago today. Jack Underhill won the men's singles and paired with Noel Radford to win the men's doubles. Anna Kier took the women's singles and paired with Radford to win the mixed doubles.

Off To Good Start

AUCKLAND, N.Z., March 6—(Reuters) — The English cricket tourists got off to a good start today on their short New Zealand tour when they dismissed Auckland for 146 runs. The English side had knocked up 80 runs for the loss of one wicket at the close of play on the first day of a two-day match.

Chief Of Clan Identified In Montreal

MONTREAL, March 6 (CP)—John William Alexander Joseph Mactavish gently acknowledged in a veterans' hospital here today that he is the 24th chief in line of succession of the Clan Tavish of Scotland.

And just as gently he shook his head in denying the possibility of going to Scotland for a gathering of chiefs of all the clans in this year of the Festival of Britain.

To Monday's report from Winnipeg that historian Margaret Arnett MacLeod had "discovered" him as chief of the clan, Mr. Mactavish said as near as he knows there has never been any mystery about his right of succession.

The Chief is a sick man, a patient in the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital undergoing treatment for arthritis. In addition, he is not a man of wealth.

"My ancestors belonged to Aberdeenshire," he explained. "But there is no castle—not even a manor house; no land, no money attached to the title."

He lives with his mother and two sisters in Sherbrooke on a small First World War army pension.

Mr. Mactavish's grandfather, William Mactavish, was the last governor of the Western Canada region of Rupert's Land, then in the possession of the Hudson Bay Company.

City Carpetball

After a very good season of playing the league games as scheduled the last few weeks has spoiled this, and the following games must be played this week: Fire Hall No. 9 vs Legion No. 3; St. George's No. 10 vs LOL No. 2; Legion No. 3 vs St. Luke's No. 1; LOL No. 2 vs Legion No. 3; Legion No 5 vs Legion No. 7 and St. Luke's No. 1 vs Fire Hall No. 9. All these games have a bearing on the final standing.

Legion No. 5 was home against St. Luke's and the first game saw the East City Midgets outscore their opponents in every end but three and were the winners 12-5. The second game went to Legion 9-7 and the difference between the two teams was a 4-end scored by the Legion boys.

St. George's had as their guests the SOE team and the Sons' team went ahead by scoring a 4 and 5-end to take a close 12-10 victory. In the second game the Southends captured every frame but three and split the evening spoils by winning 14-4.

Those two teams, in first place at present, met, namely Glens No. 6 vs Quakers No. 4. In the first game the Glens grabbed a 4 but the Quakers came back with 2 and 5 and only allowed the Glens to score twice more. So the first game was Quaker's 18-8. In the second, the Glens started strong again and while the Quakers came back, those fighting Glens had too much power and they went on to break even on the night's and season's play by securing a 15-7 win.

The Gracie Memorial doubles playdown results are: Nice and J. Wilson lost their first game 11-2 and came back strong in the second only to lose a close one 7-6 and were eliminated by Read and Garrette in two straight. The battle between Doubles Nos. 5 and 15 required three games to declare winner. McLean and Hopgood tied the first game up in the final end. Rusaw and Douglast scored a one, but McLean and Hopgood came back, with a three to take the overtime game 10-8. In the second, with McLean and Hopgood leading 5-3 their opponents went on to take the last three frames and the game 8-5. The deciding one was taken by Rusaw and Douglas 9-4 when they captured most of the ends and eliminated their opponents of the evening.

The doubles schedule for Wednesday, March 7 at Legion Hall: Rusaw and Douglas vs Harrison and Whitehead, at 7:30 p.m.; Bromley and Ralston vs Robinson and McPhee at 7:30 p.m.

For Wednesday, March 14 at Legion Hall; Semi-final round of the doubles. Winner of Rusaw and Douglas vs Harrison and Whitehead against Read and Garrette at 7:30 p.m.

The President's Cup semi-final game between St. George's No. 10 vs LOL No. 2, results are at hand. It was played at the SOE Hall. King Billie was riding high on the white charger when he met the Southenders and only allowed them to score in two frames while they scored in the balance to win by 11-5 margin. The second game: Oh, what it this —11-0—for those Orange Squeezers. The white charger was prancing high and the Southenders were eliminated from the cup with the first skunk on record and they are hunting for excuses.

The final round of President's Cup will be between LOL No. 2 vs Legion No. 7.

Don't forget the Happy Daze minstrel show April 3 and 4 at the Collegiate. Tickets are not ready.

CHARLES AND WALCOTT GET MEDICAL OK—Dr. Joseph Cahalan of the Michigan Boxing Commission, gave the once-over at Detroit to Ezzard Charles (seated) and Jersey Joe Walcott and pronounces them OK for their title go this Wednesday.

Research Leader Says Red System Curbs Science

OTTAWA—(CP)—Dr. O. M. Solandt says that although the Soviet scientist is a formidable foe, he still is no match for his western colleagues.

The soft-spoken Defence Research Board chief touched briefly on this comparison in an interview in connection with Canadian Education Week, March 4-10.

Far superior than Russian training, Canada's educational system is a strong national force says Dr. Solandt. It could be made even stronger by:

1. Expanding training in democracy for Canada's youth.
2. Increasing the flow of practical-minded social scientists.

The Winnipeg-born 42-year-old builder of Canada's invisible defence wall—a vast and mysterious wall of microbes and chemistry—says the Achilles' heel of the Soviet scientist is the rigidity of the state under which he labors.

Too Much Rigidity

His mind is hammered along a narrow Communist line. He cannot explore, under pain of death, diverging paths. He must obey the dictates of the state: his mind becomes bent to the will of state; he no longer is a free agent, probing the scientific skies as his mind wills him.

His western colleague, on the other hand, shapes his scientific future in the crucible of his own mind and will; he is his own master; his mind becomes flexible and he himself becomes more adaptable to quick scientific change.

Therein lies his advantage, says Dr. Solandt, for adaptability may well be the keynote of victory in any future war in which the weapons employed would be those shaped and reshaped quickly by the scientist in the seclusion of the laboratory.

And in a prolonged battle, such as that which could develop out of the current "25-per-cent war," the nations which could grab the initiative in scientific discovery and scientific change could be more certan of final victory.

Dr. Solandt's views are based on reports by scientists who were in close touch with Soviet research men during the last war, on information picked up from Soviet scientific journals and from the occasional intelligence report trickling out from behind the Iron Curtain.

Judging from this appraisal, says Dr. Solandt, it would appear that in any prolonged battle for survival—that is, a battle in which there would not be sudden shock attack—the western scientist was almost certain of coming out on top. The western scientist, so far, appeared to have the edge.

Western Advantages

For that, continues Dr. Solandt, he can thank the western system of education. But that did not mean that the western system was all good; or that the Soviet kind was all bad. Sometimes by forcing a scientist along a certain path, the scientist emerged highly skilled in a narrow field.

A combination of such scientists, providing they worked together harmoniously, could present a large, but not insurmountable barrier to victory.

Negative Approach

Dr. Solandt is vitally concerned with defence research, yet saddened by the thought that defence research is a negative approach to a field which tries to serve all mankind. Truth, to be effective, must be widespread. Discoveries in defence research must be harbored, kept from men's eyes.

The Defence Research chief recalls his own placid training in the schools of Winnipeg, Toronto, Cambridge and London. Of all the vast and significant scientific training he's undertaken, one recollection jars on his memory—the fact that in a Winnipeg public school he did not receive a sufficient introduction to the field of politics.

"But that was some 30 years ago," says Dr. Solandt. "Things may have changed by now."

Obituary

MRS. MARGARET HOURAN

Mrs. Margaret Houran of 184 Lake St., died on Monday in hospital following a lengthy illness. She was born in Ennismore township, daughter of the late Cornelius Houran and Margaret Davis, and has lived in the city for the past 30 years. Her husband, Patrick Houran, predeceased her in 1950.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Peter Thompson (Margaret) and Mrs. Edgar McBride (Anna), one son Leo, and a brother William, all of Peterborough. Another brother, Joseph, lives in Bridgenorth.

Mrs. Houran was a member of the Sacred Heart Church, of its Catholic Women's League and the Altar Society.

Funeral will be from the residence on Thursday to the Sacred Heart Church where requiem mass will be said at 9 a.m. Burial will be in St. Martin's cemetery, Ennismore.

Brintons Get First

HASTINGS, March 6 (ENS)—The Brintons beat Campbellford 3-1 here last night to open their TVL hockey playoff series before 700 fans. It was staged on soft ice. Lawson and Eakins shone up front for the winners as Robinson, Mason and Herrington stood out for the other side, both goalies going well. Black was out with an injury and McCaig was out for a time with an old injury. A spectator, Mrs. E. Petticrew, was hit on the head by a flying puck and was hurt.

Lawson scored twice in the first frame, aided once by Eakins. After a scoreless second chukker, Eakins made it 3-0 in the third, but Mason tallied then from Robinson for the Campbellford squad. There were eight penalties, each side drawing four. Teams:

Campbellford— Goal, Laverne; defence, Trumble, Tanner; centre, Robinson; wings, Mason, Cole; alternates, Pace, Herrington, MacMillan, Jeffs, Dooher, Peake, Smith, Nelson.

Brintons — Goal, Byers; defence, Riches, Berardi; centre, Reed; wings, Wilshaw, B. Anderson; alternates, K. Anderson, Eakins, Lawson, Richlark, McIndoe, Huard, Crowder, McCaig.

S. L. Phillips Dies In Marmora Township

MARMORA, March 6.—(ENS). — The death occurred Sunday evening at his home in Marmora Township of Sylvester Lewis Phillips. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lisa Phillips and was born at St. Ola, coming to this district when a young man.

A farmer for many years in Marmora Township, he also was an employee for a period of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited. He had been in indifferent health for a number of years.

He was a member of St. Andrew's United Church and of Marmora AF and AM, 222. He was twice married, his first wife being Sarah Jane Davidson. Of that marriage there are four surviving children: Mrs. William Simmons (Jane) and Mrs. Earl Eldridge (Florence) of Toronto, Mrs. Henry Empery (Beatrice) and Elmer Phillips of Marmora. A son, Lewis, died two years ago. His second marriage was to Florence Jones (nee Reynolds), who survives him. The funeral, under auspices of Marmora AF and AM, 222, will be held Wednesday at St. Andrew's United Church at 2.30 p.m. Burial will be in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

THE NEWLY COMPLETED "PEACE BRIDGE" at Frankfurt, Germany, is opened officially to replace the former "Wilhelmsbruecke" that was damaged during World War II. The new bridge is the last to be restored of Frankfurt's seven bridges spanning the Main river. All were blown up by the retreating Nazis in 1945. The new span is 870 feet long and 90 feet wide.

Fanciful Variety

Samples of pupils' book-binding are shown, and also some really delightful book-cover designs. These are made by blobbing one color liberally on a sheet of paper, another color on another sheet, and then putting the two, wet, face down on top of each other on the book cover. They are then pressed here and there by a finger or two or even a whole fist, then the two wet pages are slid off the book cover, and lo! underneath is a delightful, impressionist, two - toned cover.

Craft Work

Examples of craft-work are these book covers, salt and flour plaques, store window displays, puppets made of paper bags or cloth, dolls, and garden 'dioramas.' These, a Grade 6 project, are box-pictures,—trees, chairs, people, bushes and the like set up inside a box, suitably painted.

There are pictures of rocketships, the Korean war, mountains in Switzerland, Winnie the Pooh, and even some portraits. There is a complete hockey team on a rink, (the figures are made of pipe-cleaners) and, as part of the same project, (to provide for a school dinner to the team) place-cards, hand-decorated napkins, banners and favours.

Miss Wagar, art supervisor, says that the emphasis is put on picture-making in all grades, on subjects relating to the child's own experience and environment. With the exception of the Korean war and the Swiss mountains, everything on display follows the lead freshly and enthusiastically. Even the war picture may have had its genesis in the youngster's comic book, and the mountains in a Saturday afternoon movie.

All public schools are represented in the exhibition. It will be on display during library hours until March 17.

Try To Soothe Outraged Britons

LONDON, March 6 — (AP)—Admiral Forest Sherman, United States chief of naval operations, sought today to soothe the outraged pride of Britons piqued by the nomination of an American to head the Atlantic Pact sea forces.

"The United States Navy does not and will not seek undue responsibilities," America's top seadog said in a statement as he left here by plane for Athens. He added:

"Mutual esteem and confidence between all the Allied military services and their leaders is essntial and we must all do what we can to enhance them."

Sherman was clearly appealing to leading Britons — including Conservative Leader Winston Churchill — who raised angry shouts that Britannia's seafaring prowess and tradition were ignored by the decision to place an American in supreme command of Atlantic Ocean forces.

US Admiral W. F. Fechteler has been nominated for the top Atlantic post. His formal appointment has been held up because of the furore the question raised in Britain.

Sherman flew here Sunday from Paris after conferring with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the supreme commander of Atlantic Pact forces.

Mrs. Harriet Rowan

BETHANY, March 6 (ENS). — The funeral service for the late Mrs. Harriett Druisilla Rowan was held at the home of her son Clarence Rowan on Sunday and was largely attended by friends and relatives. The Rev. James Hampson of the United Church was in charge of the service and burial was in Graham's cemetery.

Pallbearers were Howard Rowan, Gerald Urry, Russell Urry, Frank Bigeloy, Louis Urry and Gordon Bigelow.

Measles Wane MOH Reports, Cases Total 1,266

While the flu haunts schools, hospitals and Peterborough businesses, measles continue to plague the children throughout the city. But the number of cases is gradually decreasing and the high of 1948 may not be reached.

Since January 1 the department of health has recorded a total of 1,266 cases in the city. This is 25 times the number of cases in 1950 and only 174 cases short of the last serious outbreak in 1948. In 1949 the department had only 23 cases throughout the 12 months.

Since February 22 the measles have gradually been decreasing, but the total for the 11-day period was 256 new cases. To February 22 the department had 1,010 cases. During January the cases numbered 223.

Monday Heaviest

Monday is the heaviest day for new cases. On Monday, March 5, the department was flooded with 80 new cases which developed over the week-end. A week ago the week-end's increase was light, only 48 cases. Other reports have between 24 and 29 cases daily.

Return - to - school certificates which must be obtained from the department are causing busy moments at the Water St. office. Monday the department issued 101 certificates for measle victims who had to wait their turn by the number system which has been installed. This system is similar to those developed in stores during wartime to form queues.

Flu cases are not reported to the city department, but schools report an increasing number absent with colds and the flu. One downtown garage limped through Monday with only half its regular staff.

Chicken pox is taking its toll of victims along with the measles to place second in the department's reports. Up to February 22 the health officials had recorded 37 cases since the first of the month. Nine new cases on February 25, two each on February 26 and 27 brought the total for February to 50. Since then three other cases have been reported, two on March 1 and one on Monday.

Mumps place third in the department's roundup with a total of 13 cases in February and two so far this month. To February 22 eight cases were reported and on February 28 five more were added. March 2 and 3 each had one new case.

Queen Alex Victors

Queen Alex edged out a 2-1 senior School Hockey League win over King George yesterday in Civic Arena. It was a neat tussle generally clean, with both goalies good. Stewart, with a goal and an assist, and Olmstead with a marker, stood out for the victors. McKenzie turned in a fine effort. Teams:

Queen Alex: Morris, Baker, McClennan, Jackson, Macklin, Brown, Reid, Hewitt, Stewart, Olmstead.

King George—Ellis, Simpson, McIlmoyle, Harding, Smith, McKenzie, Barker, Rogers, Butcher, Johnson, Roberts, Meeks.

Referee, D. Lawless.

Arctic Gold 3rd Favorite

Jock Whitney's Arctic Gold slipped to third favorite for the Grand National Steeplechase at the weekly callover of odds by Britain's bookmakers at their Victoria Club headquarters Monday night.

The American six-year-old jumper remained at odds of 100 to 9, but was passed by Shagreen, which shared second spot a week ago. Shagreen was priced Monday night at 10-to-1.

The race, about 4½ miles over 34 jumps, will be run at Aintree, near Liverpool, April 7.

Municipalities Get More Than Third Ontario Budget

TORONTO, March 6 —(CP)—Ontario municipalities will get more than one-third of Ontario's $265,000,000 budget in the next fiscal year, Premier Frost's budget speech in the Ontario legislature showed today.

An appendix to the prepared speech showed a wide range of grants to municipalities amounting to $100,756,000 in the next year, compared with $89,600,000 in the present fiscal year.

The biggest grant—and the biggest increase—was for education which will account for $48,145,000 compared with $43,720,000. Next came roads at $27,500,000, an increase of $4,000,000 from this fiscal year's $23,500,000 figure.

Other grants are for hospitals, health units and school medical inspection, assistance under the police and fire departments acts, children's aid, homes for the aged, unemployment relief, housing, conservation and drainage, community centres, railway tax distribution.

There were no announcements of changes in the basis of municipal grants.

Aggregate Investments

Another appendix—these were not read by the Premier—showed an aggregate public investments by the province and municipalities in 1950 of $345,000,000.

The province spent $73,935,000 directly in capital investment—the big share being $41,050 for highways. Provincial Commissions invested $166,656,000, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario leading the way with $161,000,000. Municipalities spent $110,900 topped zy $36,000,000 for schools.

Municipalities Get

The Ontario Municipal Improvement Corporation purchased municipal debentures worth $914,050,000 in its first year of operation, another appendix reported. It was established a year ago to purchase from Ontario municipalities debentures they issue for such projects as waterworks, sewage plants, incinerator plants and drainage works. It is empowered to borrow an aggregate of $50,000 to finance its operations.

Debenture Purchases

Debenture purchases so far are Atikokan $182,500; Delhi $50,000; Dryden $20,000; McKim Township $112,000; Sioux Lookout $37,500; Widdifield $12,500; Windsor $500,000.

The Ontario Municipal Board has approved a further sale of $1,500,000 of Windsor debentures. Applications are pending for a total of $2,852,274 from: Bala $140,000; Inter-Urban area of Burlington - Nelson $327,000; Chapleau Township $250,000; North York Township $1,503,000; Sandwich East Township $155,274; Scarborough township $330,000; South River $120,000.

DREAM HOPES FOR TROOPS—Faced with the problem of finding accommodation for married personnel in the Kingston area, the Army in 1948 launched a housing program as a solution. A total of 540 dwellings will be built before the program is completed. Top photo shows two multiple-dwelling units under construction. Bottom is a general view of double and single units showing the variety of exteriors being provided. The army collects the rent for these homes which have hardwood floors, stove, refrigerator, tile bathroom and heating equipment with fuel supplied.

Barriefield Housing Plan For Army Couples Now Rated Tops By Wives

By EWART TAYLOR,
Kingston Whig-Standard Staff Reporter.

KINGSTON, March 6. (CP)—They're about the closest thing to a soldier's dream house these days. That's what married personnel of the Canadian Army stationed in the Barriefield, Vimy and Kingston area are saying about the homes the army is building for them at the Barriefield housing project. And it isn't any wonder that the boys are all hepped up about their future homes. Here's what they—and their wives and children—get when the army landlord collects the rent: a modern-designed, one-and-a-half or two-storey frame house complete with hardwood floors, refrigerator, inlaid tile bathroom, heating equipment — with fuel supplied. What's more, just beyond their backyards are the island-dotted waters of Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River.

On a 200-acre tract of Crown land on the south side of No. 2 Highway a stone's throw from Kingston, the army plans 540 such homes. They stretch from the Royal Canadian School of Signals at Vimy to workshops of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers School and historic Fort Henry.

Construction started in September, 1948, when the army, faced with the problem of finding homes for married personnel, launched the scheme by ordering 50 homes. These were occupied by the summer of 1949.

An additional 213 houses were ordered in the fall of 1949 and 125 now are occupied, with the remainder expected to be finished by September. A further 277 homes were started last spring and are expected to be ready in the late fall.

The homes are built in single, double and multiple units and include a few bungalows. Most of them are without basements. Average cost is about $7,000. The first 50 are heated by coal stoves and later units by oil stoves. Telephones are up to the tenant.

Modern Features

A landscaping plan will provide parks and playgrounds. Streets are named after major battles in which Canadian soldiers took part. There will be churches, a shopping centre and facilities for community activities. An 18-room school, expected to be ready in the fall, will accommodate 500 pupils. Waterworks and power systems are being expanded as the community grows.

Theoretically, the tenant doesn't pay rent. His subsistence, or living-out allowance, ranged from $57 a month for a private to $108 for a lieutenant-colonel. This, plus $10 from his family allowance, is discontinued in payment for use of the house. The units, or homes, are in three categories; for privates up to and including the rank of sergeant; for ranks above sergeants up to and including captains; and from majors to colonel.

The wife of a young officer who moved into a newly-completed house last fall described the accommodation as "the next thing to Utopia." Asked about the present muddy streets and a reported shortage in power, she said:

"Well, there are times when the power isn't very good and cooking becomes a little awkward. These streets were a lot worse before they put the gravel on—but, after all, what are things like that? I don't think there's much any one living here can complain about.

"Of course," she added, "there are some people who'd kick if they were living in Buckingham Palace."

At any rate, there's a long list of applicants waiting to get in. One Second World War veteran commented:

"They're a heck of a long way from living in a two-room flat where you meet youself every time you turn around."

"You Can't Beat The Irish" Presented At Sacred Heart

A delightful three-act Irish comedy, "You Can't Beat the Irish," was presented by the Sacred Heart Young People's Club at the club hall Monday night.

With its setting in a large eastern city in the United States, the action of the play revolved around episodes in the lives of an Irish family of four, the Malones. These episodes, spiced with typical Irish humor, included three romances, plus the added intrigue of a mysterious princess whose identity is kept secret until the third act.

Theresa Walsh, as the mother, showed by far the greatest confidence in her role and was able to master the Irish brogue quite capably. She made the most of the humor in her role and drew laughter from her appreciative audience throughout the play.

A little over-dramatic but still effective was Doreen Coss as Peggy Malone, the culture-seeking daughter who discovers before it is too late that far pastures are not greener and that her manly Irish suitor, Steve O'Bara (played by Clark Ferren), and not the visiting Frenchman (Ronald Donovan) is the best bet.

Ray Fitzgerald as poetically-minded Danny Malone was at times rather disappointing. Seemingly somewhat ill at ease, he quite often forgot his Irish background and appeared as a typical young Canadian.

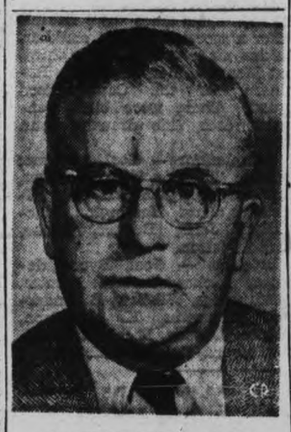
But as a whole, the play was entertaining with each of the players grasping their roles nicely.

The cast was as folows: Mrs. Mary Malone, the Irish mother, Theresa Walsh; Peggy Malone, her daughter, Doreen Coss; Tommy Malone, breadwinner of the family, Paul O'dette; Danny Malone, poet of the family, Ray Fitzgerald; Steve O'Hara, a manly Irish youth, Clark Feren; Armand Ravel, his cousin from France, Ronald Donovan; Ellen Murphy, the girl next door, Marg Hayes; Captain Denis Dooley, policeman, Tom Murray; Mrs. Nora Moriarity, Doreen Shaughnessy; Sylvia Cartson, mysterious princess, Marie Grady; Anna Ravoli, her maid, Rita Cross.

The exec staff was R. Mongraw, M. Coss, Miss M. McGuire, Miss A. Damario and Miss B. O'Reilly.

Musical entertainment for the evening was provided by Margaret and Olive Chretien, who sang two duets; vocalist, Tom Murray, and K. Leahy, who played several violin selections; Ronald Donovan tap-danced. Accompanists were Ed Coderre and Miss Ann Szammers.

Recommission Ship



VICTORIA, B. C., March 6 — (CP).—The destroyer Crusader, in mothballs since she arrived at Esquimalt just after the war, will be recommissioned about the end of this month, the Navy said Monday. Recently refitted, Crusader will be used as a training ship in the reserve training program, operating with the frigates Antigonish and Beacon Hill.

Opposition Flares

CAIRO, Egypt, March 6 (Reuters)—Arab and Islamic opinion flared up Monday night in support of the Moroccan Istiqlal (Nationalist) movement and in protest against the French administration in Morocco. Accusation of French "methods of cruelty" and "aggression" in North Africa came from the Egyptian parliament and from Arab organizations in Cairo.

New Wage Agreement

HAMILTON, March 6—(AP)—A new wage agreemnt negotiated between the Steel Co. of Canada and the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) at the Hamilton plant, will likely apply to Stelco plants in Swansea, Brantford, and Gananoque in Ontario, as well as the Montreal plant, it was learned yesterday. Details of the new agreement were withheld, pending its presentation for ratification by the union membership Saturday.

Urges Power Projects

ALBANY, N.Y., March 6—(AP)—Adolf A. Berle, Jr., state chairman of the Liberal party, urged Monday night that the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Niagara River power projects be developed by the federal government. He urged the legislature to approve a resolution urging congress to appropriate funds for and to authorize immediate federal development of the St. Lawrence and Niagara projects, with eventual transfer of major power facilities to New York state.

Massacre Valley Story Learned By UN Troops

HOENGSONG, Korea, March 6 —(AP)—Time and the retreating Communists have fully disclosed one of the bitterest stories of the Korean war—the battling march of half an American regiment through "Massacre Valley."

Of 2,400 men at Changbong and Seamal, scarcely half got back to Wonju as unwounded survivors, a staff officer said today after an investigation.

The exact number of killed still is not known but is estimated at about 300. Many more are missing.

Back at the grisly scene, which they recaptured, shocked and sympathetic marines put up a crudely-painted sign, "Massacre Valley."

The bodies have been removed, but all along the road on both sides are the helmets of the dead American soldiers and the fur-lined caps of South Koreans and Chinese.

The full scope of the defeat northwest of this ruined central Korean town in mid-February was clouded at the time by the siege of Chipyong and the great artillery battle that finally broke the Chinese offensive west of Wonju.

But when the U.S. 1st marine division recaptured the valley Saturday, the slaughter was evident.

NUERNBURG ZOO, Germany, has had a great event. The birth of three polar bear cubs. The mother who gave birth to one cub deserted it shortly after birth, but the mother of the other two (twins) is carrying out her parental duties to the full and will not leave the cubs for a moment. The three cubs were born some eight weeks ago, and will be seen by visitors in the spring. Photo shows the mother standing over her polar bear cubs (only one can be seen) at Nuernburg Zoo.

Warsaw WMS Given Allotment Of $125

WARSAW, Ont., March 6—The March meeting of the Warsaw WMS was held in the Sunday school room on Thursday.

Mrs. Dyson presided, opening the meeting with the worship service. The scripture reading was taken by Mrs. Grace Ray from Ephesians 3rd Chapter. The roll call was answered by "Your Favorite Psalm." Lunch was arranged for the St. Patrick's social for March 19. A temperance reading was given by Miss Clara McCracken.

Mrs. Thomas Russel read a letter from the Christian Stewardship secretary, Mrs. A. S. Williams, setting Warsaw allocation for the year $125.

The program was supplied by Mrs. Darling's group and consisted of a reading by Mrs. William Darling on "Joseph." A solo by Mrs. Dyson, "The Stranger of Galilee," and a reading by Mrs. Darling, "The Canvasser Called." Lunch was served by Mrs. Ida Darling and Mrs. Wm. Darling.

Return True Bill Against L. W. Jones

ST. THOMAS, March 6—(CP)—A true bill of indictment against Lawrence William Jones, charged with murder in the Nov. 21 shotgun slaying of his 51-year-old common-law wife, Mrs. Sarah Ann Evans, was returned by a grand jury here late Monday.

Jones, 35-year-old veteran of World War 2, was charged a few hours after the body of Mrs. Evans was found sprawled across a double bunk at the end of their trailer cabin home on a Yarmouth Centre farm, five miles east of this city.

The true bill was returned three hours after the jury retired, during which 10 of the crown's 22 witnesses were heard.

Urgent Plea For Missionaries

LONDON, Ont., March 6—(CP)—A tall, spare man, who for the past 20 years has been roaming Canada's Arctic and Northland wastes preaching the Gospel, made a plea during the weekend for help.

The Right Rev. R. J. Pierce, 41, Anglican Bishop of Athabaska, wants nine young men, fired with the spirit of adventure, and willing to face life on Canada's last, and toughest frontier.

One of Canada's youngest Anglican bishops, Bishop Pierce said the jobs he is offering are for strong young men without too many ties. But they must have one important tie — an affinity with God and a willingness to preach the Gospel under the toughest conditions in Canada.

They won't get any fantastic salary. Just the bare minimum stipend, $1,800 a year. Their housing probably will be substandard. They will have to provide their own transportation. And they can expect the Northland to take a heavy toll of their health.

Such, said Bishop Pierce, are conditions in the Diocese of Athabaska. There are nine vacant parishes, and they look like remaining vacant. He said his only prospects for filling them are three 51-year-old lay readers, whom he hopes to ordain as ministers this summer.

Ex-Belleville Teacher Awarded Fellowship

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—Miss Elizabeth Laughlin, of Toronto, a former school teacher, and Anthony Russo of Atlantic City, N.J., a former navy artist, have won the first Brevoort-Eickmeyer fellowships in painting at Columbia University.

The awards were announced Monday by Leopold Arnaud, dean of Columbia's school of architecture.

The one-year fellowships were made possible by a gift of $50,000 by the late Mrs. Florence Brevoort Eickmeyer in honor of her father and husband.

Miss Laughlin, now in her senior year of study for a bachelor of fine arts degree at Columbia, taught elementary school in Belleville.

Don't Need Excuse

NEW YORK, March 6 (AP).—Defence Secretary George C. Marshall said Monday night he did not think sending American troops to Europe would provoke Russia into starting a war. "Our antagonist needs no excuse," he said. "That government will strike whenever it chooses." Marshall, lecturing at Columbia University, did not name Russia but made it plain he was talking about that country.

Plan New Film To Explain Movie-Making

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 6 (AP)—Does it seem to you that Hollywood is getting more self-conscious every day?

Well, it does to me, even if you haven't noticed. There are movies about the town ("Sunset Blvd."), books ("The Disenchanted") plus all kinds of public-relations campaigns to explain what Hollywood is or isn't.

Now the ultimate has been reached. They are making a film called "I Am a Movie Studio." I went out to see about this project and was introduced to Gordon Hollingshead, veteran shorts producer at Warners.

"I got the idea for this film from the requests we have received to make films for commercial companies," he explained. "It occurred to me that if all those other big industries had films to sell themselves to the public, why shouldn't we?

Public Relations

"Also, wherever I go, people ask me if I can get them inside a movie studio. So I decided to make a film that would do a public relations job for the industry and satisfy people's curiosity about the studios."

He said the film will open with a helicopter shot of the studio. Then a voice will start: "I am a movie studio . . ."

"Then we will go through every department in the studio and show how each contributes to the making of a movie," Hollingshead related.

"We'll show the human side of a studio—like Gary Cooper talking to a bunch of cowboys outside a set or Joan Crawford walking her dog. And we'll also show what a massive undertaking the production of a film is."

Facts and Figures

Owen Crump, who is writing the script for the film, told me it will include a variety of facts and figures about a movie studio, Warners in particular. For instance, did you know that the plant has:

Enough electricity to light a city of 40,000?

Twenty-two stages, including one termed "a roofed ocean" 120 by 320 feet with a tank big enough to float a submarine?

A sound department that includes 9,000 different sound effects, from a peacock's love call to a burp?

140 aches and 12 miles of streets?

3,000 employees?

Shops that can make anything from an airplane to a yo-yo?

Begin Building Wall For Flood Protection

MONTREAL, March 6—(CP)—Work on construction of a long-sought wall to protect centres along the St. Lawrence river south shore from spring floods is scheduled to begin within a few weeks.

Mayor Paul Pratt of Longueuil, one of the communities that has been flooded during the last few years, said engineers were waiting only for the water to recede enough to permit construction to begin.

He said with the current mild spell, construction should begin before the month's end.

May Change

TAEGU, Korea, March 6 — (Reuters).—Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway told correspondents Monday the United Nations forces are capable of stopping any thrust down central Korea at the moment, but the situation would be "materially altered" if the Chinese committed all their forces and additional armies.

Packard Making Jet Engines

DETROIT, March 6—(CP)—Packard Motor Car Company announced Monday it had received orders for the production of J-47 Turbojet engines for the U.S. air force.

Although the value of the contract was not disclosed, it was considered likely it would reach several hundred million dollars.

Packard's present working force of 9,000 employees will have to be swelled to 28,000 to meet production requirements, the company announced.

The J-47 is the powerplant used in the North American F-86 Sabre fighter which holds the official world speed record, and the Boeing B-47, fastest known bomber.

Judge Upsets Election Of Mayor

Orders City Hold New Vote With Other Candidate

QUEBEC, March 7. (CP)—Mr. Justice Valmore Bienvenue of the Quebec Superior Court today nullified the election by acclamation of Mayor Lucien Borne Nov. 13 last, and ordered the city to hold new elections April 9.

The Superior Court ruling came down on a contestation by Barthelmi Leclerc alleging that the city clerk illegally rejected papers of a last minute candidate on nomination day Nov. 13.

The clerk on Nov. 13 rejected nomination papers of Henri Florent Methot, notary, on the grounds he was not qualified to be candidate for mayor. Mayor Borne was then proclaimed to be mayor by acclamation for a sixth term.

Election April 9

Under the Superior Court ruling the city must order the holding of mayoralty elections April 9, and accept the nomination papers of Mr. Methot.

Mayor Borne has held his post since 1938. He served three two-year terms. His sixth term which he had just begun was a three-year term.

Reds Strike Back Slow New UN Push

TOKYO, March 7 — (AP). — Allied forces attacked on a 55-mile front behind a thunderous artillery barrage in Korea today, but thousands of Reds smashed back on the eastern end of the battleline.

Elements of all three corps in the US Eighth Army pushed off in crisp weather in a general assault. Taking part were six American and Republic of Korea (ROK) divisions and smaller Allied units.

Scarcely had the push started with crossings of the Han River east of Seoul than two Korean Red corps with an estimbated strength of 13,500 counter-attacked on the eastern flank of the mountainous battlefront.

AP Correspondent Tom Stone reported "the sudden appearance of the massing Reds all but checkmated a US 7th Division attack that started earlier in the day." An ROK battalion was unreported at nightfall.

ROK troops on the American Division's right flank were forced to withdraw up to three miles.

Bitter Resistance

Red resistance was bitter elsewhere on the central and west-central fronts.

On the western end of the attack line, a battalion of the famous 27th Wolfhound Regiment of the US 25th Division surged across the twisting Han in assault boas.

The crossing point was not given. However, the 25th Division was located only last week as near Punwon, 15 miles east of Seoul.

The Wolfhounds hit the Red side of the stream in three waves. Other American elements surged across on the left and right. Early opposition was light but later the Reds opened up with mortars, machine-guns and artillery.

The U.S. 24th division, on the Wolfhound right flank, took one hill but encountered stiff Chinese opposition on two others. And on the 24th's right flank, British troops ran into dug-in Reds north of the lateral Yongdu-Hoengsong road.

The battle was fought over hard-packed snow remaining from a six-inch snowfall Tuesday.

Hit Serious Trouble

Only on the extreme eastern end of the line did the U.N. forces run into serious trouble at the outset. There powerful Korean Red attacks forced South Korean troops to withdraw up to three miles on the right flank of the attacking U.S. 7th division.

There was speculation at first that the Red counter-thrust, which preceded news of the general attack, might be the forerunner of an expected Red counter-offensive.

However, AP correspondent Tom Stone reported that the Red attacks seemed aimed at relieving pressure on the badly-mauled North Korean 3rd Corps in front of the U.S. 7th Division.

He said South Korean 7th Division troops fell back to new lines to stabilize and protect the United Nations line northeast of Amidong on the East-Central front.

There were reports of Chinese going into the sector for the first time. An American regimental commander told Stone: "We can expect some real trouble now."

Heavy Barrage

On the western front, allied forces surged across the Han river east of battered Seoul behind a rolling artillery barrage. Field dispatches on the action were delayed.

Shooting Accidental

ENGLEHART, Ont., March 7. (CP) — An inquest jury decided Tuesday that the gunshot wound death of Daniel F. Wright, 24, during a scuffle in a farmhouse near here Feb. 10 was accidental. Police said Wright was shot while watching his brother, Albert, 28, and Bertram Tardiff, 54 struggle for possession of a rifle. Provincial Constable L. T. Keeler testified that, in his opinion, the rifle was discharged when Daniel Wright tried to take it away from his brother and Tardiff.

Stalemate Only End In View Now

Believes Communists Preparing For Spring Drive

By LEIF ERICKSON

SUWON, Korea, March 7. (AP)—Gen. MacArthur said in effect today that no one can win the Korean war under present conditions. On a flying visit to the front the Allied commander warned, however that the Communists appear to be massing their forces for a mighty new spring offensive.

But MacArthur said in a statement that the Chinese Reds have no more than "an almost hopeless chance of ultimate victory."

He was no more hopeful of Allied chances for victory.

As the war now is being fought, MacArthur said, "the battle-lines cannot fail in time to reach a point of theoretical military stalemate."

After the front reaches a stalemate "our further advances would militarily benefit the enemy more than it would ourselves."

Even during a stalemate, the battlefront would not be completely static. MacArthur explained it would fluctuate depending upon the shifting forces by both sides.

Outlines Stalemate

MacArthur predicted the stalemate under these conditions which he said now prevail:

1. "No diminution of the enemy's flow of ground forces and material to the Korean battle area."

2. "No major additions to our organizational strength."

3. "A continuation of the existing limitations upon our freedom of counter-offensive action."

He did not explain the third point. Britain has opposed any renewal of the drive across the border into North Korea. Allied planes do not bomb Communist bases in China.

Vital Decisions

In carefully-chosen words, MacArthur said:

"Vital decisions have yet to be made—decisions far beyond the scope of the authority vested in me as the military commander, decisions which are neither solely political nor solely military, but which must provide on the

Won't Accept Russ Version Of Big 4 Agenda

PARIS, March 7 (AP)—United States, British and French deputies faced the Russians today with a solid front against proposed Soviet wording for a foreign ministers' meeting agenda.

As the third session of the deputies meeting got under way, informed sources said the west was determined not to give ground on the phrasing of the German issue.

The Russians have proposed that a future foreign ministers' meeting discuss "fullfilment by the four powers of the Potsdam agreement regarding the demilitarization and the prohibition of remilitarization of Germany."

The sources said that to accept this the west would have to abandon any plans for rearming Western Germany against the threat of Communist aggression. This would amount to accepting the entire Soviet point of view on Germany.

Already At Odds

Already at odds in their first two meetings on how the ministers should take up the German question—whether as a separate and primary issue, or as part of a study of European problems in general—the deputies clashed Tuesday on a definition of their own task.

At Russian insistence, the deputies are supposed to discuss only the technical aspects of the agenda and not go into the meat of the problems themselves.

Thus the deputies could agree the foreign ministers should discuss a peace treaty for Germany but could not themselves talk about the content of such a treaty.

Delve Deeper

At Tuesday's meeting, however, western sources reported, Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko insisted on talking about the substance of problems.

The deputies of the United States, Britain and France countered they were not authorized to hold such discussions.

Five Hockey Players Injured

BROOMFIELD, Colo, March 7. (CP)—John Holota, star Hamilton-born forward with Denver Falcons, was critically injured early today when a car carrying five United States Hockey League players home from a game overturned near here. Four other Denver and Omaha players were injured. The 31-year-old Holota who had two spells with Detroit in the National Hockey League, suffered possible fractures of the skull and right knee. The hospital listed him as in critical condition. Another Denver player, former N.H.L. forward Grant Warwick, 24, driver of the car, suffered minor cuts.

Three Omaha team members injured in the accident were Bruce Geisebrecht, 21, formerly of Petawawa, Ont., severe scalp cuts and a possible broken shoulder blade; Scottish-born Emanuel (Motto) McLean, 25, bruises and, George Homenuk, 28-year-old team trainer, formerly of Shero, Sask., severe scalp cuts.

Hospital authorities described the condition of Geisebrecht and Homenuk as "fair to good." McLean was released from hospital after treatment.

Hits Bridge

The state highway patrol said Warwick of Regina was driving the car at a high rate of speed when it hit a bridge and rolled over.

Omaha defeated Denver 5-3 here Tuesday night.

Holota, who last played amateur hockey with Guelph Biltmores, joined Omaha in 1941. While with Indianapolis of the American Hockey League in the 1942-43 season, he played 12 games for Detroit.

After two years with the Canadian armed forces he rejoined Indianapolis in the 1945-46 season and played three Detroit games that year, joining Omaha later in the same season.

The following season he went to Cleveland of the AHL where he remained until this season.

BULLETIN

TOKYO, (Thursday) (CP)—Canadian and Australian infantry advancing through heavy enemy fire, cut a Communist supply route on the west-central Korean front Wednesday. Reuters News Agency reported:

"Canadian and Australian infantry, leading the multi-nation Commonwealth Brigade, cut the Communist supply route between Yongdu and Hoengsong and scaled a ridge through a hail of machine-gun, rifle and mortar fire.

"As the Commonwealthers thrust forward several thousand yards, brigade commander Basil Coad said, 'The going is slow, but quite satisfactory.'"

Yongdu and Hoengsong are more than 30 miles east of Seoul.

Iranian Premier Murdered Armed Forces Alerted

TEHRAN, Iran, March 7. (AP) — American-supported Premier Ali Razmara was shot to death today in a Tehran mosque. The government of this politically-turbulent neighbor of Russia immediately placed the armed forces of the nation on the alert. (Western sources in London expressed fear that the assassination might increase the political turmoil in the oil-laden but impoverished country, which sprawls along a critical flank of western defences against Communism.)

Apparently the people took the news calmly.

The gunman who pumped four shots into the slim, 50-year-old premier as he entered a bazaar district mosque, was seized quickly. He was identified in a communique only as "a certain man." An informed source said the killer was a member of a small, fanatical religious sect.

Emergency Session

The Cabinet went into emergency session.

Shah Mohamed Reza Pahlevi quickly called in his advisers and named 70-year-old Khalil Fahimi acting premier. Fahimi was minister without portfolio under Razmara.

Razmara, who took office eight months ago, was shot from behind as he entered the courtyard of the Maschede Soltaneh Mosque.

"Four bullets were fired and two hit him in the neck and back and he appeared to die instantly," said an eyewitness,

"A policeman who tried to seize the assassin was shot and badly injured."

One informed source said the assassins were members of a fanatical religious sect called Fadayam Islam. Razmara increasingly has been under fire in Iran's parliament (Majlis) in recent weeks because of the country's economic difficulties, but there was no reason immediately apparent to observers here why the Fadayam should have struck.

Expect Partial Eclipse Of Sun Before Sunset

TORONTO, March 7 — (CP). — If skies are clear about sunset, residents of central Canada will have a chance today to see a partial eclipse of the sun.

The eclipse is expected to be visible throughout southern Ontario and in some sections of the northern part of the province, as well as in the southern half of Quebec and in the western portion of the maritimes.

In Toronto, where ocercast skies were expected to clear late in the day, the eclipse was scheduled to start about 5:20 p.m. EST to be at its best about 5:40 and to end at six o'clock, just before the sun set at 6:12.

Queuille Has Agreed To Try Form Cabinet

PARIS, March 7—(AP)—Former Premier Henri Queuille today agreed to try to form a cabinet to end France's week-old governmental crisis.

He was asked this morning for the second time by President Vincent Auriol to make the try and agreed after getting the consent of his Radical Socialist (moderately conservative) party.

Parliamentary sources said that a reported break in the long deadlock among the centrist parties over the election reform question — which last week brought the downfall of Premier Rene Pleven's coalition—indicated Queuille's chances of getting a cabinet were good.

His party was wiling to join with the Roman Catholic Mouvement Republicain Populaire (MRP) and the Socialists—the other main centrist groups—in backing a single-ballot election. The Radical Socialists previously had held out for a runoff ballot in departments where candidates did not get a majority.

Battle Ice For Eight Hours To Free Sixth Fishing Tug

PORT MAITLAND, March 7—(CP).—The fishing tug Lincoln R. was freed late Tuesday from Lake Erie ice floes. An attempt was planned for today to release the Irene Lloyd, still caught in an icefield in treacherous shoal water.

Five other fishing craft, trapped in the shifting ice a few miles off the mouth of the Grand River by a weekend storm, were rescued earlier this week.

Crews preparing to go to the aid of the Irene Lloyd said they expected the last rescue operation would be the most difficult of all. To reach the point where the vessel is locked in the ice, they will have to ease the tugs Vac and Cosley Bros. past hidden reefs and through water dotted with floating ice.

But veteran fishermen at this port spoke today of the need for haste. They said food and coal supplies will be running low. Food was dropped by helicopter Monday to Capt. Wesley Weiderisk and his crew.

Freeing the Lincoln R involved an eight-hour battle against the ice.

Capt. Arnold (Hickory) Clarke of Dunnville headed his powerful fishing boat Vac into the icefield at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday. With other tugs following, he smashed his way through three major icefields.

By 4 p.m. the Vac was within 20 or 30 feet of the Lincoln R. The crews shouted greetings to each other and fastened lines to the trapped tug. Then, with both craft under tremendous strain, the Vac slowly dragged the Lincoln R. to the channel and during the next four hours towed it easily to nearby Port Dover.

CAN RAISE PRICES

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) —Auto dealers got government permission today to raise the retail prices of new cars in order to offset higher prices charged by the manufacturers.

School Boy, 14 Dies Of Burns

LONDON, Ont., March 7. — (CP). — Walter Woods, 14, died today in hospital here of burns received Tuesday when fire destroyed his parents' farm home four miles from Petrolia in the Sarnia district.

The boy's clothes were ablaze when his father, Walter Woods, helped him out of the house. He was brought to London in an ambulance with a police escort.

Walter had just come home from High school in Petrolia and gone into the house to change his clothes. An older brother, Keith, was in the yard and noticed the smoke coming from the kitchen. Then it swept through the house.

Mr. Woods, in the house at the time, ran to warn Walter. He managed to lead the lad to a downstairs window where they got out.

40 Teachers Resign Jobs

BRANTFORD, March 7 (CP)—Forty teachers of the Brantford Collegiate Institute and Vocational School have sent their resignations to the Board of Education James Swinton, secretary of the board, said today. The resignations would be effective Aug. 31.

They were just token resignations and not the resignations of those likely to leave, Mr. Swinton said. None of the resignations stated a reason, although it was known that the teachers were not satisfied with salary offers made by the board, he added.

Chairman K. B. Campbell said that the board will deal with the resignation at its next meeting Tuesday night.

Italian Government Wins Arms Bill Confidence Vote

ROME, March 7. (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Atlantic Pact government early today won an overwhelming vote of confidence on its arms appropriation bill raising Italy's defence budget this year to $1,245,000,000. De Gasperi called the bill "our insurance policy against aggression." But Italy's whole left-wing bloc boycotted the vote as illegal and stormed angrily out of the Chamber of Deputies.

The vote for the arms bill—and the government—was 325 to 16. The Chamber has 570 members.

Before that, after eight hours of bitter debate in which the deputies scuffled and cried "swine" and "traitor", the whole Communist and pro-Communist bloc had shouldered its way out of the Chamber and refused to return.

The Communists demanded a secret vote.

De Gasperi, head of his sixth consecutive Italian government since 1945, demanded a vote of confidence "now—on this issue."

Defence Minister Randolfo Pacciardi challenged the Communists to decide whether they should be patriots or traitors.

He turned to the jammed Communist benches and demanded:

"Do you fight against Soviet Russia in the event of Soviet invasion of Italy?"

"No," the Communists roared back.

"That chorused 'no' which you dare to cry in the face of the Italian people will be a grave matter for you," Pacciardi warned.

He reminded the Communists that a split has already developed in their ranks over the issue of loyalty to Italy versus obedience to the Kremlin.

Kissed By Child Sight Restored

GLENDALE, Calif., March 7—(AP) — Bouncing around with children in a happy backyard romp, Gilbert Sawyer regained his sight after 18 months of blindness.

Sawyer, 42, a musician, told the story Tuesday. As little Michael Humburger, his wife's three-year-old grandson, grabbed him around the neck and kissed him, Sawyer said he suddenly could see.

"Everything I looked at seemed to smash into my face," said Sawyer, who was plunged into a world of darkness by an explosion in 1949. Sight returned only to the left eye, but a doctor said it was 'quite likely" that vision also might be restored to the right eye.

Dr. Clarence H. Albauch gave this explanation:

"Sawyer struck his head during the explosion and due to a haemorrhage or a clot forming in the brain his vision was cut off. I told him more than a year ago he had a good chance to regain his sight if he would build up his general health to the maximum level."

Ontario Scores Win AgainstNewfoundland

HALIFAX, March 7 (CP)—Ontario scored its first win in the Canadian curling championships today, defeating the winless Newfoundland rink 12-10.

Ontario scored four in the second against Newfoundland but still had to battle to tie Newfoundland after eight ends.

Tommy Hallett's St. John's rink took the ninth to go one point in front. Hallett's draw shot giving his rink the margin.

C. F. McCardle, playing last rock for New Brunswick, guarded his shot in the eight foot in the 12th end against Northern Ontario. A boy's last rock for the Northerners was not heavy enough to take out shot rock and the play went into an extra end tied 10-all.

Royal Navy Loans Submarine To Canada

OTTAWA, March 7 (CP) — A submarine of the Royal Navy will be loaned to the Royal Canadian Navy this year for anti-submarine training purposes, the defence department announced today.

The submarine Thule is scheduled to arrive at Halifax April 1 and will operate in Canadian waters providing anti-submarine practice for ships and aircraft of the RCN and aircraft of the RCAF.

The loan is in accordance with with a long-standing arrangement with the Royal Navy.

Prairies Start Digging Out After Paralyzing Blizzard

WINNIPEG, March 7. — (CP). —The Prairies today began the task of digging out in the wake of a howling blizzard which Tuesday spent its fury in southwestern and northwestern Manitoba.

But with clearing skies the Dominion Weather Office forecast bitterly cold weather to take its place. Temperatures were expected to drop to as low as 25 below zero over most of the district.

The storm, which began Sunday in British Columbia, left two persons dead. In Southern Manitoba, near Boissevain, a young school teacher died Monday in waist-deep snowdrifts. Earlier a 40-year-old woman died in northern British Columbia.

The Winnipeg weather bureau reported the blizzard was the result of a storm centre which first started near Seattle, Wash. The storm was accompanied by winds of up to 50 miles an hour. Winnipeg missed the brunt of the storm.

Near Boissevain, in southwestern Manitoba, 23-year-old Irma Challeborne, a country school teacher, collapsed as she struggled toward the farm home where she boarded.

In Manitoba, bus and train schedules were disrupted by the blow. Both Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways said trains from the West were running six to seven hours late. Bus schedules were described as "very indefinite."

Saskatchewan and Alberta also reported transportation disrupted and most roads either blocked or extremely heavy.

Fire Destroys Power House

IROQUOIS, March 7 (CP). — Loss was estimated at between $200,000 and $300,000 in a fire which early today destroyed the power house in this village, 35 miles west of Cornwall. It is believed the fire was caused by a short circuit in an electric fan.

The fire caused a power blackout in the village and Matilda Township for five hours. The fire broke out in the brick and frame building about 3 a.m.

Members of the village Volunteer Fire Brigade were unable to pour water on the blazing building for fear of electrocution from power lines carrying 22,000 volts. Only one wall of the building situated on the western outskirts of the village was left standing.

Fisherman Spots Fire Rescues Invalid, 84

PICTON, March 7 — Mrs. Walton McDonald, an 84-year-old invalid, was carried from her burning home Tuesday afternoon by Stanley Rankin, a fisherman who spotted the flames while repairing his nets.

The house, one of the oldest in Prince Edward County, caught fire late Tuesday afternoon. Rankin, with Elwood Munroe, Clayton Hyatt, Percy Robinson, Cliff Woodley, Albert Manlow, and Keith MacDonald, carried most of the furniture out of the building. Telephone lines are still down from Saturday's storm and it was difficult to spread the alarm.

Bloomfield Fire Brigade kept the blaze from spreading to other buildings. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald lived alone in the house, built in 1836 by Mr. McDonald's grandfather. Loss was estimated at $8,000.

Price Control Power Given Gov't

St. Laurent Declares Won't Be Used At Present Time

OTTAWA, March 7. (CP)—The Commons gave the Government power Tuesday night to impose price controls — on the heels of a Government reminder that it shouldn't look for early action.

Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Chamber, as it adopted the emergency-power bill, that the Government will not hesitate to use price ceilings when it can find any "reasonable" ground to believe they will work.

He doesn't want anyone to get the impression, he said, that the Government won't impose controls until the country is "in something approaching an all-out war."

As the debate neared a close, a prominent Progressive Conservative—Donald Fleming (Toronto Eglinton) — stepped away from his party's line with the statement that he is not one of those urging the government to go "rip-roaring" into controls.

Disagrees With Drew

On that point, his speech disagreed with the stand of his leader, George Drew, who had urged the government a short time earlier to launch the "most flexible and most effective type of control" as a weapon against inflation.

The control bill received third reading and now goes to the Senate. It gives the government broad powers to impose price, wage, and other controls as it deems necessary.

The final debate brought requests from CCF and Social Credit members for controls to bring down prices and the cost of living, both now at the highest points in Canadian history.

In the opening stages, Finance Minister Abbott reported the government is laying off some employees as part of an over-all economy program. The total number of those released is expected to run between 5,000 and 6,000 out of a civil service numbering 155,000.

Not A Cure

In the control debate, Mr. St. Laurent repeated his reasons for believing that over-all price controls would not be effective at this time—that they would not "cure" the situation, that the people would not accept regimentation and that external inflationary pressures were bound to appear.

But, he said again, the government will not hesitate to use the control powers as soon as it is convinced that any or all controls will be effective in combating the high cost of living.

Mr. Fleming said he felt that price controls would merely freeze prices at their present peaks and do nothing to reduce them. By the same token, controls on wages and salaries would merely perpetuate "many serious inequalities" already existing.

He agreed that a time might come—such as all-out war—when all-out controls would be needed.

Mr. Drew suggested that "unless something is done to restrain mounting inflation there will be diminishing measure of confidence in the minds of the people of Canada" in the ordinary operation of the free Canadian economy.

Dollar Unchanged

MONTREAL, March 7 (CP) — The American dollar today opened at 4½ per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Tuesday's close. That is, it took $1.04½ Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.92⅝, also unchanged.

.06 rain.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion Public Weather Office at 9:30 a.m. EST today:

Synopsis:

Ontario's current mild spell has ended. However the cold wave over the prairies is losing much of its punch as it progresses eastward toward the Lower Lakes. In advance of the cold air thunderstorms shifted across the Lake Erie region during the night, and entered the Lake Ontario region early this morning. Short but heavy downpours of rain were reported and there was hail at Downsview airport, just north of Toronto. The cold air will gradually move into the southern sections today and the southern part of the province will return to more normal March temperatures by this evening. Tonight, minimum temperatures will range from near or below zero in Northern Ontario to between 20 and 25 in the Lower Lakes regions.

A disturbance developing over Wyoming will move eastward and likely bring rain or snow to Southwestern Ontario by Thursday afternoon or evening. In Northern Ontario it will remain clear and cold.

Forecasts:

Eastern Lake Ontario, Haliburton regions:

Rain ending early this afternoon. Clear and colder tonight and most of Thursday, clouding over Thursday evening. Winds north 15, light on Thursday. Low tonight and high Thursday at Trenton 15 and 35, Killaloe 5 and 25.

Pay $20,000 To Save Life

LONDON, Ont., March 7 (CP) —A 4,000-volt charge of electricity will kill a man in an electric chair, but Danny Armstrong, 21, lived through a 110,000-volt flash and now is back at work, fully recovered from burns that blackened almost his entire body.

It took 10 months in hospital and cost the Ontario Workmen's Compensation upwards of $20,000 for cortisone and other new drugs to restore him to health after his accident on an Ontario Hydro project. He still needs one more operation to enable him to raise his left arm to its fullest extent.

"I think I could go back to my old job climbing hydro poles," he said today in an interview. "But the hydro people don't want me to do that. They're giving me a course to fit me as a sub-station operator."

Hydro experts think he escaped the full force of the current in the accident last May 8. He received 51 blood transfusions within 90 hours after he was admitted to hospital. The more severe burns covered 70 per cent of his body, but there were superficial burns as well. Even with the new drugs, his family was told, during the days following the accident, that his chances of survival were slim.

Preliminary Hearing Delayed Second Time

SAULT STE. MARIE, March 7 (CP)—The preliminary hearing of Anthony Maki, 68, charged with murder in the razor slaying Feb. 27 of James Cox, was delayed a second time when the Crown was granted a remand to March 14.

Magistrate Harold Peterson heard the request for the adjournment in district jail where Maki is now lodged. Maki is still recovering from razor wounds on his throat allegedly self-inflicted after the killing. He had been in hospital until Tuesday.

Cox, 65, who lived in the Davey Home for the Aged, died in the hall of the home in a pool of blood. His throat had been slit with a razor. Maki also lived in the home.

Must Work Harder

LONDON, March 7. (AP) —Britain's economic boss told his countrymen Tuesday night they would have to work harder and do with less in order to pay for rearmament. In a country-wide broadcast, Hugh Gaitskell, Chancellor of the Exchequer, presented a sober picture of how Britain's living standard must be lowered to pay a three-year defence bill of £4,700,000,000.

Decide Ceiling On U.S. Forces

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) —Senators faced a decision today on fixing a manpower ceiling for the United States armed forces and they hope to iron out other details of the proposed universal military training and service program.

Many lawmakers expected a limit of 3,500,000 to be put on the combined Army, Air Force, Navy and Marines. That is the goal President Truman has fixed as desirable.

Once the ceiling issue is decided, leaders expect the next big test to come on a proposal by Senators Edwin C. Johnson (Dem. Co'o.) and John Bricker (Rep. Ohio) to knock from the manpower bill a long-term universal military training program.

Note Easier Tone On Exchange Prices

TORONTO, March 7 (CP) — A lack of buying gave prices an easier tone as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Losses barely outnumbered gains. Activity seemed to be even less than the extremely slow pace of recent sessions and volume for the first three hours of 832,000 shares was about 8,000 shares fewer than the same period yesterday.

In the irregular industrial group papers, agricultures, constructions, foods, refining oils and retail stores showed a majority of losses. Steels were higher and the rest of the board was mixed.

Base metals reversed their early losses in mid-day and firmed. Consolidated Smelters headed the list with a $1.25 advance and International Nickel, Falconbridge and Waite Amulet added fractions. Ascot was active as it climbed 17 cents.

Golds eased pennies with very little trading.

5 Degrees Warmer In February 1951

Recapitulation of weather statistics for February shows that maximum temperatures were higher this year by 11 degrees over 1950 rating. And it was colder on its coldest day by nine degrees over the previous year. The average temperature for the month is five degrees warmer but it was drier than last year by .90 inches of precipitation.

Actual figures are: Maximum temperature on Feb. 25, 1951, was 47 above and on Feb. 11, 1950—36 degrees. Minimum temperature was 28 degrees below on Feb. 9, 1951, and 19 below on Feb. 20, 1950.

Precipitation this February was 1.16 inches of rain and nine inches of snow, totalling 2.06 inches. In 1950 there was no rain but 29½ inches of snow which gave 2.95 precipitation.

2 Of Crew Stand On Aircraft Wings In Storm To Direct Plane With 18 Aboard To Shore

VANCOUVER, March 7 — (CP). — Two crew members stood on the wing-tips of a Queen Charlotte Airlines amphibious plane to guide it to safety through a howling blizzard after it was forced down in Johnstone Strait Monday.

The plane carried 18 persons —14 passengers, all loggers, and four crew members.

The blizzard forced the pilot, Capt. Robert Duncan, to set the twin-engine plane down in the storm-tossed strait, 170 miles northwest of Vancouver.

After the landing, the pilot couldn't see the shore. Second Pilot Jagindar Johl and Engineer Bert Ormston climbed out onto the wings in bitterly cold weather to direct the plane into Blekinsop Bay about a quarter of a mile away.

The passengers were being flown to Vancouver by special plane Tuesday. Capt. Duncan's crew is expected to bring the plane here under her own power. Only damage to the plane was a bent strut.

Flying Medicine To Save Child

BOSTON, March 7 — (CP).—A potent live-saving blood medicine is being flown to a three-year-old Canadian boy desperately ill with a rare blood disease.

The boy, in Providence Hospital at Moose Jaw, Sask., is bleeding badly internally and in danger of bleeding to death because his blood won't clot. His physician, Dr. Jeffrey Kent, said the boy apparently lacks fibrinogen, a blood chemical essential in forming clots.

The boy is Gary Lynn Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Brown of Moose Jaw.

The medicine is pure fibrinogen, a white powder, made from blood plasma. It was shipped by Dr. Louis K. Diamond, pediatrician of Children's Hospital after a telegraphed appeal from Dr. Kent.

Hopping nearly across the continent, the medicine is due in Regina, Sask., near Moose Jaw, at 5:30 p.m. EST today on a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane, after going to New York, Montreal and Winnipeg.

Says Mailmen Now Pack Mules

KINGSTON, March 7 (CP) — Daniel C. Cross, national president of the Canadian Postal Employees Association, said today that the post office department is trying to make "pack mules" out of its letter carriers.

He made the comment during an interview. The post office has decided to cut mail deliveries in residential areas to one a day and to double up routes in an effort to economize on operating expenses.

"It won't work satisfactorily," said Mr. Cross. "How are people going to feel when they get their morning paper in the evening? That's what may happen."

He said carriers have been helping to sort afternoon mail. Before they leave the post office, they pick out the mail for their routes.

"It's going to take them about an hour longer now. And they're going to have twice as much to carry."

Union Criticizes Royal Navy

LONDON, March 7 (CP)—The Royal Navy today was criticized for its severe discipline by the magazine of the Transport and General Workers Union.

The magazine of the 1,250,000-member union stepped into the current controversy over appointment of an American admiral to head Atlantic pact naval forces by stating British admirals are unlikely to win affection and respect from sailors of other nations.

"Officers of the service are trained to impose a discipline that is based on most rigid class distinction," the magazine article said.

Admirals whose lives had been passed in conditions of such severe discipline were unlikely to win "that mixture of affection and respect essential to successful command from the sailors of nations used to a more Liberal view of naval life," it said.

Reds Strike

The assault boat crossing of the Han followed intensive patrol action and nearly a week of bombardment of Chinese Communist positions.

The allied crossing of the Han at two points east of Seoul was made at 6:15 a.m. (4:15 p.m. EST, Tuesday). A heavy artillery barrage ripped up Chinese Red positions on the stream's north bank to pave the way for the crossing.

Details Meagre

A field dispatch gave only meagre details. It said infantrymen were moving across flatlands and low hills against moderate resistance on the Red's side of the river.

The bulk of the Chinese strength was gathering on the central front, between Yongdu and Hoengsong, 30 to 50 miles east of Seoul. It is in that sector major counter-attacks are expected.

The Korean Red assault Wednesday on the eastern end of the central front, about 30 miles east of Heongsong, could be the opening smash in a general Communist spring drive.

It is along the Yongdu-Hoengsong road that troops of the 27th Commonwealth Brigade are battling Reds entrenched in hill positions.

British, Canadian, Australian and New Zealand troops were slowed up by a six-inch snowfall that temporarily stalled the allied push.

Ham Electrocuted

HARLAN, Ia., March 7—(AP)—John A. Jahnke, 50, a "ham" radio operator, was electrocuted Tuesday night as he was demonstrating his new transmitter to his son and another boy.

REACH FOR A RENNIE

CUT DOWN IN AMBUSH—These are two of an undisclosed number of American soldiers' bodies found sprawled in rice paddies three weeks after they were shot down in a Chinese Communist ambush near Hoengsong. Most of the bodies had been looted for shoes and other wearing apparel. The ill-fated convoy consisted of 25 trucks, three tanks, two halftracks and several jeeps. One Marine corporal said: "They were slaughtered. They didn't have a chance."

Cobalt 60 Gives Canada Jump In Cancer War

OTTAWA, March 6 —(CP)— Cobalt 60, the "poor man's" radium, may make Canada a leader on one front of the cancer war.

Cobalt 60 is ordinary Cobalt, a reddish-grey metal similar in many respects to nickel, that has been made radioactive. It is given this power of emitting invisible rays at the National Research Council's Atomic Reactor at Chalk River.

The Cobalt remains a year in the "pile" until it becomes completely radioactive. Then it's ready to do its tissue-killing job —the quality which makes it valuable in the battle against cancer.

The completed death ray is called Cobalt 60 Beam Therapy by the physicists of the Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., which is producing the cancer "bullet."

The first new beam to focus deadly gamma rays on malignant cancer tissues should be in operation by summer, according to R. F. Errington, chief of the development division.

Saves Millions

A physicist said it would cost "millions" to construct a radium beam with radiation equal to the Cobalt 60 therapy beam which costs about $40,000.

Canada had the jump in Cobalt 60 production because the heavy-water pile at Chalk River lends itself to "high specific" impregnation of Cobalt, he said.

"One or two United States companies" were beginning similar work but "Canada at the present time has the lead."

Mr. Errington said the first beam from the Eldorado Company to be produced will go to the Victoria Hospital in London, Ont. He said, however, that scientists at the University of Saskatchewan are working on a Cobalt 60 beam for the Saskatchewan Cancer Commission and may have one ready before Eldorado.

The Cobalt 60 ray is actually a sealed beam. It is fitted with a lead cap. Through a hole in the lead— in effect, an adjustable nozzle—the gamma rays can be pin-pointed to the target.

The lead cap at the same time prevents a "spray" of deadly Cobalt 60 rays from injuring either the patient or medical attendants.

Strasser Friends Try To Form New Party

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 7 (CP).—The Frankfurter Rundschau reported today friends of Otto Strasser, former leader of the "black front" against Hitler, are preparing to found a political party in West Germany.

H. Fricke, Strasser's personal representative in West Germany, is directing the project after negotiating with various extreme rightist groups, the newspaper said in a dispatch from Dusseldorf.

Strasser, once one of Hitler's closest friends, turned against him in 1930. He organized the "black front" but emigrated when the Nazis seized power in Germany.

Previous attempts to organize a Strasser party have been stopped by allied occupation authorities on the allegation he is anti-western, militaristic and nationalistic.

Budget Reflects Boom

The complete Ontario budget report has not yet come to hand, but judging from the full extracts of it which we published yesterday, Ontario is in good financial shape and the future augurs well. The large surplus of more than a million and a quarter dollars even after much heavier spending than was estimated last year, reflects the industrial and commercial boom which this province, together with the rest of the country, is uneasily enjoying. The surplus of $1,276,000, after providing sinking fund payments of $21,698,000, was greater than the surplus of $1,004,000 last year, when sinking fund payments totalled $20,626,000. Gross revenue rose from about $224,000,000 last year to $260,457,000 (estimated to the end of the fiscal year March 31st). At the same time gross expenditure increased from approximately $223,039,000 in the year ending last March to $259,781,000. The gross Provincial debt has increased by $13,640,049 in the year.

It is satisfactory that no new taxes are to be imposed, that the amusement tax will be reduced by 2½ per cent. to 12½ per cent., though we would like to have seen it further reduced, or wiped out; perhaps that would be asking too much from a Government which derived $1,400,000 from it during the last twelve months. Only four departments would spend next year, according to estimates, more than they spent last year. These are the three key departments of health, education and highways, and the Prime Minister's department.

Tax-burdened municipalities will welcome the increase of grants by ten million dollars next year, chiefly for educational work. It will be questioned whether this is enough, in view of the burdens to municipalities which have limited taxing rights and the Province which has large taxing fields, large enough (with Federal grants) to bring in revenue of $260 million dollars.

By the Provincial Treasurer's own departmental method of reckoning, almost half of the Provincial budget is to be expended on municipal grants, services and subsidies next year—a total of $100,756,000. It is a large sum, but it does not seem to go far enough or deep enough when spread among the hundreds of municipalities. Despite grants and subsidies last year (to March 31st next) of $89,600,000, a third of the Province's total revenue, local tax rates are increasingly high. Will this ten million dollars be more than a drop in the bucket?

Provincial Indirect Tax

Without apology we again bring up the Federal Government's proposal to allow the Provinces into the indirect tax field. As we have already pointed out, it smacks of a deal between Ottawa and the provincial capitals by which, in exchange for certain provincial concessions allowing Ottawa to deal with pensions and the like on a national scale, Ottawa will seek to have the B.N.A. Act amended to give the Provinces the opportunity to impose indirect taxes (like sales taxes).

Some of the provincial governments have been favorable to the proposition. An indirect tax is easy to impose because it is indirect—hidden. The customer seldom realizes that part of the price he is paying for the goods is tax. If he does, he does not know how much is tax. Indirect taxes are easy to manipulate. They can be increased almost surreptitiously. After the tax is first put on or increased it is almost forgotten by the taxpayers, but lo! the tax continues, and is likely to continue to the end of time. Premier Frost, let us hasten to say, has not shown any alacrity to take up the Federal proposal.

If the Provinces are given the right to levy taxes indirectly, the upward pressure on retail prices will be greater, and, further, municipalities may also want either the same taxing rights or a chunk of the Provincial yield. So the Provincial Government would be inclined to increase the taxes to meet municipal demands. Indirect taxation at municipal level, or even at provincial, would be subject to local prejudices which would cause discrimination. Western provinces might want heavy sales taxes imposed on machinery made in the East; Ontario farmers might want extra sales taxes put on Western beef.

To give the Provinces indirect taxation authority would be a backward step, and possibly nationally divisive. If the Provinces need more money to operate (and judging from the surpluses, they do not) let them raise the money in the ordinary ways.

The Disappearance Of Jack Canuck

In an address before the National Liberal Federation which he gave recently, Professor J. A. Corry of Queen's University brought up a point which we have sometimes mentioned in these columns and which gives us a good deal of concern. He said:

When I used to see Jack Canuck in the cartoons years ago, I was never very sure whether he was a farmer, a rancher or a lumberjack. At any rate, he was a sturdy, self-reliant countryman. He has disappeared from the cartoons, from the language and from our consciousness. He has been replaced in the cartoons by a dwarfish man with a bedraggled mustache and a puzzled air, who gives the impression that he has been pushed around a good deal, isn't quite sure who did it or why, or what he can do about it. We laugh at this figure and sympathize with him because we recognize at least one aspect of ourselves. I confess he also frightens me because he represents a change in our mood from the confident self-reliance of the early years of the country—exaggerated in the cartoons of Jack Canuck—to the puzzled uncertainty of our times—also exaggerated in the cartoons. Even allowing for the exaggerations, we lost something precious when we lost Jack Canuck. I say this even while I recognize that he was a much too simple and unsophisticated soul even for his own world. No doubt he was always taken in by the shell and pea game when he went to the county fair.

Newspaper cartoons are not so innocent as they seem; they are useful reflectors not only of what a nation thinks of other nations, but of what it thinks about itself. Why has Canada ceased to look upon itself as Jack Canuck—who was at least young, strong, basically intelligent and capable of maturity—and espoused instead this miserable, aging dwarf, this travesty of the Common Taxpayer?

The same thing has happened in Britain. John Bull is not often seen in political cartoons; for him David Low has invented a cretinous lubber, dressed in shapeless rags and with cross-eyes and a tuft of hair like a whisk; for the forthrightness of John Bull the Low creation substitutes the cunning of the idiot.

It is a good thing for a nation to laugh at itself. But it is not a good thing for a nation to pity itself, and this nasty little creature described by Professor Corry is pitiable when he is no downright contemptible. If we have outgrown Jack Canuck, cannot some ingenious cartoonist find a better symbol for the people of Canada than this beleaguered taxpayer?

Television Reduction

British television, when we last saw it in 1938, was rather better than television from the U.S. is at present; whether it has improved or not we cannot say. But we are interested to read that two women—a housewife and a former burlesque star—will reduce their weight, at it were, before the very eyes of British television fans. The actress weighs 196 pounds now and hopes to drop to 136; the housewife is 186 and aims at 140. They will do it by cutting their caloric intake to 1,000 a day, and they will be on view every two weeks. We judge that at that rate they will lose two or three pounds a week, and will be on view about fifteen weeks. It will be interesting to know how they get on—or should we say, get off?

It is of value to notice that they will not reduce quickly, and perhaps their long ordeal will give heart to thousands of people who want to lose weight, but who cannot face the fact that reducing takes time. Too many fat people are looking for a miracle diet which will make sylphs of them in ten days. There are diets which will take off a surprising amount of weight in a short time, but the weight does not stay off; it returns just as fast at it went. The bitter truth about reducing is that it is unsafe and unsatisfactory to take off weight in a hurry. It is a slow business.

Another bitter truth about reducing is that it is never really finished unless there is a revision in the eating habits of the reducer. To cut out sweets and fattening things for a few weeks will reduce weight, but if, at the end of that time, the reducer begins to eat sweets and fattening things with his old gusto, his work will soon be undone. There are people who cannot eat as freely of the delicious foods—the pastries, creams, cakes and candies—as their more fortunate brothers. They have to resign themselves to abstinence—perhaps total abstinence—in this respect, or they must resign themselves to fat. It is a hard choice, but there seems to be no way of eating your cake and keeping your figure, if you are one of the fat ones of the earth.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Windsor Star rudely suggests that the theme song for future basketball games might be "Here Comes The Bribe."

Stiffer penalties are being urged for dope addicts. And the Windsor Star remarks that it is funny that no government economist has come out with a suggestion that the buying power of dope addicts be reduced, so that they will have less money for their indulgence. What about a nice big tax on dope?

A few scientists think it possible that beings in other parts of the Universe are trying to communicate with us. A fat chance they have, when we are so far from understanding one another right here, where we all supposedly belong to the same race!

ON THE MARGIN

Current Fiction

THE DELICATE PREY and OTHER STORIES, by Paul Bowles (Random House of Canada).

PAUL Bowles, the author of these stories, is a young American of musical and literary interests, who lives in a remodelled native house in the Arab quarter of Tangier. This biographical note gives a hint of the character and quality of his stories. They are out of this world, that is, away from industry, commerce, the rat-trap of materialistic 'progress'. They are not casually out of it, but deliberately, as if the author were himself trying to escape it and his own past in it.

The man in his third story, "Call at Corazon", who is wandering in queer corners of the tropics, travelling on junks with squalid natives and fierce mosquitoes, and taking his honeymoon thus, might have been Bowles: "He reviewed the day just completed, seeking to convince himself that it had carried him a bit further away from his childhood. Often for months at a time the strangeness of his dreams persuaded him that he had turned the corner, that the dark place had finally been left behind, that he was out of hearing. Then, one evening as he fell asleep, before he had time to refuse, he would be staring closely at the long-forgotten object—a plate, a chair, a pin-cushion—and the accustomed feeling of infinite futility and sadness would recur".

Many of these seventeen short stories give the impression of infinite futility and sadness, a kind of world-weariness, to escape which, people turn to the simplicities of nature or religion. Paul Bowles' characters seek detachment from life by turning to native society and the flora of Arab North Africa.

IT is a starkly exotic world he shows, with human beings the flotsam in it, especially humans who have been cultured. "At Paso Rojo", two unmarried sisters, both fortyish, come to visit their brother who unaccountably has spurned society and gone to operate and live on his ranch. One tries to seduce a native youth employed on the ranch. He rejects her advances. She intrigues to have him and his family lose their jobs and reputations for honesty.... Widowed Pastor Dowe at Tacate is finally seduced by native lore and is not strong enough in his own faith; he has to flee his mission in horror as the natives bestow on him—and demand that he accept—a young girl as concubine.... The honeymooner on the native junk, philosophic about his new, affectionate, girlish wife, finds her drunk on deck in another's arms. Next morning, when the ship touches the interior remote port town, he gets off ship first, alone, boards the weekly train and as it pulls out "he thought he saw a figure in white running among the dogs and children toward the station, but the train started up as he watched, and the street was lost to view. He took out his notebook, and sat with it on his lap, smiling at the shining green landscape that moved with increasing speed past the window". ....Senor Ong moves in with the Spanish-speaking little boy's aunt, who looks after him in a vague sort of way. Senor Ong is a Chinaman who makes money out of selling dope. He goes to jail, but Senor Ha is ready to take over. By this time, the little boy is developing his own dope racket....

SO the stories go, told almost gently with remarkable emotional detachment which heightens their impact. (Some of the stories have haunted me for the three weeks since I first read them.) The evocation of Spanish and Arab life, moods and customs is reminiscent of Hemingway; the economy and bareness of phrase, as well as the urbane sardonic twist, are echoes of Somerset Maugham. I think here is a first-rate story-teller and artist.

Bowles' settings in the tropics do help his stories; he re-creates them vividly and so subtly lends them atmosphere that the enchantment is fascinating without the witchery and bitchery of the people. His New York story "How Many Midnights" is tawdry and insignificant by comparison with the fierce, passionately simple account of "The Delicate Prey". One cannot read these stories without admiring Paul Bowles and envying his way of life even though the author, with almost classical restraint, keeps himself out of them. (This is the most original and compelling collection of new short stories I have read since the war.) T.J.A.

UMBERTO'S CIRCUS, by Eduard Bass (Hamish Hamilton).

THERE are few people for whom a circus does not hold a magic carried over from the bustle and glitter and strangeness that accompanied our first visit under 'The Big Top' in childhood, or to some hidden envy of the apparently carefree way of life of the circus people; whatever the reason, it is obvious that the title, as well as the very colourful illustrations on the jacket of this book, will cause many people to pick it up with a sigh for forgotten pleasures. The book itself is actually rather disappointing. The story begins when the efforts of a Czech bricklayer to find employment are finally rewarded by his inclusion amongst the tent-pitchers of 'Umberto's Circus'. Being a widower, he has to take with him his six-year old son, and it is the story of the boy's training and growth in the circus, of his marriage to the Director's daughter and of his great efforts to accomplish his ambition and become "the greatest ring master of them all" that dominate the book. The early phases when Vasek, the hero, is a small boy getting his first glimpse of gypsy life and circus discipline are extremely interesting and lively, but gradually the animation and verve disappear and the characters no longer seem real. It is a long book, covering a period of fifty years, and commences in a nice leisurely fashion; but the end seems terse in comparison. One feels the publisher said, "The length is a bit unwieldly Mr. Bass, could you condense the last few chapters for us?" and Mr. Bass obliged.

It would be hard to say just where one loses interest in the story, or exactly what is lacking, but it definitely misses that feeling of warmth and reality which help to make the real circus so wonderful.

THE FROGMEN, by Waldron and Gleeson (British Book Service).

UNDER ordinary circumstances, and written by anybody else, this book would undoubtedly be listed as a documentary history of undersea warfare during the last war; as it is, it is a fascinating and scarcely believable (although every item is a true accounting of fact) adventure story.

When the Italians launched their first human torpedoes against the British navy in September 1941, they little realized that they were initiating the world into an enterprise as incredible to us as "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" must have been to the even less credulous public of Jules Verne. Nevertheless, with commendable inventiveness and courage, on September the 19th in that fateful year, the Italian navy sneaked into the Bay of Gibraltar and crippled three British ships,—not only into the Bay but actually into the Grand harbour itself. Such an insult galvanized the Admiralty into immediate action out of which "the Frogmen" were born. This book is the story of their training, of the dangerous and painful experiments that were necessary before this new addition to the Navy could become a useful striking force, and of the bravery and endurance of these human amphibians. The book is well illustrated and the story extremely well told. S.S.T.

"ANYONE WE KNOW?"

Letters To The Editor

CORRECTS MISUNDERSTANDINGS

Sir: I would like to correct one or two statements I apparently did not make clear in my talk on the Making of Pictorial Maps, last Friday.

First—the statement that "people in the olden days were given recognition on the amount they had paid for their land", I said that in using the old County Atlas for historical research, one had to use discretion, as the subscriber to the atlas received recognition according to the amount he had paid for it.

Then again—there was no tunnel by which the Quakers helped the slaves escape across the line to Canada. It was an "underground" in much the same way we speak of the "underground" in occupied countries during the last war.

Thank you for these corrections.

Yours very truly,
JERRINE KINTON.

NOT BITTER ABOUT CANADA

Sir: We have been reading letters to your Editor re Englishmen doing Canadians out of jobs, and English people grumbling about Canada and Canadians. We think most of these letters are ignorant and trouble-making. Those Canadians that say they are being put out of work have never held a job long anyhow. That so far is out knowledge of the facts.

As for the letter from a "Disgusted" Englishwoman, surely she was told by the Immigration people in England how difficult it was to get a house here. It is nearly as bad as in England. They certainly told us before we came. Also how many people in England will take in a family with four children? One thing is certain her children can be better fed and clothed here. Even if prices of goods are sky high, you can get them. The more people there are coming to Canada the more items there are to be manufactured, and consequently more work for the people. We can learn from each other instead of making comparisons which is always odious.

Yours,
SATISFIED ENGLISH FAMILY.

GOOD JUDGEMENT USED IN COUNTY FOREST

Sir: This is in reply to criticism made a short time ago over the appointment of a foreman and of the judgement of the foreman appointed.

In regard to cutting logs in the forest area. After looking over the work we could not find any fault with Mr. McColl or his employees in respect to the kind of trees cut or where they were cut. With the careful handling he has given the work, he has used good judgement.

But after looking over the area, making some enquiries and using the county books, we find that upwards of 4,000 acres have been purchased and improved, a highway built, five miles of telephone line added, the area surveyed, fenced and fire guards added, an up to date house and barn built with a caretaker in charge. Now the purchase price has run away up into the thousands of dollars which is better not to be known as it will only have to be accepted as lost money.

But the amusing thing we saw in our hard day's travel was the Redheaded Woodpecker with his long claws clinched into the side of a pine stump. Whether he ever missed a meal or not we do not know, but he was handy with that long bill in getting coin out of the poor burdened ratepayer's pocket.

In looking over the cut of logs and considering the overhead, this winter's lumbering (giving the benefit of the doubt) would take at least five years of careful handling of such a cut to take care of one year's overhead cost as listed in any former year that the appointment of the county assessor and his work has inflicted on the burdened ratepayers in the various municipalities in the county of Peterborough.

In talking to some ratepayers we find they have not given up all hope after taking a long winter sleep and rolling over in their dens the second of February. They went back for six weeks longer but that time is up Surely they will waken up to a sense of duty and get on the right side of the books with a surplus large enough that one could turn the entire area into a turkey farm. This could be worked out with a profit as it is a good place for grasshoppers, and could give some poor soul who could not afford one a year ago, one of these birds for the fast coming Christmas dinner.

Now, in conclusion, we would suggest that our Rustic Fathers would not let any further swindles drop on the heads of our taxpayers and would have the above minutes approved as read and declared carried.

TWO OLD TIMERS.

ED. NOTE: The two gentlemen whose letter is published above have 120 years of experience in the lumber business between them.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Ye men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you by miracles and wonders and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know: him, being delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain: whom God hath raised up, having loosed the pains of death: because it was not possible that he should be holden of it. (Acts 2:22-24.)

For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved (John 3:17.)

For there is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus. (I Tim. 2:5.)

Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away: behold, all things are become new.

And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation. (II Cor. 5: 17,18.)

PUT IN ORDER

One of the witnesses in a case was an old man.

"Did the defendant use improper language when he was beating his horse?" asked the lawyer.

"Well, he talk mighty loud, sir," replied the witness.

"Did he indulge in profanity?"

The witness seemed puzzled and the lawyer put the question in another form: "What I want to know is, did he use words that would be proper for your minister to use in a sermon?"

"Oh, yes, sir," the old man replied, "but they'd have to be 'ranged diff'rent!"

British Survey Shows Increase In Ulcer Cases

LONDON — (CP) — More than 1,500,000 persons in England and Wales are undergoing treatment for stomach ulcers and thousands more are stricken every year with symptoms of the ailment.

Disclosure of the near-epidemic is made in a report by the industrial health research board of the Medical Research Council. It is based on investigations following a survey showing that stomach ulcers accounted for nearly one in 10 of all adult hospital admissions in the London area.

The report estimates that about six in every 100 men and two in every 100 women suffer from ulcers. A high incidence was found among business executives, foremen and doctors. Agricultural workers were among the least affected.

Anxiety about working conditions was complained of more frequently by men with proved ulcers than by those without any symptoms. The survey, however, failed to show any association between stomach ulcers and domestic worries.

The findings also failed to produce any evidence that irregularities of work shifts or meals attributed to ulcers. Previous suspicions that car-drivers were especially susceptible to the ailment, the report says, were not confirmed.

EFFECTIVE ROADBLOCK — Traffic in downtown Montreal was blocked for hours recently when this three-ton trailer collided with a bus and ployed into a building. The truck straddled the street from sidewalk to sidewalk after hitting the building. The bus was empty of passengers and no one was injured.

Gave Her Diamonds, Mink Calls Boy Friend "Pest"

NEW YORK, March 7.—(AP).—A small-time guy with big ideas was arrested Tuesday, accused of swindling $40,000 to keep a beautiful brown-eyed showgirl in diamonds, minks and Cadillacs.

And all the gal, lovely Rosemary Williamson, had to say for his efforts was that "He was such a pest he annoyed me."

The man was 27-year-old Sidney M. Levy, who made $75 a week as a textile salesman—an income that won't let a fellow do much in the showgirl whirl

So said District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, Levy picked up $40,000 illegally and spent about half of it on Rosemary, a shapely doll at 23. Levy was charged with grand larceny.

Hogan said Levy told two dentists and a night club manager he had a deal with textile mills to buy nylon goods for $1 a yard and sell it for $1.50 a yard. There was never any such deal, the district attorney added.

Donate To Cause

However, Hogan said Dr. Henry P. Dwork went for $18,000 and a fellow-dentist, Dr. Walter B. Nicora, for $15,000 to bankroll Levy. And Constance Kaplan, who runs a Manhattan nightclub, chipped in another $7,000.

Among the gifts that Rosemary garnered, Hogan said, were a $5,890 powder blue Cadillac, a $5,200 diamond ring, a $2,500 mink coat and a $1,000 diamond-studded wrist watch.

Rosemary said of her former boy friend: "He used to show off by grabbing the check but he was a rotten tipper. I used to kick him under the table to make him leave a decent tip."

Radar Network Kept Secret

OTTAWA, March 7 — (CP).—The drive is on to build a joint Canadian-American radar network, but, in Canada at least, it is being shrouded in the greatest posible secrecy.

This policy has important foundations. For one thing, any idea of trying to give complete, over-all radar protection has been written off because of the prohibitive cost.

That means that certain areas must be singled out for priority protection and that there must be gaps elsewhere. It is no secret that first priority in Canada is going to what might roughly be called the Montreal-Toronto-Ottawa area and in the United States to the great industrial areas of the East and Mid-West, including cities like New York, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Cleveland, and Chicago.

Because of the limited range of each radar station, it is just as bad to say what we haven't got as to say what we have got. The Russians are just as interested in where we haven't got the stations as where we have them or intend to have them.

Canadian newspapers have already been asked to omit mention of any new radar construction in their areas. Reporters here are being asked to skip the mention of stories pinning the scope of the screen down in any detail.

MONTREAL, March 7 (CP)—Back-time cheques for certain classes of railway employees given a 14½-cent wage boost will be mailed out soon, a Canadian National Railways spokesman said Tuesday. The railway announced Monday that a new agreement had been reached granting the workers increased salaries.

Exports Up 43%

OTTAWA, March 7 (CP)—Canada's exports to the United States climbed 43 per cent in January, pushing sales to $186,948,000 compared with $130,895,000 a year ago, the Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday. Domestic exports to all countries in January totalled $285,100,000, a 29-percent boost over $221,200,000 in January, 1950.

Flood Clean-ups Add Data To Western Lore

WINNIPEG (CP).—As one development of the Red River floods last year the Manitoba Archives have been augmented by a valuable collection of journals relating to early Manitoba history.

The provincial library report tabled in the Legislature recently told how the rising water made it necessary to remove valuable material from the basement of the main branch of the Winnipeg public library.

During the basement-clearing work A. F. Jamieson, chief librarian, rediscovered a collection of the journals of daily occurrences kept by the various factors of the Hudson's Bay Company Post at Fort William during the period 1830-1854.

There were also many account books of the fur trade and correspondence relating to it, dating back to the end of the 18th century.

J. L. Johnson, provincial librarian, said in the report that the material has been included in a "growing collection of fur trade data."

Aided Engineers

The report also told how the provincial library was able to assist engineers in their search for exact data on previous flooding of the Red River valley. Last spring's flood had resulted in "urgent demand" for every known fact about the river through its history and glacial origin.

"Searches were made to meet a great variety of official and public requests," the report said. Material combed included volumes of history and biographical writing, newspapers, government and privately-printed reports, recently obtained microfilms or diaries, manuscript records in the archives and the earliest pictures taken in 1857 and 1858.

Ask Federation To Intercede

STRATFORD, March 7 (CP)—Stratford Collegiate Institute teachers have asked the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation to intercede on their behalf in salary increase negotiations with the Board of Education.

Canon F. G. Lightbourn, management committee chairman, told the committee Tuesday night that the Teachers' Council Salary Committee had ceased negotiations as a body and that future negotiations would be with the three teacher groups making up the council. They are, Federation of Women Teachers, Federation of Elementary School Teachers, and Collegiate Institute staff.

Teachers originally requested a $650 increase plus the annual increment of $200. The board offered increases of $200 for single, $300 for married teachers.

Uranium Producers Get Special Payment

TORONTO, March 7 —(CP)—A special development allowance of $1.25 a pound will be paid Canadian uranium producers during the first three years' production, or any part thereof.

This is in addition to present payments and was announced Tuesday by W. J. Bennett, president, Eldorado Mining and Refining (1944) Ltd., the government-owned company which buys uranium produced in Canada. He spoke to the annual convention of the Prospectors' and Developers' Association.

Mr. Bennett explained the added payment for uranium—the atomic energy material—as follows:

"Under the current schedule the U308 content of a mill product produced from an ore with an average grade of 0.5 per cent, is paid for at the rate of $4.95 a pound. Under the new plan $1.25 a pound will be added to this payment the first three years of production."

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A feature appears today on Don Crowe, Petes' new senior lacrosse coach. Of course, Don is no newcomer here, having starred for a number of years on local grid, puck and boxla teams. He expects to do some playing this year, as well as coaching, and the big fellow might fit in on defence. The Petes are well fortified in goal and will be strong up front, but at the moment the defence is a question mark. Crowe works out of Toronto for an electrical firm but will have a cottage at Chemong for the summer and be available for all practices and games. His cage team is in Ontario semi-finals now with Marines, though Don may miss this series owing to a trip coming up for him. He's a fine chap and should do okay coaching the Petes.

* * * * * *

A lot of basketball tonight for local teams. Marines are in Toronto and the junior PCI-ers end their district finals in Cobourg, toting a good lead. Lindsay and PCVS bantams are here at the Collegiate to wind up their district semi-finals, the visitors being up 12 points. Grads and Black's conclude the lasses' schedule in the YW, while the City Cage Loop has a boys' twin bill in the YW, starting at seven. Thursday games for the senior and junior PCVS girls are cancelled at Oshawa. More later on the setup for Friday and Saturday.

Fine Puck Record, Eh?

OMHA semi-finals are starting for three Peterborough puck squads. Barrie bantams open against the McGillis Eaglets at 6.30 in Civic Arena on the morrow, first of a two-game series. Midget Marines are ready to go, too, against St. Kitts, Barrie or Toronto. And the juvenile Oddfellows will stack up against the St. Catharines crew. The PMHA has certainly justified its existence this winter by putting its three representatives into provincial semi-finals, and they stand a good chance of hitting the finals. In fact, three local clubs are still in OHA play and three in OMHA series yet while much more expensives arenas than Civic are about ready to close up for the winter.

* * * * * *

There should be a real big crowd at Civic tonight at 8.30 when Belleville Redmen and Eagles tangle in their third of the best-of-five group semi-finals. Each senior "B" squad won on the other guy's ice, so this might be the actual decider. They'll both battle from bell to bell in wide-open play (with plenty of torso tossing) and it shapes up as one of the most exciting ice melees of the long campaign. Could be the last appearance of the speedy Reds in Peter's borough this year—and we hope so. But, then, it could also be the last showing here of Eagles. Heaven forbid! In any case, don't pass this one up, folks.

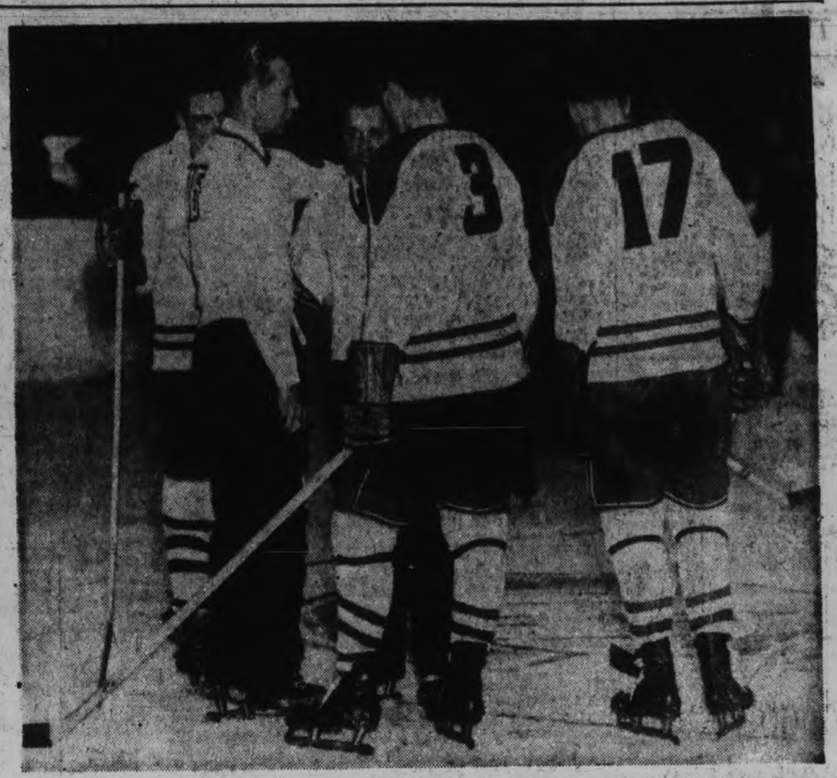
Big Bill Ready To Race

Large Willyum McMasters says he'll go into the proposed skating race for the Swanston Trophy again this year, cracked ribs and all. He's just back from a puck whirl at Lake Placid where he got the banged-up ribs while playing his usual robust style. Bill won the skating race here last year and he's ready to defend his laurels. The PMHA puts on an annual night of hockey and races to raise money for minor hockey and Les Mountney is working on it now. Should be held soon. Couple of good cash prizes will be offered and it's open to any puckist in the city or district from junior age up—players carrying a puck around the arena and racing against the clock. There may be an exhibition game arranged that evening, too, betwixt the junior Oddfellows and the oldtime Petes. But more again when details are worked out.



* * * * * *

Older wrestling fans would have enjoyed that main mat bout at the Brock last night. Yukon Eric took the deciding fall over Timothy Geohagen by sheer strength. In fact, most of the bout was a test of strength and the ability to hold good grips—just as they went in for years ago—rather than the wide-open grappling so common today. Eric was too big and strong for Tim, though the latter (who has a strong-man rep) gave him quite a tussle for some time. He could hoist his 276-pound opponent around pretty good but couldn't quite pin him. Tommy O'Toole lost the semi-final on a disqualification to Sonny Kurgis, while the prelim betwixt Pierre LaSalle and Jack Wentworth went to a time limit draw.

FRUITLESS ARGUMENT — This looks like an innocent discussion group. It wasn't just that. The picture was taken just after Maurice Richard had been handed a 1-minute misconduct penalty by referee Hugh McLean, facing camera over No. 3 Butch Bouchard's shoulder in Saturday night's tumultuous hockey game at the Forum. The other official (No. 15) is linesman Ed Mepham and part of Tom Johnson's face can be seen over his shoulder. No. 17 is Bob Dawes. Bouchard, Canadiens' captain, disputed the penalty to Richard without avail. This was the start of all the wild incidents in the past weekend in which The Rocket was the storm centre.

Flick Champion Goal-Getter In OHA Race

TORONTO, March 7 (CP). — A forward line that will represent Canada in the world hockey championships this month ran one-two-three in the Ontario Hockey Association major group scoring race.

Final standings, released by the OHA Tuesday, found Bill Flick of the last-place Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen crowned as scoring champion with 57 points, three more than Mickey Roth and six more than Dinny Flanagan.

Closest to the Kitchener trio was Murray Comfort of the second-place Hamilton Tigers with 50 points, one less than Flanagan.

Phil Hughes of the top-ranking Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs was the league's best goaltender with an average of 3.22 goals scored against him. Ed Rafferty of Toronto Marlboros was a close second with a 3.40 average. No goaltender gained more than one shutout.

Hamilton's Tom Smelle scored the most goals, 28, while Flanagan led in assists with 35.

Leading Junior

Lou Jankowski of Oshawa's sixth-place Generals virtually wrapped up the scoring title in the Junior A division by scoring seven points in a Saturday night game against St. Catharines to boost his total to 115. Linemate Alex Delvecchio was second at that stage with 109 points and Ken Laufman of Guelph had 106.

Two goaltenders for the second place Toronto Marlboro Juniors, Johnny Henderson and Don Lockhart, took over goaltending leadership. Henderson had a 2.91 average for 11 games while Lockhart had 2.94 for 34. Windsor Spitfires' Glen Hall leads in shutouts with six.

Jankowski topped all goal-getters with 61, while Laufman led in assists with 66.

Petes OLA Coach Don Crowe Helped Win Many Crowns

By CEC. PERDUE

Athletic championships follow Don Crowe, newly-appointed playing coach of the Petes in OLA senior "A" competition. The big, genial fellow (in his early 30's) has starred for years on titular teams in lacrosse, football, softball and basketball, as well as taking the odd golf championship in his spare time. He is one of the finest all-round athletes ever to perform for a Peterborough club. Don is a Toronto product. He attended Danforth Tech as a lad and played football and basketball under Hec Crighton.

NEW OLA COACH — Big Don Crowe is shown above in a business suit. He can look most business-like, too, on a lacrosse field, and Peterborough fans will see him in action here this year as the new playing-coach of the senior "A" Petes.

He played in various age groups in the THL up to and including the junior "B" Toronto Dukes. His minor lacrosse was with Roden AC, and he helped that club take Toronto and Ontario junior crowns before he came to Peterborough. He was also with provincial winners in midget and juvenile softball with Woodgreen.

Good Even Then

In the middle 30s, jobs were hard to get, and Don eventually found himself working as a railway section hand near Millbrook. The Petes had an intermediate lacrosse team at that time, with such chaps as Ira Dundas, Pete King, Red Creighton and Doug Miller playing for them around this district. They went to Millbrook one night for a game they figured would be a soft touch. They barely yanked it out 10-8 and a youngster named Crowe scored seven of the eight Millbrook goals! They became very interested in him then and, after finding he had played OHA junior "B" hockey, a job was located for him in Peterborough. Don began to play hockey for Frank Buckland, who helped a lot in those formative years.

He went on to star here in softball, basketball, lacrosse and hockey — helping the Petes take the Eastern Canada intermediate puck title after winning the OHA championship. He also starred in senior football for the Orfuns, being one of the finest ever here.

In Air Force

Then came the war. Big Don joined the air force and served five years as a pilot. He flew Hurricanes, Kittyhawks and Mosquitoes, being discharged in 1946 as a Flight Lieutenant. While in Toronto in 1940 he played for Balmy Beach footballers when they won the ORFU title, their first time in 13 years. They lost in a close game to Ottawa Rough Riders in the Eastern Canada playoff, but Don was named on the ORFU all-star club.

In '42, he was co-captain with Bill Stukus of the RCAF Hurricanes when they won the Grey Cup. He was named that year on the All-Canadian club. In 1945, he and some others formed the Toronto Indians and had Lew Hayman for coach. Don was vice-president of the club. They had a good season but injuries beat them in the playoffs. They didn't lose a game next year, either, until playoffs.

He Was Captain

Beaches and Indians amalgamated then in 1947 and Crowe was captain and assistant coach. He broke his back that season but managed to get into a few play-off games in a cast just to do the kicking. Filchok and the Hamilton Tigers took the series. In '48, Don was with Argos, mostly for kicking, as Krol was injured. He was kept out of football last fall because of his job but he did play for a championship basketball team. Incidentally, this same team may be playing Marines in OABA playdowns this year as it won the Toronto loop with Don one of the active players. He is going on a business trip and will have to miss some games.

Crowe is keenly interested in the Petes' lacrossers this year and feels the good executive has lined up a potential Dominion championship squad. He will live at Chemong in a cottage this summer and be available for all games and practises. "In intend to play, too," he says, "if I can make the team."

Great Fighter

There isn't much doubt but that Don Crowe will make the team. He is a great fighter and in wonderful condition at all times. Still a young man—father of two sons—he is a husky, clean-living and likeable fellow. He puts everything he has into every game. Don was never a dirty player, but plenty rugged and he loves hard body contact in his sports. He knows the game thoroughly as a player and has been in many official capacities in sports, so he should do a good job in coaching.

This writer saw him in Ottawa in the spring of 1940 when he was bashing the Maxville Millionaires all over the ice on defence to help the Petes take that puck title—their only Eastern Canadian one. This writer recalls him smashing through tough Sarnia and Montreal grid lines to star in every game. He saw him dish up his stick wizardry in lacrosse for many years. He saw him in Hamilton one night when the Petes were playing the Georgetown Raiders in OHA playoffs. A big police constable played for Georgetown and Don dumped him hard on his first rush.

Downs The Cop

The chunky hockey-playing cop didn't like it a bit. He came down that side of the ice twice more, passing the puck and tearing into Crowe hard both times. And each time he landed on his pants on the ice while Don skated calmly away. He didn't try to break through that side of the defence any more. The Hamilton sports editor said: "Who is that guy out there for Peterborough that's having such a field day knocking them over?" Told it was Don Crowe, he said: "Oh, no wonder."

Yes, the Petes this year have a hard-hitting, smart and experienced coach for the senior lacrosse wars. He won't ask any of his starry players to do anything he can't do — and do extra well.

Bears Down Bisons

By The Canadian Press.

Buffalo Bisons, leaders of the American Hockey League's eastern division, suffered a 6-3 setback Tuesday night from Hershey Bears who moved to within six points of them. But the western division's leader, Cleveland Barons, trounced Providence Reds 4-1 on home ice.

Apsley Wins Trophy

LAKEFIELD, March 7—(ENS)—In a free-scoring overtime game here last night, Apsley Aces downed Buckhorn 11-9 to capture the title of the Bush Hockey League and the Sherrindale Cup, which was presented by Harry Sherrin. The winners had more punch in the overtime stanza of a lively tilt, marked by a dozen penalties.

Coones, Hunt and D. Fawcett scored for Buckhorn in the first frame with Howden, Harris and Giles being Apsley snipers. Gordon, Hall and Coones put Buckhorn up in the second but, after Barcroft tallied for them in the third, the Aces fought back with Watson tallying twice and Giles and Smith one each. B. Shearer and D. Fawcett counted for Buckhorn in the overtime heat, and Howden and Batten each scored a pair to clinch it. Teams:

Apsley: Goal, Spencely; defence, Delahaye, Tucker; centre, Harris; wings, Howden, Houle; alternates, Smith, Brown, Giles, Watson, Batten, Outram.

Buckhorn: Goal, Martin; defence, G. Shearer, Hall; centre, B. Shearer; wings, Barr, Hunt; alternates, Coones, Barcroft, Williams, Muskrat, D. Fawcett, J. Fawcett, Gordon.

DARTS LEAGUE

Oldtime Wrestling Shown As Yukon Eric Trims Tim

Yukon Eric called upon all his strength to earn the deciding fall over Timothy Geohagen in the main bout at the Brock St. Arena last night. The scrap saw a return to oldtime wrestling with two strong men doing their stuff, but the adage held true that "a good big man will beat a good little man." Eric weighed 276 pounds while the Irishman scaled but 228 and this could not be offset by his strong-man reputation. But it was a real interesting bout.

The Alaskan took the first fall in 12 minutes with his shoulder back-breaker after slamming Tim several times in a softening-up process. He put him in position for it when Geohagen tried a flying tackle off the ropes and ran into a brick wall in the shape of Eric's massive chest. Earlier each in turn had hoisted the other over the ropes as both showed plenty of strength in various tests, but Eric was a little the stronger. It irked him to find his smaller opponent pushing him around at times and he occasionaly roughed it some, but the match was pretty clean throughout, with Tim drawing more cheers.

Timothy Won

The Dublin strong man won the second fall in nine minutes with his "Irish sleeper", an unconscious neck grip. He had ducked a hard chest slam in the corner, which the groggy referee —Sam Gotter—took, and then he tore after his big opponent to grab him from behind and apply the deadly hold. He was faster all the way and plenty game but was facing the strongest man in the grappling ring today, and Eric usually shed his holds handily. The fall was a popular one with the crowd.

The final fall came in four minutes with Tim counted out but Eric nearly all in. Tim had bounced off a flying tackle and then, when Eric tried one off the ropes, Geohagen ducked and the lumberjack fell heavily. The fast Irisher jumped him immediately and twice had his "sleeper" applied but twice Eric threw him off with sheer strength. Tim tore in again and applied it from behind, plus a body scissors so Eric couldn't throw him off. The big fellow then climbed slowly to his feet and staggered to the ropes. He threw Tim and both spun right over the hemp, but Eric caught himself on the apron outside the strands and climbed in, while Tim was counted out on the arena floor.

Awarded Bout

Sonny Kurgis, 226 of Ohio, was awarded the semi-final in 25 minutes over Tommy O'Toole of Washington by the referee when Tommy threw his rival out of the ring and wouldn't let him return. The ref finally jumped out, too—leaving the Irish-American strutting about in conquering fashion —and hoisted the hand of the fallen German-American. There was a lot of choking in this scrap and warnings with O'Toole rougher and better, but Kurgis more popular, even if he did rough it up at times, also. They served up plenty of action.

Pierre LaSalle, 225-pound Montrealer, made his debut in a prelim draw with rough Jack Wentworth, 222, of Alabama. The good-looking French-Canadian was popular and showed moxie and experience against a tough grappler. They were on the mat for some time and then opened it up in a series of exchanges, once landing hard on the referee. Pierre took quite a roughing and then slugged Gotter and tossed Wentworth out of the ring, and both wound up that session slugging it out on the arena floor. They got back in time as the fans yelled joyously at the hectic action. Wentworth went in for kneeing, gouging and kicking but LaSalle staged a comeback and was holding his own at the time limit.

J. Castle Rolls Tops

J. Castle rolled high three of 787 this week in the Girls City Bowling League as E. Rishor's 308 single was tops. G. Long had 450 to take the 443 blind score. Cardinals led teams with pinnage of 3435 and single game of 1150. They blanked Sevenaires as Collis' whitewashed Aces, 2-1 wins being marked by Towne Togs, Marines and Dickson's respectively over Brintons, Arcos and Curtin's.

Good single games included: B. Pogue 240 and 256, J. Castle 241, 269 and 277, B. Castle 241 and 266, M. Sanderson 246, M. Hawthorne 246 and 259, M. Rogers 248, J. Brockley 249, J. Snape 256, M. Knights 266, E. Rishor 273, M. Selkirk 282, P. Guppy 291 and D. Hendren 302. Neat triples were: L. Vincent 639, D. Hendren 644, G. Milliken 648, L. Crocker 663, F. Kokesh 683; B. Pogue and B. Castle 693, M. Selkirk and P. Guppy 714, M. Hawthorne 733 and E. Rishor 773.

Re-elect L. Digby Soccer President

BELLEVILLE, March 7 — Les Digby of Belleville was re-elected president for the coming season here at the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Soccer League. Other officers: John W. Poult, Kingston, secretary-treasurer; R. Windover, Kingston, registration secretary.

Representatives were present from Belleville, Kingston, Brockville, Peterborough and the Royal Canadian School of Signals, Kingston, and all signified their intention to compete this year.

CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

DURING a recent reception at Toronto's new Radio Station CKFH, the thought occurred to us that if the floor supporting the crowd of 500 or more were to suddenly collapse, the cream of the sporting world would vanish irreplaceably. Newspapermen, sportcasters, promoters, hockey and football players were crowded into one jovial mass—honoring Foster Hewitt. 'Mr. Hockey' shook hands and talked with Major Conn Smythe, Joe Primeau, Ted Reeve, Happy Day, Joe Perlove, Bob Hesketh, Dave Price, Jim Coleman, Frank Tunney, Deacon Allen, Bob McGall, Dr. Harry Griffiths and others too numerous to mention. For several hours the talk rolled up and down the studios and (by actual count) the word 'sport' was mentioned 3-million, 223-thousand times. Our best wishes to CKFH (Dial 1400) and to all its merry crew. For Foster and Bill Hewitt a dream has come true, while 'W.A.' looks on approvingly.

Hockey Fan—1951

They say the most rabid NHL hockey fans are usualy perched high in the greys and greens. From their lofty position these hardy souls command a sweeping view of their fellow spectators but the players performing below seem to rotate on the ice like leisurely puppets at play.

A body-check delivered by a Harry Watson or a Leo Reise, while it seems dynamic and vicious from a seat near the rail, looks like a gentle protest to our friends in heaven. "Aw, step into him, Harry! Don't be afraid of the bum!", echoes through the hall. The Maple Leafs roar to the attack and Ted Kennedy breaks through, going like the wind. "Aw, turn on the steam, Teeder! You're practically standing still!", scream these rabid fans, failing to catch the tremendous strain creasing Kennedy's face.

In the older days, before Maple Leaf Gardens and the other arenas, hockey was played right under the nose of the spectators. Each intent to murder was clearly seen by the crowd—before the killing took place. The fans were already enjoying the body-check before it actually came. This personal touch doubled the excitement of the play.

Old Myth

The myth of invincibility attributed to so many of the great old players (to the disparagement of those of today) may be partially explained by the changed 'view' of the fans.

A body-check (in the Good Old Days) was a crushing blow to everyone in the rink—but then the crowd was small like the rink. Nowadays, only the few by the rail hear the heartbeats, but the great, loyal majority (13,000 strong) can make up in opinions and cat-calls what they miss from the greys and the greens. Undoubtedly television should revive the ancient drama of hockey by giving us all a close-up view!

Sportsmen's Show—1951

We're informed that arrangements are practically completed for the 1951 Canadian Sportsmen's Show to be held in the Coliseum, Toronto, March 9 to 17, under the auspices of the Toronto Anglers' and Hunters' Association in the interests of conservation.

Among the highlights of this year's Sportsman's Show will be a stage and water revue, a conservation show, dog show, boat show, motor show, travel show and an Indian village. In the sports demonstration area, sports such as golf, tennis, judo, badminton, archery, boxing, fencing and so forth will be demonstrated by experts and champions.

Again this year the four floors of the Coliseum will house hundreds of commercial exhibits including all the most up-to-date equipment for fishing, hunting, camping, golf, skiing and other sports. Also, 'Sharkey', the amazing seal, will star in the big stage and water revue in the arena of the Coliseum, so set aside several evenings for this most unique and worthy show.

Lindsay Captures Sixth Straight Win

LINDSAY, March 7 — Scoring four goals in the final period, Lindsay copped its sixth straight OMHA Midget "B" win by walloping Midland Minors, 7-2, in a provincial quarter-final here Monday night.

Bob Vickery led the locals with three goals while Art Truay sniped a pair. Bill Burns and Jack Graham, one apiece. Bill Kettle and Ken Lowes were the losers' marksmen. Return game of the total-goals series is scheduled for Midland, Wednesday night.

By The Canadian Press

Barbara Ann Scott returned to Ottawa four years ago today after winning the world's women's figure skating championship at Stockholm. After crowds roared acclaim on the route of a triumpal procession, the House of Commons heard various speakers pay tribute to her accomplishments and a resolution was passed saying she had "brought distinction to herself and honor to her country."

Mortson Suspended 2 Games Fined $200 For Brown Fight

By MEL SUFRIN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Gus Mortson, hard-hitting defenceman for Toronto Maple Leafs, has been fined $200 and suspended for two games as a result of his attempt to injure Adam Brown of Chicago Black Hawks in last Saturday night's game at Toronto.

Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, announced the penalty after a hearing in Toronto Tuesday and his selection of the games from which Mortson will be barred may have some effect on the final standings this season.

Normal procedure in such a case would be to suspend Mortson from playing in the next two games against Chicago. However, since Leafs face the Hawks only once more this season, Campbell had to bar Mortson from a game with another team.

Crucial Moment

He picked the game with the Detroit Red Wings and he couldn't have selected a more crucial meeting.

Detroit currently holds a six-point lead over the Leafs in the fight for first place. When the two teams meet in Toronto tonight it will be their last meeting of the regular season and Leafs will almost have to win if they want to retain any hope of overtaking the Red Wings.

Conn Smythe commented on the Campbell verdict that "it was a fair trial and the president went into all aspects of the incident but it looks as though we were guillotined after he left."

The fiery Leaf boss said "the only difference between this case and the incident involving Red Hamill and Vic Lynn in Chicago a year ago was Lynn was hurt while Adam Brown wasn't. Yet Hamill was fined only $100 and suspended for one game. We get twice as much as anybody else I guess."

In addition to the $200 fine, Mortson also stands to lose about another $350. Campbell ordered Leafs not to pay Mortson for the two games he misses.

Says Odds 7-2 Against Walcott

DETROIT, March 7 (AP)—Old Jersey Joe Walcott, who seems to be fighting for the heavyweight title every time you look around, hopes to put a permanent crimp in the plans for a lucrative Joe Louis-Ezzard Charles return bout by whipping Charles tonight.

The odds are at least 7 to 2 against the 37-year-old Walcott's chances in this town. In New York, the bookmakers have listed it as a 5 to 1 and "out" fight. That means you can bet on Walcott but you can't wager on Charles. He's considered that much of a cinch by the odds-makers.

Although there is practically no wagering to speak of, the customers are rushing to put their cash on the line for the fast vanishing pasteboards.

Marlies, Barrie Stage Brawl 10 Get Major Penalties

By The Canadian Press.

"Grudge game" rumors about Toronto Marlboros and league-leading Barrie Flyers were confirmed Tuesday night as an OHA Junior A clash erupted into violence resulting in five players on each team drawing major penalties for fighting.

First place in the big ten loop was at stake, but Flyers smashed the Dukes 7-0 in a night marked by lopsided triumphs elsewhere. In Guelph, Biltmores blasted Waterloo Hurricanes 8-2 and Toronto St. Michael's hammered Galt Black Hawks 6-0 as Irish goalie Ed Chadwick gained his first shutout of the season.

A full-scale brawl started as the Marlies-Flyers tilt reached the three-minute mark. Playing broke down completely. Players and fans traded insults and punches in a ruckus lasting 15 minutes.

Injuries included Marlboro manager Staff Smythe taking a nose-dive to a concrete floor, Flyer Bill Hagan's concussion, nine stitches and injured rib and shoulder, Dukes' Earl Balfour having his sweater and pads shredded by Danny O'Connor, and varied slashes, bruises and high-sticking wounds.

Starts Fireworks

The fracas began when Dukes' Ron Hurst slammed Hagan into the boards to draw both blood and a match misconduct penalty. In poking, Hurst tangled with another Flyer and trouble spread. Fans began a steady roar of booing as Don Peart traded jabs with Barrie's Don Emms to earn majors for both players.

Chuck Lumsden took 10 for arguing with an official over Hurst's second offence, and a dreary succession of snarls, punches and penalties followed, although Flyers continued to outplay their antagonists.

Jerry Toppazzini paced the winners with three goals, Real Chevrefils getting two and Don Emms and Doug Towers registering singles.

In the other Toronto event St. Mike's clung desperately to a playoff chance through the goals of Danny MacDonald, John Weldrake, Bill Dineen, Neil Buchanan, Willie Marshall and Mike Ratchford. Three more Irish wins—coupled with three more losses by Stratford Kroehlers — will give them the eighth and last place in the playoffs.

Biltmores' victory moved the Guelph team to within one point of third-place Windsor Spitfires. Waterloo started strong but the Hurricanes were blown out by the third period, when Guelph rammed in four markers.

Andy Bathgate headed the Hatters with three goals, Gerry Theberge with two and Herb Dickenson, Aldo Guidolin and Ken Laufman counting singles. Ken Watters and Roger Maisonneuve answered for Waterloo.

Assembly Warden Pays Official Visit

HAVELOCK, March 7 (ENS)— A special meeting of Dorcas Rebekah Lodge No. 98, with members of the Campbellford Rebekah Lodge was held Monday evening for the official visit of the Assembly Warden, Mrs. E. Culter of Welland and the District Deputy President, Miss E. Shaw of Lindsay.

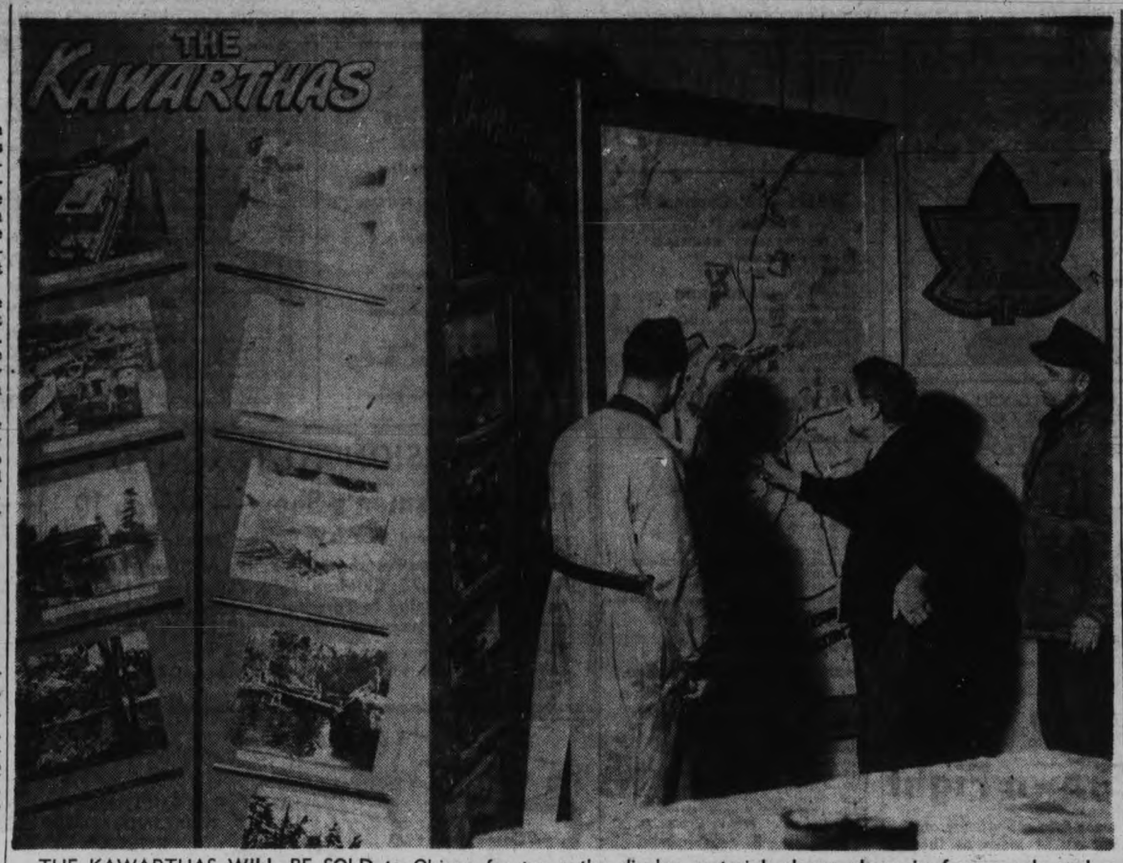
During lodge, a gift was presented to Mrs. Culter by Mrs. B. MacDonald, N.G., of the Campbellford lodge, and Mrs. J. Beatty, N.G., of the Havelock lodge.

A social evening followed when a skit and four vocal selections by a ladies' sextette was presented by the visitors from Campbellford. Other items by members of the local organization were: a vocal solo by Mrs. J. Beatty who sang a duet with Mrs. S. Southward; reading by Mrs. A. Russell; piano duet by Mrs. G. Kennedy and Mrs. R. Backus; a vocal quartette by Misses Shirley and Beverley Bennett, Mrs. R. Backus and Mrs. F. Thompson with Mrs. Kennedy at the piano.

Lunch was served.

Otonabee Twp. Passes Warble Fly Control

KEENE, March 7.—Otonabee township council passed its warble fly control bylaw at the March meeting. George Carey, RR 8, Peterborough, was appointed inspector.



Reeve Dick Stewart was authorized by council to buy the necessary equipment.

Council granted permission to William Dorrington of Peterborough to erect a house and service station on Highway 7.

Deputations were heard in connection with action being taken to improve the hill on concession 10 north of Highway 7. A committee was appointed to interview the Sub-Urban Road Commission about the need for hard surfaces on Keene streets.

HISTORIC VOYAGE

The Queen Charlotte Islands off British Columbia were named after the vessel which reached there from England in 1787.

THE KAWARTHAS WILL BE SOLD to Ohions for ten days by the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. A three-man team will participate in this important work at the Cleveland Sportsmen's Show from March 9 to 18. Most of the display material, shown above in four panels and a district map, are already on their way to Cleveland by transport and will be set up by Thursday evening. Shippers Bill Miller and Lorne Beavis listen to final instructions from designer Stan Harris.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Hiawatha In Front Of Otonabee Loop

KEENE, Mar. 7—(ENS)— The Otonabee Rural Hockey League wound up regular schedule with Keene and Hiawatha tied for first place with 18 points each, however, Hiawatha by virtue of their much better scoring average have been declared first place team.

Playoffs have commenced with Hiawatha and Downer's Corners clashing and Keene and Indian River in the other bracket, winners to meet in the final. Keene defeated Indian River in their first semi-final game by 6-1 last night on slow ice. Next games are set for Friday in the Otonabee rink with Keene vs. Indian River at 7 o'clock and Downer's Corners vs. Hiawatha at 9, weather permitting.

This league, in its second year of operation, has had a very successful season with attendance much improved over last year. The Westwood Club who were league leaders all last season got away to a bad start and never seemed able to hit their true stride this year while Assumption got off to a good start but lost a few close ones later which killed their play-off hopes. The Hiawatha Indians, newcomers to the league this year, played good, steady hockey all winter and were backed up with solid goalkeeping by Howard MacDonald who had four shutouts, three in a row. The Keene team, mainly on the strength of some sensational goalkeeping by Jack Mackness, stayed in the hunt for league honors right down to the wire and anything can happen in the playoffs.

Final Standing

	W	L	T	P
Hiawatha	9	0	1	18
Keene	9	0	1	18
Downer's Cor.	5	1	4	11
Indian River	4	1	5	9
Assumption	2	0	8	4
Westwood	0	0	10	0

Heavy Action Seen In Basketball

Ontario basketball semi-finals this week in intermediate "B" and juvenile divisions feature two Peterborough teams, the Marines and PCVS juveniles. These are only two of the 11 games, both league and playoff, in which local teams are playing tonight, Friday and Saturday.

Coach Gord McIntyre's Marines play the first game of the Ontario semi - final series, two - game points-to-count, with the Church of the Messiah cagers at Ryerson Tech tonight. Formed by Toronto Argo football players, the Messiahs romped through the Toronto church league and decisively defeated the Toronto and district OABA finalists to represent the area in the semi-final series. They are coached by Shag Park, well-known Canadian basketball player.

PCVS' Garnet and Grey juvenile entry expects stiff opposition Saturday night at PCVS when they meet St. Catharines in the first game of the OABA semi-finals. The local entry showed little power while washing out Regiopolis College in the opening series. The return game will be next week in the Niagara peninsula.

Riverdale Here

Riverdale Collegiate's cage quintet from Toronto will be guests of PCVS' senior team Saturday night in the other game of the double header. Another victory over one of Toronto's strong cage teams after last week's win against Western Tech should place the locals well up in interscholastic basketball in Ontario.

Friday night in Whitby the Goulding-coached Garnet and Grey seniors finish the lakeshore championship series. Last Friday they walloped the lakeshore cagers 72-21 for a 51-point lead in the series. The COSSA senior tournament is on March 15 in Toronto.

In Cobourg tonight the PCVS juniors are expected to sweep their series with Cobourg High and win the lakeshore championship. They hold a 27-point lead in the two-game series. The junior COSSA tournament is also on March 17 in Toronto.

At PCVS tonight the Lindsay Collegiate bantam cagers will try to lengthen their lead in the lakeshore semi-final series with PCVS. They hold a 12-point edge over the Garnet and Grey by winning the first game here two weeks ago, 38-26.

After a windup game tonight at the YWCA, the Girls' City League will open playoff quarter-final series Friday night. The second-place Nurses will meet the Lindsay Merchants in the first game and the CGE'ers will meet Black's in the second. These are the first games of two-game series. The return games will be next Friday.

The winner of the Nurses-Merchants' series will meet the undefeated Neill's quintet in the semi-finals while the CGE-Black's victor will play the cellar-dwelling Normals.

At the YMCA tonight all the boys' city league teams will see action in the weekly double-header.

Hastings Boys Tie

HASTINGS, March 7 — Hastings midgets battled to a 2-2 tie with Pickering, on soft ice at the Whitby Arena on Monday night. The first playoff game of the OMHA Midget D semi-finals, with goals to count in a home-and-home series. The second game will be played at Hastings on Wednesday.

Herrington was outstanding for Hastings, usually drawing four checks at a time from the Pickering team, to keep him covered. W. Dodd also stood out, with Scott, Pickering's rushing defenceman, who scored one goal and assisted on the other, being the best for them.

The local Midgets managed by Joe Jones and coached by Len Hill, have previously thrown Flinton, Bobcaygeon, and Little Britain into the discard, although they had never been on the ice together before starting into the OMHA playdowns.

For the first period of Monday night's game it was even steven, with the period closing scoreless. Hastings opened up in the second and took a two-goal lead on goals by W. Dodd and Herrington, but Pickering battled back to score one goal before the close of the second.

The third opened fast with W. Fisher handing out some solid checks along the blue lines. Herrington consistently flew in on the Pickering net on breakaways, but was outlucked time and again. Half-way through the period Pickering tied the score at 2-2 on a shot that took a weird hop over Montgomery's stick.

5 Firemen Overcome In Gov't Building

QUEBEC, March 7 (CP)—Five firemen and one government electrician were overcome by smoke Tuesday night when a fire swept through the attic of a government building housing offices of the roads department and laboratories of the mines department.

One of the firemen, not immediately identified, was severely affected by smoke and first aid squad men said he was "in a bad way." He was taken unconscious to the squad's first aid station-wagon.

Bill Gregoire, the electrician, was overcome when he attempted to lead firemen to the attic.

Damage, caused by smoke and water, was said to be "high" but estimates were not available.

Help In Civil Defence

MONTREAL, March 7 (CP) — St. John Ambulance units across Canada can be counted on to play an active part in the country's civil defence should the need arise, Lord Wakehurst, Lord Prior of the Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem, said here Tuesday. Lord Wakehurst made a brief stop-over in Montreal on the last leg of a three-month tour of units across Canada.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Ottawa Nationals, entry for four years in the Border Baseball League, will operate in Cornwall, this coming summer, Tommy Gorman, Nationals general manager said Tuesday night.

Ottawa this year is to see triple A baseball, the Jersey City franchise of the International League being moved here.

Bill Metzig, player and manager of the Nationals for four years, may find a place in the capital's new baseball organization.

Charlie Stoneham, general manager of the Ottawa Giants, announced Metzig will report at the Giants' training camp in Sanford, Florida, later this month and will be given a trial as coach.

General manager Stoneham also announced that signed contracts have been received from five members of the team.

The British PGA finally agreed Tuesday to the American proposal to play the Rider Cup golf match Nov. 2 and Nov. 4, 1951.

The match will be played at Pinehurst, N. C., foursomes, on the first day and singles on the second.

The North Carolina sponsors had asked that Saturday, Nov. 3, be left open because of the North Carolina-Tennessee football game at nearby Chapel Hill.

At Niagara Falls, N. Y., Niagara University Tuesday suspended football for the duration of the present national emergency.

The principal reason is the shortage of player material. The university has lost some freshmen and many sophomores and juniors to the draft. Eighteen players, many of them outstanding, will be graduated in June.

MAURICE RICHARD, Montreal Canadien's high scoring star, may be forced to pay the largest fine ever imposed on a major league player—$500—and/or suspension for a term to be decided upon solely by Clarence Campbell, President of the N.H.L. Campbell has full judicial powers to dispose of Richard's case, but made it clear that no move would be made until he holds a full-scale investigation. Richard is in the N.H.L. dog house for allegedly attacking Referee Hugh McLean in a New York hotel following Saturday night's game against Detroit in which the Rocket was handed a match misconduct penalty which he deemed undeserved as he was felled by a Red Wing player, right in front of the official.

College In B.C. Operated Informally

NELSON, B.C. — (CP) — An "Education Co-op" is how Principal A. L. Cartier describes Notre Dame College since its opening here last fall.

Studies take place around home-made desks and tables and the students perform all the non-teaching tasks.

"The atmosphere is very informal and a great deal of the initiative for study comes from the students themselves," Mr. Cartier says.

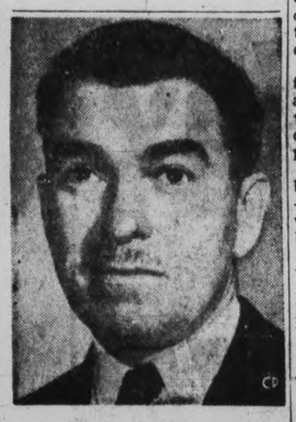
The five boarders pay $30 a month for board and room and Nelson students pay $6 a month tuition fees. A student who can't pay does a bit of extra work to help meet operating costs.

Curriculum Limited

The curriculum this year is limited to first year arts or senior matriculation. By next fall, it is hoped students may be able to obtain recognized credits in second and third year arts.

Mr. Cartier says the aim of the school is to make college education available to everyone, young or old, in B.C.'s interior, whether or not the student can afford the usual costs of such education.

"There is no need for an arts education to be expensive because acquisition of the liberal arts demands nothing more than a serious exercise of the mind upon the great human problems," he says.



"All that students need are books, a place to work and teachers to guide them. An extensive plant is nice but irrelevant to a good arts education."

Mr. Cartier received his Bachelor of Arts and Masters degrees from the University of Toronto. He did post-graduate work at Laval University in Quebec and at the University of Montreal. Later he taught in elementary and high schools, the University of Alberta and at Notre Dame College, Gravelbourg, Sask.

THESE REPRESENTATIVES of the Big Four foreign ministers are meeting in Paris for talks on arrangements for a meeting, probably in April, of the foreign ministers themselves. From left are: Andrei Y. Gromyko, deputy foreign minister of Russia; Ambassador-at-large Philip Jessup, who will represent the U.S.; Alexandre Parodi, secretary general of the ministry of foreign affairs in France; and Ernest Davies, parliamentary undersecretary at the British foreign office.

Social Scientist Says World Needs Spiritual Values

OTTAWA—(CP)—Men, living in machine-age intensity and in apprehension and fear of an atom war, now are in greater need of the humanists, the social doctors, than ever before.

But the kind of "social healers" they require, says the Very Rev. Georges-Henri Levesque, are not so much the "experts" or "technicians," as those who can combine real skill with the highest warmth and devotion to their patients—the socially-ill, the maladjusted, the mentally-maimed.

Without this devotion, this love, says the 48-year-old eminent Social Scientist, the mere social technician is in reality a "betrayer" of man.

Father Levesque, internationally known for his work in the Social Science field, adds that this thought should be given emphasis as Canada nears Education Week, to be observed March 4-10.

Father Levesque is dean and founder of the Faculty of Social Sciences at Quebec's Laval University. Educated in both Canada and France, he has been one of the driving forces in the cementing of the Quebec co-operative movement under a single provincial council.

Chosen For Commission

His brilliance and bubbling enthusiasm have led to his selection as a member of the Massey Commission on Arts, probing cultural development in Canada. The commission now is preparing its report to parliament.

There is urgent necessity, says Father Levesque, for all faculties of social sciences and all schools of social work to co-operate to the fullest to help save man in current international distress.

"But let us always remember that our techniques alone cannot accomplish this salvation. I am well aware that there is an increasingly high premium being put on the expert technician.

"Yet, I think one should also be aware that the mere technician—especially the one who deals with human beings—is bound to betray man himself."

Techniques are but means toward an end, and Father Levesque is convinced, the supreme approach must lie in the simple, human touch of love.

Expanding Field

The field of social science was an expanding field, growing grater as democracy calls on its people to strain to the utmost to battle gainst a disintegrating world.

Technicians were required, but a world of technicians alone would be a soulless artificial world. Spirituálism and humanism must play their parts.

"Perhaps I can best illustrate this thought with a modern interpretation of an old tale as depicted by Walt Disney's "Fantasia," says Father Levesque.

"You remember that the sorcerer's apprentice was only a technician and was eventually dominated by the technique he could not master—it was one thing to know how to manipulate a broom swiftly; it was quite another thing to know the secret that made the broom a servant and not a master.

"The example may seem trivial. But one wonders whether the essential meaning of the old myth is not, as we say in a French proverb: Le coeur de l'homme vaut plus que tout l'outillage d'un pays—the heart of man is worth more than all the tools of a nation."

AUSTRALIA-BOUND — C. Fraser Elliott has been appointed Canadian High Commissioner in Australia. The 62-year-old former deputy minister of national revenue will succeed Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, who returned to Canada on sick leave some time ago.

5,000 Berliners Seeking New Homes In West's Zone

By TOM REEDY.

BERLIN — (AP). — Room 304 in Spandau Borough Hall is a busy place these days.

Germans stand in line for hours to sign a paper that gives them the privilege of losing all they possess.

They are West Staakeners, old and sneaked out, family by family illusioned but unafraid to start anew.

Each is deciding he'd rather live in the West, broke, than in the East financially better off.

They are applying for residence in Western Berlin. All they have with them is clothing and a few odds and ends. Behind them, in West Staaken, are their homes, their gardens and, in some cases, ever. their businesses carried on by the same family for generations.

Within Rights

The trek started when the Russians corrected their zonal boundary by declaring West Staaken port of the East. They were within their rights, the map showed. Five thousand residents of West Staaken were automatically shunted behind the Iron Curtain. Until then the borough had been considered Western, used West currency, Western teaching methods, and even voted in the Western city elections.

The sudden arrival of the East police, the dismissal of school teachers, the introduction of East currency, Eastern food ration systems, and Soviet-Communist propaganda, stunned the borough.

As the residents realized what had happened, they packed up and sneaker out, family by family. To date 3,500 of the borough's 5,000 population have slipped into the West. Many of those who are left are trying to do the same thing.

Helped by West

West Berlin, financially hurt as it is and sadly lacking in living quarters, is nevertheless stretching to help the staakener.

In Room 304, they tell their tales of woe,, sign for West Berlin residence and take their chances on what kind of a roof they will have over their heads henceforth.

Middle-aged Paul told how the crudity of the East Zone's action affected even the East Communist police. One of them stopped to watch Paul— last name anonymous, please—load a moving van.

"The kitchen stove has to stay in the house," the people's policeman said firmly.

"But it is my property," Paul retorted. "It's been in this house all my life. I put it here."

Wearily, the policeman shrugged his shoulders.

Lets It Go

"All right, as far as I am concerned," he said and turned away.

Paul loaded up his kitchen stove, a few pieces of furniture, his wife and child.

Herr K., got out with his wife and seven children, now packed into two small rooms in Spandau.

"But we are glad that we have found something and do not have to live in constant fear of Eastern chicanery."

Frau Elsa had her two boys, one 10, the other 14, with her. The father died in the war.

"They will not go to a Communist school and strut around in blue shirts as long as they are my boys," she said sharply.

Peterborough's One Big COMMUNITY DRIVE
Of The Year - Is NOW IN PROGRESS

The City of Peterborough's Community Drive—the one great effort of the year—in which one appeal for funds is made instead of ten individual collections — started on Friday. Money from this fund has financed the work of our social services in the past and this work must be continued strongly now—backed by the financial help of every citizen.

The Objective is $85,000

CITIZENS OF PETERBOROUGH:—

In Peterborough there is a great need for extended social service work. . . and this work requires considerable funds.

All of the ten agencies carry on worth while work . . . work which is necessary for the good of the community and about which little is ever known. They all depend upon the Community Fund for their finances.

I have every confidence that the people of Peterborough appreciate the service these organizations provide and that you will financially assist them when your canvasser approaches you for your donation.

Max Swanston
MAYOR.

HERE ARE THE WORTHY ORGANIZATIONS WHICH BENEFIT FROM YOUR CONTRIBUTION—

- Canadian Red Cross
- Salvation Army
- Canadian National Institute for the Blind
- St. Vincent's Orphanage
- Children's Aid Society
- Y.M.C.A.
- Y.W.C.A.
- Victorian Order of Nurses
- Navy League

AND OTHER AGENCIES OFFICIALLY INCLUDED BY THE COMMUNITY FUND EXECUTIVE

Be Ready With a Substantial Donation When Your Canvasser Calls

Campaign Closes Friday, March 9

GIVE GENEROUSLY TO THE

PETERBORO RED CROSS AND COMMUNITY FUND

The Campaign For

$85,000

Is Now Under Way

These Services Merit Your Help:

Canadian Red Cross, Salavation Army, Children's Aid Shelter, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Humane Society, Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., Navy League, Victorian Order of Nurses, St. Vincent's Orphanage, and other Agencies officially included in the Peterborough Community Chest Fund will share your urgently needed donation.

YOUR DOLLARS WILL GO FURTHER BECAUSE:

1.—Single Subscription

You are asked to give only ONCE to help defray the annual needs of TEN leading Health, Welfare and Recreational Agencies – instead of being faced with TEN individual appeals. Your time and canvassers time is saved.

2.—Prevention Of Duplication

Although each agency represented has its own field of operations, a central council operating through Fund Headquarters makes a continuing study so that duplication of efforts may be avoided.

3.—Equitable Distribution

After careful study by a Citizens' Committee of Business, Labor and Professional people, the total fund is divided among the individual services according to their needs.

The Firms of Peterborough in sponsoring this advertisement, urge you to give generously to the Community Chest Fund. This is the only drive for charity and service organizations in Peterborough, and every dollar is needed to make it a success.

1,200 Postmen Let Out In PO Layoffs

OTTAWA, March 7 (CP)—Canada will have 1,200 surplus postmen after cuts are made in residential mail delivery April 1 but it is hoped most of them will be absorbed in other government jobs.

Postmaster General Rinfret said this in the Commons Tuesday as he outlined the needs and effects of cutting urban residential deliveries from two to one a day at an annual saving of $3,500,000. To meet skyrocketing defence costs, the country's luxury services must be reduced.

He made no reference, either in the Commons or in giving a similar statement later on the free time "Nation's Business," a CBC broadcast over a trans-Canada network, of protests by postmen against the cut.

Even as Mr. Rinfret was making his statement to the House, W. J. Turnbull, deputy postmaster, said in an interview that Communists probably are responsible for part of the stormy reaction highlighted by a protest meeting by Toronto postmen demanding maintenance of the 44-hour week.

Mr. Rinfret said:

A plan has been evolved for postmen to work the equivalent of 44 hours a week—eight hours a day, six days a week, with every 12th week off. He said this has been "favorably received" by letter carriers.

Every effort is being made to place surplus postmen in other government jobs through the Civil Service Commission but some will be released. These releases will start with the junior men, who will be given an opportunity to return when vacancies occur.

Christian Fellowship YPU Discussion Topic

SPRINGVILLE, March 7 — (ENS)— The Young People's Union of Springville Church held their Sunday evening meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hooten. Margaret Earle was in charge of the meeting and the topic was Christian Fellowship. Readings were given by Lila Seymour, Catharine Earle, Myrtle Seymour and Joan Dunn. Eleanor Bowles read the scripture. At the close of the meeting the hostess and her daughters served refreshments. Hazel McIntosh thanked Mr. and Mrs. Hooten and family for their hospitality.

Announce New Course

TORONTO. March 7 (CP) — The University of Toronto Tuesday announced a new course in community recreation leading to the degree of bachelor of social work. Enrolment will be limited to 10 students, those completing the course becoming eligible for a second year study leading to a master's degree.

See No Shortage

TORONTO, March 7 (CP) — Neither dairies nor retailers here foresee any shortage of butter in Toronto. Commenting on reports from other Canadian cities of prices up to between 70 and 80 cents a pound, retailers here said butter now is selling about 67 cents with no exceptional increase in sight.

Mollet Turned Down

PARIS, March 7 (AP)—Socialist Leader Guy Mollet was turned down Tuesday night by the national assembly when he sought its approval to become premier of France. He fell 25 votes short of the 311 needed for confirmation in the job. The official vote was 286 to 259.

STANDARDIZER — Cmdr. James V. Steele, 38, of Ottawa has been appointed director of standardization for the Canadian Navy. A former British Commando, Cmdr. Steele is a native of Tralee, Ireland. 13 Drivers Get Court Summons

LONDON, Ont., March 7 (CP) —Summonses were issued by the County Magistrate's Clerk Tuesday for 13 drivers charged with speeding in new car convoys. The catch included five Toronto policemen and a member of the Toronto Fire Department.

If the charges are contested the 13 will appear in County Magistrate's Court March 16. If uncontested the fines can be remitted by mail.

Three were stopped Monday to raise the weekend haul to 21 and the total for the past 10 days to 37. The men are hired on a part-time basis to drive the cars from Windsor to Toronto dealers.

The policemen-firemen drivers were stopped just inside London limits Sunday after they had been clocked from Lambeth at 60 miles an hour by a Provincial Police constable.

Snow Liquidator CPR Invention

REVELSTOKE, BC — (CP)— Nature will get a helping hand with snow removal at this rail centre in the Rockies when the Canadian Pacific Railway introduces a new type of "snow liquidator."

Built at Minneapolis for $50,000, this new piece of railroad equipment — a combination of snow melter and snow blower— is the first of its kind.

It will arrive here shortly to help remove the remains of Revelstoke's record 232-inch snowfall this winter.

The machine has two rotary blades preceded by a rake which breaks up snow and ice before admitting it to the rotors. Beyond the rotors is a melting chamber with a capacity of 19,000 gallons. When the tank's capacity is reached, water is dumped through four side ports.

To melt the ice and snow, 3,000 gallons of locomotive-generalted, steam-heated water is driven into the chamber.

Wm. Gracie On Board Soccer Association

The annual general meeting of the Peterborough and District Soccer Association was held on Monday evening, in the YMCA with a poor representation being present. Lindsay aggregation was out in full force, but the local clubs were not represented.

The secretary read his annual report which was accepted as read and filed for further reference.

Tom Garland who was president of the commission for the last two years resigned so as to confine all his soccer activities to refereeing and he made his application accordingly.

Appoint Officials

William Gracie, past president was nominated to the board along with George Anderson and Reg. Cox (Lindsay); Jack Downer, Jack Chamberlain and Stroyan Leith, as secretary, with power to add to the board.

The secretary was instructed to write the Canadian Legion, Canadian General, Canada Packers, Quaker Oats and Cobourg in regard to them entering a team in the local league.

A special meeting has been called for next Monday evening, March 12, in the YMCA at 8:00 o'clock.

LORD WAKEHURST, K.C.M.G., Lord Prior of the venerable Order of The Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem, arrived in Montreal recently to complete a three month tour of the St. John Ambulance facilities in Canada. Prior to boarding a train for New York, where he will sail back to Britain, he stated that should war come to Canada the St. John Ambulance units right across the Dominion would do their part in the civil defence pattern which now is growing up as the threat of hostilities deepens. He was pleased with the way the provincial governments are working close with the St. John units on civil defence plans.

Newspaper Executive John Sweeney Dies

REGINA, March 7 (CP)—John F. Sweeney, OBE, well-known Western Canadian newspaper executive and general manager of The Leader-Post until formal retirement in 1945, collapsed late Tuesday and died of a heart attack. He was 70.

Mr. Sweeney had just returned to Regina a few hours earlier from attending the government's civil defence forum in Ottawa as Regina's new civil defence officer.

He is survived by his widow, one son, John, a newspaperman with The Globe and Mail, Toronto; three daughters, Mrs. Fred Dobbs, Toronto, Mrs. L. Ashton, Vernon, B.C., and Mrs. Jack Mitchell, Winnipeg. and two sisters, also of Winnipeg.

No New Five-Year Plan To Be Introduced In USSR

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY.

MOSCOW, March 7— (AP). — The Soviet Parliament met Tuesday with adoption of a 1951 budget as its chief item of business for the five-day session.

Foreign diplomats, on hand at the opening were interested in whether the defence budget, which will be presented tinight by Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev, will show a big increase. The 1950 budget provided for total expenditures of 427,900,000,000 rubles ($106,975,000,000 at the Soviet rate of 25 cents for the value of the ruble). The defence budget was 79,400,000,000 rubles, up 400,000,000 from 1949.

The two houses of the Supreme Soviet, the Council of Union and the Council of Nationalities, meeting separately, agreed quickly on an agenda which includes, besides the budget, the adoption of a "law for the protection of peace," election of a supreme court and the confirmation of laws passed by the presidium since the last session. The presidium is a committee of the Supreme Soviet which sits between sessions and has legislative authority.

It was noted the agenda did not include a new five-year plan and it was presumed emonomic planning will not be raised at this session.

Severe Penalties

Previously, foreign observers had speculated that a fourth five-year plan might be presented as gesture indicating that the Soviet Union is still looking forward to years of economic development and peace in line with Stalin's statement that war is not inevitable.

The law for protection of peace presumably will be similar to others already adopted in East European countries, including East Germany, as recommended by the World Peace Congress at Warsaw last November. These laws provide severe penalties, in some cases death, for disseminating "war-mongering propaganda."

Liquor License Board Bill Rouses Legislature Storm

TORONTO, March 7 (CP). — The Ontario Legislature today gets down to its first study of the budget presented Tuesday by Premier Frost.

The House is scheduled to go into committee of supply for the first hour of the afternoon sitting to start examination of detailed estimates which make up the $265,382,000 expenditure planned for the fiscal year beginning April 1.

Of a number of government bills approved in principle Tuesday, chief opposition centred around a bill giving the Ontario Liquor Licence Board power to refuse to hear applications for liquor outlet licences if it believes the application has no chance of success.

C. H. Millard (CCF-York West) said the proposal was "undemocratic," and would give the board power to deny the right to make application by deciding on the application beforehand in a private hearing.

He said that those finally given a formal public hearing would be only those granted licences.

Urges Time Limit

Campbell Calder (L-London) saw "nothing sinister" in the bill but urged a time limit on the licence board's power to block applications in cases where an applicant wanted to persist.

Attorney-General Porter said the new rule would apply to cases where it was evident that a request for a liquor licence would fail. It would save the applicant the expense of advertising involved and would save potential objectors the trouble of appearing before the board.

Also involved in the bill is a new type of local option vote for areas which are legally wet but have no liquor outlets and wish to vote themselves legally dry, and provision for maintaining the liquor status of areas which are amalgamated or annexed to areas having a different status.

A second government measure approved in principle will give grants of $1,000 per bed toward construction of homes for the aged by religious, fraternal and charitable organizations.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow sponsoring the bill, said a chief need in caring for old people was a sympathetic interest. "This is found in the highest degree in private institutions," he said.

Different Type Homes

Liberal members raised the issue of cottage-type homes for the aged, to give elderly couples privacy. The proposal has been made in recent speeches by the provincial Liberal leader, Walter Thofnson.

Farquhar Oliver, Liberal house leader, said the bill indicated the government favored care of the aged in institutions, as at present.

Mr. Goodfellow admitted that one of the needs was to gain more privacy for the aged and to segregate those able to take care of themselves from those who needed special care. But it would be difficult to provide services and care if old-age homes were organized in a cottage system.

The Legislature also approved a government measure to extend mothers' allowance payments for children from the present age limit of 16 to 18 in cases of crippled children and children who show satisfactory progress at school. Payments will also be broadened to include divorced mothers and widowed mothers from other provinces after one year's residence in Ontario.

Must Pay Hospitals

Another bill will require municipalities to pay for hospital care of wards of Children's Aid Societies. The province will reimburse the municipalities for 25 per cent of the cost.

Gordon Ellis (CCF—Essex North) in the Legislature Tuesday accused Canadian Breweries Limited of being a combine, and said it had attempted to "blackball one small independent brewer."

Mr. Ellis read into the Legislature Record a letter which he said was written Dec. 4 by the company to liquor outlets. The letter referred to the marketing by one brewery of draft beer in small kegs for home use.

The CCF member said there was "no question" that the letter was an attempt to have liquor outlets stop doing business with the brewery which inaugurated the sale of keg beer.

He did not name the brewery, but said it suffered "heavy financial loss" due to the action of Canadian Breweries Limited.

Denies Influence

(C. O. Dalt, vice-president in charge of sales for Canadian Breweries, who issued the letter, denied it was an attempt to influence liquor outlets.

("The letter merely set forth our policy on the public sale of beer by the keg," Mr. Dalton said.)

There were only four independent breweries in the province, Mr. Ellis said, and the government should protect their rights against other companies.

Canadian Breweries Limited, through subsidiaries, operates nine brewing companies in Ontario together with a Toronto company which makes brewing products.

FRENCH SETTLERS

The south and west coasts of Newfoundland were originally settled by the French, including many Basques.

THE LORD LYON OF SCOTLAND has been searching for years to locate the man who is 24th in line to the succession of the Clan Tavish of Scotland. His search ended about a year ago when John William MacTavish, shown in the above photo as a patient at Montreal's Veterans' Hospital, acknowledged that he is the man the Lord Lyon has been trying to locate. Born in Canada, and having lived here all his life, he is not certain that he wishes to be disturbed from his normal life, not even to attend the coming Festival of Britain, which will see the chiefs of the Scottish Clans gathering in their native land.

Elusive Grass Snake Schoolroom Favorite

WINNIPEG —(CP)— "Oscar," a foot-long garter snake, is a favorite in the science room at Lord Selkirk School here.

The reptile, a flashy combination of green, yellow, creamy white and grey, found his way to school last September with an assist from a lad who plucked him from a nearby ditch.

He was quickly tagged "Oscar."

In the science room he has a place of honor. From his glass case he views skulls of cattle, stuffed owls, pinned-up butterflies and other natural history exhibits.

But he's not much of a homebody. Twice he has slipped out of his case and vanished.

The first time he made his way down a flight of stairs to the first floor. On the other occasion he got mixed up with some of the school furniture and it was weeks before his hiding place was uncovered.

Science teacher H. V. Larusson says he feeds the snake a portion of beef "the size of my little finger tip" about every 10 days.

Epidemic Subsides

CALCUTTA, March 7 (Reuters) —Calcutta's smallpox epidemic which has caused the death of 4,000 persons is abating, health authorities said Tuesday. Last week the disease claimed 450 lives, compared with 533 the previous week, the highest weekly mortality rate recorded this century.

"LIFLOC MACABER RE-ECHO," Holstein cow in the Lifloc herd owned by Norman W. McConkey, fulfilled his hopes in the $6,000 male calf she delivered to him at the weekend. Daughter of the world champion Re-Echo May Burke, of the John Houck Holstein herd at Brampton, she is also completing a great milk production record in her own name. The eleven year old Re-Echo May Burke, on three times a day milking produced 35,314 pounds of 3.57% milk and 1,261 lbs. of butterfat in 365 days. She is rated world champion for cows over 11 years and North American champion for all ages. Directors of the Maple Cattle Breeders' Association took a prenatal option on Macaber Re-Echo's calf. It was reported to be $6,000, if the calf was a male, and the McConkey cow did not let him down.

Seven Youths Plead Guilty To Breakins

Court Places Youths On Probation; 10 Charges Involved

Seven youths pleaded guilty in police court today to 10 charges involving breaking, entry and theft from two service stations just outside the city limits. They were all given suspended sentence and placed on probation for two years.

The seven were Kenneth John Meeks, 332 Euclid Ave.; Claude Norman Johnson, 17, 276½ Oxford St.; Neil May, 17, Antrim St.; Paul Henry Thompson, 18, 121 Hazlitt St.; Douglas Alfred Johnson, 17, 650 Armour Rd.; Clifford Roy Johnson, 16, Oxford St.; and Clair O'Brien, Swanston St.

Three of the youths were charged with two offences; breaking into both J. D. Mitchell's service station on Sherbrooke St. in North Monaghan township and Earl Tully's Brookside service station, Otonabee township.

The Charges:

Douglas Johnson was charged with receiving two stolen tires and spark plugs. Clifford Johnson was charged with being one of those who broke into the Brookside service station. The rest were charged with breaking into the Mitchell service station.

Clifford Johnson was also charged with breaking into the Mitchell service station, but it was dismissed when Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, said "I'm offering no evidence in that charge. I think it was an error that it was laid."

Provincial Constable Russell Pollard testified that Sunday morning he investigated a break-in at the Mitchell service station. Five tires, spark plugs, chocolate bars and cigarets worth about $275 were missing.

Monday night other police officers had arrested two of the accused after being called to Tully's service station. Tully saw the youths enter his garage. Tuesday morning with a search warrant the constable searched the home of Douglas Johnson and found a quantity of spark plugs. Johnson's car outside had two of the stolen tires on it. Police seized the car. The tires had been used, but not much.

All five tires and most of the other articles were recovered. After their arrests, all the youths made statements to police which were entered as evidence in their trials telling of their part in the affair.

Some Working

Some of the youths had been working, others had not. Douglas Johnson said he had just been released from the army after serving four months because he was under age.

The crown attorney said that O'Brien had come to the police and given himself up when he learned the others had been arrested.

Meeks said he had borrowed the car the youths used in their escapades. He said he had tried to enlist last summer with Douglas Johnson, but had been rejected.

Meeks admitted that he had been sentenced to 10 days in the Oshawa jail last August when convicted of stealing gasoline. The crown attorney said Claude Johnson had also admitted being convicted on a theft charge previously.

The magistrate said he thought he couldn't give suspended sentences to some and not to the others.

Mr. Bradshaw said "If Your Worship errs, let it be on the side of leniency."

"All of you are very young which is one of the reasons you are receiving suspended sentence." He said he hoped the youths would put an end to any bad associations that might have been responsible for their being involved in the affair.

Each youth had to pay $8 restitution to pay for the damage they did in the service stations and the goods that were not returned.

Government To Aid City Hospital

"Substantial Help" Expected In Reducing Deficit

Further government assistance, provided for in Ontario's new budget, should be a substantial help in reducing last year's deficit of about $40,000 on indigent patients, John Hornal, Civic Hospital superintendent, said today.

Just how much the government grant will be is not yet known. Hospitals in Group "A" will get $1.65 for each day they treat an indigent patient, other than nursery cases. Peterborough Civic Hospital is in Group "B" and so will receive a lesser—and as yet—unspecified—amount.

In 1950 there were 5,646 indigent patient days recorded at Civic. And the loss per patient after the statutory grant from the municipality, plus the provincial grant, came to approximately $7.

Special Grant

This deficit had to be met by a special grant of $4,200 from the county and the balance from the city.

"Until we get detailed information we don't know exactly how we are affected," said Mr. Hornal.

The government will now pay 40 cents a day for indigent infant patients and the municipality must pay another 60 cents. As there were only 41 infant patient days recorded at Civic in 1950 the affect is negligible.

The $168,000 grant to organized outpatient departments of general hospitals—amounting to 30 cents a patient—does not affect Civic as there is no department set up here.

Real Help

A real help will be the maintenance grants to isolation hospitals and to isolation wards of general hospitals, payable on a per-bed basis. The government has set aside a total of $100,000 for this purpose.

The general increase in grants is where both local hospitals should benefit: payment for public bed wards has increased from $1,000,000 in 1945 to $6,000,000 last year.

Next year the cost of hospitalization for Ontario will be $10,750,000.

Four Swimmers To Demonstrate At Toronto Show

To promote synchronized swimming in Canada four members of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club, one of Canada's foremost clubs, will perform at the Sportsmen's Show in Toronto next week. Three Ontario swimming clubs, the University of Toronto, the Toronto Granite Club and the Peterborough club will have representatives swimming through the courtesy of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association.

Decked in white sharkskin bathing suits, trimmed with pink and silver, Mrs. June Storey and Mrs. Betty Welch will perform Tuesday and Wednesday. There will be afternoon and evening presentations.

Friday afternon and evening, Mrs. Norma Delaney and Miss Joan Lynch in red nylon suits will present the four-minute duet, Goofus.

Both the duets will be performed in the coliseum.

On Sunday the preliminary trials were held in the Toronto Granite Club's pool with swimmers of the three clubs presenting their routines.

Go To Indiana

Besides training for these special events the Peterborough club is now practising for the fifth annual solo, duet and team synchronized indoor national competition of the Amateur Athletic Union of the USA in April. This year the meet will be held in South Bend, Indiana.

Coach Mrs. Pansy Forbes said today that the local club will enter in the senior solo, duet and team competition. Misses Jean Millard and Norma Gant, who won the junior contest several years ago, have also entered in the duet swim. Two will contest the solo swimming, Miss Millard and Mrs. Shirley Moldaver.

Once again the Peterborough club will have two teams in competition. The first includes Mrs. Delaney, Mrs. Moldaver, Mrs. Welch, Mrs. Storey and Misses Sally Hartman, Norma Grant, Mary Rutherford and Jean Millard. The second and younger team is composed of Joan Lynch, Joan Monks, Mary Jo Dorsett, Nancy Doubt, Patsy Nickels and Mrs. Nan Goodier.

Last year the club's first team placed third, a half-point behind the Des Moines, Iowa entry. Detroit placed first.

City Posties Join Protest Against Single Delivery

Peterborough's letter carriers are backing up the protests of some 1,500 other Ontario carriers against the one-a-day mail deliveries and the enlarging of their routes. The new schedule is expected to be operating in this city by April 1. Residential routes will get one mail delivery a day, either morning or afternoon. And business routes (i.e., where at least 50 per cent of the route is business calls) will continue with two deliveries a day.

Routes will be reduced from 28 to 23, and the number of letter carriers will also be reduced. One man has already been discharged and another discharge is pending, but post office officials say they will let go as few men as possible.

"We don't want the public to get the idea we're bucking this new scheme without having seen it on trial," said a local postie. "But at the meeting in Toronto Sunday we heard delegates report that they were working anywhere from 46 to 55 hours, walking longer routes, and carrying extra mail. It also means that the half-day off on Saturday is gone. The whole scheme is against the modern trend in labor conditions."

Letter carriers work a 44-hour week. Their starting salary is $1,800, increasing $120 a year, on recommendation, to $2,340 in five years. An increase, authorized last year but not yet effective, will raise the top salary by $288 to $2,628. When it comes through it will be retroactive to Dec. 1, 1950.

Week Off

When on the two-trips-a-day for five and a half days, the carriers had a week off in every 12 to compensate for working the half day Saturday.

In his speech to the House of Commons Tuesday, Postmaster General Edouard Rinfret made a statement designed to head off the heavy opposition to the change.

Carriers were assured they would not have to work more than an eight-hour day. It will be a six-day work week with one off in every 11.

A man who says he is doing more than the eight hours can have a checked report on his walk.

In Peterborough there are already seven of the 28 routes on a one-trip-a-day basis—three in the southend, two in the northend, and two in Ashburnham. But they are not comparable to the revised ones as they are ordinary sized routes.

Enlarge Routes

As part of the Post Office Department's economy drive, three routes are to be made into two, thus substantially enlarging the routes. In this city the 28 routes will be reduced to 23. So each carrier will have to walk farther and carry more mail.

Local carriers point to the experience of other cities and say this means longer hours too, and without overtime. But post office officials, while admitting there may have to be some adjustments at first, think the work can be done in eight hours.

The Post Office Department hopes to eliminate 1,200 "surplus" letter carriers and, with other economies, save $3,500,000 a year.

"It's a mistaken economy," said another local letter carrier. "The department has drilled it into us that we are to give the people good service. And this isn't the way to do it."

Mail Delay

He explained that under some circumstances the mail might be delayed as much as 24 hours. Mail coming in on the noon trains for an address on a residential route will only be delivered that day if the address happens to be in that part of the postman's walk covered in the afternoon. If he has already passed that address during the morning the mail will have to remain at the post office till next day.

The postie also thought that if the department was so "economy conscious" it could jack up the rates on second-class mail which, he said, is costing "millions of dollars" each year.

At present the local plan is being studied in Ottawa. And neither post office officials nor letter carriers want to comment on it till it's approved. But the carriers make no bones about it: they're skeptical.

Brig. Kitching To Head Staff College

OTTAWA, March 7 (CP). — Canada's Director-General of Army Personnel, Brig. George Kitching, has been appointed commandant of the Canadian Army Staff College at Kingston, Ont., it was announced today.

His successor at headquarters here will be named later, the announcement said.

The 40-year-old veteran created something of a record in the number of promotions he obtained during the Second World War. Entering the Royal Canadian Regiment at the outbreak as a Lieutenant, he rose steadily in rank and by March, 1944, was an acting Major-General.

Born in China, the son of a member of the British Consular Service, he was educated in England and graduated in 1930 from Sandhurst Royal Military College, serving for a time with the Gloucester Regiment in Singapore and India. He resigned his commission in 1937 and came to Canada, entering business in Montreal.

Major By 1941

Entering the RCR in September 1939, he went overseas with the 1st Canadian Division three months later. By 1941 he was a Major.

Following graduation from the Staff College at Camberley, England, in 1942, he was appointed to a staff position with headquarters, 1st Canadian Corps. By August of that year he had been appointed commanding officer of the Loyal Edmonton Regiment.

From December, 1942, until November, 1943, he served as a general staff officer, grade one, headquarters 1st Canadian Division. From November, 1943, until February, 1944, he commanded the 11th Canadian Infantry Brigade.

Commanded Armor

Later, in the United Kingdom, he assumed command of the 4th Canadian Armored Division as acting Major General and later led it into action in Normandy in 1944.

The following month, he was appointed to command the 13th Canadian Infantry Brigade. In November of the same year he returned to Italy, this time as Brigadier, General Staff, 1st Canadian Corps, a position he held until the end of the war.

Following the war, he held several headquarters positions before being appointed Director of Army Personnel last August.

Drive For $85,000 Passes Half-Way Mark

A total of $45,364.71 has been raised to date in the Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign. This figure was reported by Chairman Ross L. Dobbin at the Community Fund luncheon held at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club, today.

The luncheon was attended by Division chairmen, captains and sub captains.

Reports given of the following totals collected up to date in the four divisions were: Industrial, $28,638; Special Names, $9,620; Retail, $2,905; Women's, $3,668.35.

The money collected from the Penny-A-Day Drive added to these four totals brings the total to more than half of the Campaign's objective of $85,000.

Kawartha Area Wages Among Highest In Ontario

The largest increase in employment in Ontario was recorded by the Kawartha Lakes area in 1950 with 9.7 per cent over 1949, according to the Ontario Bureau of Statistics and Research. Average employment in manufacturing was higher in 1950 in ten zones covered by the report and it was lower in eight. The Kawartha area's increase was the largest reported. The most significant decrease occurred in the Blue Water zone, including Owen Sound, Barrie, Hanover, Wingham and other towns in the Georgian Bay area. Employment in that area dropped by 11.9 per cent in 1950. The Bay of Quinte area was second lowest in employment with a 9.2 per cent drop.

The rise in employment increased payrolls 19.8 per cent and the average earnings for workers in the area nine per cent. The Kawartha area led in both categories.

Since 1939 employment in the Kawartha area has risen 221.3 per cent (figures to December, 1950). To November 1 the increase was 220 per cent, showing that employment improved locally by .6 per cent during December. On December 1, 1949, the employment increase since 1939 was 187.1 per cent.

The total payrolls in this area, Oshawa, Peterborough, Lindsay, Cobourg, Whitby, Bowmanville, Campbellford and Port Hope increased to 530.6 per cent of the 1939 level. Since November, 1949, the payrolls have jumped almost 100 per cent.

The average weekly wages or salaries in December, 1950, in the Kawartha area was $53.31, a decrease of .33 per cent on November. A year ago the weekly wage was $50.29. The highest average weekly wages were reported in the St. Clair River area, the Border area, the Clay Belt (Cochrane, Timiskaming) and the Lakehead where they were $59 and $60 weekly. The lowest weekly salaries were in the Lake Erie (Haldimand, Norfolk) and the Blue Water areas at $39.

Unfilled vacancies, jobs available, were only 10.7 per cent of the unplaced workers in the Kawartha area in 1950. The bureau said there were 36 unfilled vacancies in 1950 and 3,931 unplaced applicants.

From January to December in 1950 cheques cashed in the Kawartha area amounted to $308,000,000, an increase of 10 per cent over 1950.

Lindsay Names New Fire Chief

LINDSAY, March 7—Alexander Wylie, a captain in the Toronto fire department, has been appointed fire chief in Lindsay. He will begin duties on April 1 at a salary of $2,000.

Mr. Wylie has had 32 years of experience with the Toronto department although he is only 49. He started with the Toronto brigade when he was 17 following his return from World War 1.

Mr. Wylie will be retired from the Toronto force in the spring and will be pensioned for his service. He is taking the Lindsay appointment at $2,000 annually plus free apartment and other extras.

Mr. Wylie's application was one of six, four from out-of-town and two from Lindsay.

Mayor Charles Lamb said after the council meeting that it was only the fact that Mr. Wylie would be on the Toronto department's pension that made it possible for Lindsay to hire a man of his calibre at the salary they were offering.

$125 Damage To Bus Collides With Truck

A truck and a city bus collided as the truck was turning into a lane off George St. near the CPR tracks Tuesday evening.

Chris Mongraw, Otonabee St., was driving the truck north on George St. The bus driver, Keith Nelson, RR 3, Peterborough, had stopped his bus to let off passengers just north of the railway tracks.

In turning into the lane, the right front corner of the truck hit the left front corner of the bus doing about $125 damage to the bus. No damage was done to the truck. Constable Edward Niziol investigated.

APPRECIATES SUPPORT

Appreciation of the Examiner's interest in their enterprise was expressed Tuesday by Harry Kennedy of Cavan, chairman of Peterborough county committee of Maple Cattle Breeders' Association.

Scented Newspaper

It's Desert Flower that is the fragrance you smell on page 15 of today's edition. By special equipment set up on the Examiner's press this perfume was sprayed on Page 15 as it was printed. The whole thing is part of the announcement of the opening of the new Parkway Pharmacy on Charlotte St. by Murray Irwin and Bert McLeod, two of Peterborough's leading druggists.

Beerless Lochinvar Lifts Wife, Omemee Man Declares

It was a strange night. Lawrence McConnell, Omemee, lost track of his wife. Gar Robinson, Cavan township, lost a case of beer, but, as McConnell claims, took off with Mrs. McConnell.

It all started quietly enough. McConnell and his wife were in a downtown hotel drinking beer. Robinson came in and sat with them to drink even though there had been hard feeling between the two men for some time, police said.

In a little while Robinson suggested that the three of them go out for a drive in his truck and have a drink of beer there. He had a case of beer in his truck. The ma. and wife agreed and off they went.

Robinson is said to have driven west out Weller St. until he was near the Civic Hospital. Then he stopped and told McConnell to get out and he would "wipe the ground with him."

Didn't Wait

McConnell got out, but he didn't stay to fight. He ran to the nearest house and phoned police. He met the police cruiser with Constable Claire McGillen and Bill Scott in it. They drove west out Weller St. looking for the truck with McConnell's wife still in it.

As they drove out they met the truck coming in the opposite direction with Robinson and Mrs. McConnell in it. The police didn't dare stop because the road was a sea of mud and they were afraid they would never get going again if they stopped.

They drove along until they reached drier ground and then returned, but they found no trace of the truck. However in the ditch on the south side of the street, they spotted a case of beer.

New Westend Drug Store Combining Talents of Two Leading Druggists

Combining the talents of two city druggists from Ashburnham and Park St. will be the new Parkway Pharmacy at Charlotte and Park Sts. The drugstore will open Thursday at 10 a.m.

Co-owners of the store are Bert McLeod and Murray Irwin, both successful druggists in their own stores. Manager will be Donald Irving, who for the past two years has worked with Mr. Irwin.

The owners have leased and completely remodelled the old Fitzpatrick and Geraghty grocery store on Charlotte St.

At the front of the store will be the self-service section, comprising about one-third the total length of the store. On one wall, magazines and greeting cards will be displayed, and on the opposite wall, dark wood cupboards with glass fronts will hold cosmetics for self-service.

New-Style Soda Fountain

Further back in the store is a lunch counter with a new-style soda fountain. In this model, the ice-cream and syrup containers are located against the wall beneath a mirror which runs the full length of the fountain and counter. Normally, containers are set between the fountain counter and the clerks.

The soda fountain counter top is faced with hard plastic and the front of the counter is upholstered in leatherette with metal and plastic studs.

During the three-day opening—Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week—more than 50 prizes will be given away. Prizes will include make-up kits valued at $10, pen and pencil sets, shaving and hair brushes and boxes of candy.

Ten prizes will be drawn for at 10 p.m. Thursday and Friday nights, and 20 prizes will be drawn for at the same time on Saturday night.

The entire east wall of the drugstore is covered by dark wood shelves with glass doors, except for the space taken at the rear of the store by the modern dispensary.

Store Manager

Donald Irving, who will manage the store, is a graduate of the University of Toronto pharmacy school, and came originally from Hamilton, where his father operates a drug store.

Don is an RCAF veteran and came to Peterborough in 1949 to work in Mr. Irwin's store after graduating at Toronto. For the past two years, he has been lecturing in pharmacology to nurses-in-training at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Murray Irwin started in the drug business with Mr. McLeod on Park St. near the CGE in 1938, and served his apprenticeship there. He attended U of T pharmacy school, and after graduating from there in 1943 joined the RCNVR.

In 1945, Mr. Irwin started his own business on Hunter St., east, and since then has spent a year as a member of the Peterborough Recreation Commission. He is at present a member of the Board of Education.

For 20 years, Bert O. McLeod has been in the drug business in Peterborough. He came to the city originally to play hockey, left here to play professional hockey in Kansas City and finally came back to Peterborough.

When he started his own business, it was on George St. at first. Later he moved to 55 Park St., north, where his own business still is.

Scented Newspaper Called Desert Flower

Today we have a scented newspaper. Isn't it lovely? The fragrance is called Desert Flower and serves to call attention to the opening Thursday of the Parkway Pharmacy, new Irwin-McLeod drug store at corner of Park and Charlotte Sts.

Two gallons of perfume were sprayed onto the paper as it went through The Examiner's press, so that you migh have a preview in your own home. Only several times before has this idea been carried out in Canada.

But at the store, for the rest of this week, there will be a fountain constantly spraying the perfume, so take along your hankies and have them scented too. At centre of the fountain will be noted a Yucca plant, flower of the Arizona desert, from which the name is taken.

Miss Marian Thomson, representative of Shulton Corporation, will be in the store to greet the new customers. Three fragrances are put out by her firm: Early American Old Spice, Friendship's Garden, floral fragrance, and Desert Flower, the newest. Perfume and the matching bath requisites in all three will be found displayed.

Beauty Expert To Attend Store's New Self Serve Bar

One day before the grand opening of the Parkway Pharmacy on Charlotte St. we interviewed the woman who knows all about Richard Hudnut beauty preparations. She is Miss Margaret Holland and she wants to be of service to the ladies of Peterborough while in the new store this week.

Standing by the most up-to-date cosmetic counter yet seen, a "self-serve" bar, Miss Holland remarked, "This store itself is beautiful, and we have so many specials for those who visit it on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. I'm looking forward to seeing a few familiar faces, as well as new friends, because I have found out that Peterborough ladies are so friendly and down to earth.

"I hope there will be many who will bring their personal good-grooming questions to me," she continued. "For all who visit me there will be a trial size bottle of egg shampoo, and I will prepare their personal make-up analysis chart.

"I will tell them too of the new hair styles for spring, make-up tips and fashions, hand and nail care — everything to help them step out looking smart and feeling confident."

The Irwin-McLeod drug store has in stock all the preparations she will recommend.

"My dear sir, what a welcome break you've made to the monotony of nineteen 'flu patients . . . a genuine case of Bright's disease!"

Bewdley Couple 25 Years Wed

The twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr and Mrs. Clifford Manley was celebrated Tuesday. Several friends and relatives spent the evening at their home and six tables of progressive euchre were played. Mr. and Mrs. Manley received many beautiful gifts of silver and anniversary cards. Friends were present from Peterborough, Bensfort and Cobourg, as well as a few close relatives and neighbors.

Auxiliary Holds Thank Offering

The Easter thankoffering meeting of the Helen Rogers Auxiliary of Knox United Church was held Monday in the church parlors. Vice president, Mrs. J. Clarke, presided.

It was decided to buy material for the binders for the bale for Africa and Mrs. F. Dunford volunteered to make them.

Mrs. D. Richardson reported having received a letter from the honorary president, Miss A. Crocker, who sent the members a special greeting.

Mrs. G. James conducted the worship service, the Easter theme. She was assisted by Mrs. W. McCracken.

Miss Phyllis Kidd introduced the special speaker, Mrs. M. Pomeroy, who gave a report of the 13th world convention on Christian Education held in Toronto last August. She told of the inspiration received from the many outstanding speakers and from the association with delegates from all parts of the christian world. Mrs. J. Donaldson moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. Ross assisted by Mrs. D. Richardson, Mrs. H. Dunford, Mrs. J. Clarke and Mrs. Cinnamon.

Mrs. Roy Powell Hostess To Group

Mrs. A. A. Mathews was the speaker at the March meeting of Group 7 of the George St United Church WMS held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Roy Powell, 14 Cricket Place. The title of Mrs. Mathews' address was "What Easter Means to Me."

Mrs. R. Reynolds was in charge of the devotional period and read a poem entitled "Passion Week." Scripture was read by Mrs. L Thompson followed by a prayer given by Mrs. A. Townsend. Miss E. Clysdale gave a reading, "Consider the Lillies". Mrs. G. Brown sang two solos.

Mrs. Powell was in charge of the business session.

Mrs. Reynolds introduced the speaker, Mrs. E. Ingall gave a vote of thanks to Mrs. Mathews and also thanked Mrs. Powell and all others for taking part in the evening's program.

Mrs. V. Boorman assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

Home and School Association News

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL

The Prince of Wales open house was held Tuesday evening with Principal R. Bolton, Mrs. J. Morley and Mrs. J. Barry, vice-presidents of the Home and School Club Association, receiving parents and friends.

Different activities were displayed in the various classrooms. These included a puppet show in grade V; art class in grade IV; science experiments in grade VII; pictures drawn for a movie show in grade IV; art class in design work in grade VI; manual training class, singing class in grade III, and folk dancing in grade VIII.

In the domestic science room grade VIII students prepared and served a meal. An exhibit of excellent handicraft work was also on display in the auxiliary class. Printing of the school newspaper was carried on in grade VII.

Mrs. A. Smith and Mrs. J. James, social conveners, served tea, assisted by Mrs. J. Goodson, Mrs. Graham Faulkner, Mrs. S. Daniel and Mrs. A. Parker.

QUEEN MARY

The regular March meeting of Queen Mary Home and School was held on Monday in the auditorium. The meeting was in charge of the Parent Education group.

Mrs. E. Bacon and Mrs. V. Millen received the guests in the rotunda and Mrs. Constable and Mrs. Gatfield ushered.

The president, Mrs. G. Reader, was in the chair, and welcomed the guests from other city schools and district. There was a short business meeting and special mention was made of the annual St. Patrick's tea to be held on March 8th at Queen Mary school.

Mrs. Reader introduced Major Everett of the Salvation Army who played three piano solos.

Miss Caddy's afternoon class won the attendance record.

Miss Doughty introduced Mrs. John Stewart who explained the points of the film, "In Family Circles", after which the film was shown.

Dr. Thomas Currier conducted the discussion following the film. There were many interesting points and the audience carried on a lively discussion.

Mr. W. Ovens moved a vote of thanks to those participants who had made the program such a success.

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL

The annual fathers' night meeting, combined with open school of Confederation Home and School opened with Mrs. W. Thompson, president, welcoming more than 200 members and guests and conducting the business period.

Attendance prizes were won by Mrs. Morrow's and Miss Wartman's classes.

Mr. Nichols, school principal, took the chair for the remainder of the meeting, and gave a short talk on education week. He announced several interesting radio programs to be heard this week concerning education.

The speaker for the evening was Mr. Arthur Crossdale, instrumental music director of the school bands. He showed how children starting at grades V and VI who were not too fond of sports, could join this band, for two lessons a week at moderate cost and could carry on their band training through to Grade XII when they would be tops in their chosen instrument.

He issued an invitation to hear this band of 70 children from all the city schools and the collegiate band at Queen Mary School auditorium April 18.

By request Mr. Crossdale played piano variations on Old Black Joe.

The speaksr was thanked by Mr. Bert Pitchford.

Lunch was served by the fathers and parents visited the class rooms and had the opportunity to talk to the teachers on their children's progress.

RIFLE RANGE SCHOOL

The regular monthly meeting of Rifle Range Home and School Association was held Monday evening. Mrs. E. Davis presided, and Mrs. B. Neely took the devotional period.

Dr. R. A. Kelly, Peterborough's medical officer of health, gave a most interesting and informative talk on the work of his department. He explained that the field of medicine is divided into three classes: first, curative medicine; second, research; third, preventive medicine. The latter is the branch dealt with by the Department of Public Health. This involves, in the first place, "things which deal with environment, such as sanitation, safe and sanitary water and milk supply, housing, ventilation, inspecting of restaurants, etc." In the second place, "things which deal with individuals, such as hygiene, pre-natal care and post-natal care, and nutrition, etc."

The speaker stressed the fact that the members of the Department of Health are primarily teachers, and their aim is to teach healthier and happier ways of living. It is the duty of the public health nurse to demonstrate, educate and assist in any possible way.

Dr. Kelly touched briefly on the subject of the various Clinic services available. Of these the Well-Baby Clinics, pre-natal classes, and immunization services are familiar to all. In closing, he voiced his hope that some day, in the not too distant future, another service may be added to the above mentioned, namely a Child Guidance Clinic. This clinic would most assuredly be of great value to all parents, and to the community at large.

A hearty vote of thanks to our speaker was moved by Mrs. Davis, president.

A short reading, "Don't be a Coward," was given by Mrs. W. Amos, followed by two musical numbers, "Silver and Gold" and "Danish Waltz," rendered on accordian and guitar by Mr. Ray Young, and Mr. Doug Jennings.

The meeting adjourned, and a social half hour followed, with Mrs. F. Flint, hospitality convener in charge, and members of the association assisting.

Mark Street WA Plans Supper

The Women's Association of Mark St. United Church held their monthly meeting in the church parlors, Tuesday evening. Mrs. K. Beavis, 2nd vice president, conducted the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs F. Samis.

Mrs. G. Eason was in charge of devotions and read a poem "Pilgrim's Way," by Patience Strong. Mrs. A. Scriver read the scripture and commentary, which was followed by a prayer led by Mrs. Eason.

Miss Eastward as guest speaker gave a very inspiring talk taken from the "Legends of Jerusalem" which is based on the life of Claudia, wife of Pilot.

Plans were made for a pot luck supper to be held in the church basement March 12.

After the business discussion the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Two Groups Hold Easter Meeting

BRIDGENORTH, March 7. — (ENS).—A bouquet of yellow daffodils decorated the table for the Easter meeting of the WA and WMS of Bridgenorth held jointly in the basement of the church Tuesday evening. Mrs. E. Whitehill, president of the WA, welcomed the 40 members, friends and CGIT girls who were present.

The theme, "The Lost Sheep," was taken by Mrs. J. Hardill, who was in charge of the devotional portion of this special Easter program. Hymn, "There is a Green Hill Far Away," opened the meeting, and the Rev. D. P. Morris led in prayer. Several Easter hymns were sung and the meeting was favored with the girls of the CGIT singing "The Lord is My Shepherd." Mrs. C. Telford accompanied on the piano.

The scripture text, taken from Luke 15, verses 3-10, was read by Mrs. Earl Nicholls, followed by the lesson thought by Mrs. C. Hartman. Mrs. Hardill read a poem, "Easter Morning," and an Easter reading was given by Mrs. A. K. Nicholls. A poem, entitled "March," was given by Mrs. J. Smith and "The Singing Kettle" by Mrs. F. Ray. "Easter Gave Us the Bible" was read by Mrs. J. Johnson and Mrs. J. Pettersone read "Oh Son of Man."

Several letters and cards of thanks were read and Mrs. C. Telford reported seven calls made by the visiting committee. It was decided that $10 would be sent to the March of Dimes. The April meeting of the WA will be held at the home of Mrs. C. Hartman.

Mrs. J. Johnson, president, then presided for the business of the WMS and announced that many articles of linens had been turned in for the shower for the hospital in Angola, Africa, and that the bale would be sent by April first. The children of the Mission Band had donated about 18 washcloths toward the bale.

Mrs. W. Nicholls reported a total of $29.39 received from the sale of a quilt and proceeds from a play sponsored by the WMS last week. A thank-offering meeting was announced for the April meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. P. Pettersone.

A special affiliation ceremony was enacted when nine young members of the CGIT were accepted as being affiliated with the WMS. Betty Dalton as president of the group, explained the meaning of the group and four candles were lit in honor of health, education, opportunity and home by Winona McKay, Sylvia M[illegible]olls, Beryl Nichols and Alice M[illegible]y.

Mrs. B. Patterson, CGIT leader, gave a short reading on the ideals of the organization, and presented a gift to Mrs. Johnson, who accepted on behalf of the WMS, and in turn presented the CGIT badges to each of the girls. The ceremony closed with the girls repeating the CGIT purpose.

Before the close of the meeting a farewell gift of a Bible and hymnal were presented to Mrs. W. Robinson by Miss L. Udy, on behalf of the WA and WMS. Mrs Robinson has been a faithful worker in both organizations for many years and is leaving Bridgenorth to make her home in Peterborough.

The hymn, "In Christ There Is No East or West," was sung, and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Smith and her committee.

Rev. Ivan Morgan Addresses WA

Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray St. Baptist Church was the guest speaker at the George St. United Church Women's Association meeting in the church parlor on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Morgan told the members that they should be known as servants of Jesus Christ. They must be humble servants serving with childlike devotion; willing servants, thinking of themselves as domestic servants in God's household and waiting servants, waiting to hear His word.

Mrs. George Munro, president, was in charge of the meeting. The devotional period was led by Mrs P. C. Sanders with Mrs. Cecil Wasson reading the scripture and lesson thought.

Guest pianist, Mrs. E. Caldwell favored with two piano solos.

Mrs. W. G. McLaren extended a vote of thanks to the visiting pianist and speaker.

Plans were started in the business period for a bazaar and tea to be held in the autumn.

Mrs. A. Armstrong and Mrs. H. McGinness welcomed members at the door.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Syrup, at Home

You'll be surprised how quickly a bad winter cough can be relieved, when you try this well known recipe universally used throughout Canada. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle.

Into a 16 ounce bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then fill up with granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. This makes four times as much cough medicine for your money. Never spoils and tastes fine.

Quickly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the phlegm, helps to clear the air passages, and soothes the irritated membranes. This explains why it brings such quick relief.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat irritations. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

THE GAMBOLS

Junior League Hears Rev. R. Macdonald

The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Junior League was held Monday evening in St. Mary's School with the president, Miss Rita Young presiding.

During the past month the members have been having tables of bridge in their own homes as a means of raising money for the League.

Two lucky draw prizes were drawn for by Mrs. J. O'Brien and were won by Mrs. E. J. Sheedy and Mrs. M. O'Leary.

Nomination rules were read by the president and a nominating committee was chosen, consisting of Mrs. J. O'Brien as chairman, and Mrs. D. Condon and Mrs. J. Butler. Nomination blanks were filled out and collected and the election of officers for a new executive will take place at the April meeting.

The guest speaker of the evening was the Rev. R. MacDonald, CSSR, of St. Alphonsus Church, who spoke on the Mass and the power of God.

Father MacDonald is well known as a very fine speaker and his short talk left a marked impression on those who heard him. He pointed out the great importance of attending mass, saying it is the very centre of our life and if we miss mass we are denying God.

Father MacDonald was thanked by Mrs. Wm. Gannon.

The musical portion of the program was provided by two barbershop quartets. They were the Put-Put Four, composed of Messrs. R. Baldwin, R. Dalziel, V. Farrant and L. L. Maguire, who sang "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "My Wild Irish Rose" and a quartet from PCVS known as "The Interscholastic Four," who sank "After Dark" and "Coney Island Baby."

Two Films Shown At Class Meeting

The Star Class of George St. United Church met in the board room with 26 members present.

Two films were shown by Mrs Ross Payne.

President, Mrs. Harold Mesley took charge of the business session. It was decided to have the next meeting in the form of a pot luck supper.

A discussion on Korea was conducted by Mrs. A. A. Mathews. This was followed by a piano duet "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" by Mrs. Bill Woodward and her daughter Margaret.

Mrs. Clifford Hurle read the scripture lesson. Mrs. D. Fowler was in charge of the program.

Mrs. H. Hetherington's group served lunch. A vote of thanks was given to all who assisted with the meeting by Mrs. W. R. Young.

Chapter News

LT. COL. AGNES NEILL CHPT.

The meeting of Lt. Col. Agnes Neill Chapter was held Monday at the YWCA with regent, Mrs. H. G. Shaw, presiding.

A request was made to change the name of the Chapter to Col. Agnes Neill as Agnes Neill had attained this rank before her untimely death.

It was decided to purchase a "History of Peterborough" by H. A. Pammett for use in Chapter's adopted school.

Miss Isabel Shearer, post war convener, read a letter stressing the need for clothing in Greece and Austria and for food parcels to Great Britain.

Plans for the Spring tea and bazaar to be held at the YWCA on April 14 were outlined by Miss Jean Duignan. Draw tickets are on sale for a gift certificate from J. J. Turner and Sons for the value of $25.00. A complete baby's layette, including travelling basket, will be made by the members and displayed at the tea. Tickets for this project will also be sold.

A rummage sale to be held Mar. 17 will be convened by Mrs. George Baird.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. G. Ardern and her committee.

Housewives Joining Debate On Costs In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG (CP).—Women in South Africa have been putting in extra time considering their No. 1 problem—how to keep themselves and run a family in a world of rising costs.

A lot of small pleasures and luxuries have been cut out, but it has become apparent that even with economies the pound isn't anywhere near what it used to be.

One long-suffering housewife wrote to her daily newspaper listing her husband's income and how it was spent. She asked how was it possible to manage any better?

Since then similar letters have flooded in, along with pleas and complaints from business girls and single women. But most of the uproar comes from the harassed mothers of families.

Real Struggle

One woman, keeping herself, her husband and two growing boys on the equivalent of $108 a month, said they relied entirely on race track wins for any extra clothing or comforts. "I know I am laying myself open to criticism," she wrote. "My only wish is that it be constructive."

Many letters are from business girls struggling to run a flat and keep themselves well turned out on salaries of between $90 and $120 a month.

Some Remedies

The debate was enlivened by a letter from a young woman who said she had given up a good position to act as companion to her mother, for which she is paid $12 monthly. She said that out of this she keeps herself smartly dressed and actually saves money.

This woman said that her mother keeps a family of four in comfort on $54 a month.

That brought many requests as to how she does it. Explanations revealed that she is an expert needlewoman.

A housewife of 24 years' standing made an immediate proposal. "I have always considered myself a careful manager," she wrote, "but if this young woman will start morning class I for one will attend."

"BELL SINGERS" at George Street Church

BELL SINGERS AND DR. LESLIE BELL

Organized 12 years ago as an alumni girls' chorus, the Leslie Bell Singers will be heard in a concert of choral music under the sponsorship of Mark St. United Church Young People's Union on Friday, March 9th, 1951, in George St. United Church, Peterborough, have earned an international reputation as an 'a capella' group.

A major contributing factor of course, to the Bell Singers' reputation are the unique musical arrangements by Dr. Bell who possesses a rare combination of musicianship, diplomacy and discrimination. Recognized throughout the world as a leading arranger of choral music Leslie Bell arranges all types of music for 'a capella' or unaccompanied singing. Not handicapped, therefore, by the fact that fashion for the last three centuries has been to write choral music with accompaniment, the Bell Singers are not forced, like many present day choirs who have endeavored to revive the 'a capella' tradition to confine their activities to the works of the early masters or to some specialized field such as that of Russian church music or the negro spiritual.

Two years ago, the Leslie Bell Singers enhanced their fame by receiving top billing on the Canadian General Electric programme which is heard every Sunday evening at 8.30 over CHEX.

DOROTHY DIX

Marriage On Business Basis Can Destroy Any True Love

DEAR MISS DIX: We have been married three months. Both myself and my husband work. However, my job is not a confining one and it is no trouble for me to cook and keep our apartment in order. We decided to divide the housework and each do half, but as things now stand I am doing about nine-tenths of the work. This makes me very unhappy, as I think my husband is not giving me a fair deal. When I say anything about it, he becomes very angry, as he really believes he is doing half of the work. He makes such a collossal job out of every small task that it takes him four times too long to do it, and he thinks he is doing more work than he actually is doing. He is faithful and steady; gives me his paycheck each week; never leaves me alone; goes where I say and when I say, and is really trying to be a good husband. What shall I do? E. K.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: I do not think that you have much love for your husband if you count the cost of everything you do for him and if you watch, like a task-mistress, to see that he gives you a like amount of service.

He Should Help In House

The old ideal of marriage was that the man supported the house and the wife turned it into a home by her labor. Of course, when the husband and wife both work outside of the home it is nothing more than fair that the husband should take his turn in the kitchen. But, even so, I do not see how it would ever be possible to establish to a matematical nicety just exactly what proportion of the work each should do.

If you are going to put it on a cold, hard, business basis, you will have to take into account how much money each brings in, and whether the amount of work each is to do is in a direct ratio to his or her pay envelope. If, for example, the husband earned $80 a week and the wife $40, would she have to peel twice as many potatoes as he did? If wife's hours were shorter than husband's and she worked less hard abroad, would not husband have a right to expect her to work harder in the home? And so on and so forth.

My advice to you is to quit trying to bargain with your husband about the housework and trying to see that you don't get cheated. You've got to meet marriage in a broader and more generous spirit than that. Try to make your husband happy. Try to make him feel that you do things for him because you love to do them for him, and you will find far more profit in it than in trying to make him do, lick for lick, as much of the housework as you do.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a young man of 20. I have a lame leg. Having this infirmity, I find it hard to get along with people. I have never yet had a break. I do not make a hit with the girls. Why, I do not know, but I suspect that it is on account of my lameness. What do you think? L. L.

ANSWER: Evidently an inferiority complex that makes you morbid, self-pitying and hard to get along with is your trouble instead of your lameness. A bad disposition is a far greater handicap than a bad leg. The worst part of any physical disability seems to be that it nearly always cripples the mind more than it does the body.

You think that you are barred from success by being lame. So you are from running races, but there are about a million other things you can do and that are far more worth doing and bring greater rewards than sprinting. You think the reason you are not popular is because you are lame.

People with physical defects always consider themselves hopelessly handicapped, yet the world is full of brave men and women whose very defects have been blessings in disguise. Because they knew that they had greater obstacles to overcome it put the iron into their souls that made them the more determined to succeed, that made them study harder, work harder, struggle harder than they would otherwise have done. Futhermore, their handicaps became a factor in their success because seeing the brave fight they were making against such heavy odds made everyone want to give them a handup.

If you find it hard to get along with people, it isn't beacuse of your lameness. It is because you have let yourself become cranky and cantankerous. Correct that in your character, and you'll find that the whole world loves those who have had the bravery to take misfortune on the chin and keep on smiling.

DEAR MISS DIX. Is it better to marry a good-natured, slovenly wife than a neat, cross one? E. S.

ANSWER: Give me the good-natured sloven every time in preference to the acid-tempered neat-as-a-pin one. You can always live in a hotel or board, but can't get away from a vixen.

MARY MOORE SAYS.

Special Purpose Menu Planned For 10 Persons

A beloved friend of mine was caught in one of those never-ending series of illnesses. She has a big family for illnesses to work on—five youngsters from two to eleven years of age, and a very busy husband who catches colds easily.

Thank Goodness she remained healthy through the entire seige.

Since she had to do day and night nursing duty her friends took pity and invited her and her husband out for dinners each week. This was wonderful relaxation for she has a loyal sister who pinch hits as a child-nurse.

But—this meant before they took off for the South with the three youngest children (after all had recovered) she had some return hospitality to dispense.

She sent an SOS to me asking for a menu for ten people, that was nifty, but easy to prepare and serve.

It was a tall order—but plenty of us are in that position occasionally. This is what I suggested and what she did.

The results must have been happy for she called me from the station before they boarded the train for the South, to say thanks for the help and to bid me goodbye.

Return-Hospitality Supper (could be buffet)

(Cream of Tomato Soup with Horseradish Cream was optional)
Club Chicken Casserole
Hot Rolls
Tossed Green Salad
Two-toned Ice Cream with Butterscotch Sauce and Chopped Nuts
Coffee

If you choose to use the Cream of Tomato Soup, the way you make the Horseradish cream for a topping is to mix 2 tablespoons well-drained bottled horseradish with 1 cup heavy cream, whipped, and add a shake or two of salt. Delicious and popular.

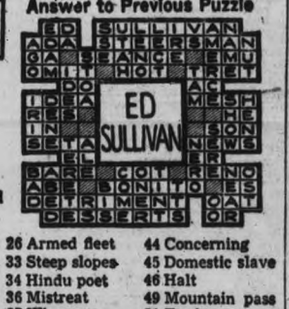
Club Chicken Casserole

Make a sauce of: 4 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup chicken stock, 1½ cups evaporated milk and 1 teaspoon salt, by melting the butter, stirring in the flour, then the liquids until thick, and adding the salt.

Arrange in layers in this order: 1 seven-pound boiling fowl, boiled until tender and broken up into large serving pieces after being boned out, ¼ pound slightly sauteed mushrooms sliced, ¼ cup each chopped pimiento and green pepper, 3 cups flaky boiled rice, ½ cup slivered blanched almonds.

Pour sauce over all and bake for about 35 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. or until sauce boils and top is slightly browned. Do not be tempted to put chicken on top for it will dry out too much.

My friend is a refrigerator roll expert and made the roll dough the night before her party, and baked them during the last half of the baking period for the chicken. But anyone who cannot cope with hot rolls at the last minute before a company dinner could buy those underbaked ones the bakeries are offering now and finish them off in seven minutes, just before the chicken is finished.



The two-toned ice cream was merely one scoop each of vanilla and chocolate, covered with homemade butterscotch sauce: Put in saucepan 1¼ cups brown sugar, 2/3 cup corn syrup, 4 tablespoons butter. Boil to 230 deg. Fahr. then add ¾ cup cream. Remove from heat. Pour warm over ice cream and sprinkle with nuts.

BRACKENRIDGE—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Norman Brackenridge, who passed away two years ago today, March 7, 1949.
"Gone but not forgotten."
—Lovingly remembered by his wife and family.

CASEY—In loving memory of dear mother and father, Robert Casey who passed away March 7, 1948 and Alice Casey, who passed away October 10, 1932.
Loving and kind in all their ways,
Upright and just, to the end of their days,
Sincere and true in their heart and mind,
Beautiful memories they left behind.
—Ever remembered by the family.

COX—In proud and loving memory of Bdr. Louis P. Cox, of the 4th Anti-Tank, killed in action in Germany six years ago, March 7, 1945.
A sorrow too great to be told,
But to us who have loved and lost
Memory will never grow old.
—Ever remembered by his mother.

CUNNINGHAM—In loving memory of Bruce, killed in action March 7, 1945. Buried in Holland.
There is a road we call remembrance,
Where thoughts and wishes meet.
We take that road in thought today,
To the one we cannot greet.
Please, God, forgive a silent tear,
A silent wish that our Bruce were here.
—Forever remembered, Ethel, Denton, Lloyd.

CUNNINGHAM—In loving memory of our son, Bruce, killed in action March 7, 1945. Buried in Holland.
You left us beautiful memories,
Often secret tears,
But you shall always be with us
As we journey through the years.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cunningham.

CUNNINGHAM—In loving memory of our brother, Bruce, killed in Germany, March 7, 1945, now buried in Holland.
Though Bruce's smile has gone forever,
And his hand we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories
Of a brother we loved so much.
—Sadly missed by Ruby, Lee and family.

KING—In loving memory of a dear mother, Amy King, who passed away March 7th, 1948.
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
—Lovingly remembered by her family.

PANTER—In loving memory of our dear dad, George Panter, who passed away March 7, 1950.
Your presence is ever near us,
Your love remains with us yet,
You were the kind of a father,
Your loved ones will never forget.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter and son-in-law, Hattie, Rab and family.

PANTER—Loving memories of a dear husband, George Panter, who passed away March 7, 1950.
Today I am thinking of someone
Who was always kind and true,
Someone I loved with all my heart
Dear George, that someone is you.
Your heart, the truest in all the world,
Your love the best of all,
No one on earth can take your place,
You are still dear to us all.
—Too dearly loved to be forgotten,
loving wife Minnie and daughter Muriel.

PANTER—In loving memory of my dear father, George H. Panter, who passed away March 7, 1950.
Upright and just in all his ways,
Faithful and true, to the end of his days,
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
'Til God called him home, to suffer no more.
—Always remembered by his daughter, Mildred and family.

SMITH—In loving memory of Sergeant A. A. Smith, who was killed in Germany, March 7, 1945.
Sometimes the note of an old-fashioned song,
Brings us a thought of you,
Sometimes a flower as we pass along,
Or a sky of azure blue,
Or a silver lining in the clouds,
When the sunshine's peeping through.
—Always remembered by mother, brothers and sisters.

WHATLEY—In loving memory of Sidney Whatley, who passed away March 7, 1948.
Gone, dear husband, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—From his loving wife and family.

WHITTAKER—In loving memory of Violet, dear wife of Kenneth Whittaker, who passed away March 7, 1948.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past,
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
'Til God called her home to suffer no more.
—Lovingly remembered by husband, son Donald, daughter Eleanor, brothers and sisters.

4 Miles Sewers Laid In 1950

More than four miles of sewers and two miles of sidewalks were laid in Peterborough last year.

Of that length, 9,476 feet were constructed by the city under the local improvement act; 8,836 feet were constructed by contract under the local improvement act; 2,834 feet by real estate developers under the city engineer at no cost to the corporation.

Total length of sewers 21,146 feet.

Pavement: Park St., McDonnel St. to Parkhill Road 1,127 feet; Monaghan Road from Lansdowne St. to Frank St., 2,630 feet.

Storm drain also by contract: Park St. from Brioux Ave. to the river.

Streets developed by realty interests were:

Ford: from Frank to Devon, 524 ft.; Devon St., from Ford to Hayes, 331 ft.; Brunswick Ave., Ford to Hayes, 434 ft.; Ephgrave Blvd., Braidwood to Lloyd, 604 ft.; Lloyd Ave., Braidwood to Ephgrave, 343 ft.; Ephgrave Blvd., from Lloyd west 258 ft.; Ephgrave Blvd. west from Braidwood north 340 ft.; That total is 2,834 feet.

Built by Contract

Sewers built by contract under the local improvement act: Camerson St.: Park to Monaghan Rd., 1,991 ft.; Riverside Dr., Cameron to Monaghan Rd., 1,317 ft.; Spruce Ave., Cameron to Riverside Dr., 595 ft.; Steele Ave., Cameron to Riverside Dr., 441 ft.; Cameron St., Monaghan Road to Erskine Ave., 1,965 ft.; Armour Rd., Douro to Hunter, 940 ft.; Dufferin St., Ross westerly 445 ft.; Wolsley St., from existing sewer to Fairbairn 164 ft.; Wellington St., from existing sewer to Fairbairn, 8,836.

One of the sewer laying contracts last year was down in the extreme south end of the city. At the time of annexation some of the residents of that area were predicting that it would be many years before the improvements of the city were extended to their neighborhood. Actually, that work caught up with them before they realized it.

What's Right

You are told some ugly gossip about a young girl.

WRONG: Accept the gossip as fact, saying how shocked you are by it and don't hesitate to tell it to someone else.

RIGHT: Stand up for the girl and don't repeat the story, since gossip, often without any real foundation, can ruin a girl's reputation in her community.

Tribute To Masaryk

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Mar. 7—(Reuters)—The United States ambassador to Czechoslovakia, Ellis O. Briggs, today laid a wreath on the grave of Thomas Masaryk, first president of Czechoslovakia, who was born 101 years ago today.

Two Directors Named To Cattle Breeders

Harry Kennedy of Cavan and Stewart Whittington of Otonabee were elected directors of the Maple Cattle Breeders' Association at the annual meeting of its Peterborough branch Tuesday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A.

Increased membership in this county entitles Peterborough to two directors. Mr. Kennedy has already served one year on the board, and Mr. Whittington becomes the second representative.

The local committee for this year is composed of Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Whittington, Norman McConkey, Wellington Sutton and Gordon Staples.

The headquarters staff was represented at the local meeting by R. J. Darlington of York, president; G. W. Keffer, secretary-manger; A. E. Snider, secretary-manager; and Dr. D. C. MacKay veterinarian. Tuesday's meeting was attended by more than sixty of the 270 Peterborough cattle breeders who are members.

Will Include Herefords

Mr. Keffer reported the intention of the board to enlarge their barn of bulls to include Herefords, although, he said, the Canadian Hereford Breeders' Association does not yet recognize artifically bred Hereford calves for registration.

The Association showed an operating profit last year of $5,740.46 as compared with $6,643.54 for 1949.

Membership increased from 1,870 at the close of 1949 to 2,924 at Dec. 31, 1950. Other farmers have joined during the winter. Peterborough, for instance, has moved up from 243 at Jan. 1 to a recent 273.

On the basis of 1950 membership, York county headed the list with 768 breeders; Simcoe is second with 452; Ontario county third at 412, Halton fourth with 284 and Peterborough is fifth with 243.

Other counties are: Victoria 140, Dufferin 130, Grey 108; and new areas to the north: Powasson 88; Verner 81.

Delivery of semen by plane and train is now being made as far as Fort Francis, Mr. Kennedy told the meeting. Any further expansion in service, Mr. Keffer said, would be in the northwest of the province. It now extended close to the Manitoba boundary.

Mr. Kennedy mentioned that cost of nearly everything affecting the Maple business had increased during the year.

"The only items that have not gone up during the year are the service fee and the allowance to directors," Mr. Kennedy said. "The five dollar bill has shrunk to nearly $3 in buying power, but the fee to breeders has not been changed. It is still five dollars."

Total number of first inseminations last year was 24,971 as against 20,791 in 1949. The figures for Peterborough were correspondingly higher, from 1,568 to 2,627. Estimates of the number of cows that will be bred artificially from Maple this year range from 33,000 to 40,000.

Income of $139,093

Financial statement for 1950 tabulated a total income of $139,093.56, itemized as follows: fees for services $127,873; profit on sale of bulls $1,653.91; other income $210.65; grants from province of Ontario $9,356. The total for 1949 was $115,173.

Expenditure last year was: $133,353.10 as against $108,529.46 in 1949.

Details of last year's expenses were: livestock keep $15,972.46, covering caretaking, hay and bedding, concentrated feed, etc.; technicians' salaries and expenses $82,889.12; administrative expenses $19,157.11; miscellaneous $5,132.70; depreciation $9,717.71; transportation $484. That left the operating profit of $5,740.46.

Technicians' costs were: salaries $36,364.96; mileage $40,061.19; supplies and uniforms $5,664.10; express $612.02; chief technician's expenses $186.85; total $82,889.12.

Details of administrative and miscellaneous expenses were also set out in the statement.

President Darlington said there were four meetings of the board during the year. He congratulated the Peterborough group on the ability of their director, Mr. Kennedy.

The membership fee was reduced during the year from $40 to $25, and service for Shorthorn breeders was added to the Maple unit. New Shorthorn owning members accounted for some of the increase, the largest in any year since the association was organized in 1945 by a group of York farmers for the benefit originally of the immediate area within a radius of 10 miles of Maple.

Mr. A. E. Snider, treasurer, reviewed the financial statement. "We owe nothing on capital," he said. "Our present assets amounting to $95,234.27 are all paid."

The Maple barn now houses 32 bulls, Dr. MacKay reported. They are 14 Holsteins, four each of Jerseys, Ayrshires and Guernseys; and six beef. The general conception rate was 68.3%.

Of the January breedings, 2,938, the approximate number for the various breeds were: Holsteins 1,800; Shorthorns 595; Jerseys 200; Gurneys 170; Ayrshires 158.

"I hope to see Peterborough as far ahead this time next year as they are now over 1949," said Dr. MacKay. "If you do, you will make this a strong county."

Gordon Laplante, local technician, reported seven cows per member in Simcoe and eight in Ontario county as compared with 11 in Peterborough. "I think 1950 was the most successful of the three years we've had. I'd like to thank our members for the way they co-operate. We have a good lot of farmers in Peterborough. I think they are well satisfied."

"I would like to impress this fact, already mentioned by Mr. Kennedy from his experience," said Mr. Keffer. "You Peterborough men are 100 miles away from Maple, but you are just as important in our service as is the farmer across the road from us. Our ideal has been from the outset, equal rights to all members. We have been the first and largest club in Ontario."

He spoke confidently of the quality of the two young bulls recently bought by the directors from Norman McConkey of Peterborough. Both their line records were impressive in the evidence of breeding ability to transmit milking resources from their maternal background. Mr. Keffer said he expected both these bulls recently bought in Peterborough to contribute production strength and other qualities to the Holstein herds attached to Maple association.

Also speaking briefly were Frank C. Paterson and Gerald Blackwell, assistant to Mr. Laplante.

HEADS PROSPECTORS — Mrs. Viola R. MacMillan, 46, of Toronto has been re-elected president of the Prospectors and Developers' Association, an office she has held since 1944. She has been associated with the Prospectors and Developers' Association since 1934.

Radar Defence Said Best In Nova Scotia

By The Canadian Press

Legislatures of two provinces—New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island—opened Tuesday but throne speeches—forecasts of government plans—gave only sketchy pictures of what will happen at the 1951 sessions.

Both speeches expressed agreement with the principle of old-age pension legislation recommended by the federal government at recent federal-provincial conferences.

Aside from that the New Brunswick forecast indicated little more than revision and consolidation of statutes.

In Prince Edward Island, the government indicated it will introduce legislation to establish an office of fisheries under the department of industry. It also mentioned plans for a new treatment centre for mental diseases.

Seven other legislatures were in session, with Newfoundland the only province still to launch its 1951 session.

Better Defence

In Halifax, A. B. DeWolfe, minister without portfolio in charge of civil defence for Nova Scotia, said his province has a better radar defence than any other. He said Nova Scotians could expect 15 or 20 minutes warning of the approach of an enemy plane.

In Quebec, Liberal Leader George Marler said Quebec is Canada's most heavily taxed province. Speaking in the budget debate, he said the province is in for a "spending orgy" this year. He said the program of government spending will produce an $18,000,000 deficit rather than the surplus of $1,044,100 forecast by the provincial treasurer, Onesime Gagnon.

In Winnipeg, Labor Minister Charles Greenlay said the Manitoba government will not support subsidized housing. He was speaking on a CCF resolution asking the province to set up provincial-municipal housing authorities.

In Edmonton, Industries Minister J. L. Robinson said more than 11,000 Alberta farms were receiving rural electrification by the end of last year. He added that another 3,500 to 5,000 farms would be hooked up this year.

In Victoria, a coalition member, J. G. Gould, suggested there should be local option plebiscites on the question of relaxing British Columbia's liquor laws. He told the coalition government to "get its head out of the sand" and bring up to date liquor laws that hadn't been changed in 25 years.

Slight Earthquake

BOMBAY, INDIA, March 7—(Reuters)—An earthquake shock was recorded early today 140 miles north of the town of Dibrugarh in Assam province. The shock was of slight intensity. Disrugarh was the scene of disastrous earthquakes last August when 1,526 persons lost their lives.

Ban Religious Garb

SANTA FE, N.M., March 7 — (AP)—The New Mexico School Board Tuesday banned the wearing of religious garb by teachers in public schools. Roman Catholic nuns and brothers teach in seven tax-supported New Mexico schools.

Lehman Says Seaway Plan Vital To Security

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) —Senator Herbert Lehman (Dem. Lib.-N.Y.) today described the proposed St. Lawrence seaway and power project as "essential to our national security."

Urging the public works committee of the House of Representatives to approve legislation to authorize the $1,000,000,000 development, Lehman said:

"What was a good project in the past is a vital project today.

"It is a project essential to our national security in a day and an hour when our national security is being challenged, and with it the security of all the free world."

Lehman also said that if he were not already committed to the proposal he would, on the basis of testimony of the United States defence chiefs, "feel compelled to set every other criterion aside and to support this project —this undertaking—on the basis of its importance to the defence of the United States and Canada."

Bring Benefits

Citing opposition by railroad interests and other business men, Lehman said experience has shown that developments such as the seaway and power project "while statistically appearing to require some temporary adjustment of some enterprises, result actually in great benefits to such enterprises."

He also said it had been "common experience" that public power projects "have created great new markets for both the public and private power and have always resulted in increased demands in those areas."

Noting that the section of the bill which would provide for transfer of the power facilities to New York State with repayment to the government of their construction cost had been first drafted in 1933 and since been revised "to perfect its terms," Lehman opposed any material change.

The New York Power Authority told the committee last week it was ready to enter "into full partnership" with the government, finance, build and operate the power phase and wanted the federal-state accord section redrafted along that line.

Lehman said he considered "the suggestion . . . that the New York Power Authority assumed the responsibility for building the power project . . . most practical. The power works and the seaway are inextricably combined. . ."

Obituary

WALLACE HERBERT MOORE

A retired pensioner of the Canadian General Electric with 52 years of Company service, 33 continuous, Wallace Herbert Moore, of Keene died in hospital on Tuesday. He was born in Cannington, son of the late Anson Moore and Catherine MacKenzie, and has lived in Peterborough for more than half a century before moving to Keene five years ago.

He leaves his wife, the former Laura McFarlane, and two daughters, Mrs. Norma Chesher and Mrs. W. A. Taylor (Agnes) and two sons, George Herbert and Allin Aylmer Moore, all of this city.

He was a member of the CGE Quarter Century Club and on one occasion represented the Canadian Rifle team at Bisley. During the First World War, as a commissioned officer, he instructed in markmanship at Valcartier Camp. He was a member of the Church of the Open Bible and one of its elders.

Funeral service will be held on Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Comstock Funeral Home. The Rev. Walter S. Crone will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

Ask Parliament Before Sending Troops Away

OTTAWA, March 6 —(CP)— The government, although now armed with power to send Canadian servicemen anywhere, has signified that it will ask Parliament's approval each time it wants to send contingents to a new theatre.

This cold-war policy has killed any chance that Canada will see a parallel of the Washington quarrel over whether the President has power to send American troops to Europe without consulting Congress.

Legal authorities say the Canadian government now clearly has the power to send troops and airmen to Europe without reference to parliament. However, Prime Minister St. Laurent said last week parliament's approval for those moves will be requested as it was requested last fall for approval to send forces to Korea. The power to skip parliament arises from the fact parliament itself placed the regular forces on active service last fall. That move also empowered the cabinet to freeze the manpower of the armed forces by refusing discharges and retirements but the government has not exercised the right.

Sent Anywhere

Under the National Defence Act, the cabinet has authority, in certain circumstaces, to place the forces on active service which means that they can be sent anywhere and can be kept in uniform as long as the government wishes.

But under the same act parliament must be called within 10 days after this step is taken. Thus the cabinet could send a unit out of the country but parliament must be consulted quickly and, in the final analysis, parliament's approval or refusal of funds to back the venture would decide.

At the special session last fall, the cabinet asked parliament to place the regular forces on active service for duty anywhere and to extend the Defence Act to include "fulfilment of International obligations" as one of the circumstances under which this could be done. This was accepted.

The department has never cracked down on retirements and discharges. They are being granted on the usual basis—more than 4,000 servicemen were discharged last year—but the power is there to stop them.

No Magic Way For Finding Uranium Fields

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Uranium — the material of atomic energy — may be magic stuff, but there is no magic way of finding it. It is found like any other mineral, by long and hard work.

This was emphasized Tuesday by W. J. Bennett, president of Eldorado Mining and Refining (1944) Ltd., the government-company which at present is the only Canadian producer of uranium, and which stands ready to buy all Canadian production which develops. Speaking to the annual convention of the Prospectors and Developers Association, he said in part:

"I should be something less than honest were I to say that the work of the past three years has been entirely satisfactory, considered in terms of its contribution to the increase of the supply of uranium on this continent.

"I will, however, qualify this judgment—we have all been too optimistic as to the time that would be required to locate and develop new reserves. The experience with other minerals should have warned us that producing mines are not discovered very frequently, and they are rarely discovered without intensive and widespread exploration.

Gives Example

Mr. Bennett cited the case of Eldorado's property at Beaverlodge, Sask., which he forecast will be a producer at least equal to and probably in excess of Eldorado's property at Great Bear Lake, NWT.

"The surface showings on the Ace property were in no sense phenomenal....Every step in the surface exploration and underground development had to be planned carefully. Decisions were not arrived at by sudden inspiration, but were hammered out on the anvil of experience and sound mining practice."

Mr. Bennett annonuced to the convention that an additional $1.25 a pound will be paid as a special development allowance for the first three years of production or any part of that time. This is in addition to the present price which, in effect, totals as high as $6 a pound. Payments are for the concentrate known as U308 from which uranium is later extracted.

Judge Would Ban Reports Of Murder Case 1st Hearing

ST. THOMAS, March 7.—(CP).—The crown counsel and the presiding judge at a murder trial Tuesday agreed that Canadian law should prohibit publication of evidence given at preliminary hearings.

Claude C. Savage of London, acting for the crown at the trial of Lawrence W. Jones in the shotgun slaying of his common-law wife, said that publication of reports of preliminary hearings — where a magistrate decides whether an accused should stand trial before jury — defeated the purpose of justice. Britain, he added, was considering a law to ban such reports.

"I have thought for some time that newspapers should not report preliminary hearings at all," said Mr. Savage.

"Quite right," said Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly of the Ontario Supreme Court.

The question was introduced by W. R. Poole of London, counsel for Jones, who is accused of shooting Sarah Ann Evans last Nov. 21 at the one-room trailer home they occupied at Yarmouth Centre.

The jury was excluded when Mr. Poole complained of two stories—the St. Thomas Times-Journal's report on the day of the shooting and a Canadian Prsss story of March 3 in advance of the trial which began today.

Raps Police

"I am most concerned about the article (in the Times-Journal)," said Mr. Poole. His criticism was not so much of the paper but of the police from whom the basis of the article could only have been obtained.

"It is factually incorrect," he continued, mentioning specifically a paragraph which reported that the shooting was the "culmination of months of wrangling." This statement had seriously prejudiced the case of the accuse.

He mentioned the CP dispatch, March 4, dated St. Thomas, which had appeared in papers at London, Brantford and Toronto. It reported that Jones' 15-year-old son had testified at the preliminary hearing that an argument between his father and the woman preceded the shooting.

This was inaccurate, Mr. Poole said. He referred to questioning of the boy at the preliminary and said the lad replied, "No, I have not," to a question as to whether he had ever noticed disagreements.

The CP story had all but convinced Mr. Poole to seek a change in venue for the trial. He had decided against this action and instead asked Mr. Justice Kelly to urge on the jury the "extreme gravity of this situation."

Should Be Accurate

Mr. Savage, speaking of the CP report, said that the least that could be expected of it was to see that its report was accurate.

"In looking at it, I see two grave inaccuracies," he said.

Mr. Justice Kelly said he did not know what he could do at this moment about Mr. Poole's motions concerning the newspaper and press-service reports.

"The press enjoys the confidence of the people and it must assume certain responsibilities," he said. "Here we have the press printing reports which are inaccurate and which might do very considerable damage. I will turn it over in my mind and perhaps later on hear arguments from counsel before deciding if any grave injustice has been done."

United Counties Change System Of Assessment

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7 — (ENS). — Campbellford Town Council received an explanation of the new set-up for equalizing the assessments in the 24 municipalities comprising the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham on Monday evening.

County Assessor Hall explained the new system and said that Mr. Townsend, local assessor, had shown himself to be familiar with the new system and that there would be a gradual change-over during the next three or four years to the new card system. Mr. Hall pointed out that all assessments should be made at 100 per cent value in order to be fair to all.

All members were present at the Monday evening meeting. Mayor J. E. Ayrhart presided.

Mrs. Kay Herrold asked council for a permit to enlarge her snack bar. The permit was passed by council subject to existing by-laws. Mrs. Herrold presented a petition from adjacent property owners asking council to grant her request.

James Parcels, local garbage collector, asked for an increase in pay for his duties, pointing out his increased cost of operation. Council granted him an increase bringing his total pay to $2,600, and in addition to his former duties made him responsible for the condition of the town dump.

Fire Chief Alec MacDonald explained to council the conditions prevailing at the fire at the Beattie Cereal Mill some weeks ago. Mr. Beattie addressed council at a previous meeting, and asked if anything could be done regarding compensating him for the loss of the mill in view of the fact firemen seemed unable to cope with the flames. Mr. Beattie said that while he was very grateful to the people of the town in doing everything in their power including substantial contributions of money to get the mill started again, he felt that firemen displayed a lack of efficiency in fighting the flames.

Many people in the town agreed with Mr. Beattie's statement and criticized the action of the firemen at other fires. Fire Chief MacDonald stated that this was a "flashfire" and that the brigade could not have put it out regardless of the amount of water poured on it. The great amount of dust and the exploding gasoline tank of the truck trapped in the flames had added to the difficulties.

It was decided to leave the matter of the local fire equipment being sent out of town up to the discretion of the fire, water and light committee of which Councillor Maybee is the head. Council again requested that the Seymour township council take some action in providing equipment for their own protection.

In response to a request for permission to hold a tag day for the blind on September 1 council granted the request.

WI Members Told Hitory Of Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, March 7 (ENS) —Mrs. W. Shearer, district president, and Mrs. Pearson of Buckhorn, also Mrs. E. Blewett of Selwyn were guests at the March meeting of the Lakefield Women's Institute and acted as judges for the hobbies display by institute members. The winning articles are to be entered in the hobby display of the district annual meeting being held in Lakefield.

The president, Mrs. E. Waldon, opened the meeting and welcomed the guests. Mrs. R. Charlton reported flowers had been sent to two members in the hospital, Mrs. A. Higgins and Mrs. R. Bullock.

It was decided to donate $5 to the Cancer Fund. The institute is to have a display table at the Home and School Fair in April. Mrs. White gave a report on current events. Highlight of the program was a paper on the history of the village of Lakefield and the local branch of the Women's Institute presented by Mrs. J. McKercher.

The article headed "Do You Know That," revealed the following information: That the belfry on St. John's Church is a memorial to the late Colonel John Strickland, one of the pioneers of the village. The bell of the old Anglican Church (Parish Hall) called out the volunteers in 1866; Lakefield Park was known for many years as Hague's Point; It is nearly 100 years since the first church service was held in Lakefield; St. Paul's Church was built by the Bible Christians in 1873 and sold to the Roman Catholics after the union of the Methodists and Bible Christians in 1884: Lakefield has had only three post masters; the first post office was situated at the foot of the "Grove Hill," on the site of the house where Gerry Staples now lives: the Madill brothers owned the first electric light plant in the village: Lakefield was at one time called Nelson; Thompson's Rapids; Heriot's Falls and later North Douro; James Hogan was the first schoolmaster in the village and the first school was on the corner of Reid and Regent streets, where William Fife now lives: Lord Stanley, Governor General of Canada, visited Lakefield in 1893: Lord Bessborough in 1933: Lord Tweedsmuir in 1938 and Viscount Alexander in 1950 when he presented a King's Scout certificate to Sea Scout Morley Brown: Katchewanooka means "Lake of Many Rapids"; the house where Catherine Parr Traill lived is now owned by Reeve W. C. Grant: Lakefield once had a citizens' band, under the leadership of Mr. Walter Madill and gave band concerts in the park as late as 1936: Fifty years ago butter was 20 cents a pound; geese 50c each: shoes $1.00 a pair: cotton thread 3c a spool; yarn 10c a hank; bacon 10c a lb.

In 1857 Lakefield had a population of 75 people; Robert Casement was postmaster, clerk and treasurer of Douro township and also a general merchant; Nathaniel Shaw was a mill owner; John Sherwin was a general merchant: Samuel Strickland was agent for the Canada Land Company: Rev. P. S. Warren was minister for the Church of England: Mail was received twice a week.

Mrs. McKerchar also outlined highlights of the Lakefield Women's Institute which was first organized in 1927.

The meeting concluded with lunch served by the hostess, Mrs. J. Blakely assisted by Mrs. A. Gill, Mrs. C. Chittick, Mrs. J. Irwin and Mrs. A. Bullock.

Life Member Of WMS Buried At Hastings

CAMPBELLFORD March 7 —(ENS)—The funeral of Margaret Hore, who died at her Gary Street home on Monday was held Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m. from Bennett's funeral home. The Rev. D. M. Smith of St. John's United Church officiated.

Mrs. Hore, the former Margaret Martin, was 78 at the time of her death. She was the wife of Joseph Hore of Campbellford who survives her. She was born at Trent Bridge, and had lived in Campbellford for the past 40 years. She also lived in Hastings. Two sons predeceased her.

A member of St. John's United Church, Mrs. Hore was a life member of the WMS.

Burial was in Trent Valley cemetery in Hastings.

Fewer Measles Cases

COBOURG, March 7 (ENS)—One hundred and forty-three cases of communicable disease were reported for the week ending March 3 by the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit. Red measles were still plentiful but were less in number in Cobourg than previous weeks. Three cases of chickenpox were listed, all in Cobourg; 51 of German measles, 81 red measles, 8 cases of mumps. Delayed reports were 26 cases of German measles in Cobourg, 12 of red measles and one of flu in Cobourg.

Too Severe

PITTSBURGH, March 7.—(AP)—Ivanhoe Rose, 40, thought his punishment for speeding and reckless driving — without a licence—a little too severe. Hauled into traffic court Tuesday, Rose fell in a dead faint when the judge sentenced him to a $60 fine or 25 days in jail. He was carried to a hospital and treated for a head injury.

Ban Red Party

IDIANAPOLIS, March 7—(AP)—A bill designed to ban the Communist party in Indiana was signed Tuesday by Governor Henry F. Schricker. It bans membership in the Communist party and Communist-front organizations.

Aussie Fans Delightful Star Reports

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 7 (AP)—Maureen O'Hara, a breath of old Ireland, has just returned from Australia where she made a film for an American company with an English leading man and a Russian director.

I took tea with O'Hara on her return and learned a variety of things about Australia.

"They are fantastic," she remarked, speaking of the Aussie fans. "Wherever you go, huge numbers of them gather around you."

Enthusiasm Unbounded

"Of course, it could have been because they haven't had movie names come down there. At any rate, their enthusiasm is unbounded. They showered us with gifts—beautiful things, too."

"I have been in Europe and other parts of the world but have never seen anything like their enthusiasm. Except in Texas. When I was down there for a premiere, the fans were just as demonstrative."

The red-haired beauty observed that Australia is a topnotch movie country. "They seem to enjoy their movies even more than we do in the United States," she said. "They shout and yell in the exciting moments and toss comments at the screen. If a picture is funny, they scream with laughter."

The down-under film taste favors "anything with horses in it," she reported. Action and comedy are preferred and Bob Hope and Bing Crosby are prime favorites.

Maureen spent 3½ months in Australia, most of it at Port Augusta, in the southern part of the continent. There she acted in "Kangaroo" for 20th-Fox. She appeared opposite Peter Lawford and was directed by Lewis Milestone.

MORNING COUGHS and Asthma

Do you cough and cough, especially mornings and at night? Do you choke, gasp for breath, wheeze and often can't sleep? The cause of these devitalizing symptoms may be recurring attacks of Asthma or Bronchitis. In such cases, the very first dose of MENDACO usually starts right now, working through the blood and thus reaching lungs and bronchial tubes, to help relax that clogged up stuffy feeling in the chest, then helps Nature loosen and clean out thick, strangling phlegm. This helps you get good fresh air into your lungs and promotes restful sleep. Ask your druggist for MENDACO. Satisfaction or money back.

WHEN LITTLE LINDA got tired playing with her dog Tippy she crawled into her soft wicker bed and fell asleep in her characteristic pose. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Converse, of Needham, Mass., found the Shetland collie curled up on the floor beside the 16-month-old child, after investigating a suspicious quietness during the evening playtime period.

General Urges Solid Training In Citizenship

OTTAWA — (CP). — Gen. H. D. G. Crerar says he fully agrees that education in Canada must be made "everybody's business."

The 63-year-old general, who headed the Canadian Overseas Army during the Second World War, feels that if Caanda's way of life is to survive, there must be greater emphasis on training in demoocracy.

Urgent, too, he said, in a statement endorsing Canadian education week, is the need for a "more vigorous and imaginative program of citizenship education in cur country."

The veteran soldier, now retired, who stepped from Chief of the General Staff to lead Canada's troops to victory in Germany, is honorary president of the Canadian Citizenship Council.

"Without reservation, I fully agree with Canadian Education Week's slogan — education is everybody's business," he says in his statement.

Notable Achievements

"Our achievements during the past half-century and particularly during the past two decades, in creating a powerful and influential nation, in developing a highly technical standard of living, are the achievements of a literate people.

".....And, if we are to continue to press forward the full development of this nation of ours and its people, then, more than ever, in every way possible, we must make education everybody's business."

But it is not enough, adds Gen. Crerar, that we have "mere learning, mere knowledge, mere technical skills."

"Our education must do more than create technically skilled and literate people. I have long been convinced—and some of this conviction stems from my experiences during my army career—that there is a pressing need for a more vigorous and imaginative program of citizenship education in our country.

"We must, somehow, further develop all our educational activities to ensure in our citizens a deep and abiding understanding and belief in democracy—democracy not only as a form of government, but also democracy as our way of life.

"Democracy, if it is to survive, must be whole-heartedly supported by our people as a creed of ideas, ideals and attitudes that are spiritual rather than material. Only through education, education in its broadest sense, can this be done. Education is everybody's business—your business and mine."

Mrs. Cuthbertson died suddenly Friday afternoon at the age of 48.

Pall-bearers were Arthur Jones, James Dallman, Ivan Beggs, Victor McConnell, Jim Rogers, Erlin Buck.

Industry Says Absenteeism Not Affected Production

Production in the city factories has continued at a steady pace in spite of the flu.

A survey of several industries today indicated that they had only been slightly touched by the flu. All reported that the absenteeism during the past two weeks has been higher than usual due to colds and flu but that is has had no serious effect.

Reginald Reid, personnel manager at the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company, said that the situation there is "not in too bad shape." Last week he said 14 were off in the plant and nine in the office. This week the number absent is a little higher.

Air Conditioned Plant

Mr. Reid said that the new air-conditioning in the plant has had some effect. The company also provided the employees with cold tablets free. Cod liver oil tablets are available for the employees at cost price.

A CGE official said that the flu situation there is "not too bad" and hasn't affected production. Two weeks ago the situation was rather serious.

At the Western Clock Company the number absent is about twice the normal daily rate of 25. Extra employees who are hired in anticipation of this daily absenteeism have carried the plant's production along without delay. None of the factory's departments have been affected to any extent.

The Quaker Oats Company reported that 50 employees were out with colds and flu last week.

One department was closed but not due to illness. The employees left were scattered throughout the factory filling in for the sick workers.

Pats' Grim Bayonet Charge Clears Chinese From Hill

Woman 60 Drowns Trying To Save Young Grandchild

WHITBY, March 8. (CP)—Mrs. Iva Best, about 60, was drowned today in Whitby harbor when she and her daughter Mrs. Donald Gaine, plunged into the water after Mrs. Gaine's four-year-old daughter toppled from a pier. Mrs. Gaine and the child, Donna Gaine, were rescued. Taken to nearby Oshawa General hospital for treatment for shock and exposure, they were later reported recovering. Whitby is five miles west of Oshawa. Police said the women borrowed an automobile from a neighbor and drove to the harbor with the child about 10 a.m.

James Sleighthorn, superintendent of a pumping station 40 or 50 yards from the pier, said he saw the three walking on the pier. He saw the child fall into the water. The women jumped in after her.

4 Men Help

He called James Kirk, Harry Fletcher and Alfred Gordon, who had been working in the area and they ran to the pier. Fletcher tossed a hook on the end of a heavy rope into the water and snagged the child's collar. The mother grasped the rope and she and the child were pulled out.

By that time, the older woman, who had been wearing a heavy fur coat, had disappeared. Her body was recovered an hour later.

Allow Women To Serve On Ont. Juries

TORONTO, March 8 —(CP)—Ontario is going to join five other provinces in permitting women to serve on juries. Attorney-General Dana Porter has served notice that he will introduce a bill in the Ontario Legislature within the next few days to lift the bars against women acting as jurors in both civil and criminal cases.

Disclosure of the proposed amendments to the Jurors' Act brought immediate approval from women's organizations, many of whom have been campaigning for years for the right.

However, some problems were posed by men who know what jury duty involves.

Sheriff J. D. Conover of York county, for one, was shocked by the idea.

"We would have to have a whole new court house," he said. "There are no facilities for women jurors now."

Each courtroom would have to have a matron, he said. "And I don't know about rape cases — whether the women would like to sit on juries hearing such cases."

Closer To Equality

To Mrs. Margery Pewtress, vice-president of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ontario, the proposal was a step closer to full equality for women.

A lawyer, Gordon C. Elgie, KC, former member of the Legislature, was also pleased.

"My view has always been that women would add a lot to the justification of the jury system."

Provinces now permitting women on juries are British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and Nova Scotia. Alberta, however, does not allow women in murder trials and the practice of women sitting on juries is not common in Nova Scotia.

Quebec, New Brunswick, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island bar women from juries.

Fire Sam Baron As Union Chief

CORNWALL, March 8 (CP)—Sam Baron today confirmed reports he has been fired as Canadian director of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO-CCL). He said he will fight his dismissal as boss of an estimated 20,000 Canadian textile workers.

"I have every intention of fighting the discharge by every possible means and through every channel of our organization," said Mr. Baron in a statement, "including our convention in May, 1952."

He said he is calling a meeting of all Canadian area directors at Toronto tomorrow to discuss the matter.

The Toronto Globe and Mail, which first reported the dismissal said it was a climax to a long and bitter feud with the international organization. It said he was summarily fired on two days' notice by President Emile Rieve, whose displeasure Baron had incurred for opposing the president's efforts to get rid of the vice-president of the union, George Baldanzi.

Widowed Woman Turns Out A Man

SANFORD, Fla., March 8 (AP)—A critical illness has resulted in the revelation that a Sanford negro "woman," twice widowed, is really a man, Police Chief Roy G. Williams said today.

Williams visited the "woman," Georgia Black, in hospital Wednesday and said "she" still insists she is a woman despite a report of Dr. Orville Barks, who revealed the secret of more than 40 years.

Williams said Georgia is between 55 and 60 years old.

A younger brother and sister did not know Georgia was not a woman nor did an adopted son know his "mother" was not a woman, the police chief added.

Williams said records showed that in 1918 when 25 years of age, Georgia married a Buster Black in Sanford who "she" said died in 1925. Williams quoted Georgia as saying "she" got a $45 monthly pension from Black's estate.

Asked To Supply Gov't Secrets

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP). — A former navy ordnance employee testified in this country's first atom spy trial today that one of the three defendants asked him to supply government secrets for Russia.

Max Elitcher said Julius Rosenberg, 34, an electrical engineer told him that "many people" were aiding the Russians by providing classified information.

Rosenberg, his wife, Ethel, 34, and radar expert Morton Sobell, 33, are accused of wartime espionage in behalf of Russia. They face a possible death penalty.

Elitcher said Rosenberg talked about "the job the Soviet Union was doing in the war effort and that some interests in the United States were denying them information and impeding their effort."

He told a federal court jury that Rosenberg asked him to obtain plans, blueprints and other information for evaluation and possible transmission to Russia.

Spend $7,000 Daily For Recruiting Ads

OTTAWA, March 8.—(CP). — The Defence Department has been spending $7,000 a day in the advertising drive for armed forces recruits.

Figures tabled Wednesday in the Commons for E. D. Fulton (PC - Kamloops) showed that spending on advertising in December hit roughly that pace for a total of $200,000 for the month.

It was even higher—$263,000—in November. Those were the big months for 1950, indicating that the Government recently has been plunging more heavily on advertising in the effort to build up the three forces.

For 1950 advertising costs ran to $1,266,394, meaning that the average spending pace was doubled in the last two months.

Guilty of Manslaughter

ST. THOMAS, March 8 (CP)—Lawrence William Jones today was convicted of manslaughter in the shotgun slaying of Mrs. Sarah Ann Evans, who police said lived with him as a common-law wife. Sentence will be passed later today.

U.N. Troops Smash Ahead In Advance

Sudden Offensive Surprises Reds, One of Biggest Drives

TOKYO, March 8. (CP)—Allied troops stabbed ahead one to two miles today against spotty resistance in the second day of their 70-mile-wide drive in Korea.

Field dispatches said the Red resistance was "more of a rear-guard nature, indicating the Communists were withdrawing their main body of troops in front of the advancing Allies."

A US Eighth Army briefing officer said 11,039 Chinese and North Korean Reds were killed or wounded Wednesday on the opening day of the assault — one of the biggest Allied attacks of the war.

Advance Mile

The US 25th Division fanned out another mile Thursday from the three-mile-deep bridgehead it carved Wednesday on the north bank of the Han River east of Seoul.

On the right of the 25th, the US 24th Division drove ahead almost two miles against scattered resistance.

And farther along the battleline, from west to east:

US 1s Cavalry Division troops advanced almost two miles unopposed northeast of Chipyong toward Hongchon.

British forces east of Yongdu reported seeing 200 Reds moving north.

No action was reported in sketchy information from the British sector.

Losses Low

Field dispatches said Allied losses were amazingly low.

Front-line officers said the surprise attack caught the Reds flat-footed as they were preparing an attack of their own.

Allied warplanes bombed, strafed and rocketed Communist forces ahead of the advancing UN ground troops. By noon Thursday, the U.S. Fifth Air Force had hurled more than 300 sorties against the Reds in clear weather.

The stiffest ground fighting was reported near Hoengsong, in the middle of the central front. Canadian, Australian and British troops of the 27th Commonwealth Brigade ran into stubborn Chinese resistance in assaults on two hills.

Bad Shot Fined $250 For Blowing Up Plant

PEARL RIVER, N.Y., March 8 —(AP)—A 22-year-old hunter who shot at a crow—and blew up a fireworks plant—was fined $250 Wednesday night.

The penalty was imposed on Frank Perkins, Jr., after he pleaded guilty to discharging a gun within 500 feet of a building marked "explosives."

The hunter with the bad aim said he had not seen the Barnabas Fireworks Company plant when he fired at the crow last Monday.

The shot set off a blast that shook the countryside for miles around, and created near-panic along the New York-New Jersey border.

GOING FORWARD—Equipped and ready for action, a section of the Patricia's leaves a regrouping point on the Korean front, bound for an enemy position. In bloody bayonet fighting, Wednesday, these men captured the spurs of Hill 532 from strongly entrenched Chinese troops. When repeated assaults during the day failed to carry the hill, the Canadians turned to cold steel.

Truman Attacker Receives Death Verdict

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The death verdict was returned Wednesday against Oscar Collazo, 37, survivor of the two Puerto Ricans who tried to shoot their way through President Truman's guards last November.

A federal court jury convicted him of first-degree murder, which carries a mandatory sentence of execution in the electric chair.

Collazo and a companion Puerto Rican Nationalist, Griselio Torresola, were charged with attempting to break into President Truman's residence, Blair House, with intent to kill the President or any one who might be guarding him.

Guard Murdered

They also were charged with the murder of Leslie Coffelt, a guard who was slain in a furious gun battle betwen the Puerto Ricans and secret service men. Officers Joseph Downs and Birdzell of the White House police were wounded.

The jury of nine women and three men took only an hour and 42 minutes to reach its verdict. Collazo was smiling, as if confident, when he was brought into the courtroom to hear the verdict.

There was evidence during the 10-day trial that Torresola, who died in the gun battle, actually shot Coffelt. But under District of Columbia law one conspirator in a felony is held equally guilty with another.

In the final arguments, Leo A. Rover, head of Collazo's court-appointed defence lawyers, argued that there was "an absolute lack of murderous intent" on Collazo's part. He said Torresola went beserk.

Deputies Hit Austrian Snag

PARIS, March 8 (AP)—Deputies of the Big-Four foreign ministers today faced still another discussion and how to negotiate an independence treaty for Austria as a step toward easing East-West tension.

The deputies meet for the fourth time in their current series of talks, designed to draw up a list of points for their ministers to discuss at the proposed Big-Four meeting. Unless they agree on a list and how to phrase it, the ministers won't get together at all.

Britain, France and the United States are eager to get the Austrian treaty over and done with. So is Austrian Foreign Minister Karl Gruber, who is here to watch from the sidelines.

The Russians did bring it up Wednesday, but they recalled an old stalemate: Russia's insistence that they also would have to talk about the little territory of Trieste, on the Adriatic Sea.

The Russians say the Western powers have violated their treaty with Italy by turning Trieste into a military base. How could the Russians know, demanded Russia's deputy Andrei Gromyko, that Austria wouldn't turn into a second Trieste?

Britain's Budget To Show Large, Unexpected Surplus

LONDON, March 8. (Reuters)—Despite extra spending on defence Britain's budget for the year ending March 31 is heading for a large and unexpected surplus. With four weeks to go, Treasury returns for the period up to March 2 showed a current revenue surplus of nearly £770,000,000 ($2,310,000,000). In his budget last April the former Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, estimated a surplus of less than £390,000,000.

After allowing for the deficit on capital expenditure there was an over-all surplus of £158,000,000 March 3. Sir Stafford had budgetted for approximately an over-all balance. The surplus is likely to be reduced in the next four weeks but it is clear that the financial year will close in far better shape than expected.

This correspondingly relieves the problem of the present chancellor, Hugh Gaitskell, in his budget for the coming year. Other reliefs are the gratifying response of small savings to the higher interest rates which were recently conceded, and the huge swing since November from an export surplus to an import surplus.

Changed In January

Until November Britain was running an export surplus at the rate of £400,000,000 a year. In January this was transformed into a big import surplus.

All these reliefs will be needed because defence spending is due to rise sharply and progressively in the next three years.

If feasible, it would be more popular for the government to mop up inflationary money by getting more meat and similar goods and selling them at higher prices, rather than by higher taxes. So Britain's income tax rate after April 10 — the date Gaitskell's budget is expected—may be partly decided by the results of the present food negotiations with Argentina and Denmark.

Say Reds Execute 210,000 In China

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 8 — (AP).—Nationalist China's defence ministry said today the Chinese Communists had executed 210,000 persons in three provinces up to the end of January.

A statement issued by the ministry's military information service said the Reds' own official figures indicated execution of 90,000 persons in Kwangsi province; 70,000 in Kwanktung, and 50,000 in Fukien.

(The Nationalists' official Central News Agency said Wednesday the Reds had executed more than 20,000 this year in Fukien province.)

The defence ministry contends that the Reds' goal is execution of 25,000,000 persons to crush all internal resistance before a Third World War. It said previously that executions throughout China already totalled 1,000,000.

10 Bail Out

WOODLAND, Calif., March 8 (AP).—Ten crew members bailed out of a flaming B-29 today shortly before the big plane crashed and burned on a ranch about eight miles north of here. Eyewitnesses said the left outside engine was on fire before the crew took to parachutes.

Murder Charge Against Pair

TORONTO, March 8 (CP). — A murder charge was laid today against Elmer Jordan, 28, and Fred Pentland, 22, both of Toronto, following the death in hospital of John R. Smith, found unconscious and bleeding in an east-central Toronto house three months ago.

Jordan and Pentland originally were charged with assault and robbery.

Police said Smith, father of four children, was invited to a rooming house by two men. There he was set upon and beaten about the head and face and robbed of $30, they said.

A detective called by the landlord arrested Jordan and Pentland after questioning them.

Smith was taken to hospital with a brain injury and a fractured skull. Four brain operations were performed in an effort to save his life. He died Wednesday.

Rescue Oil Crew Marooned By Blizzard

CORONATION, Alta., March 8 (CP)—A chartered aircraft from Calgary yesterday rescued members of an oil-drilling crew from a lonely well site 20 miles from here where they had been marooned by snowdrifts and blizzard conditions since Sunday.

Names of the men were not available but a winter drilling shift normally consists of six men.

The crew left Coronation, 90 miles southwest of Edmonton, on Sunday carrying lunch pails for a regular eight-hour stint at the well. Roads were blocked by drifts when the shift ended. The cook at the well had a case of soup on hand and they lived on that for more than two days until rescued.

Canadians Rip Enemy Line Under Heavy Fire Make Three-Mile Advance

Attacks Fail All Day Till Cold Steel Used Platoons Knife Ahead To Foxholes Wounded Taken Out By Helicopter

By BILL BOSS

WEST CENTRAL SECTOR, Korea, March 8. (CP)—Cold steel, used in heavy close-quarters fighting with the Chinese, carried the Patricias late Wednesday on to spurs of Hill 532. The hill is a dominating position 2½ miles southeast of Yongdu, a junction on the road leading southwest from Hangchow. Exasperated after a bitterly contested seven-hour advance against the Chinese — as well dug in as usual in positions commanding every approach up the 1,600-foot feature — a Patricia company under Capt. Gordon Turnbull of Toronto threw finesse to the winds late in the afternoon and went in with the bayonet.

Turnbull's day-long attack up the massive, ridgy formation, headed by a platoon led by Lieut. Rod Middleton of Calgary and Sgt. Vern Holigan of St. Catharines, had carried the front forward 3,000 yards from the starting line. While Turnbull's company was working up the easterly ridge, a company under Maj. George Flint, Montreal, assaulted the somewhat easier western ridge. Both project like lion's paws from the hill's south face.

Torrents of Grenades

Grim fighting against interlaced enemy automatic fire and literally torrents of grenades—"his favorite weapon, he must have millions of them," said CSM H. O. Larson of Calgary — put Turnbull's men 400 yards up towards the top.

Their attacks, first by Holigan's platoon and then by one commanded by Cpl. Roy Rushton of West River, N. S., failed to break into the Chinese lines — even though the attacks were supported by beautifully sighted machine gun fire directed by Capt. Andy Foulds, Vancouver, and Middleton's platoon.

Larson, who left the battlefield just before dusk, said:

"The company decided to try it again. We were determined to reach the objective—that spur one-third the way up—by nightfall.

"So the platoons went in with the bayonet. There were 40 yards between our positions and his (the enemy's). As the attack was launched I heard someone shout, 'let's all go in.'"

Sea Nightmare

HOBART, Tasmania, Australia, March 8. (Reuters)—Skipper M. A. McKay Wednesday night reported he had sighted a 16-foot sea monster — "a horrible thing just like a nightmare." The master of the trawler Buda said he spotted the creature 20 miles off the Tasmanian coast. It had "a great large parchment - like mouth, broad flappers like a shark." It was light yellow, and had "two arm-like projections on the back of its head."

Hamilton Youth Shot Fleeing From Stolen Car

BRACEBRIDGE, March 8 (CP) —Said to have been hit in the chest by a police bullet while running from an automobile reported stolen, Frank Brewer, 22, of Hamilton, today was in serious condition in hospital.

The shooting occurred Wednesday night after Constable H. A. Olimer saw Brewer entering the car, listed as stolen earlier in the day in Toronto, and tried to speak to him. Brewer is said to have started to drive off with a companion, Morris Goddard, 24, of Toronto.

At the time of the shooting, 6 p.m., main street was practically deserted.

Mrs. Barbara Johnston and her brother-in-law, James Stevenson, said later they heard a shot just after turning off main street in their car.

See Man Fall

"I saw a man running like mad across the street," Mrs. Johnston said. "And then I heard the shot and the man stumbled and fell. The policeman was standing on the sidewalk."

Goddard was taken into custody.

Police said the automobile in which Brewer and Goddard were riding was identified as belonging to Albert Mintz of Toronto. Officers said it was taken from a downtown Toronto parking lot Wednesday.

Alberta Shivers 40 Below Zero

EDMONTON, March 8 (CP)—Weather records were shattered at Edmonton, Calgary and Medicine Hat early today as temperatures in all parts of the province skidded to 30 and 40 below zero.

At 7:30 a.m., Edmonton's temperature stood at 30.3 below, coldest this winter, and the lowest March 8 reading on record.

Calgary's low of 35 below was the coldest March reading in the 55 years that records have been kept there. Medicine Hat's low of minus 35 was the coldest in 35 years.

From Winnipeg west, Canada's weather was clear and cold. The coldest centre was Red Deer, Alta., where records date back only five years to offer little comparison of the bitter 45-below temperature recorded overnight.

Opposition Growing To British Oil Company

TEHRAN, Iran, March 8. (AP) —The assassination of Premier Gen. Ali Razmara spurred new Nationalist demands today that Iran drive the giant British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company out of the country.

Moderate deputies in the Majlis (parliament) predicted that oil-nationalization had a much-greater chance for parliamentary approval under the threat of further terrorist acts.

Meanwhile, the body of Razmara, slain Wednesday by a member of a fanatic Moslem sect, lay in state in Sepah Salar Mosque. Funeral services were to be held later today.

The slaying was the climax of weeks of political agitation in which Iranian Nationalists showed growing resentment against the premier because of his opposition to taking over of the oil company.

Newest Battle Of Atlantic Fought With Orchids, Wine

LONDON, March 8. (Reuters)—An air battle over the Atlantic is being fought by airline companies competing for the lion's share of the tourist trade.

The weapons are orchids, champagne and seven-course dinners. Airline operators are wondering where it is all going to end.

Unlimited free drinks, expensive handbags and beauty kits are among the inducements being offered to would-be passengers. As the Festival of Britain gets closer, competition grows fiercer.

Air France began it all when they served free wine with flight meals. Now the state-owned British Overseas Airways Corporation is setting out to pamper its passengers.

BOAC's new Monarch Service has entered the free-orchids fight in competition with two powerful American concerns — Pan American World Airways and Trans-World Airways.

Women passengers from America to Britain (not from Britain to America) are each given an orchid. As on the American lines, passengers can have their breakfast in bed, the aircraft lounge is decorated with flowers, and women get a free beauty kit.

Drinks before, during and after meals are free and include champagne, wines, cocktails and liquers.

Airline officials say the cost of these extras is small compared with the main operating costs. But it whittles down the slender margin of profit.

Fares on trans-Atlantic routes are strictly governed by international agreement and cannot be undercut. The agreed basic London-New York return fare is about $375.

But the rules do not cover free gifts or luxuries.

Canada's Lawyers Propose Federal Tax Law Reform

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP) — Widespread reform of federal tax laws is urged in a brief to the federal government of Canada's lawyers and chartered accountants made public today.

A joint committee of the Canadian Bar Association and Dominion Association of Chartered Accountants, analysing the tax structure, virtually tore it apart.

Among the recommendations for the government's consideration before it brings down its 1851-52 budget in the next few weeks are:

1. Revision of taxation principles in husband-and-wife cases involving transfer of property and partnership.

2. Strengthening of the income tax appeal board and shifting its jurisdiction from the revenue department to the justice department.

3. Elimination of tax evasion sections in the tax law, which penalize taxpayers for conduct not forbidden by the Criminal Code and by the "exercise of arbitrary power by the Crown."

4. Allowance for contributions to pensions plans by persons other than employees; for example, professional men and women who contribute to a retirement fund.

5. Allowance for expenses incurred in normal employment, which in most cases now are not deductible.

Under current government tax practice, a husband is charged with the income of property transferred by him to his wife, or vice versa. The brief recommends that if a husband got fair market value for his property in the transfer deal, the income of the property should be charged against his wife. That would lift some of the tax burden from the husband's shoulders, or the wife's if the transfer was the other way.

Pats' Grim Bayonet Charge Clears Chinese From Hill

Woman 60 Drowns Trying To Save Young Grandchild

WHITBY, March 8. (CP)—Mrs. Iva Best, about 60, was drowned today in Whitby harbor when she and her daughter Mrs. Donald Gaine, plunged into the water after Mrs. Gaine's four-year-old daughter toppled from a pier. Mrs. Gaine and the child, Donna Gaine, were rescued. Taken to nearby Oshawa General hospital for treatment for shock and exposure, they were later reported recovering. Whitby is five miles west of Oshawa. Police said the women borrowed an automobile from a neighbor and drove to the harbor with the child about 10 a.m.

James Sleighthorn, superintendent of a pumping station 40 or 50 yards from the pier, said he saw the three walking on the pier. He saw the child fall into the water. The women jumped in after her.

4 Men Help

He called James Kirk, Harry Fletcher and Alfred Gordon, who had been working in the area and they ran to the pier. Fletcher tossed a hook on the end of a heavy rope into the water and snagged the child's collar. The mother grasped the rope and she and the child were pulled out.

By that time, the older woman, who had been wearing a heavy fur coat, had disappeared. Her body was recovered an hour later.

Allow Women To Serve On Ont. Juries

TORONTO, March 8 —(CP)—Ontario is going to join five other provinces in permitting women to serve on juries. Attorney-General Dana Porter has served notice that he will introduce a bill in the Ontario Legislature within the next few days to lift the bars against women acting as jurors in both civil and criminal cases.

Disclosure of the proposed amendments to the Jurors' Act brought immediate approval from women's organizations, many of whom have been campaigning for years for the right.

However, some problems were posed by men who know what jury duty involves.

Sheriff J. D. Conover of York county, for one, was shocked by the idea.

"We would have to have a whole new court house," he said. "There are no facilities for women jurors now."

Each courtroom would have to have a matron, he said. "And I don't know about rape cases — whether the women would like to sit on juries hearing such cases."

Closer To Equality

To Mrs. Margery Pewtress, vice-president of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ontario, the proposal was a step closer to full equality for women.

A lawyer, Gordon C. Elgie, KC, former member of the Legislature, was also pleased.

"My view has always been that women would add a lot to the justification of the jury system."

Provinces now permitting women on juries are British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and Nova Scotia. Alberta, however, does not allow women in murder trials and the practice of women sitting on juries is not common in Nova Scotia.

Quebec, New Brunswick, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island bar women from juries.

Asked To Supply Gov't Secrets

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP) — A former navy ordnance employee testified in this country's first atom spy trial today that one of the three defendants asked him to supply government secrets for Russia.

Max Elitcher said Julius Rosenberg, 34, an electrical engineer told him that "many people" were aiding the Russians by providing classified information.

Rosenberg, his wife, Ethel, 34, and radar expert Morton Sobell, 33, are accused of wartime espionage in behalf of Russia. They face a possible death penalty.

Elitcher said Rosenberg talked about "the job the Soviet Union was doing in the war effort and that some interests in the United States were denying them information and impeding their effort."

He told a federal court jury that Rosenberg asked him to obtain plans, blueprints and other information for evaluation and possible transmission to Russia.

Fire Sam Baron As Union Chief

CORNWALL, March 8 (CP)—Sam Baron today confirmed reports he has been fired as Canadian director of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO-CCL). He said he will fight his dismissal as boss of an estimated 20,000 Canadian textile workers.

"I have every intention of fighting the discharge by every possible means and through every channel of our organization," said Mr. Baron in a statement, "including our convention in May, 1952."

He said he is calling a meeting of all Canadian area directors at Toronto tomorrow to discuss the matter.

The Toronto Globe and Mail, which first reported the dismissal said it was a climax to a long and bitter feud with the international organization. It said he was summarily fired on two days' notice by President Emile Rieve, whose displeasure Baron had incurred for opposing the president's efforts to get rid of the vice-president of the union, George Baldanzi.

Spend $7,000 Daily For Recruiting Ads

OTTAWA, March 8.—(CP). — The Defence Department has been spending $7,000 a day in the advertising drive for armed forces recruits.

Figures tabled Wednesday in the Commons for E. D. Fulton (PC - Kamloops) showed that spending on advertising in December hit roughly that pace for a total of $200,000 for the month.

It was even higher—$263,000—in November. Those were the big months for 1950, indicating that the Government recently has been plunging more heavily on advertising in the effort to build up the three forces.

For 1950 advertising costs ran to $1,266,384, meaning that the average spending pace was doubled in the last two months.

Guilty of Manslaughter

ST. THOMAS, March 8 (CP)—Lawrence William Jones today was convicted of manslaughter in the shotgun slaying of Mrs. Sarah Ann Evans, who police said lived with him as a common-law wife. Sentence will be passed later today.

Bad Shot Fined $250 For Blowing Up Plant

PEARL RIVER, N.Y., March 8 —(AP)—A 22-year-old hunter who shot at a crow—and blew up a fireworks plant—was fined $250 Wednesday night.

The penalty was imposed on Frank Perkins, Jr., after he pleaded guilty to discharging a gun within 500 feet of a building marked "explosives."

The hunter with the bad aim said he had not seen the Barnabas Fireworks Company plant when he fired at the crow last Monday.

The shot set off a blast that shook the countryside for miles around, and created near-panic along the New York-New Jersey border.

Widowed Woman Turns Out A Man

SANFORD, Fla., March 8 (AP) —A critical illness has resulted in the revelation that a Sanford negro "woman," twice widowed, is really a man, Police Chief Roy G. Williams said today.

Williams visited the "woman." Georgia Black, in hospital Wednesday and said "she" still insists she is a woman despite a report of Dr. Orville Barks, who revealed the secret of more than 40 years.

Williams said Georgia is between 55 and 60 years old.

A younger brother and sister did not know Georgia was not a woman nor did an adopted son know his "mother" was not a woman, the police chief added.

Williams said records showed that in 1918 when 25 years of age, Georgia married a Buster Black in Sanford who "she" said died in 1925. Williams quoted Georgia as saying "she" got a $45 monthly pension from Black's estate.

Newest Battle Of Atlantic Fought With Orchids, Wine

LONDON, March 8. (Reuters)—An air battle over the Atlantic is being fought by airline companies competing for the lion's share of the tourist trade.

The weapons are orchids, champagne and seven-course dinners. Airline operators are wondering where it is all going to end.

Unlimited free drinks, expensive handbags and beauty kits are among the inducements being offered to would-be passengers. As the Festival of Britain gets closer, competition grows fiercer.

Air France began it all when they served free wine with flight meals. Now the state-owned British Overseas Airways Corporation is setting out to pamper its passengers.

BOAC's new Monarch Service has entered the free-orchids fight in competition with two powerful American concerns — Pan American World Airways and Trans-World Airways.

Women passengers from America to Britain (not from Britain to America) are each given an orchid. As on the American lines, passengers can have their breakfast in bed, the aircraft lounge is decorated with flowers, and women get a free beauty kit.

Drinks before, during and after meals are free and include champagne, wines, cocktails and liquers.

Airline officials say the cost of these extras is small compared with the main operating costs. But it whittles down the slender margin of profit.

Fares on trans-Atlantic routes are strictly governed by international agreement and cannot be undercut. The agreed basic London-New York return fare is about $375.

But the rules do not cover free gifts or luxuries.

U.N. Troops Smash Ahead In Advance

Sudden Offensive Surprises Reds, One of Biggest Drives

TOKYO, March 8. (CP)—Allied troops stabbed ahead one to two miles today against spotty resistance in the second day of their 70-mile-wide drive in Korea.

Field dispatches said the Red resistance was "more of a rear-guard nature, indicating the Communists were withdrawing their main body of troops in front of the advancing Allies."

A US Eighth Army briefing officer said 11,039 Chinese and North Korean Reds were killed or wounded Wednesday on the opening day of the assault — one of the biggest Allied attacks of the war.

Advance Mile

The US 25th Division fanned out another mile Thursday from the three-mile-deep bridgehead it carved Wednesday on the north bank of the Han River east of Seoul.

On the right of the 25th, the US 24th Division drove ahead almost two miles against scattered resistance.

And farther along the battleline, from west to east:

US 1s Cavalry Division troops advanced almost two miles unopposed northeast of Chipyong toward Hongchon.

British forces east of Yongdu reported seeing 200 Reds moving north.

No action was reported in sketchy information from the British sector.

Losses Low

Field dispatches said Allied losses were amazingly low.

Front-line officers said the surprise attack caught the Reds flat-footed as they were preparing an attack of their own.

Allied warplanes bombed, strafed and rocketed Communist forces ahead of the advancing UN ground troops. By noon Thursday, the U.S. Fifth Air Force had hurled more than 300 sorties against the Reds in clear weather.

The stiffest ground fighting was reported near Hoengsong, in the middle of the central front. Canadian, Australian and British troops of the 27th Commonwealth Brigade ran into stubborn Chinese resistance in assaults on two hills.

GOING FORWARD—Equipped and ready for action, a section of the Patricia's leaves a regrouping point on the Korean front, bound for an enemy position. In bloody bayonet fighting, Wednesday, these men captured the spurs of Hill 532 from strongly entrenched Chinese troops. When repeated assaults during the day failed to carry the hill, the Canadians turned to cold steel.

Truman Attacker Receives Death Verdict

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) —The death verdict was returned Wednesday against Oscar Collazo, 37, survivor of the two Puerto Ricans who tried to shoot their way through President Truman's guards last November.

A federal court jury convicted him of first-degree murder, which carries a mandatory sentence of execution in the electric chair.

Collazo and a companion Puerto Rican Nationalist, Griselio Torresola, were charged with attempting to break into President Truman's residence, Blair House, with intent to kill the President or any one who might be guarding him.

Guard Murdered

They also were charged with the murder of Leslie Coffelt, a guard who was slain in a furious gun battle betwen the Puerto Ricans and secret service men. Officers Joseph Downs and Birdzell of the White House police were wounded.

The jury of nine women and three men took only an hour and 42 minutes to reach its verdict. Collazo was smiling, as if confident, when he was brought into the courtroom to hear the verdict.

There was evidence during the 10-day trial that Torresola, who died in the gun battle, actually shot Coffelt. But under District of Columbia law one conspirator in a felony is held equally guilty with another.

In the final arguments, Leo A. Rover, head of Collazo's court-appointed defence lawyers, argued that there was "an absolute lack of murderous intent" on Collazo's part. He said Torresola went beserk.

Deputies Hit Austrian Snag

PARIS, March 8 (AP)—Deputies of the Big-Four foreign ministers today faced still another discussion and how to negotiate an independence treaty for Austria as a step toward easing East-West tension.

The deputies meet for the fourth time in their current series of talks, designed to draw up a list of points for their ministers to discuss at the proposed Big-Four meeting. Unless they agree on a list and how to phrase it, the ministers won't get together at all.

Britain, France and the United States are eager to get the Austrian treaty over and done with. So is Austrian Foreign Minister Karl Gruber, who is here to watch from the sidelines.

The Russians did bring it up Wednesday, but they recalled an old stalemate: Russia's insistence that they also would have to talk about the little territory of Trieste, on the Adriatic Sea.

The Russians say the Western powers have violated their treaty with Italy by turning Trieste into a military base. How could the Russians know, demanded Russia's deputy Andrei Gromyko, that Austria wouldn't turn into a second Trieste?

Britain's Budget To Show Large, Unexpected Surplus

LONDON, March 8. (Reuters)—Despite extra spending on defence Britain's budget for the year ending March 31 is heading for a large and unexpected surplus. With four weeks to go, Treasury returns for the period up to March 2 showed a current revenue surplus of nearly £770,000,000 ($2,310,000,000). In his budget last April the former Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, estimated a surplus of less than £390,000,000.

After allowing for the deficit on capital expenditure there was an over-all surplus of £158,000,000 March 3. Sir Stafford had budgetted for approximately an overall balance. The surplus is likely to be reduced in the next four weeks but it is clear that the financial year will close in far better shape than expected.

This correspondingly relieves the problem of the present chancellor, Hugh Gaitskell, in his budget for the coming year. Other reliefs are the gratifying response of small savings to the higher interest rates which were recently conceded, and the huge swing since November from an export surplus to an import surplus.

Changed In January

Until November Britain was running an export surplus at the rate of £400,000,000 a year. In January this was transformed into a big import surplus.

All these reliefs will be needed because defence spending is due to rise sharply and progressively in the next three years.

If feasible, it would be more popular for the government to mop up inflationary money by getting more meat and similar goods and selling them at higher prices, rather than by higher taxes. So Britain's income tax rate after April 10 — the date Gaitskell's budget is expected—may be partly decided by the results of the present food negotiations with Argentina and Denmark.

Say Reds Execute 210,000 In China

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 8 — (AP).—Nationalist China's defence ministry said today the Chinese Communists had executed 210,000 persons in three provinces up to the end of January.

A statement issued by the ministry's military information service said the Reds' own official figures indicated execution of 90,000 persons in Kwangsi province; 70,000 in Kwanktung, and 50,000 in Fukien.

(The Nationalists' official Central News Agency said Wednesday the Reds had executed more than 20,000 this year in Fukien province.)

The defence ministry contends that the Reds' goal is execution of 25,000,000 persons to crush all internal resistance before a Third World War. It said previously that executions throughout China already totalled 1,000,000.

10 Bail Out

WOODLAND, Calif., March 8 (AP).—Ten crew members bailed out of a flaming B-29 today shortly before the big plane crashed and burned on a ranch about eight miles north of here. Eyewitnesses said the left outside engine was on fire before the crew took to parachutes.

Murder Charge Against Pair

TORONTO, March 8 (CP). — A murder charge was laid today against Elmer Jordan, 28, and Fred Pentland, 22, both of Toronto, following the death in hospital of John R. Smith, found unconscious and bleeding in an east-central Toronto house three months ago.

Jordan and Pentland originally were charged with assault and robbery.

Police said Smith, father of four children, was invited to a rooming house by two men. There he was set upon and beaten about the head and face and robbed of $30, they said.

A detective called by the landlord arrested Jordan and Pentland after questioning them.

Smith was taken to hospital with a brain injury and a fractured skull. Four brain operations were performed in an effort to save his life. He died Wednesday.

Rescue Oil Crew Marooned By Blizzard

CORONATION, Alta., March 8 (CP)—A chartered aircraft from Calgary yesterday rescued members of an oil-drilling crew from a lonely well site 20 miles from here where they had been marooned by snowdrifts and blizzard conditions since Sunday.

Names of the men were not available but a winter drilling shift normally consists of six men.

The crew left Coronation, 90 miles southwest of Edmonton, on Sunday carrying lunch pails for a regular eight-hour stint at the well. Roads were blocked by drifts when the shift ended. The cook at the well had a case of soup on hand and they lived on that for more than two days until rescued.

Canada's Lawyers Propose Federal Tax Law Reform

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP) — Widespread reform of federal tax laws is urged in a brief to the federal government of Canada's lawyers and chartered accountants made public today.

A joint committee of the Canadian Bar Association and Dominion Association of Chartered Accountants, analysing the tax structure, virtually tore it apart.

Among the recommendations for the government's consideration before it brings down its 1851-52 budget in the next few weeks are:

1. Revision of taxation principles in husband-and-wife cases involving transfer of property and partnership.

2. Strengthening of the income tax appeal board and shifting its jurisdiction from the revenue department to the justice department.

3. Elimination of tax evasion sections in the tax law, which penalize taxpayers for conduct not forbidden by the Criminal Code and by the "exercise of arbitrary power by the Crown."

4. Allowance for contributions to pensions plans by persons other than employees; for example, professional men and women who contribute to a retirement fund.

5. Allowance for expenses incurred in normal employment, which in most cases now are not deductible.

Under current government tax practice, a husband is charged with the income of property transferred by him to his wife, or vice versa. The brief recommends that if a husband got fair market value for his property in the transfer deal, the income of the property should be charged against his wife. That would lift some of the tax burden from the husband's shoulders, or the wife's if the transfer was the other way.

Canadians Rip Enemy Line Under Heavy Fire Make Three-Mile Advance

Attacks Fail All Day Till Cold Steel Used Platoons Knife Ahead To Foxholes Wounded Taken Out By Helicopter

By BILL BOSS

WEST CENTRAL SECTOR, Korea, March 8. (CP)—Cold steel, used in heavy close-quarters fighting with the Chinese, carried the Patricias late Wednesday on to spurs of Hill 532. The hill is a dominating position 2½ miles southeast of Yongdu, a junction on the road leading southwest from Hangchow. Exasperated after a bitterly contested seven-hour advance against the Chinese — as well dug in as usual in positions commanding every approach up the 1,600-foot feature — a Patricia company under Capt. Gordon Turnbull of Toronto threw finesse to the winds late in the afternoon and went in with the bayonet.

Turnbull's day-long attack up the massive, ridgy formation, headed by a platoon led by Lieut. Rod Middleton of Calgary and Sgt. Vern Holigan of St. Catharines, had carried the front forward 3,000 yards from the starting line. While Turnbull's company was working up the easterly ridge, a company under Maj. George Flint, Montreal, assaulted the somewhat easier western ridge. Both project like lion's paws from the hill's south face.

Torrents of Grenades

Grim fighting against interlaced enemy automatic fire and literally torrents of grenades—"his favorite weapon, he must have millions of them," said CSM H. O. Larson of Calgary — put Turnbull's men 400 yards up towards the top.

Their attacks, first by Holigan's platoon and then by one commanded by Cpl. Roy Rushton of West River, N. S., failed to break into the Chinese lines — even though the attacks were supported by beautifully sighted machine gun fire directed by Capt. Andy Foulds, Vancouver, and Middleton's platoon.

Larson, who left the battlefield just before dusk, said:

"The company decided to try it again. We were determined to reach the objective—that spur one-third the way up—by nightfall.

"So the platoons went in with the bayonet. There were 40 yards between our positions and his (the enemy's). As the attack was launched I heard someone shout, 'let's all go in.'"

Sea Nightmare

HOBART, Tasmania, Australia, March 8. (Reuters)—Skipper M. A. McKay Wednesday night reported he had sighted a 16-foot sea monster — "a horrible thing just like a nightmare." The master of the trawler Buda said he spotted the creature 20 miles off the Tasmanian coast. It had "a great large parchment - like mouth, broad flappers like a shark." It was light yellow, and had "two arm-like projections on the back of its head."

Hamilton Youth Shot Fleeing From Stolen Car

BRACEBRIDGE, March 8 (CP) —Said to have been hit in the chest by a police bullet while running from an automobile reported stolen, Frank Brewer, 22, of Hamilton, today was in serious condition in hospital.

The shooting occurred Wednesday night after Constable H. A. Olimer saw Brewer entering the car, listed as stolen earlier in the day in Toronto, and tried to speak to him. Brewer is said to have started to drive off with a companion, Morris Goddard, 24, of Toronto.

At the time of the shooting, 6 p.m., main street was practically deserted.

Mrs. Barbara Johnston and her brother-in-law, James Stevenson, said later they heard a shot just after turning off main street in their car.

See Man Fall

"I saw a man running like mad across the street," Mrs. Johnston said. "And then I heard the shot and the man stumbled and fell. The policeman was standing on the sidewalk."

Goddard was taken into custody.

Police said the automobile in which Brewer and Goddard were riding was identified as belonging to Albert Mintz of Toronto. Officers said it was taken from a downtown Toronto parking lot Wednesday.

Alberta Shivers 40 Below Zero

EDMONTON, March 8 (CP)—Weather records were shattered at Edmonton, Calgary and Medicine Hat early today as temperatures in all parts of the province skidded to 30 and 40 below zero.

At 7:30 a.m., Edmonton's temperature stood at 30.3 below, coldest this winter, and the lowest March 8 reading on record.

Calgary's low of 35 below was the coldest March reading in the 55 years that records have been kept there. Medicine Hat's low of minus 35 was the coldest in 35 years.

From Winnipeg west, Canada's weather was clear and cold. The coldest centre was Red Deer, Alta., where records date back only five years to offer little comparison of the bitter 45-below temperature recorded overnight.

Opposition Growing To British Oil Company

TEHRAN, Iran, March 8. (AP) —The assassination of Premier Gen. Ali Razmara spurred new Nationalist demands today that Iran drive the giant British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company out of the country.

Moderate deputies in the Majlis (parliament) predicted that oil-nationalization had a much-greater chance for parliamentary approval under the threat of further terrorist acts.

Meanwhile, the body of Razmara, slain Wednesday by a member of a fanatic Moslem sect, lay in state in Sepah Salar Mosque. Funeral services were to be held later today.

The slaying was the climax of weeks of political agitation in which Iranian Nationalists showed growing resentment against the premier because of his opposition to taking over of the oil company.

Left Accident Omemee Driver Fined $25

Found guilty of leaving the scene of an accident in which his car struck Miss Josephine Badcock, 521 Aylmer St., Murray Fee, Omemee, was fined $25 and $12.75 costs in police court today.

Miss Badcock told the court that Feb. 23 about 1.30 p.m. she was crossing from the southwest corner of George and Charlotte Sts. to the northwest corner with the green light.

Nearing the north curb she suddenly saw a car coming at her making a right turn to go west on Charlotte St. She was confused about the exact events from there on, but she believed the car hit her and she hung on to the hood until the car stopped. She slid off the car onto her feet.

She was shaken up, frightened and had a bruise on her leg. The driver of the car looked over his shoulder at her and then drove on. She remembered the figures but not the letter of the licence plate.

Taken To Clinic

She walked to the sidewlak and then became dizzy and leaned against the wall of the building. Two women then helped her into a drug store and she was then taken to the clinic.

Mrs. Joan Pope, 135 Lansdowne St, said she and Mrs Gladys Cassan of the same address, were walking two or three feet behind Miss Badcock

When the car hit the woman, she hung on between the hood and right fender while the car went about seven feet and then stopped, Mrs. Pope said.

When Miss Badcock slid off the car, she stood beside it dazed looking into the car. The car then drove away.

Noted Licence

Mrs. Cassan said she noted the licence number of the car. She said as soon as Miss Badcock got off the car, the driver went on.

Traffic Officer Gordon Trennum said he drove with Traffic Officer Harold Mesley to the home of the accused later that afternoon and waited until he arrived home between 4:15 and 4:30 p.m. Thy arrested him and brought him to Peterborough.

The constable said he told the accused what the charge was against him and the reason for the charge. As they were returning to the city, Fee volunteered, "I guess I made one mistake. I should have stopped."

Fee said in his own defence that as he started to turn at the corner, he stopped at the cross walk and let one woman go by south. He then started to edge forward. He saw Miss Badcock walk in front of his car and he thought she was past it when he went forward.

Walked Away

"As far as I know, I didn't touch her," Fee said. A short distance farther on, he stopped and then he saw Miss Badcock beside his car. His wife, sitting in the car with him, rolled down the window. Miss Badcock looked in and then walked away just as he was reaching to open his door.

Mrs. Fee said she saw Miss Badcock put out her hand and touch the fender as she walked past. But there was no bump, said Mrs. Fee.

"Did you see the woman clinging to the hood as the car went some 10 feet? Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, asked.

Mrs. Fee said she hadn't.

"You would have seen her if it had happened," the crown suggested.

"Certainly because I was looking straight at her," Mrs. Fee said.

Legislature May Have Special Session–Frost

TORONTO, March 8—(CP) — Prospect of a special session of the Ontario Legislature this year to put the planned Federal-Provincial old-age pensions plan into effect was raised Wednesday by Premier Frost.

Mr. Frost told reporters that he would rather call a special session to implement any pension legislation passed by the Federal government than ask for a blanket legislation giving his government power to carry through Ontario's side of the proposed agreement.

Gives 50-Cent Bonus Improve Hog Quality

TORONTO, March 8.—(CP). — Lawrence Kerr, young Chatham district hog producer, Wednesday told the Ontario Hog Producers' Association's annual meeting that he uses an incentive plan in which he gives the man in charge of his pigs a 50-cent bonus on each grade A pig above 50 per cent. of the total shipped during each three-month period.

In other words, if 10 pigs were shipped during one period and included six grade A, the 50-cent bonus would be paid on one pig.

"I have offered him $3 for each one he can produce that will grade as A over 75 per cent., and $10 for any over 90 per cent.," said Mr. Kerr. "This system arouses interest and I have been wondering if some similar system could be adopted by the association."

Trading Remains At Slow Pace

TORONTO, March 8 (CP). — Trading continued at its extremely slow pace and price changes were narrow and irregular on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Industrials moved fractionally. Losses held the upper hand by a small margin and steels, agricultures, textiles, banks, retail stores, manufacturing companies and refining oils showed a majority of declines. Foods were ahead and utilities and constructions were mixed.

Western oils were the only group to post a majority of gains, ranging to 25 cents.

Base metals were mostly mixed. Waite Amulet, Golden Manitou, Mindamar and Consolidated Smelters added fractions while Quemont, Sherritt Gordon, International Nickel and Falconbridge declined. Ascot Metals was again active as it advanced three cents.

Golds drifted downward with little trading. Siscoe was an exception as it traded activity for a 10-cent gain.

Through the dense half-inch snowflakes and up the slippery, treacherous bluff the assault went —right into the enemy foxholes.

It was impossible to get an estimate of enemy wounded and killed—"you don't stop to talk or look," said Larson who briefed stretcher-bearers headed by Sgt. George Pay, Toronto, on the best route into the area to evacuate the casualties and the dead.

Just at dusk, remnants of the company headed by Turnbull, Holigan and Middleton seized the objective, reported it secure and a company under Maj. Vince Lilley of Hamilton, consolidated it.

Hill 532 was far from Canadian hands tonight. The Chinese hold the heights and it was estimated that at least two battalions were dug into well-constructed positions down the remaining two-thirds of the hill.

The Chinese will keep those positions until "spiked out."

Larson's final comment on the Canadians' charge was: "There are bloody bayonets in Dog Company tonight."

Planes Take Wounded

United States Helicopters ferried serious casualties right from the front to hospitals in the rear while jeep ambulances maintained a constant service for patients able to withstand the rigors of evacuation over Gumbo washboard roads.

The battle represents the Patricia's first real fighting in the last four days during which they have been holding tight on the 27th British commonwealth brigade front.

The battalion was visited two days ago by Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the United States Eighth Army, with which the brigade is fighting.

(Reuters correspondent John Colless, reporting from Commonwealth Brigade Headquarters, said the Canadians and Australians clawed their way yard by yard up a rocky ridge through a hail of machine-gun, mortar and rifle fire. As darkness fell, Colless said the commonwealth troops dug themselves in on the ridge, while the Reds continued to pour down a stream of fire from commanding positions.

(In a later dispatch, Reuters said the Australians and Canadians advanced three miles, cutting the Reds' supply route between Yongdu and Hoengsong in the process).

Bad Burns To Hands

OSHAWA, March 8 (CP). — Joseph Zebukovec of Toronto suffered severe burns about the hands today in an explosion and fire in a construction job shack in southwest Oshawa. Another man, Maxine Fougere, with him at the time, escaped injury.

The men had been working for the Port Hope Construction Company on a sewer construction project.

The cause of the fire, that destroyed the small shack used to store oil drums and acetylene Welding equipment, was not determined. One report was that an oil stove became overheated and blew up.

Water Shortage Not Fatal To Garden Plants

REGINA (CP)—A. R. Brown, CBC's "Prairie Gardener," told Regina's water-starved gardeners that "the hoe is more important than the hose."

He said they should not view the shortage of water as fatal to their hopes of growing prize-winning flowers and vegetables. The important thing was to conserve what moisture they had by means of weeding and mulching.

He said prairie gardeners in many ways are far ahead of those in what he referred to as the "soft" growing areas of British Columbia and Ontario.

"In Ontario," he said, "the majority of trees and shrubs that are planted now are the same as those used 40 and 50 years ago while on the prairies growers are using more and more new varieties."

Western Canada was developing hardier strains that would stand up to the rigorous climate.

"Twenty-five years ago there were few satisfactory plums or crab-apples grown in the province," he said. "Now there are good varieties of these and other fruits."

visiting around

We like to go visiting to see how other people produce textiles. A good many come to visit us, and we like this too. All main countries have textile industries, and people come from other countries in the western group to study our methods. The textile industry here in Canada is among the leaders in technical skill and effectiveness. And along with the U.S. it pays the highest wages for textile employment anywhere. In Canada the industry is the largest employer of manufacturing labor. Textiles also pay the largest manufacturing wage bill in this country. In these times, the size and technical ability of the industry are important features of Canada's strength.

Salary Increase Proposed For Teachers

CAMPBELLFORD, March 8 — (ENS).—The March meeting of the East Northumberland District High School Board was held in Brighton High School.

Four principals of area schools reported on their respective schools.

Accounts totalling $824.04 were passed for payment. Work on rebuilding the chimney at the Brighton High School will be delayed until the matter is investigated further.

G. G. Stephens and Mrs. W. F. Scott, representing the Campbellford Agricultural Society, attended the meeting and requested the continuance of the payment of 5 per cent of prize money won by High School students in the classes of art, shop work, and home economics. It was decided that this would be continued up to a maximum payment for each society within this high school district, of $45, provided that the Agricultural societies so concerned made the request. Immediate applications were then made and granted to Seymour, Warkworth and Wooler. Further correspondence was read and ordered filed.

The management committee recommended certain adjustments in salaries which would include: minimum salary of $2,500, $400 increase to present principals, $300 increase to present assistants, plus an increment of either $200 or $100 according to the salary schedule proposed. All increases and adjustments would become effective in September, 1951.

Maximum salaries were set at $4,300 to $4,900 for principals, and $3,700 to $4,000 for assistants. A committee was named to meet with the teachers to discuss and clarify these proposals.

A recommendation that a commercial course be established in Campbellford High School was also made by the management committee. The recommendation was accepted at once, and the secretary was instructed to advertise for a suitable teacher. The course will be installed for the coming term beginning in September.

The board decided to become a member of the Associated High School Boards of Ontario, and that the chairman and secretary be allowed expenses to attend a convention to be held soon. The vice-chairman was named as an alternative delegate.

Egypt Will Relax Suez Formalities

CAIRO, Egypt, March 8. — (Reuters).—Egypt anpounced today she will relax "unnecessary formalities" in the Suez Canal while maintaining the right to search ships to bar contraband from reaching Israel.

The Government statement did not explain which "formalities" will be lifted.

Many shipping nations, including the U.S. and Britain, have protested against Egyptian search regulations affecting their ships passing through the canal.

District WA President At Bethany

BETHANY, March 8.—(ENS).—Mrs J. Bell of Bridgenorth, acting president of the Peterborough Presbytery Women's Associations, was guest speaker at the regular WA meeting of the United Church held at the home of Mrs. Vincent Jackson on Tuesday.

Mrs. Bell spoke on the meaning of Easter and the part the women of today must play in still delivering the Easter message of hope, of life after death, and the Christian way of living; also giving some interesting facts regarding WA work in general. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. T. Jackson and thanked by Mrs. A. H. Monk.

Other items on the program were a solo by John Jackson, "Holy Easter Day"; a duet by Miss Elsie Richardson and Mrs. R. Carr, "The Ninety and Nine," and a talk by Mrs. T. J. Jackson on the parable of the Lost Sheep as it applies to every-day living.

The president, Mrs. A. H. Monk, had charge of the worship service with Mrs. J. J. Clarke reading the scripture lesson and Mrs. Henry Jakeman giving the explanation of the lesson and leading in prayer. The treasurer, Mrs. Wellington Fallis, reported a balance of $234.87 on hand. Mrs. Harold Sanderson reported a large number on the sick list to which cards and fruit had been sent; also floral tributes to two members, Miss Ellen Stark and Mrs. Harriet Rowan, who died during the past month.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. McKinnon, Mrs. H. Sanderson and Mrs. H. Coppins, served refreshments. Mrs. H. L. Challice thanked Mrs. V. Jackson for the use of her home and to all those who assisted in the program.

Hotelmen Plan New Campaign

TORONTO, March 8 (CP) — The Ontario Hotel Association Wednesday announced a two-month membership campaign as the first step in a drive to improve hotel services.

George A. Wilson, association president, said his organization hopes to sign up 95 per cent of the licenced hotel operators in the province by May 15. If successful, the group will ask the Ontario government to make membership in the association a condition for granting a licence.

Mr. Wilson said the campaign for members will precede steps to be taken to eliminate poor operators.

"We keenly resent the fact that a few bad operators are giving hotelmen generally a bad name," he said. "At the same time, we should like to see further improvement in all beverage room operations."

He recalled that Premier Frost, at the association's annual convention last January, called for hotelmen to discipline themselves and at the same time urged all hotelmen to join and support the association.

Cloth Workers GetNew Contract

CAMPBELLFORD, March 8. — (ENS). — Agreement on a new contract has been reached between the Campbellford Cloth Company and local 743, TWUA, after lengthy negotiations between company and union officials.

Under the new contract, all employees will receive an hourly wage increase of six cents; one cent per hour for every two points raise in the cost of living index; two weeks' vacation a year at four per cent. of total earnings after four years' service; eight statutory holidays after three years' service; a cheaper group insurance plan; all the cost of living bonus incorporated into hourly wage rate with the exception of five cents; all items retroactive to January 7, 1951. The hourly rate for male help is now 82½ cents.

The negotiating committee was headed by Lionel Jones, assisted by Albert Johnston, Peterborough director of the union.

Rita Hayworth Denies She Plans Divorce

ROME, March 8.—(AP).—Former movie star Rita Hayworth arrived here today and denied a welter of rumors which preceded her, including one that she was planning a divorce from her husband, Prince Aly Khan.

Not only was there nothing to that one, she said, but likewise there wasn't anything to a report that she was expecting another baby.

Prince Aly still is in Africa, where he and his wife recently made a tour.

Plant Asks $750,000 Against UAW Union

DETROIT, March 8 (CP) — Midland Steel Products Company is seeking $750,000 damages from Local 410, United Automobile Workers (CIO) in a suit filed in Federal court.

The company accused the Union of violating its contract by "deliberately authorizing a slowdown" since Feb. 7.

There have been numerous walkouts in the plant since that date.

The company claimed it has lost $450,000 in profits and $100,000 in maintenance costs and good will.

Let The Normal Schools Stand

Miss Agnes McPhail, C.C.F. member of the Ontario Legislature and a veteran parliamentarian, has lately given the Toronto Normal School building the lash of her tongue and taken a lick at other Normal Schools too. Her cry has been taken up by others. The Hope Royal Commission on Education surveyed the condition of all normal school buildings, found the Toronto one overcrowded and lacking in facilities (Miss McPhail remarked on the small toilets), and had this to say about the Hamilton, Peterborough, North Bay and Stratford Normal Schools, which are all alike:

> Hamilton, Peterborough, North Bay and Stratford were built from the same blueprint early in the century. Their size and location are satisfactory, but the interior design is faulty—for example, the auditorium in each school is located on the third floor. All the normal school buildings lack gymnasia. With the possible exception of the North Bay Normal School, the lighting in all these institutions is quite inadequate. Furnishings are antiquated and worn to the point of shabbiness, while the repair and maintenance of the buildings is becoming an increasing burden owing to the age of the structures.

We shall not take issue with Miss McPhail in her remarks about the Toronto school — it is a makeshift building — and we know that the London Normal is old, dismal and fusty. But we respectfully disagree with criticisms about the four normal schools built on the Peterborough pattern.

The Peterborough Normal, as the Royal Commissioners imply, is big enough for the work it has to do and is well-sited on spacious grounds. The brick work is excellent, the exterior design with its front portico, pillars, and its dome, is quite pleasing, and set in its pleasant grounds on an eminence in the northern residential part of the town, is an institutional building to be proud of.

* * *

What is faulty about the interior design? Are the halls too wide and spacious, the good hardwood floors a bit creaky, the stairways reasonably handsome in wood rather than coldly antiseptic in concrete? Are the lecture rooms too big, the ceilings too airily high? True, the auditorium is on the third floor. Present policy favours ground-floor school auditoriums, but fifty years hence the most advanced designers may be putting them back to the upper floor again. Anyway, it is a very nice, decent, if old-fashioned hall and serves its assembly and lecture purposes quite well. The lighting in the school is poor, but that is being replaced. There is no gymnasium. We fail to see that a gymnasium is absolutely essential as normal schools are now constituted. The Peterborough school used to have a small one in which instruction in physical training methods was handily given. Students' residential quarters on the grounds are far more necessary than a gymnasium.

The Royal Commissioners found the Peterborough school furnishings "antiquated and worn to the point of shabbiness." Equipment such as desks can be replaced, but we are not convinced of the necessity even of this change. We suspect that what is worrying some planners and school-building experts is that the Normal Schools are old, and therefore bad. If buildings are to be abandoned, torn down or gutted because they are fifty years old, what hope have we that educational institutions will ever acquire the stability and character which ennoble so many schools and universities in Britain and Europe? Oxford's lecture-rooms are old, dank and shabby. The desks (if there are desks and not mere kitchen chairs) are worn, hacked and uncomfortable. There is not one of the Oxford colleges which has a gymnasium. Yet learning flourishes there and the undergraduates are, on the whole, healthy, lively and happy.

The Peterborough Normal School has dignity, space (its wash-rooms are opulent in an Edwardian style), and a distinctive character. Even if its design does not conform with the newest practices and its windows, stairs and rooms are not efficiently placed, it is a building worthy of surviving the demolitions of the modernists. And when all is said and done, it is the people within the school, not the walls and halls which contain them, which make it a good or bad school.

A newly built English factory gets all its light from the roof, in order that workers may not be distracted by pretty girls walking past the windows. This disregards the complete work stoppage which would occur if a pretty girl were to walk across the new roof.

Alcohol And Education

Recently we had an opportunity to look at some posters which had been made by schoolchildren, the purpose of which was to warn against the use of alcohol and tobacco. Both indulgences were warned against with the wholehearted fervour of children who neither smoked nor drank, seeking to win the approval of teachers who, presumably, neither smoked nor drank. The longer we looked at the posters, the more doubtful we became of their efficacy.

To warn children of public school age against the use of alcohol is an extremely difficult, and perhaps even an impossible task. Presumably it would be unsuitable to tell children that if they drank at all, when they grow up, they should drink moderately; too many people would object to the suggestion that the use of alcohol was permissible under any circumstances. But is it effective to tell children that they should not drink at all? Children are not fools; they know that many people drink and do not come to harm; many of them see their parents drinking, and know that their parents never become drunk, or cruel, as a result. The effect of such out-and-out anti-liquor teaching is merely to discredit the teaching itself, and to cast doubt on much other teaching from the same source. The most powerful influence upon children is their home; if school teaching is contradicted, and successfully contradicted, in the home, it is the school which suffers.

Do not mistake our point of view. We are strongly in favour of anything which impresses children with the wisdom of moderation in all forms of indulgence. They should know that alcohol may make them drunk, and that drunken people often get into serious trouble; but surely they should also know that alcohol, used in moderation, will not necessarily have undesirable results. If there is thought to be some moral harm in such teaching, let us stop telling half-truths which make children cynical about their teachers and concentrate on teaching lessons of moderation in all things.

In much anti-alcohol teaching there lurks the lesson that all people are moral weaklings, incapable of moderation, self-control and good sense. A member of the Provincial Legislature recently suggested that many evils, including an increased rate of illegitimacy, were to be traced to drink. That weak people often drink is quite true: it is not true to argue that all people who drink are weak, and that a man of good sense who takes a drink from time to time will thereby turn himself into a weakling.

The only education about alcohol which is of any value is education for its moderate use, if it is to be used at all. And if such education is unfit for school children, why give them something which defeats its own purpose?

A Curfew Is Not The Answer

We read with interest that the city of St. Thomas is considering the abandonment of the curfew which it has maintained for several years; at nine o'clock each night a siren is sounded, and children under sixteen are thereby warned that they should be at home. Apparently the warning is not heeded, and people who live near the siren find it a nuisance.

Curfews do not work. The police cannot do very much with children who disregard it, and it is not hard for children to go into hiding when a policeman appears. Blowing a siren is no substitute for parental authority.

In childhood we lived in a town which had a curfew. The town bell—it was a small enough place to possess such a thing—rang for two or three minutes at nine o'clock each night to warn children off the streets. Sometimes we heard it as we lay in bed; sometimes we were already asleep. Most of our friends heard the curfew under similar circumstances. And the few incorrigibles and "bad boys" found that the curfew added spice to their lives, for after it had rung they were filled with a sense of sin which they found enjoyable.

The only curfew which is of any use is the one which exists in the home. The parental voice declaring that it is bedtime can be more effective than all the whistles and bells in Christendom. It may be argued that boys and girls who are more than twelve years old cannot be sent to bed, or ordered off the streets by their parents, but we wonder if this is true. Indeed, we know of many families in which such discipline exists, and is regarded by boys and girls of sixteen or so as an ordinary and unobjectionable part of life.

Of one thing we are sure: a public racket at nine o'clock never helped in the proper bringing up of a child. The curfews which work are private affairs.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The St. Catharine's Standard wants to know why Peterborough should have a new Post Office, when St. Catharine's, Oshawa and St. Thomas also want one. The answer dear friends, is that we have been waiting almost fifty years for ours, and are now at the head of the queue.

A man recently cancelled his reservation at the Taft Hotel in New York because of what he called "an untimely murder in our family." The Kingston Whig-Standard wants to know what a "timely murder" might be. Well, we could specify several, and a great many more which are long overdue.

Meat In Our Time

by IVOR BROWN

SHAKESPEARE received one of the loudest laughs recently during the "Old Vic's" production of "Henry V". It was in the scene where the French Duke of Orleans remarks, "Ay, but these English are shrewdly out of beef". He could have added mutton, veal and pork, too. John Bull has become a nickname sadly unsuitable. He ought to be Johnnie Bread-Crumbs now.

AS to the political and economic causes of all this, let others dispute. The fact remains that the people so long famous for their "Rosbif" have rarely seen the noble sirloin on the family table for more than a decade. The huge baron of beef has utterly vanished and as for that Yorkshire mammoth of meaty succulence, a Barnsley Chop, shall we ever look upon or taste the like of it again? I understand that a Barnsley Chop, for which pilgrimages were made by the covetous carnivores of the North, was about a quarter of a saddle of specially-fed mutton (per person) specially prepared.

I WOULD like to have seen revived the simple, native, and satisfactory title of Chop-House. But is there any sense in doing that now? The British have been accused of displaying a foolish sense of inferiority in naming their feeding places. Why should John Bull dine in a Restaurant, while Mary Bull takes her tea in a Cafe? The Chop House was native and simple. It seated its patrons in partitioned pews and fed them on steaks and chops which, in some cases, customers could select in the raw. They were attended by waiters of aboriginal stock, mature men of character, if not of "chic", grave counsellors about the best choice of the day.

THEY were obstinate, inflexible places, these Chop Houses. They took no notice of the weather. I remember, in a scorching July, that one of these haunts, which proclaimed its tit-bits to the passers-by, announced "Special Today. Steak and Kidney Pudding and Baked Albert Roll". (Baked Albert was a hot monster of suety sweetness.) No truckling to the thermometer then. No nonsense about salads and ice creams.

WOMEN were not much welcomed in Chop Houses and did not much care about them. They were not smart, possibly not scrupulously clean. I would not have chosen to investigate the kitchen. The emergence of women as town-workers wanting meals out was all in favour of the snack-bar and all against the Chop House.

IF the chops themselves had not vanished, the houses probably would have gone. And the great days of the Grill Room have gone, too, the Grill Room with its huge bank of red-hot coal on which your meat was speedily grilled according to the degree of "done-ness" that you specified. John Bull now applies himself, perforce, to meat substitutes, Meat Loaf and the like in which the baker's part has been so much greater than the butcher's.

WE have become a nation of compulsory vegetarians. Let us admit that meat-eaters, or most of them, have been blind-eye men. We preferred not to think about the slaughter-house. Lamb in the fields looked so charming, lamb on the plate so satisfying and alluring. But the intermediate stage was, happily and easily, forgotten. The humane carnivore can be accused of being a humbug.

BUT suppose we did all resolve to forswear forever the meats of the field and concentrate on its milk and vegetable matter. The economic results would have to be faced. The male calves, apart from a few breeding bulls, would either be killed at birth or fed and reared solely for leather, which would make leather impossibly expensive. It is dear enough as it is.

AND the same with sheep. If they were only pastured to give wool, the price of wool, already tremendously high, would soar still further when all the sales to butchers were cut out. A totally vegetarian world would have to warm itself with cotton, even in the cold climates, and walk on what leather-substitutes it could find. That might be possible, but it would strangely upset the economy of all hill-farmers, and many nations, and of our Dominions not least.

CARNIVORES have been regarded as stupid; beef-witted obtuseness has been linked with beef-eating. Falstaff took the opposite view and regarded fish as the enemy.

"There's never none of these demure boys come to any proof; for thin drink doth so over-cool their blood and the making many fish-meals that they fall into a kind of male green-sickness; then, when they marry, they get wenches; they are generally fools and cowards".

I do not suppose there is much medical support for that opinion. And it has to be remembered that English inns were forbidden to serve meat at all during Lent. The roaring boys of Tudor times had, even as we do, their times of meat-starvation.

I REFUSE to believe the contrary view that authors and artists always work best on cabbages and kickshaws. Tennyson liked his chop and his pint of port served by the plump head-waiter at the Cock, and Thackeray said Ruskin, "settled like a meat-fly on whatever we had got for dinner". But nowadays the British writer must build his masterpiece on starch and fish and some of them "still come to proof". One cannot lay down certain laws on the way of all flesh and its creative effects upon the brain and the imagination.

Omar was paradisically comforted by:—

"A book of verses underneath the bough
A jug of wine, a loaf of bread and thou
Beside me singing and the wilderness", and perhaps, after all, the poet of today can somehow manage with modern beer and a slice of Veal Loaf. "Thou" no doubt, can still be helpful, provided She does not irritate us by chanting the familiar lines, which, though few know it, first occur in Henry Fielding's "Grub Street Opera", hymning the "Roast Beef of Old England".

THAT famous Pierrot party, the Co-optimists of 25 years ago, had a great Roast Beef of England song, too, and people then made quips about the Roast Beef of Old Argentine. But that is not a joking subject now. When the Gilbert and Sullivan revivals for the Festival of Britain begin at the Savoy, we shall hear in "Patience" of the fellow who "dines off chops and roly-poly pudding with avidity". Chops in the plural, not cutlet in the lean and scraggy singular. Far away and long ago.

Letters To The Editor

THE BOARD'S ACTION EXPLAINED

Sir: Having perused your very timely editorial regarding the Summer Theatre, I feel compelled to express my personal opinion on the matter.

The action of the Board of Education in declining to renew a contract with Mr. Sadlier for July and August was taken with reluctance—it was not a case of wanting to get rid of the Summer Theatre—emphatically not. The educational and cultural amenities which accompany good theatre far outweigh all other considerations under normal circumstances.

I think you will agree Mr. Editor that a complaint from any taxpayer should be considered seriously by an elected body whose duty it is to take action on such complaint. The queries propounded by this particular taxpayer (the text of the letter being published in the Examiner some weeks ago) were of such a nature that the complexity of legal angles prompted the Board to refer the matter to its solicitor for advice.

Our solicitor's opinion was to the effect that an injunction would in all likelihood be sustained in favour of a complainant in this case—similar or nearly similar cases being cited from the Ontario Law Reports.

Queen Mary School is in a residential area—the Board of Education having full jurisdiction over the renting of the auditorium therein, does so for the convenience of various organizations in the city throughout the year—it is used in this manner a few times each month. According to legal opinion this is quite a different proposition than the condition whereby entrance and egress to and from a resident's property in the vicinity is prevented on account of parked cars, six nights a week for ten consecutive weeks.

In the light of these facts what was the reasonable course for the Board to follow? We could have taken a chance and faced an injunction. This wouldn't have affected the Board to any appreciable extent—but it would be a sad blow to Mr. Sadlier and his company, for they would not only share the costs of court action but would also be prevented from playing to Peterborough audiences during the weeks of legal fisticuffs. We admire Mr. Sadlier and his group very much and we hesitate to see him subjected to any such nonsense. The notoriety that might be gained through the Examiner, Canadian Press and radio by having the "Peterborough Summer Theatre Branded a Nuisance in Supreme Court" would not be compatible with the good taste and sensibilities of our citizenry.

Another course the Board might have followed would have been to effect traffic control in the vicinity of the complainant, thus increasing the parked car congestion insofar as the other residents in the area would be concerned—to diagnose the repercussions from such a turn of events would be purely elementary.

Many other courses of action were considered during the time the decision of the Board was made, however none seemed to be within the confines of good common sense.

In offering the PCVS auditorium at approximately the same rental the Board was not unmindful of the fact that there are about two thousand patrons of the Summer Theatre here in Peterborough who, we think, will support Mr. Sadlier and his excellent group at the collegiate—moreover an injunction might be placed on the Board and Mr. Sadlier there too—that would be good fighting ground however.

These personal observations coincide, I think, with those of the other elected representatives on the Board of Education and I trust should clarify the Board's action.

Yours very sincerely

RALPH C. HONEY

SUGGESTS COMPROMISE ON THEATRE

Sir: It is disappointing to learn that Peterborough is to have no more Summer Theatre. It is particularly so, when we know that Queen Mary School Auditorium, built for the benefit of Peterborough's citizens, will be empty but not available.

The Summer Theatre, I understand, could not possibly meet expenses in the Collegiate Auditorium which has been suggested by the Board of Education. Aside from the financial aspect surely the Collegiate Auditorium was not built with mid-summer heat in mind, nor were the seats built for comfort. We as a city, own no community auditorium other than the two mentioned. Considering the pleasure thousands of "city-bound" people receive from the summer plays could some compromise not be made?

If the management and cast of the Summer Theatre thoroughly understand the situation and agreed to keep within certain restrictions favourable to surrounding residents of Queen Mary School; if some provision was made to use the school grounds as a parking lot so that local residents would not have their driveways blocked and lawns marred, could we still not enjoy summer plays?

For those of us who do not travel out of the city a great deal, the Summer Theatre provides the only opportunity of seeing legitimate theatre. It is also enabling, for the first time, many young Canadian actors to make a full time career of acting in their own country, rather than the States.

Revenue is badly needed by the city in this time of rising taxes. Does the Summer Theatre not add to this revenue with the rental of the auditorium?

Surely, when the interest of so many is involved a solution can be found with the help of our most capable and worthy representatives of the people, the Board of Education.

Sincerely yours,

BETTE HOOPER

MUST FIGHT TO KEEP SUMMER THEATRE

Sir: I was flabbergasted to read the letter from Michael Sadlier, and your editorial, concerning the possibility that the Summer Theatre might cease to function in Peterborough.

I have only been in Canada a few years, and was immediately struck with the lack of "live" theatre, and when we decided to move from Toronto, and chose Peterborough, the fact that a Summer Theatre was in being was actually a factor in our choice.

Right here in Peterborough during the past two years we have had the opportunity of seeing eight or 10 plays yearly by a professional company. We are the envy of many other cities. They have been an inspiration to the many amateur groups in the city, who display their talents chiefly during the winter, thereby giving Peterborough a year-round programme of live theatre.

It now seems we are to be denied this pleasure the Summer Theatre for the sake of one individual, although it is to be hoped that the Board of Education will give us the reason for withdrawing the use of the Queen Mary Auditorium from the Summer Theatre.

Are we to go backwards—to be frustrated—to be cramped—for, if all are to be treated equally, the Audubon lectures will suffer the same fate as the Summer Theatre.

I sincerely hope that if there is only one individual, he will publicly make known his complaints—for in all justice, there may be a good reason.

I for one want the Summer Theatre to continue at Queen Mary Auditorium. It will be a sorry day for Peterborough if we lose it. We are again Pioneers, and unless we stick to our guns, the enemy can mark us out. We must fight for what we want.

As for type of mind revealed by such complaints — surely Shakespeare sums it up adequately in this extract from Twelfth Night:

Sir Toby: Possess us, possess us, tell us something of him.

Maria: Marry sir, sometimes he's a kind of Puritan.

Sir Andrew: O, if I thought that I'd beat him like a dog!

G. S. C.

A CRIME TO BE HAPPY IN THE WEST END?

Sir: I grew up in Peterborough between the eras of the Grand Opera House and the Peterborough Summer Theatre. Therefore I never saw plays professionally staged, except when I could go to the Royal Alexandra in Toronto, until Mr. Sadlier brought his company here. I think it a great shame that the action of the Board of Education, or rather the lack of action, threatens to put Peterborough back into the barren years.

The complainers about the "Nuisance" the theatre causes are slapping the faces of 2,000 people who went every week, who parked their cars on the street and came out laughing, chuckling and happy at 11 p.m. I was one of the 2,000 and resent being slandered by these complainers. Is it a crime to be happy on Weller Street at 11 p.m.? Maybe it is a crime for those of us who do not live in a certain sanctimonious corner of the West End to be seen there at all.

I think the Board of Education is remiss in its duties to all the ratepayers by bowing the knee to a few; and it is showing either a lack of courage (I would say spunk), or is proving itself to be an enemy of culture and delight by letting a vague legal threat keep the Queen Mary auditorium closed like a country parlour; the old country parlour kept so proudly neat and tidy, and unused except for funerals.

Yours indignantly,

ELIZABETH M. HAMILTON

HAS HEARD NO OBJECTIONS

Sir: The report of the meeting of the School Board at which the Queen Mary School Auditorium was denied to the Summer Theatre referred to the opposition of "Weller-Monaghan Residents" to the use of Queen Mary School Auditorium by the Summer Theatre. This tends to give readers the impression, that Weller property owners, facing the school, have objected to the Summer Theatre here.

As one of these "residents," I would like say that I have never heard of any objections from our neighbors. We, personally, are very disappointed to know that it will not be back in our school as we found its location here a great convenience.

Thank you for your help in making our position clear.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. (Isa. 2: 2.)

In that day shall the branch of the Lord be beautiful and glorious, and the fruit of the earth shall be excellent and comely for them that are escaped of Israel. And it shall come to pass, that he that is left in Zion, and he that remaineth in Jerusalem, shall be called holy, even every one that is written among the living in Jerusalem. (Isa. 4: 2, 3.)

And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed: and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee. And, behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

And Jesus knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts? For whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and walk?

But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy), Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house. And he arose, and departed to his house.

But when the multitudes saw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given such power unto men. (Matt. 9: 2-8.)

Education

(Manchester Guardian)

The Glasgow "Forward" publishes an article by a Scottish teacher which throws a rather horrifying light on the educational output. The teacher put questions to a class of 28 children, all on the verge of leaving school on reaching 15, all of "reasonably good" home circumstances.

They were asked to quote a single line Shakespeare wrote; none could, but one boy contributed "A man's a man for a' that." Two only could finish the quotation "O wad some power the giftie gie us..." Asked what country in the world had the largest population, about half the class said America, four suggested Britain, one Canada; only two boys mentioned China.

All but one were gravelled by "What happened in Russia in 1917?" and he replied "An earthquake." (He at any rate was metaphorically minded.) Eight pupils, however, could say how many people were shut up in the Black Hole of Calcutta and another dozen were fairly close. History is not taught in vain!

The fame of Keir Hardie was unknown to the class, although one thought he might be a film star and another that he "used to play for Queen's Park." Only three had heard of the Sermon on the Mount. Five boys associated Hiroshima with the dropping of the first atomic bomb, but one thought it was a hair cream.

Only one boy could name his local member of Parliament. Only one boy could give a reasonably answer on the difference between rates and taxes, although one bright spark said truly that "it's cheaper to take a bus than a taxi." One boy only could distinguish between a strike and a lock-out.

The majority of the children saw films twice a week; two did not go to the pictures, but six went three times a week and two four times. Half the class had no hobbies. There is food for reflection in these answers. Within the next few weeks all these children will have completed their "education" and pass into the labour market.

Hobby Contest Features H and S Meeting

OMEMEE, March 8 —(ENS)— A hobby and antique display featured the March meeting of Omemee Home and School Association. The boys and girls competed in art, cooking, needle work and crafts. Parents' hobbies and ladies' handwork were also on display, as well as a variety of antique articles among which was a home woven bed spread made in 1854 and hand embroidered christening robes that had served three generations, the first 98 years ago.

When sufficient time had been given for visiting the display rooms, the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Green. Business items included the appointment of delegates to the Federation convention, and a nominating committee to arrange for election of officers. The delegates appointed are Mrs. S. Northey and Mrs. A. Stephenson. Mrs. Kenny, Mrs. H. Deyell and Mrs. Rawlins were chosen for the nominating committee. A vote of thanks was extended to the judges, Mrs. G. N. Earle, Mrs. C. G. Shaw and Miss M. Baird.

For plasticene modelling and crayon drawings in the junior room taught by Miss J. Lamb honors were distributed as follows: first to Faye Morrison, Allan Thornton, Lauraine Flaragan, Beverly Little, John Green, and Marilyn McQuade; second to Glen Hyland, David Pelling, Duncan Lennox, Sharon Lane, Beverly Smith, and June Middleton and third to Sharon Lane (2), Jack Fee (2), Marilyn McQuade and Donald Hyland.

In Grades 4 and 5 under Miss D. Jones in the various entries in watercolor and crayon work, Elaine Rawlins won five first and three seconds; Charles Evans, one first, one second and three thirds; Joan Fox, one first; Eileen Hill, two seconds; Bobby Mitchell, one second; Katharine Bannon, one second; Alvin Robertson, one second; Lorraine Hyland, one second and two thirds; Jerry Nelson, one third; Donnie Mitchell, one third.

In Grades 6, 7 and 8 under principal L. M. Curtis the art competitions were in chalk drawings and medium sized pictures in watercolors. In these, firsts were won by Jackie Little, Nancy Robinson, Ruth Morrison, Verna Zufelt, and Mary Ann Pooley; seconds by Lawrence Chamberlain, Nancy Robinson, Evelyn Fee, Marilyn Hart, Sharon Toland and June Collins; and thirds by Garry Whitney, Jackie Little, Marilyn Hart, Eileen Zufelt and Bruce Lennox.

For scrap books, Berton Middleton of Grade 4 won first, Duncan Lennox of Grade 3, second and John Green of Grade 2, third.

There were only a few entries in cooking. In the girls division Marilynne Green got first for cookies and second for candy. First for candy was taken by Mary Ann Pooley. There being no specifications for type of boys' cooking, George Pooley won first with his cake and Earl Ruttle's pie took second.

In crafts, George Pooley won in the boys under 12 class, Temple Morcombe in girls over 12 and Roger Northey in boys over 12.

In ladies handwork, Mrs. L. McQuade was first, Mrs. I. Clifford second and Mrs. R. Rehill third.

Mr. Curtis' room came first in points.

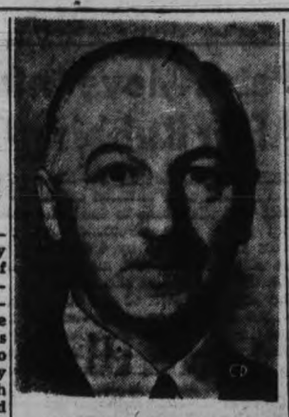
Compromise Formula

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 8 (Reuters)—John J. McCloy, United States high commissioner, met representatives of the Ruhr industry here Wednesday in an effort to remove German objections to allied decartelization plans. It was McCloy's second meeting with Ruhr industrialists. Unofficial sources said the talks ended with almost complete agreement on a compromise formula.

Get Island Back

LONDON, March 8 (Reuters)—Britain has decided to stop using the German island of Helgoland as a bombing practice target because "the return of the islanders could not be indefinitely delayed," air under-secretary Aidan Crawley said Wednesday. Crawley said the island will be given up when alternative facilities are found, and in an case not later than March, 1952.

Spy Service Up



LONDON, March 8 (AP) — Britain's spy service will cost one third more in the next year than it has this year. Appropriation requests laid before parliament Wednesday asked for £4,000,000 (about $11,800,000) to operate Britain's foreign and other secret services in the fiscal year beginning next April 1. In the year ending March 31, these services cost only £3,000,000.

Taken Over By Soviet

SRINAGAR, Kashmir, March 8 (AP)—West China's mineral-rich Sinkiang province "has passed under Russian occupation and control for all practical purposes," says a former Sinkiang Nationalist officer now in Kashmir. Isa Yusuf-Effandi, 44-year-old former secretary general of the province and adviser to Chiang Kai-shek, told a press conference that Russian troops now are manning strategic Sinkiang outposts.

Bensfort WA Makes Farewell Presentation

BENSFORT, March 8 (ENS)— The March meeting of the Women's Association of Bensfort United Church was at the home of Mrs. Charles Barnard on Tuesday afternoon. Devotional exercises were taken by Mrs. Merton Thompson, Mrs. W. C. Dawson and Mrs. Herb Perrin. Mrs. B. Heywood sang a solo.

Mrs. Laurence Finnie who is moving to Peterborough was presented with a cup and saucer as a farewell gift.

Lunch was served by the hostess and Group A.

Let Contract

FORT WILLIAM, March 8 — (CP).—The Rev. Dan McIvor, Liberal member of parliament for Fort William, said Wednesday that a contract has been let for Canadian Car and Foundry Ltd. to build training aircraft at its plant here. Mr. McIvor talked to members of the Fort William Liberal Association at a special meeting in his home. He said he brought the news from Ottawa as "definite word."

30 Adventists Taking Medical Course

OSHAWA (CP)—Thirty young men from across Canada, many of them medical corps veterans of the Second World War, have completed a three-week course in basic military training without weapons at the Seventh Day Adventist Missionary College here.

They form the nucleus of a "defence preparedness program". Endorsed and approved by the church.

Since the Adventists' beliefs prohibit them taking up arms, their training is aimed at service in medical branches of the armed forces. An intergral part of the training received here was the standard instruction course in the Canadian Red Cross.

Col. Everett Dick, North American commander of Adventists cadets and supervisor of the first Canadian course, calls it "an orientation program which prepares our boys to aid governments in time of emergency." He emphasized that the training, cost of which was borne by the cadets, did not replace army instruction but said that it "gives our boys a military-mindedness which helps them fit into the army routine without difficulty."

Outline Plans

Denomination leaders have communicated with authorities at Ottawa outlining their plans for the formation of a Dominion medical corps. On their return home, the 30 cadets will train men in their own congregations and colleges.

Drill supervisor for the course was Cpl. L. R. Ellison of Saskatchewan, assisted by Sgt. Frank Buchanan of Oshawa; both these men saw service in the RCAMC.

It is estimated that between 10,000 and 12,000 Seventh Day Adventist men served in various branches of the services in the Second World War.

Fight Sleeping Sickness

KADUNA, Nigeria — (CP). — The West African Institute for Trypanosomiasis (sleeping sickness) Research was opened here recently. Two-thirds of the $700,000 cost of the establishment was borne by the Colonial Development and Welfare Corporation, and the balance shared by West African teritories.

Held On Murder Count

MONTREAL, March 8 (CP)— Edward Paris, 23, Saint John, N. B., appeared Wednesday for preliminary hearing on a charge of murder in connection with the death of William Sloan, 64-year-old general storekeeper, during an abortive robbery attempt Jan. 24. He was remanded for another eight days. Paris is charged with Thomas Luckie and Thomas Mullins, both 23, scheduled to face trial on the murder charge at next session of criminal assizes here.

Eagles One Up On Redmen With 8-4 Senior "B" Win

Smacking over the Belleville Redmen 8 goals to 4 here last night, the McGillis Eagles took a two-to-one lead in their best-of-five OHA Senior B group semi-finals. The next one is in Belleville on Friday and fifth, if necessary, here Monday. A fair-sized crowd viewed a speedy struggle, scrambly at times, and generally clean. While the Quinte crew fought back all the way and whittled the Magee men's lead at times, the homesters were full value for the victory.

They led 3-1 in the first frame —with Dootch Vitarelli still out with a sore hand—and scored the only two markers in the fast middle heat. It was 3-all in the third, with the Redmen pressing hard for a time, but the Eagles battling back and cashing in on chances with fast-breaking passing plays. Apart from a screened shot each, both goalies turned aside a flock of rubber in a good effort. The home defence, with Burns and Munroe solid, edged that of the Bent bunch.

Joe In On Three

Joe Rochetta led the local attack with a goal and two assists, Sixty Coombs also going well to tally two and Keith Montgomery slapped two into the twine on nifty rushes, one in the final second of play. Andy Milne got a goal and an assist. Bert Hill, Doug Mortimer got goals as an assist each went to Reg Stewart, Freddy Mortimer, and Jim Munroe McDonald notched a pair for the visitors, Schrieder and Moher each having a goal and an assist, with Vern Goyer aiding on a pair. The losers drew five of the nine penalties in clean going.

Rochetta scored early on a fast solo rush from the side. Schrieder was back from an interference penalty when McDonald evened the count from Moher and Goyer in a scramble that saw Ross Nicholls sprawled from a save. Hill finished a play from Stewart fast on a forward pass to make it 2-1. Montgomery's hot angle shot from defence caught a corner of the cage back of Irvine for a 3-1 lead. Bastedo's tripping penalty later did not prove costly.

Lead 5 to 1

Doug Mortimer scored early from brother Freddy on a pass-back in a scramble at Irvine's doorstep. Coombs then made it 5-1 on speedy in-close combination with Rochetta, giving the goalie no chance. Munroe drew a charging penalty and, when Doug Mortimer followed for hooking, the Eagles were shy two and Nicholls had to be good to hold off the Redmen. He came out of his net once and made three straight saves before having a chance to jump back into the cage. It was fast play the rest of the period, with Belleville doing the pressing.

The Quinte crew drove hard in the third and scored two. Moher got the first on Schreider's rebound and the latter later pitched a screened back-hander by Nicholls. Coombs got it back from Rochetta on good combination and a sizzling single shot. Schmidt went over for high-sticking and Milne scored from Munroe on a long, high screened shot that Irvine did not see. Trumble got it next for interference, and the Redmen scored a nifty with him in the sin bin, McDonald stick-handling in close with Goyer's pass to pick a corner of the net. With all back, Crowley drew an interference charge and then Wardhaugh and Burns were gated together for high-sticking. As the gong went, Montgomery's bullet drive hit the twine on a pass from Milne and it wound up at 8-4. Teams:

Belleville: Goal, Irvine; defence Bastedo and Schmidt; centre, Wardhaugh, wings, Green and Mulvihill, alternates, Trumble, Schreider, Semar, Goyer, Moher, McDonald, Desjardins and Jones.

Eagles: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Burns and Munroe; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley and Coombs; alternates, Hill, Stewart, Greenlaw, Milne, F. Mortimer, D. Mortimer and Montgomery.

Referees, W. Reason and A. Casterton.

Summary:

First Period

Eagles—Rochetta	2:12
Belleville—McDonald (Moher, Goyer)	9:26
Eagles—Hill (Stewart)	13:45
Eagles—Montgomery	14:10

Penalties—Schreider, Bastedo.

Second Period

Eagles—D. Mortimer (F. Mortimer)	1:12
Eagles—Coombs (Rochetta)	6:43

Penalties—Munroe, D. Mortimer.

Third Period

Belleville—Moher (Schreider)	:50
Belleville—Schreider	6:38
Eagles—Coombs (Rochetta)	10:31
Eagles—Milne (Munroe)	12:16

Eagles—Montgomery (Milne)	19:59

Penalties—Schmidt, Trumble, Crowley, Wardhaugh, Burns.

Lindsay Girls Win

Lindsay Merchants wound up the girls' city League basketball Wednesday night at YWCA by edging Black's 20-14. The playoffs begin Friday night with Lindsay meeting the Nurses, and Black's playing CGE.

Marj Owens with a basket and a foul shot led the Merchants in the first quarter when they took an 8-4 score, Helen Robertson and Shirley Meeth adding the other points. Reta Naylor and Mary Knox counted the Black's points. Carol Ferguson brought Black's back into the game with three baskets in the second quarter to tie the score 10-all, Marj Owens scoring the lone Lindsay basket.

Lindsay went to town in the third with Audrey Craine and Marj Owens combining for nine points. Carol Ferguson kept up her second quarter pace with two foul shots and a basket. Marj Owens scored the only point in the fourth quarter on a foul shot.

Owens of Lindsay edged Carol Ferguson of Black's for the scoring honors with 11 points.

Lineups:

Lindsay Merchants (20)—Meeth 2, Craine 4, Owens 11, Robertson 3, Copp, Smith.

Black's (14)—Naylor 2, Ferguson 10, Vint, McKee, McInroy, Metheral, Laing, Knox 2, Frederick.

Omemee Triumphs

OMEMEE, March 8 (ENS) — Omemee Black Hawks, now in the ORHA semi-finals, won 6-5 Tuesday night over Mount Pleasant of Norfolk County. The game which was played at Simcoe was an exhibition of good clean hockey between well matched teams. Mount Pleasant was leading well into the second half of the third period when Omemee tied them and then with two minutes to go, Parker drove in the winning goal. The return game will be played at Lindsay, Friday night.

Y-Knots Edge Hi-Y

A 17-point effort by Batchelor in the second half enabled the Y-Knots to edge the Hi-Y boys 33-25 in the men's city league Wednesday night at the YMCA

Playing with only five men, Y-Knots held the Hi-Y quintet 12-10 in the first on the strength of points by Curtis, Dougherty, Jamieson and Stinson. The Hi-Y points were dropped in by Grant, English and Morrison who had four field baskets and a foul shot.

Batchelor's 17 points came in handy for Y-Knots in the second when they managed to outscore Hi-Y 23-13, Curtis and Jamieson scoring the other Y-Knot points. Hurle, Grant and Morrison scored the Hi-Y 13 points, Grant getting two field baskets and two foul shots.

Batchelor easily led the scoring with his 17 points while Hi-Y's Morrison placed second with 12.

Lineups:

Y-Knots (33) — Curtis 7, Dougherty 2, Jamieson 5, Stinson 2, Batchelor 17.

Ho-Y (25)—Grant 8, Gandy, English 1, Morrison 12, Hurle 4, Prest, Deyell.

P of W Victorious

Prince of Wales juniors won a 6-4 semi-final School Hockey League playoff yesterday over May's in a neat scrap. Playford scored three goals for the winners, Allen having two, Billingsley one, and Burns aiding on a pair. Wells and Douglas got the losers' markers. The score was 3-1 for the victors in the first frame and 4-2 going into the third Teams:

Prince of Wales — Playford, Parker, Allen, Burns, Robinson, Evans, Faulkner, Connors, Billingsley, Curry, Frost, Downer.

May's — Wells, Cox, White, Douglas, Marshall, Oliver, Wilson, Cinnamon, Tully, Robbins, Hill.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Leo Dandurand, then manager of Montreal Canadiens, set a National Hockey League precedent 28 years ago today by suspending two of his own players, Sprague Cleghorn and Billy Coutu, for rough tactics in a game with Ottawa Senators. Lionel Hitchman suffered a concussion in that encounter. The Senators won the league championship and the Stanley Cup in that season of 1922-23.

Toronto Cagers Win 57-50 Over Marines

At times Wednesday night the Marines were behind the eight-ball in their Ontario semi-final intermediate "B" basketball series but today they are able to just peek around it. At the Ryerson institute's gym in Toronto a Marines' second half drive fell short and the Church of the Messiah, Toronto and district winners, won the first game of the two-game points-to-count series, 57-50.

With any luck either at the YMCA or PCVS gym the Marines should sweep the series in the return game. Only once in the first half Wednesday did Marines manage to work their quick break, Doug MacPherson to Ted Payne, Jim Thorburn to Fred Plato. In the second half about midway through, Marines caught the Messiahs cold and whittled down a 15-point lead which Toronto held to the final seven.

Both baskets and backboards were lively, resulting in both teams taking most of the first half to become accustomed to them. With their shooting off, Marines and Messiahs slipped in their passing, making the first few minutes slow and uninteresting.

Slow Playing

The Messiahs play a slow-passing and close-checking brand of basketball. This irritated the 300 fans as Messiahs waited minutes for an opening to score by flipping the ball with long high passes. They usually waited until Gord Harris, their pivot man, or Austin, a corner-shot artist, shook their checks.

Harris, a six-foot six-inch 250-pound centre, controlled the backboards most of the game. He easily out-reached the Marines' guards, Doug MacPherson and Rocky Kidd. With his under-the-basket play and numerous foul shots, he racked up 22 points. Austin was a constant threat from the corner, especially in the second half when Marines tied Harris tightly for 15 minutes, Kidd, MacPherson and Fred Plato hemming him in alternately.

Ted Payne with his spirited breaks in the few remaining minutes of the game brought life into Marines who were down 13 points. Fred Plato and Jim Thorburn kept Marines in the game with 12 and 11 points respectively.

Doug MacPherson again with Rocky Kidd were strong on defence but both had trouble with the lanky Harris. Plato and Kidd finally were forced to leave the court with five personal fouls late in the second half, most of them for working Harris over Doug Pyzer of Messiahs was the third man to leave the game with fouls.

Marines (50)—MacPherson 2, Thorburn 11, Correll 2, Trimm 2, Dadson 2, Payne 13, Kidd 5, Butcher 1, Plato 12.

Church of Messiah (57)—Harris 22, Austin 14, Hocking, Fitchett, Pyzer 6, Park 4, Baker 11, Augherton.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Rugged souls that we Canucks are — have to survive our long winters and wet springs — it is nice to see springtime en route again. Two weeks from yesterday is the first official day of spring. And it won't be long before such winter sports as bowling, basketball and hockey (they had little good ski-ing, anyway) will be finished up until late next autumn. Who cares? Personally, we find a hockey season which runs for the last half of October until around the end of March — and occasionally into April — plenty long. No doubt many good hockey fans will agree, as will a lot of bowlers, basketballers, etc.

* * * * * *

Speaking of the cagers, they're all into playoffs now. Results of last night's local games will be in elsewhere. Tomorrow eve, PCVS seniors have a district final at Whitby, while the girls at the YW start quarter-final play-offs. Two-game series, starting at eight, Nurses vs. Grads, and Black's vs. CGE. At the Collegiate on Saturday even at seven, St. Kitts and the juvenile PCI-ers open their OABA semi-final series, and this one is followed by a tilt betwixt Riverdale Collegiate of Toronto and the PCVS senior squad of boys, coached by Bev Goulding. Marines, we believe, have their return with their Toronto rivals in OABA intermediate "B" semi-finals in the YM that night.

Oshawa And IOOF-ers

Ere getting into senior "B" hockey, a reminder of the opening OHA junior "B" group final series here Saturday night. Oshawa Bees play the Oddfellows the first of a four-in-seven serial, next one being Monday in the Motor City. These teams proved too good for the Belleville and Lindsay outfits in semi-finals, and the scrap to declare a provincial contender will be a hot one. The IOOF-ers are plenty hot now, but the Bees were warmer than somewhat as they ousted the Rockets of Bella Villa in straight games. Likely another crowd of more than 1,500 fans for this opener at Civic Arena at 8.30 of the clock.

* * * * * *

Eagles trek to Belleville tomorrow and hope to wind up their OHA senior "B" semi-final series there. If not, they'll conclude here Monday. They now lead 2-1 in the best-of-five sawoffs after smacking down Wally Bent's boys of Bella Villa 8-4 here last eve. Minus Dootch Vitarelli, they still showed too much for the scrappy Redmen, though 'twas a pretty tidy tilt—before a smaller crowd than one would expect in playoffs. Ross Nicholls was good or the Redmen would have made it much closer. Burns, Munroe and Montgomery also fought hard at the blue line, while the forwards hustled going in and checked back fast. Rochetta, Coombs and Monty led the sniping, while McDonald, Moher, Schreider and Goyer were the Belleville marksmen.

Petes After Allan Cup

Hearty congrats to the Swartz Petes on beating Nylons in Kingston last night to move into senior "A" play on the trail of the Allan Cup. Nylons go into OHA senior "B" group finals against the Belleville-Eagles winner next week. No word at the moment on the Petes' first playdown opponent or when the initial game will be staged. Likely against Owen Sound Mercurys, strong senior "A" opponents. Kingston gave the Jopling gents a stiff scrap last eve ere bowing out, but the Petes were full value for this victory, too, battling bitterly right down to the finish of the heated 4-3 game before a hefty and most partisan crowd. Playing coach Frank (Drake) Jopling and his classy crew—as well as the hard-working executive—deserve plenty of support from here on in as they go after that Allan Cup.

* * * * * *

Two provincial semi-final opening games coming right up at Civic Arena. Barrie bantams tackle the McGillis Eaglets at 6.30 tonight, Galt, Waterloo and Sarnia being the only other clubs left. And at two Saturday aft here, St. Catharines mix with the juvenile Oddfellows. If the locals can get by the St. Kitts crew, they stand a fine chance of taking the finals, Weston, Kitchener, Stratford and Waterloo still being in the race down in Western Ontario. St. Kitts—with such aces aboard as Piatkowski, Markarian, Cisla and Bodnar, a brother to Gus—have pro backing and won the Ontario crown six times in a row. These games here should be well worth seeing. No word yet on our midget Marines, Barrie, St. Catharines, Kitchener, Waterloo and Stratford still being in the hunt.

Too Many Whistles

READING, England (CP) — Soccer and field hockey clubs playing matches simultaneously on a local community sports ground complained of too much whistle-blowing. Their games are thrown into confusion by the medley of "tooting." Henceforth whistles of varying pitch will be used.

Herman Melville, American author of "Moby Dick" who died in 1891, started life as a seaman at the age of 17.

PCVS Juniors Get Series Over Cobourg

COBOURG, March 8.—(ENS). —Peterborough Collegiate won the Lakeshore Jr. "A" COSSA cage title last night when they defeated Cobourg 37-26 to take league honors by a margin of 38 points. Besides having to face the 27-point margin which the Petes carried when they opened the game last night, Cobourg Collegiate was unable to overcome the superior combination and defence work of the PCI team.

The game was fairly close in the first half, PCVS leading 14-12, but the visitors started to chalk up a series of fast goals in the final half that was too much for the homesters. Cobourg had trouble with the Petes' defence and their scoring opportunities for clear shots were very few. PCI will next meet a Toronto team.

With the exception of Cunningham, everybody on the Petes' line-up accounted for a score. Stewart led with seven counters. Boorman and Henley had six apiece, Johnston scored five points, Grafstein and Langhorne had four points each, Griffin and Hempstead had a pair each and Fowler scored one point.

Top scorer for the Cobourg team was Irvine with 10 points, Allen and Spalding had eight each. The rest of the line-up, Geoffrey, W. Allen, Mowatt, Perrow, McClelland and Niles, went scoreless.

U.K. Cricketers Get Good Start

AUCKLAND, NZ, March 8 — (Reuters). — The English cricket tourists today got off to a flying start to their short New Zealand tour when they beat Auckland by 10 wickets on the third and final day of their match.

Auckland scored 146 in the first innings and were out a second time for 168. The English team, which scored 298 for seven wickets declared in the first innings, knocked off the 17 runs needed for victory without losing a wicket in the second innings.

Winnipeg, Sudbury Chosen For Bonspiel

HALIFAX, March 8.—(CP). — The Canadian curling championship will be held next year in Winnipeg and in 1953 at Sudbury.

The governors of the competition made the decision Wednesday, departing from their normal procedure of setting the venue only one year in advance.

There were pressing invitations from both cities. Mayor Bill Benton of Sudbury put up a strong argument and got the 1953 nod.

It will be the first time the championship has gone to Northern Ontario.

Grove School Beats Port Hope TCS 5-4

LAKEFIELD, March 8.—The Grove School, Lakefield, defeated Trinity College School, 5-4, on Peterborough ice Wednesday. Ross of Grove scored the winner at 18:53 of the final period.

Grove: Goal, Fortner; defence, Boyd, Grant; centre, Clark; wings McCulloch, Boyd; alternates, Legate, Minnes, Ross, Ryder, Powell, Williams.

TCS: Goal, Arkley; defence, Watts, Bruce; centre, McGregor; wings, Church, Wright; alternates McDermott, Long, Currie, Newcombe, Roffy, Ketchum.

Hornets Shade Indians Mohawks Edge Bisons

By The Canadian Press

Three games were played in the waning American Hockey League Wednesday night, but the standings were not overly affected as the first two teams in each section are solidly established.

At Pittsburgh, the Hornets shaded Springfield Indians 4-3 to cling to third place in the western division.

At Cincinnati, Roger Bedard scored three goals to lead Cincinnati Mohawks to a 4-2 victory over Buffalo before 2,521 customers.

King George Victors

King George intermediates edged Prince of Wales 3-2 at the arena in a semi-final School Hockey League game, and now meet Confederation in a final on Monday. Grills scored two for King George, as English got a goal and an assist, Moffitt and Jim Harding also having an assist apiece. Coombs scored both tallies for the other side, Scarfe and Hawthorne aiding on both. Teams:

King George: Jim Harding, English, Clark, J. Harding, Moffitt, Grills, Baptie, Dorrington, Innes, Mountney, Lamers, Dixon, Pollard.

Prince of Wales: Hawthorne, Coombs, Douglas, Vargo, Ashby, Francis, Smillie, Aulbrooke, Johnston, Scarfe, Huffman, Jay.

Petes Move Into Senior "A" After Rubbing Out Kingston

KINGSTON, March 8.—Kingston Nylons were shunted off the main line that leads to the Allan Cup when the Peterborough Petes shaded them by 4 to 3 in the Harty Arena last night and won the best of five series 3 to 1. The largest crowd of the season —1,850 fans—saw a keenly-waged duel in which the Petes wrote their own destiny, played heads-up hockey and earned the right to carry on as the group representatives in Allan Cup pursuits.

Twelve penalties were inflicted but referees Wally Wilson and Bill Holway failed to detect several glaring fouls when sentences might have altered scoring conditions. In the final period Joe Watts handed out one of the fairest body checks imaginable but was penalized by Holway. Later when Arn Dugan was charged into the boards and injured only a minor penalty was called against Doug Patterson. Night and day in every way the fans are getting more mystified than enlightened.

Missed Chances

Nylons' failure to capitalize on the Petes' defensive lapses cost them the verdict. Even the experienced Honey Tompkins, former forward and now a defenceman, made enough passes that were intercepted in the defensive zone to court defeat. In these emergencies however, Nylons lacked the payoff punch. Goalkeeper Ray Harding turned in a sparkling effort but on several occasions wandered away from his cage without rhyme or reason. During one jaunt he almost reached the blue line before trapping the puck but when he made the pass it was intercepted and Harding rushing back to his position tripped and fell. Nylons however missed the target amid groans.

While both teams missed glorious chances the real heartbreaker for Nylons occurred when with two minutes to go Kenny Potts could not control the puck after he had gained possession a few feet from the Petes' net. Escaping from that trap the visitors swiftly moved play to the other end of the rink and only Glynn Udall's wizardry averted the scoring of a fifth goal.

Shot the Works

Nylons, going all out in the final session caused plenty of excitement both before and after Johnny Armstrong scored unaided at the 8:40 mark to make it 4-3. Watts and Patterson of Nylons were handed minor penalties while Plumb received a major following a mix-up with Dugan. The latter was also given a misconduct sentence following remarks made about the refereeing. Nylons launched many dangerous attacks in trying to pull the verdict from the fire but Harding and his backchecking teammates survived the storm.

By a coincidence all Nylons' goals were scored without assistance, the marksmen being Gerow, Plumb and Armstrong. West, who had a goal and an assist, paced the point-getters on both teams. The other successful gunners were Gus Leonard, Floyd and Dugan.

Nylons will now revert to senior "B" company and will meet either the Eagles or Belleville Redmen in the next round with the possibility existing that some of the games will be staged in the new community centre hockey edifice.

Peterborough — Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling and Tompkins; centre, Dugan; wings, Mason and Wade; alternates, G. Leonard, Fryia, Mortimer, West, Collins, Floyd, Davison, and E. Leonard.

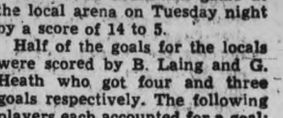
Havelock Boys Win

HAVELOCK, March 8 (ENS)—Havelock juveniles defeated Tweed in an exhibition game at the local arena on Tuesday night by a score of 14 to 5.

Half of the goals for the locals were scored by B. Laing and G. Heath who got four and three goals respectively. The following players each accounted for a goal: J. Laing, J. Ruttan, R. Pollock, B. Pollock, B. Buchanan, K. McMullen, A. Patterson.

Successful Hunt



YORKTON, Sask. — (CP) — A 90-pound male timber wolf was chased by men on horseback and shot about 12 miles east of Yorkton. Harry Swallow, president of the Yorkton Fish and Game League, said it was unusual for a timber wolf to venture as far south as Yorkton.

Generals Trip Irish 4-0, Spoil Hopes

By The Canadian Press

A couple of athletes with names that sound as if they belonged in the Notre Dame backfield knocked the Irish out of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A playoff picture.

Dick Piatkowski stopped 42 shots and George Samolenko sank two as Oshawa Generals stifled the last hopes Toronto St. Michael's College had of catching a spot in post-season play by beating them 4-0.

Meanwhile Stratford Kroehlers, the team the collegians had to overhaul, were making doubly sure by whipping the third-place Windsor Spitfires 7-3.

Flash Hollet's Toronto Marlboros came to grief for the second time in a row in the major group's round-robin semi-finals, dropping a 2-1 decision to Hamilton Tigers as veteran Clare Shillington tapped home the winning goal with less than eight minutes left.

Move Into Tie

The win moved Tigers into a tie for first-place with Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs and shoved Dukes into the cellar.

Scotty Mair connected for Marlies, Murray Comfort registering the first Hamilton goal.

Ted O'Connor and Bobby Attersley completed the scoring in the Oshawa game. The Irish stormed the Oshawa nets in the last 35 minutes, but just couldn't get past Piatkowski.

In Stratford, Kroehlers turned in their best game in weeks to drub Spitfires for their third straight loss. George Nicholson led the locals with a pair. Gord Myles, Guy Henri, Gord Nudds, Bob Bailey and George Aitken getting singles. Martin Zorica, Eldor Thomas and Bob Rawlyk answered for Spitfires.

DONNYBROOK DELUXE—One of the worst fights in the history of Maple Leaf Gardens broke out Tuesday night when Barrie Flyers and Toronto Marlboros clashed in a final-stretch Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game. Flyers were leading, 5-0, with less than four minutes to play, when the ruckus erupted. Marlies Ron Hurst drew a major and a match penalty for fighting and then everyone got into the act. When the smoke cleared, seven majors were given, one match penalty and one misconduct. Dukes' Earl Balfour is shown with his sweater and shoulder pads around his knees, his head in an armlock applied by Flyer Don O'Connor. Sticks and gloves in the background indicate that the boys preferred fists. Barrie scored twice more before the whistle went, to whitewash the homesters, 7-0.

Canada Direct Takes 2 Heats

TORONTO, March 8.—(CP). — Canada Direct, owned by M. Storey of Peterborough, and driven by Wilmer Hillock, outclassed a good field of mixed trotters and pacers when he scored easy wins in both heats of Wednesday's featured sixth race at Dufferin Park.

In the first heat he was held in light restraint back of the pace in the early part. He moved closer to the leaders in the back stretch, and rounding the lower bend raced head and head with Williamsburg, then gradually drew clear, and in the home stretch responded willingly to mild pressure to hold Peter K. Lee safe.

Canada Direct, away with the leaders at the start of the second heat, moved into second place in the back stretch the first time around. He displaced the pacesetter, Peter K. Lee, entering the front stretch, gradually drew into a commanding lead and in the home stretch drive won as his driver pleased.

First race—Classified trot; purse $300:

Horse Over Fracture

CHICAGO, March 8 (AP)—Hill Prince, the 1950 horse of the year, has recovered from a leg fracture and is being pointed for a comeback in the $100,000 added Arlington Park and Washington Park handicaps this summer. J. H. "Casey" Hayes, trainer of Christopher T. Chenery's 1950 three-year-old champion, reported today that "all of Hill Prince's lameness is gone."

Bruins Bow To Habs 3-2 As Wings Blank Maple Leafs

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The people who have been ruling Montreal Canadiens out of the National Hockey League playoffs apparently haven't given full consideration to the value of Maurice (Rocket) Richard.

The high-scoring right-winger played a prominent part in Montreal's 3-2 victory over the Bruins in Boston Wednesday night.

The win, which shoved Boston down into fourth place, only two points ahead of the Canadiens, emphasized that there is no room for complacency in the campaign for the third and fourth playoff positions.

The Boston loss and New York's 3-1 home-ice win over Chicago Black Hawks enabled the Rangers to slip back into third place, a point ahead of the Bruins.

While the four bottom teams in the league were fighting it out, the league-leading Detroit Red Wings virtually salted away first place by shutting out the runner-up Maple Leafs 3-0 in Toronto. It was the last meeting between the two clubs during the regular season and gives Detroit a record of seven wins, three losses and four ties with Toronto, in addition to a healthy eight-point lead over the Leafs.

In Boston, a crowd of 8,202 spent an uncomfortable evening watching Richard get his 38th goal and 19th assist of the season in leading Canadiens to victory.

Matches Effort

Veteran Milt Schmidt of Boston matched Richard's effort with a goal and an assist but his teammates produced long lapses of listless hockey.

Schmidt and Ed Sandford set up Pete Horeck for a first-period goal which gave Boston the lead for the only time in the game. Cal MacKay tipped in Bud McPherson's 55-foot drive to tie it up.

Richard set up Elmer Lach for a goal early in the second and got one unassisted midway in the period. Half way through the last period, Schmidt snatched the puck from a faceoff with Lach and scored unassisted.

In New York, a small ladies night crowd of 5,261 saw New York defencemen score all three goals for the winners. Allan Stanley got two and Gus Kyle the other. Pat Lundy got the lone goal for the last-place Black Hawks.

In Toronto, Rookie Terry Sawchuk got his eighth shutout of the season. Gordie Howe, who has sewed up the league scoring leadership for this season, got two Detroit goals, his 34th and 35th. Gerry Couture got the other.

Charles Wins Walcott Fight Injures Ear, Sidelined

DETROIT, March 8 (AP).—An injured left ear today sidelined Ezzard Charles for two months, dashing Joe Louis' hopes for a crack at the heavyweight champion next month.

The 29-year-old titleholder's ear was puffed up in his successful 15-round defence against 37-year-old Jersey Joe Walcott Wednesday night. His personal physician ordered Ezzard to stay out of action for at least two months. He won by a unanimous decision.

Charles, who was almost toppled from his throne in the fourth round by a crashing right to the jaw, had the swelling drained down from the ear at a hospital early today.

Louis, who received a thunderous ovation from the 13,852 fans ($75,502 gross gate) at Olympia Stadium, didn't receive the disappointing news until today.

Walcott's 37 years didn't seem to hang heavy on him in several spots Wednesday night, notably in the fourth and 15th rounds when the 5 to 1 underdog had Charles in trouble.

Crowd With Walcott

Joe had the highly vocal crowd rooting for him all the way, excepting for the seventh round. He hit Charles two hard rights after the bell and the crowd let loose with a barrage of jeers. But they saved the Bronx specials for the officials when the verdict was given.

Walcott and manager Felix Bocchicchio screamed "we wuz robbed." But 13 writers, who sat on all four sides of the ring, all scored for Charles.

Under Michigan's point system whereby ten points is divided between the two fighters in each round by 5-5, 6-4 and 7-3, the officials had the scores this way (total points wins):

Referee Clarence Rosen, 80-70 (rounds 9-5-one even); Judge Joe Lenahan 83-67 (rounds 9-2-4); judge Jack Aspery, 84-66 (rounds 11-3-1).

In the fourth, a right to the chin staggered the champion and one more might have sent him to the floor for keeps. But the champ clung to Walcott for 60 long seconds and the challenger couldn't shake him off.

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Al Stanley of New York who scored two goals as Rangers whipped Chicago, 3-1.

Pat Lundy of Chicago whose third-period goal saved Hawks from a shutout by New York.

Maurice Richard of Montreal, who assisted once, then scored the winning goal single-handed as Canadiens downed Boston 3-2.

Milt Schmidt of Boston, who picked up an assist and a breakaway goal while Bruins were losing to Canadiens.

Terry Sawchuk of Detroit, who scored his eighth shutout when wings blanked Toronto 3-0.

Gordie Howe, who scored two of Detroit's three goals against Toronto.

Chess Masters Take On UK Tournament

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON —(CP)— An international chess masters tournament is being organized by the British Chess Federation to be held next May in conjunction with the Festival of Britain.

The event will also commemorate the centenary of the first international chess congress promoted in London in 1851 by the famous British master, Howard Staunton.

Invitations were sent to 16 of the world's chess masters. So far acceptances have been received from at least 11, including G. Stahlberg of Sweden, N. Rossolimo of France, L. Pachman of Czechoslovakia, W. Unzicker of West Germany, S. Gligoric of Yugoslavia, A. Bisguier of the US, L. Szabo and G. Barcza of Hungary, and from Britain the British champion, R. J. Broadbent, and E. Klein and H. Golombek.

The present world champion, M. Botvinnik of Russia, wrote that he would be unable to accept because of the world championship being held at Moscow starting March 15 and running until late in April. For various reasons the former title-holder, Dr. Max Euwe of Holland and two American masters, Samuel Reshevsky and Reuben Fine, have also declined.

Canadian Junior

A Canadian junior is expected to compete in a junior division of the big tournament here. Likely candidates are 15-year-old Ross Siemms of Toronto or Lionel Joyner, 19, of Montreal, but arrangements are indefinite so far.

(In Toronto Siemms' father explained that his son would probably have to defeat Joyner and win the Ontario junior championship to qualify for the London bid.)

The Russian chess authorities have been asked to nominate alternates since Botvinnik explained he would be unable to make the trip. Holland has also been asked to name a replacement for Dr. Euwe.

Of the other invited masters, British chess officials said they had been unable to meet the terms asked by Reshevsky and by M. Najdorf of the Argentine. They asserted these had asked for appearance money and expense guarantees beyond the means of the promoters.

Promotion of the tournament is expected to cost about $12,000, of which $7,500 has already been raised. A public campaign for the remainder "to uphold national prestige" has been started by the British federation.

The tournament will be played in three stages. It opens at Cheltenham on May 26, actual date of the centenary, and after 11 days moves to Leamington Spa. The third session will be held at Birmingham where the first world junior tournament is being held.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Lethbridge Maple Leafs, showing more all-round power in every start, leave for Paris today for the world hockey championships nursing a 30-game winning streak and confident of retaining the title Edmonton Mercurys won in 1950.

The Leafs racked up No. 30 in a row here Wednesday night with an impressive 8-3 victory over Harringay Racers of the English League. The Leafs' previous 29 victories were against teams on the continent.

Playing coach Dick Gray isn't making any predictions—he says Lethbridge will just take each game as it comes.

The evidence indicates Sweden is the only real menace—and Lethbridge won all six games it played in that country.

A factor which might generate added confidence is the anticipated arrival of three new forwards from Canada, Mickey Roth, Bill Flick and Dinny Flanagan, the first line of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

At Zurich, Switzerland, the United States hockey team went down to another defeat Wednesday night on their exhibition tour losing 9-4 to Zurich.

The U.S. squad, a commercial team from Lewiston, Me., will play in the world tournament at Paris starting March 9.

At Baltimore, Pimlico race track Wednesday boosted the value of the 1951 Preakness to $75,000.

The venerable Maryland stake race, centrepiece in racing's triple crown, had been scheduled to go off May 19 at $50,000. The Maryland Jockey Club announced Wednesday it would put up another $25,000 to enrich the pot.

Unpredictable Branch Rickey, never at a loss to introduce baseball novelties, is aiming at a new act for Pittsburgh Pirates.

This time it's a left-handed catcher. The hero—or victim — is 200-pound Dale Long, rookie first baseman who throws, bats, eats and combs his hair with his left hand.

At Buenos Aires, members of Canada's synchronized swimming team were congratulated Wednesday by Argentina's first lady when a group of girl athletes attending the Pan-American games here visited Senora Eva Peron, wife of the president.

Senora Perron offered congratulations to the "Canadian young ladies too for their fine exhibition of synchronized swimming."

Members of the Canadian team are Mrs. Marjorie Cochand, Ste. Marguerite, Que., and sisters June and Gale Taylor of London, Ont. They are chaperoned by Mrs. Lilliam McKellar of London.

Contempt Charge

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) —The Senate Crime Committee voted Wednesday to cite James J. Carroll, nationally-known betting commissioner, for contempt of Congress to test whether a witness can be forced to testify before television cameras. Carroll refused to answer the committee's questions at a hearing in St. Louis last month on the ground that the television cameras recording his testimony invaded his constitutional right of privacy.

Casualty Discussions

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP) — Representatives of medical, nursing, dental and hospital services in Canada conferred Wednesday with officials of the federal government. They talked about problems of civil defence casualty services. The sessions are to last for two days and Health Minister Martin, recently given responsibility for civil defence, said this is the first of a number of meetings of civil defence "working parties."

Good-bye to Rough Rides

Smooth out the Bumps with MOTO-MASTER AIRPLANE TYPE - PERFECTLY MATCHED SHOCK ABSORBERS at prices that save up to 50%

If your car has been driven 20,000 miles or more, the chances are that your shock absorbers aren't working efficiently (if they are even functioning at all). However, the let-down has been so gradual that you may be accepting a "bouncing" ride as normal. Worn shocks interfere with safe driving, too. You probably won't realize how much driving comfort you have been missing until you install Moto-Master, the smoothest-operating shock absorber that gives absolutely uniform "ride" control.

What Kind of a Man Do You Want Daughter to Marry?

By JACK SCOTT

VANCOUVER, March 8 — Ever since I saw that picture "Father of the Bride" the other night I've been brooding about what kinds of clunks my own three little girls are going to nab in the unforeseeable future.

What am I doomed to get for sons-in-law, I keep asking myself, and will they be able to support me when I am withered on the vine?

This is looking well ahead. In the movie Spencer Tracy never even dreamed about it until his daughter (played by Elizabeth Taylor who, in real life, is already married and divorced and reported to have ulcers at 19) made her casual announcement at dinner one night.

Tracy was alarmed, as fathers are traditionally supposed to be, but I have a hunch I'll be delighted. It looks as if that will be the only way I'll ever get any boys around the house.

Not that I expect to have any say in who they'll be. That's a thing of the past and a good thing it is in the past, too.

Only yesterday I was reading a report by one Professor Roy E. Baber who made a survey to answer the question, "What do parents want their daughter to look for in a mate?"

Among other things, the doc found that 86 percent of the fathers questioned and 85 percent of the mothers would oppose their daughter wedding a man of different religious faith. So, obviously, their advice isn't worth a hoot in hell.

Kids these days almost always marry for love, or what looks like love, and I am all for it.

Still, I've been wondering what advice I'd give if one of my own brood were ever to ask me what to look for in a prospective groom. And I've decided I can sum it up in a very short sentence: "Get one of the nice guys."

Steady Type

You know, there is a certain kind of geezer who never gets his due in this cockeyed world.

There seems to be something about people that limits their appreciation of other humans to a particularly developed talent. The wise boy with his constant, clever remark, or the money-maker, or the happy-go-lucky bum or the extrovert—for these are reserved the admiring glances, the whispered word of awe and delight.

Well, I like to see these fellows get whatever is coming to them, the laughs or the lucre or the leisurp. But it always seemed to me that there's something much greater about the man who doesn't stand out in the crowd, the gink who is negative in the sense that he is rarely loved, yet rarely hated.

Just being a "nice guy" is, I should say, as noble a calling as any I can think of offhand and a type I wouldn't mind having call me "Pops."

The "nice guys" never drive their car with a flourish and a heavy foot on the throttle. They don't yell at the world or talk without listening or roar at their own jokes. The "nice guy" is the friend who speaks as highly about you behind your back as he does out front, who does those undramatic little things that mean generosity, who is a better mediator than participant in any clash of personalities.

Sitting here I've been putting these words to the test, as perhaps you will. I figure I'm lucky in my friends. They're an interesting gang. Some even come under the heading "Brilliant." But in the short parade of people marching across my thoughts the leaders are not always the most interesting or the most brilliant.

They are, invariably, the steady, unspectacular "nice guys," the choice you'd make if somebody confronted you, as they used to in college polls, with the problem of picking one man to spend the rest of your life with on a desert island.

Not Perfect

If I ever had to delineate these specifications to my curly-headed babies I know it'll be no cinch to put into words. Such men aren't easy to describe. Words like pleasant, honest, earnest, friendly—they give a slightly out-of-focus picture. They're not perfect—no "nice guy" could be—but they are (and perhaps this is the best of all words) regular.

So long as they're around there's still a great deal of hope left for the things that are right and decent for, however deadly it may sound, these are the civilized people.

You learn this only with age. For myself, I find that the semi-hysteria of the funniest fellow I know is no longer quite so hilarious, the magnificent animal energy of my most zestful companion is often now just plain fatiguing.

More and more I appreciate the fellows who laugh from the heart and not from the teeth, who look you square in the eye, who are reasonable and honest and (much as I hate to say it) those who come nearest to living by the copy book rules.

None of these "nice guys" will ever set the world on fire, but they are always around, somehow, to put out the blaze.

And I don't see how a gal could go wrong with one of that breed.

NO SAFE PLACE—A U.N. patrol scurries through a burning village on the south bank of the Han River, as billows of smoke rise from the blazing huts. One of the soldiers carries his machine gun with him. Chinese resistance has stiffened all along the front, but UN troops were throwing back counter-attacks and doggedly pressing ahead into the heart of enemy defenses.

Horse Drowned In Rice Lake

GORE'S LANDING, March 8 (ENS).—A team of horses broke through the ice into five feet of water about 100 yards from shore at Gore's Landing Wednesday afternoon. One of the horses was pulled to safety alive, but the other was dead when it was pulled out.

The team was owned by Melville Harris, Gore's Bay. He was driving his team with a load of bricks on a sleigh to Spook Island owned by Eric Haldby.

About 100 yards out from Lyle Wallace's boathouse, a weak spot in the ice gave way and the horses plunged into the icy water. Mr. Harris ran to the edge of the break in the ice and tried to hold up their heads. The horses' hooves sank into the mud bottom.

Men came immediately to help him. Soon they had rigged up a winch and were able to drag the live horse back onto the ice.

Residents of the area said that the ice in the bay becomes treacherous at this time of year. Springs emptying into the bay weaken the ice in spots which may give way at any moment.

Havelock Group Favors WI Bravery Award

HAVELOCK, March 8 (ENS)—The Havelock Women's Institute held their March meeting Monday at the home of Mrs. W. Hitchins, when a communication was read from Mrs. H. Shearer of Buckhorn, the district president, asking that a vote be taken on the advisability of establishing a fund under the auspices of the Women's Institute to be used for making awards for special acts of bravery, similar to the award made by a large brewing company.

After a discussion a vote was taken which was unanimously in favor of the project.

All branches will be requested to take a vote on this matter which is being considered because of a recipient recently returning the brewery award.

It was decided to hold a handicraft display at the May meeting, the winning exhibit to be taken to the district annual meeting in June. It was also decided not to enter the quilt competition owing to so much sickness in the community.

A grant of $25 for the library was received from the town council.

It was decided to hold a salvage drive the last of April, the date to be announced later.

Arrangements were made to hold a St. Patrick's tea and home baking sale on March 17 at the home of Mrs. R. Melville with the following committee in charge Mesdames S. Southward, H. Pollock, G. W. Chiles, H. W. Roche and J. Wilde. Pouring tea on that occasion will be Mesdames G. W. Chiles and P. Colquhoun.

Huge Increase In Canada's National Product Since 1939

By The Canadian Press

Canada's productive capacity, decade after decade growing steadily but with no amazing speed, in the last few years has shot up like a boy in his teens.

Back in 1939 the country's gross national product was $5,598,000,000. Last year, according to a reply tabled in the House of Commons Wednesday, Canada's national output was worth $17,693,000,000.

Maybe still more impressive is the amount of money that is being invested in plants and equipment—the "food" to make this gangling youngster fill out.

In 1939 total investment was $409,000,000 but in 1950 the amount that was put into plants and equipment was nearly six times as large — $2,375,000,000. These figures do not include federal, provincial and municipal investment expenditures.

The amount of money invested in the tools of production showed a percentage increase of 480.7 per cent in 1950 over 1939.

In 1939 the percentage of investment in plant and equipment of the gross national product came to only 7.3 per cent but by 1950 it climbed to 13.4 per cent.

In industrial production alone Canada also has made big strides. Considering its 1935-39 average as 100, the equivalent figure for 1950 is 198.3. This figure places Canada highest of the countries of the North Atlantic Pact. The United States is second with an index of 198 and the United Kingdom third with 126.

The trade department has indicated 1951 will be a whopper of a year as far as capital investment is concerned. Governments and business are planning to invest $4.259,000,000 in new machines, buildings, roads and machine tools compared with $3,766,000,000 last year.

Manpower limit

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) —The Senate voted Wednesday for a manpower limit of 4,000,000 of America's armed forces. That gives the military a 500,000-men leeway over the figures they have talked about in public but applies a curb which they have said might be a danger in emergency.

Pastors Dislike Prayer For Rain

HOBART, Tasmania —(CP)— Two clergymen here turned down a request by the Lord Mayor, Alderman Park, that they offer prayers for rain.

The Lord Mayor had asked all clergymen in the city to offer special prayers when less than 50 days' supply remained in the city's reservoirs. While most churches gave support to the request, two refused it.

The Rev. J. Mackie, a congregational minister, asked "Why should God be treated as a water diviner when he asks to be saviour, lord and king? I warrant the first good fall of rain will dissolve a great deal of piety in this latest approach to God."

The minister added a counterblast that "a pipeline and complete irrigation system could be provided from the money spent on liquor and gambling."

The Rev. H. L. Dunn, Presbyterian and president of the Tasmanian branch of the World Council of Churches, also rejected the request with the statement that he was never impressed by such calls to prayer.

While heads of other churches gave support to the lord mayor's requests, the city remained critically short of water.

The secret of its simplicity? . . . It's made with A.B.C. SALMON—packed and ready-to-serve—with no fuss, no bother, no waste! Try this dish with either of these two A.B.C. Salmons—A.B.C. Fancy Pink or A.B.C. Fancy Keta—both of them marvelously flavourful in hot dishes.

PLANKED SALMON
Two ½-lb. cans of A.B.C. Salmon
Mashed potatoes to serve 4
1 can string beans
2 tbspns. cream
2 tbspns. melted butter
Take the Salmon from cans, drain and cut in halves. Space evenly in centre of well-greased baking plank or cookie sheet; place in 350 deg. F. oven for 5 minutes. Baste with cream to keep deliciously moist. Heat beans. Mash and season potatoes. Remove Salmon from oven, drain beans and surround Salmon. Circle plank with potatoes fluffed into peaks. Over beans and potatoes put melted butter and place in oven for 15 minutes or until potatoes are browned. Serve on baking plate or platter piping hot. Serves 4.

Does Your Home need a new Spring Wardrobe, too? One of the easiest most inexpensive ways I know to "dress up" your home for Spring is to perk up faded curtains with Tintex Curtain Peach or 'Curtain Ecru! Yes, you can have fresh, new-looking curtains overnight with this Tintex beauty-treatment. Takes so little time—costs so little—and the results are, well—they're Tintex-beautiful! You'll be thrilled with the way your Tintex-dyed curtains look when that friendly Spring sunshine shines through them! Yes, for a home—and a wardrobe—with the "Spring Sunshine" look . . . ask for All-fabric TINTEX TINTS AND DYES at your drug, department or variety store! Just 15c a package!

March Weather isn't kind to us poor mortals—it mows and blows and blows some more . . . and often the result is aches 'n' pains that keep us awake 'til the wee, small hours! Well, they needn't bother us at all! All we have to do is reach for SLOAN'S LINIMENT! No trouble—no fuss! Just pat it on and it works wonderfully quickly to bring you welcome relief from pain! Yes, if you're suffering from stiff neck—sprains—rheumatism or neuralgia, you'll find that the soothing, penetrating heat of Sloan's Liniment gets right to the heart of the hurt! Ask for Sloan's Liniment at any drugstore—just 50c for the small-sized bottle—90c for the large.

When Your Husband takes to singing — "Oh how I hate to get up in the morning"— you'd better start serving WAGSTAFFE PURE SEVILLE ORANGE MARMALADE for breakfast! One taste of Wagstaffe—and he'll soon change his tune! Particularly right now when the NEW PACK is at your grocer's. It's just been freshly-made from specially-imported Spanish Seville oranges—and it tastes out of this world. Yes, Wagstaffe marmalade is tangier, more delicious—because Wagstaffe imports fine juicy Sevilles direct from Spain. The best marmalade is made from real Spanish Seville oranges, so get Wagstaffe and enjoy the "real thing." The NEW PACK is extra delicious—marmalade at its best. Ask your grocer today for the NEW PACK of Wagstaffe Pure Seville Orange Marmalade.

When Is Lunch A Lark? When there's extra energy Horlicks on the table! Youngsters love energy-building HORLICKS—and that's a good thing, because research shows that a normal, healthy child burns up almost twice as much energy per pound of weight as a hard-working man. And that's why Horlicks is so good for your children. For it practically doubles the energy value of milk, makes it easier to digest. You see, Horlicks is a balanced food made from full cream milk, plus nutrients of wheat and barley, modified by enzymes to increase digestibility. Your whole family will benefit from drinking Horlicks—so ask for it at your drug or food store next time you shop!

Pot-Lickers Are In Luck when you've just been making something wonderful with BAKER'S UNSWEETENED CHOCOLATE! It has such glorious, rich flavour—such creamy smoothness. I use Baker's Chocolate in all my chocolate recipes. For it's all pure chocolate, with nothing added—nothing taken away. Each handy, 1-ounce square of Baker's is full of luxurious, satin-smooth perfection—sumptuous, scrumptious good taste. Yes, you make cakes, frostings and candies that are just that much more delicious when you use Baker's Chocolate!

One Of The Most Exciting Flavours you can use in your cooking is the flavour of fresh, juicy lemons! Lemons with vegetables—with baked beans—with fish—in pies and in your baking. But make sure the lemons you use are SUNKIST CALIFORNIA LEMONS. They're the finest, juiciest grown! . . .

LEMON MERINGUE PIE
Bring to a boil in saucepan on direct heat:
1 cup water or milk
¾ cup sugar
¼ tspn. salt
1 tspn. grated Sunkist lemon peel
Add:
5 tbspns. cornstarch, blended with ½ cup cold water
Cook over low heat until thickened (about 5 minutes), stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add separately, mixing well each time:
2 well-beaten egg yolks
1 tbspn. butter
6 tbspns. Sunkist lemon juice
Pour into an 8-inch baked or crumb crust pie shell. Top with meringue. Brown.

It's Heart-Winning, Head Spinning . . . the wonderful FRIGIDAIRE DE LUXE REFRIGERATOR. On your next shopping trip step into your Frigidaire dealer's and see it . . . then you'll agree that nothing can equal Canada's No. 1 Refrigerator . . . inside or out! See its lustrous Ice Blue trim, its adjustable and sliding aluminum shelves, its extra-deep porcelain fruit and vegetable Hydrators that stack up, its Double-Easy Quick-Cube Ice Trays. All in all it's just the kind of beautifully styled, well constructed, wonderfully convenient refrigerator you'd expect from the builder of those fine General Motors cars. See all the latest Frigidaire Refrigerators soon.

Having "Hand Trouble" from using some of those no-rinse chemicals on washday? Then take my advice and do as so many other women are doing today—change to Duz for white white washes without red hands! You see DUZ combines great quantities of rich, real soap with two active detergents. That's why Duz gives you such dazzling clean, white washes—yet is milder, kinder to your hands than any no-rinse chemical suds! Ask for Duz in the Giant Economy Size package—see how fast, how clean, how safely. Duz does Everything!

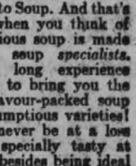
I've Thoroughly Enjoyed reading your letters about BOVRIL . . . and your favourite uses and recipes for it. Here's a recipe from Mrs. R. Vanstone, 401 Green St., Whitby, Ont.—I'm sure you'll enjoy it as much as I have!—

Beef Patties

Make a pastry as for pies. Chill.

Filling:
2 cups leftover beef cubed
½ cup onions chopped
½ cup chopped celery
1 cup raw cubed potatoes
1 tspn. Worcestershire sauce
1 tspn. salt
½ tspn. pepper
½ tspn. paprika
2 tspns. Bovril Concentrate with water to make about ¾ cup

Mix all ingredients, except broth, together. Divide pastry into two parts and roll each part out to size of a pie plate. Put half of the mixture on half of each circle. Turn the empty half over to make a turnover and pinch edges together. Make slits in top of each. Bake in oven of 425 deg. for 30 minutes. As patties bake pour in the broth so that filling will not be dry. Do this several times until broth is used. Patties may be cut in 2 to 3 pieces.



Such Lovely Fashion Colours this Spring . . . the soft mauves and pinks and the clean, Spring blues make it a pleasure to choose your Spring dress fabric. And, of course, for the final, "finishing" touch to your Spring dress, you'll want a LIGHTNING SLIDE FASTENER. Yes, on a simple daytime dress or a gorgeous evening gown, a Lightning Fastener is the modern "must have". And here's a tip:—if you can't find a Lightning Fastener to match the exact shade of the material you've chosen—buy it in white . . . Style No. 701 for dresses—Style No. 804 for skirts. Lightning's plain metal fasteners on white tape can be dyed to any shade—by you—at home. And, remember—All Lightning Fasteners, whether plain metal or enamelled, are fitted with the double prong self-locking slider exclusive to Lightning. They lock where they stop!

P.S.—For "Sew and Save Week" (March 4-10)—Sew and Save with Lightning!

Bright Beginning To A Lenten Meal . . . that's HEINZ CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP! Rosy-red and tempting to look at . . . and, mmm-m! — that marvelous, true flavour! Yes, all the warm, sweet succulence of Canada's finest tomatoes is captured in the fresh flavour of Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup. And that's not surprising when you think of it, for this luscious soup is made by the Heinz soup specialists. They combine long experience with great skill to bring you the very best of flavour-packed soup . . . eighteen scrumptious varieties! No, you need never be at a loss for something specially tasty at mealtime. For, besides being ideal as a first-course, Heinz Soups add excitement to all kinds of dishes—stews, gravies and yes, even salads. So "stock up" now on Heinz Condensed Soups! You know they're good because they're Heinz!

In This "In-Between" Season — between Christmas and Spring Housecleaning, I'm delighted to find something to lighten 'n' brighten my home! And WINDEX SPRAY is a real home-brightener . . . quickest way to make mirrors, windows and picture glass sparkle like crystal! Furnace dust and kitchen film disappear from glass in a jiffy . . . Windex Spray is so easy to use! No pails of dirty water—no hard rubbing when you use Windex! Just spray it on and wipe it off—that's all! Windex leaves no dust in corners—no oily, waxy film. Yes, Windex saves mess 'n' bother—time 'n' money. It's thriftiest of all in the big 20-ounce refill size . . . and remember, it works best when you use it sparingly! Get Windex at your grocer's or housecleaning supply centre next time you're shopping!

Everyone Likes Feather-Light Pancakes—"done to a turn", then smothered with golden butter and maple syrup. M-mmm! And specially so—if they're AUNT JEMIMA READY-MIX PANCAKES! Besides the fact that they always turn out just right—they're easy as 1-2-3 to prepare! Just add milk or water—stir—and pop your Aunt Jemimas on the griddle. In just seconds—off they come, luscious as a dream! Serve them with bacon or sausages, if you wish. Families like them that way. In fact, families like them any way at all . . . at any time of day—breakfast, lunch or supper. Treat your family to Aunt Jemima Ready-Mix Pancakes—often. They're one of the most budget-wise ways I know of keeping families happy!

Modern Science has contributed brilliantly to a problem which has long concerned us women — intimate feminine cleanliness. ZONITORS are the perfect result of much research and work . . . and thousands of women find them the most satisfactory method of feminine hygiene ever used! Greaseless—stainless—snow-white vaginal suppositories . . . Zonitors are daintier, more convenient—powerfully germicidal, yet absolutely safe to delicate tissues! NO WASH, NO WIPE TONIGHT!

NEW DREFT DOES BOTH AND DISHES SHINE

ALL YOU DO IS RINSE even pots and pans glisten!

YOU DON'T WASH . . . instead of washing dishes just let them soak in warm Dreft suds for 2 minutes. Dreft floats grease and food particles away. Your hands barely touch the dishwater. All you have to do is rinse the dishes, giving a swish of the cloth where needed, and presto! They're done!

YOU DON'T WIPE . . . New Self-Washing Dreft leaves no dishwater film. It washes dishes and glasses so clean, they shine—even without wiping.

YOU DON'T SCOUR . . . Even pots and pans soak clean. Dreft's amazing "float-away" action gets under grease . . . lifts it off. Then grease rinses away . . . without scouring.

BEAUTY TIP! New Dreft is so mild, and your hands are in water so little, it leaves hands beautifully white and soft!

Holt Estate Only $5,000 Despite Success

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 8 (AP) Newspaper readers were shocked recently when the estate of the late Jack Holt was announced. Despite a distinguished film career dating back to 1913, he left only $5,000, mostly in personal belongings.

Onetime matinee idol Maurice Costello died with an estate too small to be probated—$91.55.

Jean Harlow left $41,000, a meagre amount considering she had been a top star for a decade and was earning $4,000 a week at her death.

Many another star has died leaving the heirs only a stack of press clippings and unpaid bills.

How does this happen? There are three main reasons:

1. Stars don't make as much money as most people think. A lot of the established stars can draw fabulous salaries. But many of the newcomers do not.

Heavy Taxes

Even stars who make big salaries have difficulty keeping any of it. Taxes can take three-quarters or more. They have to pay 10 per cent to their agent and often five per cent more to a press agent. And there are dozens of other drains on their earnings.

2. Stars have to live like stars. There is no rule to this effect, but all of them live up to the standard expected of them.

3. Stars sometimes make bad investments. The acting profession is not noted for its stability. Often stars can make poor decisions which can erase whatever savings they may have accumulated. By that time, their popularity may have faded and their earning power vanished.

THE EXPRESSION on the face of Neil Shurmur, 3, of Rochester, Mich., would indicate that he was not fully confident his dog, Masterbid, can perform the stunt of leaping through a loop. The Doberman Pinscher is being put through his paces in preparation for a Detroit Kennel Club show.

Jobless Claims Down

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP). — Claims for unemployment insurance benefits declined five per cent during January over the corresponding month last year, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday. Claims during the month totalled 172,269, compared with 182,053 for January, 1950. Declines were recorded in Ontario and British Columbia, but slight increases were registered in the other provinces.

185,000 Involved

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) —The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported Wednesday that 185,000 workers were involved in strikes which started during January. The number of walkouts during the month was 400, double the December figure. Most of these were brief, local strikes.

4 U.S. Citizens Killed In Quebec

QUEBEC, March 8 — (CP). — Bodies of four United States residents killed Wednesday in a level crossing accident 30 miles from here, were brought to Quebec where a coroner's inquest will probably be held today.

Killed in the collision between a Canadian National Railways train and an automobile in which the victims were riding were: Dr. H. R. Siewell, 47, Woods Hole, Mass., and three other persons, believed by police to be his wife, 'teen-age daughter and young son.

OSLO — (CP). — The Salvation Army in Norway is marking its 50th anniversary. Today the army operates 28 stations, 16 nurseries, and 10 summer vacation homes in various parts of the country.

To Be Called Up

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) — The Army Wednesday announced it would order to active duty 12,650 additional lieutenants and captains—including women—by June 29. This will bring the total number of company grade officers on active duty to about 40,000. Some 150 women's army corps officers are among reservists to be called.

Outside Jurisdiction

The resoluation was tabled after it was suggested that the matter was ouside the city's jurisdiction.

Legislature Predicts Expanding Economic Future For Newfoundland

By The Canadian Press.

An expanding economic future for Canada's newest province was predicted Wednesday in the Newfoundland Legislature.

The throne speech — formal voice of government policy — read at the opening of the 1951 session forecast expansion of present industrial development and "the beginning of a relatively long period of expanding earning power for the people in general."

Lieutenant-Governor Sir Leonard Outerbridge, who read the throne speech, said that if the plan were successful "my government would join with a very large and important financial corporation in the United States" to form a Newfoundland-American development corporation to carry out a program of industrial development in the province.

With the start of the session in St. John's, Newfoundland became the 10th province to begin legislature deliberations this year.

In Charlottetown, R. R. Bell, Conservative opposition leader, moved a motion of non-confidence in the Prince Edward Island government. It was in the form of an amendment to the throne speech reply and it expressed regret that the government had failed to give leadership in agriculture, to protect provincial rights under confederation. It also accused the government of being inefficient.

Rap Financial Policies

In Fredericton, the financial policies of New Brunswick's Liberal government were attacked by H. J. Fleming, Progressive Conservative financial critic. He accused the "spendthrift McNair administration" of 15 years of "Liberal misrule."

In Halifax, Premier Angus L. Macdonald said he expects to present his budget today. It is expected to contain provision for a sales tax in Nova Scotia, the first increase in taxation in the province in years.

In Quebec, Paul Earl, a Liberal member from Montreal, urged the federal and provincial governments to help Montreal build a subway system. He said it was an absolute necessity to relieve traffic congestion and to provide air raid shelters in Canada's biggest city.

In Winnipeg, demands for higher salaries for non-professional personnel in Manitoba government mental institutions were heard from the three parties. E. C. Hansford, CCF leader, Errick F. Willis, Progressive Conservative leader, and T. P. Hillhouse, a Liberal, joined in criticising salaries to mental hospital employees.

Too Much Profit

In Regina, Walter Tucker, Liberal leader, said the fur marketing service operated by the Saskatchewan CCF government was making too much profit. He said it had made $7,453 last year and suggested it should be operated in a manner that would just about break even.

In Edmonton, Liberal Leader J. Harper Prowse described the Alberta Social Credit government's $94,000,000 budget as a measure "taken in haste" and designed to win back some of the votes it lost in last year's by-election in the constituency of Olds. He said the government was using the budget as a means of getting rid of an embarrassing amount of money rather than meeting "the real problems of the province."

In Victoria, Health Minister Douglas Turnbull introduced proposed changes in British Columbia's hospital insurance scheme. The government plans to increase annual premiums for families from $33 to $42 a year and for single persons from $21 to $30. The changes would be effective July 1. Hospital insurance was introduced two years ago and now is $7,000,000 in the red.

House Discusses Need For Assistance To Disabled

OTTAWA, March 8. (CP)—The Commons talked Wednesday about the need for giving a hand to Canada's disabled citizens, but never got around to doing anything about it. It heard from a prominent physician-member, Dr. W. G. Blair (PC-Lanark), that many handicapped persons, now considered incurable, can be rehabilitated and taught to earn their own bread and butter.

And Paul Emile Cote (L-Verdun-LaSalle), parliamentary assistant to Labor Minister Gregg, reported that the Labor Department's National Employment Service has found jobs for 81,700 handicapped persons during the last six years. In 1950 alone, jobs were found for 10,970.

Health Minister Martin said a survey is under way to determine the number of incurables in Canada.

The debate developed on a private motion by Lionel Bertrand (L-Terrebonne) urging the government to give financial aid to those unable to earn their own living.

Gains Support

More than a dozen members from all parties expressed support of the resolution, before the House for the sixth straight year. No action was taken before the brief Wednesday sitting ended.

Dr. Blair said many physically or mentally incapacitated have not had the advantage of an education which would enable them to earn a living.

While he felt it would be difficult to work out a system of allowances for the handicapped, he suggested a start could be made immediately by providing assistance for those designated as absolutely incurable cripples.

Mr. Cote suggested the Labor Department, in co-operation with the Health and Veterans Departments, might be able to work out a formula. The Department was doing what it could within its own jurisdiction.

Important Job

M. J. Coldwell, CCF Leader, felt that Canada, if she could find billions for defence, surely could allot enough money to give some comfort to the disabled.

Solon Low, Social Credit Leader, agreed that some step to provide assistance should be taken.

Bona Arsenault (L-Bonaventure) noted that the problem comes within the exclusive jurisdiction of the provinces and suggested the Federal Government could not effectively take remedial steps without their co-operation.

HMCS CAYUGA BOASTS one of the most up-to-date collections of model airplanes in the Royal Canadian Navy, thanks to the carving talents of Able Seaman Fred Hughes, of Winnipeg. As a result of his handiwork, the Cayuga has 15 models of the latest Russian type aircraft and their corresponding Allied planes. AB Hughes has also been working on a scale model of the Cayuga and hopes to have it completed by the time the ship returns to Canada this spring. In the above photo, AB Hughes, right, holding a model of a Russian MIG-15, compares it with an American F-86 held by Ldg. Sea. Glen Clemmett, of Vancouver.

Soviet To Use 24 Billions On Arms Budget

MOSCOW, March 8 —(AP)—Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev presented to the supreme Soviet (parliament) Wednesday night a budget calling for an arms expenditure of 96,376,000,000 rubles in 1951—16,976,000,000 rubles more than last year.

Prime Minister Stalin himself was present with other important politburo members to witness the introduction of the budget, totalling 457,900,000,000 rubles, which reflected the quickening Soviet preparedness measures.

Russia values her ruble at 25 cents. At this rate the defense budget would be $24,094,000,000, or $4,244,000,000 more than last year. The 1950 defense budget was 79,400,000,000 rubles, including 15,000,000,000 rubles for the navy.

Exact Comparison Difficult

(An exact comparison with U.S. defense expenditures is difficult without a breakdown of the Russian budget showing appropriations under other items which might be of military value.

President Truman has asked Congress for a national survival budget of $71,594,000,000, of which $41,421,000,000 is disted for direct military purposes and $7,461,000,000 for international security, (mostly in the form of aid to other nations).

Zverey's figures showed 21.3 per cent of the total budget will go for defense. Last year the percentage was 18.5. The total budget was 400,000,000 rubles more than last year.

Howe Gets New Broom Present From Conservative

OTTAWA, March 8.—(CP). — Trade Minister Howe got a broom Wednesday right on the floor of a laughing House of Commons.

It was the gift of A. J. Brooks (PC Royal), who figuratively stuck it down Mr. Howe's throat.

Mr. Brooks recalled that in a recent House exchange about industries in New Brunswick Mr. Howe had said a certain company —T. S. Simms and Co. of Saint John—didn't make broom

Mr. Brooks said the firm makes brooms by the gross. To sweep away the "bad advertisement" and as a gesture to the erring Mr. Howe, the firm had asked him to present one sample to the minister.

The broom was borne across the floor by a page. Mr. Howe accepted it and noted that Mr. Simms himself was in the gallery.

"I am sure," said the minister, fingering his new possession, "he will be delighted with the advertising he has had in the House. I think perhaps we can leave it at that."

Federal Proposal Opens Ways To Pension Plan

TORONTO, March 8. (CP)—A new proposal by the Federal Government has opened the way to final agreement on the Federal-Provincial plan for universal old-age pensions, Premier Frost told the Ontario Legislature Wednesday.

Mr. Frost tabled a letter from Justice Minister Garson containing two alternate suggestions for a constitutional amendment necessary to the joint pensions plan, and said that either of them was the answer to his objection to a previous Federal proposal.

The latest suggestions would stipulate that Federal Government pension laws would not interfere with Provincial pension laws. Mr. Frost said that his earlier objection, shared by Nova Scotia and Quebec, was to the wording of a proposed constitutional amendment which he said might have barred the provinces from passing pension legislation.

The pension scheme calls for Federal payment of universal pensions over 70 and Federal-Provincial financing of pensions for the needy over 65.

Two New Hydro Bills

In a busy sitting Wednesday the Legislature was given two new government bills dealing with hydro, dealt with four opposition bills in the regular private members' day, and approved budget estimates totalling $2,203,100 for the Lieutenant-Governor's office, the mines department, and the provincial secretary's main office expenses.

One of the two new bills, introduced by G. H. Challies, vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, will allow municipal hydro commissions to take over their own frequency conversion programs.

Mr. Challies said the bill is aimed at speeding completion of the province-wide program begun in 1949 to standardize hydro-electric frequency at 60 cycles. It will allow municipal commissions to let contracts for their own change-over work.

The second bill will authorize increased diversion of water from the Niagara and Welland rivers for the proposed giant redevelopment of Niagara power resources. It also provides for construction of the Sir Adam Beck generating station No. 2, in connectio with the expansion.

Bill Gets Hoist

An opposition bill—duplicate of many previous ones—to provide free milk in schools was given a six-month hoist, on a recorded vote of 44 to 32.

The bill, proposed by A. A. MacLeod (Lab.-Prog., Toronto Bellwoods), would give school boards the power to provide free milk. Agnes Macphail (CCF-York East) and Harry Nixon (L-Brant) spoke in support of the bill.

Education Minister Porter, in moving a six-month hoist to kill the bill, said present experiments in free milk and other foods at school will be continued, and the question considered later.

A bill by C. H. Millard (CCF-York West) to allow insurance agents to induce persons to change insurance policies from one company to another, except where the agent uses false or misleading statements, was defeated.

Mr. Millard said that the present law kept insurance agents from offering advice to people who needed to change their policies.

Attorney-General Porter said the bill would weaken the present law, passed to prevent insurance agents from collecting commissions by inducing people to switch policies.

A second bill, by J. L. Dowling (CCF-Hamilton East), was also defeated. It would transfer the work of present accident prevention associations, now operated by employer groups, to the Workmen's Compensation Board and give the board power to order safety measures.

Day-long Closing

A bill to provide for day-long closing of stores each week was referred to the legislature's municipal law committee. Its sponsor, G. T. Gordon (L-Brantford), said the change from the present half-day closing had been asked by the Retail Merchant Association of Ontario.

"There is no need at present for more than one civil service commissioner for the province," Premier Frost told the Legislature Wednesday.

In reply to a question by CCF leader Jolliffe, Mr. Frost said he didn't think two additional commissioners were needed on the commission which supervises civil servants.

The question was raised during consideration of budget estimates for an $82,650 expenditure for the commission. The Legislature went out of committee of supply without taking a vote on the estimate.

The Premier said there had been "real grounds for complaint" that the joint advisory council to the commission did not sit regularly. This now had been remedied, with the commissioner, C. J. Foster, meeting regularly with the six-member advisory council.

Claims Junior Helpless With Horses

Age Has Turned To Mechanization Gone To Extreme

"We are living with the first generation of Peterborough farmers who can't put a collar on a horse," said Dr. Arthur M. Johnston to the Examiner today in a general observation of a radical change of practice and custom in the townships.

"For the first time since our forefathers came into this section of the province, perhaps 135 years ago, young men of the farms are helpless around horses. I am not saying anything in a way of criticism, except perhaps that the swing to mecnanization has gone to an extreme, because we have all seen especially during the war years the scarcity of labor and the increasing dependence on machines."

No Hides On Tractors

"But, as some man said the other day, and I think worth noting, you can't get a hide off an old tractor.

"What I am pointing out is only the change that is taking place before our eyes. I often wonder how many of our young farmers know what is the names of harness, or the breeching, or surcingle. They don't have to learn these things, because they no longer have any use for horses. But, ask them about tractors and motor cars, and see what they know....Just all the answers.

"I'd wager that there are lots of young farmers who never cleaned a set of harness. In fact I'd go further and say that except those men who have show horses you could find hardly a clean set of harness anywhere."

Loss of Interest

"That does not mean that farmers have become careless about things. It is nothing but loss of interest in horses and their use.

"Do you know, there is many a farm boy and girl in this district who never drove in buggy or cutter, and I could go further and say that younger married farmers never drove through a pitch-hole. Even in my day these were common things, and that's not so long ago.

"It used to be that young town fellows wouldn't know how to put a bridle on a horse and complete hitching to a light wagon, but today there is a steadily increasing number of farm young people who are just as helpless, because they don't have the experience."

"How many veterinary surgeons pick up a horse's foot today? Mighty few are willing to take that chance. Horses are not broken in, and for the V.S. he is almost risking his life. Even the blacksmiths hesitate when they go about shoeing. It is all part of the same story of change in agricultural practice right in our own time, and it is something I never expected to see."

Students Given Free Hand In Art-Gaitskell

The day is past when a school art teacher will tell a pupil what to draw, Dr. C. D. Gaitskell declared at a meeting of the Peterborough Teachers' Association Wednesday night.

Dr. Gaitskell, who is director of art education for Ontario, told his audience that the "teacher must let the child tell about his life in his own way."

He was outlining the aims and ideals behind the present system of art teaching in Ontario schools.

More Suggestion

Formerly, he said, the teacher would take a class outside the school and tell them to draw a tree. Chances were the child didn't want to draw a tree, wasn't interested in trees, and didn't produce a good drawing.

Under today's system, the teacher's job is more one of suggestion, planting the seed of an idea in the child's mind. Pictures are suggested by questions such as: What do you do when it is snowing? or What do you do at night?

The early stage of a child's drawing career is scribbling, he said. Average children two and three years old cannot express ideas on paper; they are content to draw lines and blobs.

Use Symbols

With two or three more years of drawing and painting behind him, the child can express himself by means of symbols. A head, two legs and two arms, with some irregular features, represents a human.

Design has little place in the early drawings of a child, Dr. Gaitskell said. But after Grade 3, the picture subject is more often determined by the sex of the artist. Girls tend to draw in brighter colors subjects more interesting to girls.

In Grades 4 and 5, designs begin to improve. And in later years, the child draws or paints subjects that seem less and less personalized.

"Art is the reaction of the child to the life around him," Dr. Gaitskell said. "And without art education, no child is educated."

PATSY JOHNSTON (Lower) received Wednesday the Key Club trophy for the most valuable member of the Senior Dramatic Club this year at PCVS from club president William Carruthers. She has played the leading roles in past two presentations, Life With Father and Quality Street. Also Wednesday the top sales students (Top) in the Echoes circulation contest received their prizes. Front row (left to right), Carol Anne Forbes, co-manager of the publicity and circulation department, awarded prizes to Geraldine Perks who placed second in girls' sales and Martha Aitken, first. Back row, (left to right), Hubert Lowes, co-manager, made presentations to Robert Hutchinson, second, and William King, first in the boys' sales.

Lumber Firm Told To Rehire Five Fired Union Employees

Judge W. S. Lane of Picton, Ontario Labor Relations Board commissioner, has ruled that the Moldaver Bros. Lumber Co. in January fired five employees for union activities. He recommends that all five men be reinstated and that they be compensated for their loss of time.

They are: Harry Berridge, planer; Hilliard Berridge, truck driver; Gerald Patton, yardman; Roy Kempt, truck operator, and John Doherty, yardman.

The charge against the company was brought by Local 527, United Electrical Workers, after the men had been discharged by Mr. Moldaver, allegedly for malingering.

"On the evidence which I received and on the attitude of Mr. Moldaver, I have come to the conclusion that all five men were discharged because of their union affiliations, coupled with the fact of the letter of January 6, 1951, that purported to force Mr. Moldaver's hand on behalf of (Harry) Berridge."

The letter referred to was a demand by the UE that Mr. Moldaver pay Mr. Berridge a week's wages that were allegedly owing.

"Stalling" on Paid Time

Judge Lane agreed that three of the men—Harry and Hilliard Berridge, and Roy Kempt—were "doing considerable stalling and time wasting" on paid time. They were sheltering in a shed on a cold day. But he said there were extenuating circumstances because of the extreme cold of the day and also their particular job was finished.

He found that Messrs. Patton and Doherty didn't waste any time.

The Judge concluded his finding: "It was the union activity of these men that caused their discharge that day; any malingering of which they may have been guilty would have, under other circumstances, resulted in a reprimand at most."

Mr. Moldaver presented the company's case at the hearing on February 19, and John Rowley, UE district organizer, represented the five UE members.

Kenneth Dale Laid To Rest

Friends of Kenneth Dale, 28, of Ottawa, formerly of Peterborough, killed Sunday near Bowmanville, filled the Conmstock Funeral Chapel, Wednesday afternoon to pay their last respects. The Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Anglican church officiated at the brief service.

While driving from Weston to Peterborough, the Dale car went out of control near Bowmanville and crashed into a tree. Mr. Dale was almost instantly killed but his wife was able to walk from the fatal crash and was taken to Bowmanville hospital by a passing motorist Her injuries were not serious

A. C. Ellis, ruling master of Peterborough Lodge, 155, AF and AM, conducted a Masonic service at the graveside

Mr Dale was born in Peterborough and took his primary schooling at the Prince of Wales public school. After 5 years in the RCAF he worked in Toronto and later became a traveller for meat-packing companies. Last January the family moved to Ottawa

Pallbearers for the funeral were: Gordon Simpson, Thomas Bestard, Stanley Thompson, Jack Mervin, Merton Cunningham and George Jenkins

Favor Women Placed On Jury Duty

Move Long Overdue Is Opinion Of Many Interviewed

A survey by the Examiner today failed to show anybody against the principle of women serving as jurors. Many of those interviewed felt it was a move long overdue.

Interest on this matter was sharpened with the announcement that a new bill is to be introduced into the legislature soon permitting Ontario women to serve on juries in both criminal and civil cases.

"I think it's a very good idea," commented W. F. Huycke, KC, city solicitor. "I'm all for it."

He then jocularly related that in 1919 Dean Roscoe Pound of the famed Harvard Law School reported on the success of allowing women to be jurors in California.

"Since women have been jurors in California there has been a pronounced falling off in the number of convictions of handsome young men."

Place On Juries

Mrs. W. E. Fanning, president of the Women's Study Group, said her group had never discussed the subject, but her own opinion was that "women have a very definite place on juries."

"Ontario and Canada have perhaps been just a little slow in doing what has been done elsewhere for a long time," said Mrs. Fanning. "The feminine point of view is very necessary, particularly when a case involves young people or women."

Mrs. John Nornabell, University Women's Club, said she hadn't had an opportunity to give the subject much thought, but on principle she was for the idea.

"I can't see any reason why women shouldn't accept this community responsibility as well as men," she said. "They would be equally impartial and objective."

One woman, who wished to be anonymous, brought up another aspect: while she too was in favor of women jurors as a matter of principle, she believed many of them would shirk jury duty just as many men now do.

Mrs. J. A. Spurway, county clerk and treasurer, thinks the move is long overdue. She points to the fact that in England and the United States there have been women jurors for years.

"There are nearly as many women drivers now as men. Women are permitted to go into cocktail bars and beverage rooms. These two factors are responsible for many women now being up on charges and it is only right that there should be women on juries to try them."

Neither Judge S. L. Smoke or Sheriff John Harstone would comment.

Fred Kiff Head Of Naval Boys

Fred Kiff is the 1951 president of the Peterborough Naval Association. He succeeds Charles (Pete) Meridew.

This is Mr. Kiff's fourth year as president of the Association. He held that office in the three-year period 1947-49.

Following is the complete list of 1951 officers: Fred Kiff, president; Art Pilling, vice president; Robert Graham, secretary; Harry Brown, treasurer; and six executive officers: Cecil McClennan, Don Delong, Ron Teasdale, James Brown. Gordon Stell, and Robert Armstrong.

Mr. Kiff said that the Association is going to start an intensive drive for members.

PORT HOPE SALARIES

Maximum salaries for both men and women teachers in Port Hope public schools have been raised to $3,000 for men and $2,800 for women. A general salary boost of $100 was also authorized.

Left Wales 56 Years Ago With £1 In Pocket Senator W. R. Davies Returns To Be Sheriff

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 8 (Reuters).—Senator W. Rupert Davies, who hopped a boat to Canada from his native Wales when he was 14 with just £1 to his name, returned yesterday to become High Sheriff of Montgomeryshire.

Now the owner of two Ontario evening papers, Davies, 71, arrived at Liverpool on the liner Empress of France with his wife, Margaret. They were married three months ago.

As High Sheriff, a ceremonial post held for one year only and concerned mainly with the administration of justice, he will live in the 18-room Brookland Hall, standing in 200 acres just outside Welshpool. He will be responsible for accommodating visiting judges.

Davies went to Canada in 1895. He arrived Sunday and began work Tuesday as a printer's apprentice.

Twelve years later he bought a weekly newspaper; 10 years later, a larger weekly. Then he bought his two dailies — The Kingston Whig-Standard and The Peterborough Examiner.

Five Directors Appointed To Civilian Defence Plan

Five directors were appointed to head the five divisions of the city's defence plan at the meeting of the central committee this week. George R. Melton was named director of warden services; H. I. Bradburn, director of protection; R. J. Bolton, director of welfare; Gordon Hodgson, director of utilities; and Clarence Neal, director of administration.

Each director was selected after careful consideration by the committee of his ability to meet three major requirements. The first was that he had the experience and ability to handle the job. Second, that he could devote considerable time to the work, and third, that he would be free to attend the necessary civil defence courses that are being planned by the government.

Served In Two Wars

Mr. Melton, the director of warden services, has had a varied business and military career, and is particularly well fitted for this important planning and administrative position. Mr. Melton served in both Great Wars, and held the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in World War II. He is associated with J. K. Hughes Company, and has long been active in local affairs.

In appointing Mr. Bradburn as director of protection, the committee felt there was probably no one more familiar with the city departments which will come under this division. Mr. Bradburn was an alderman for nine years, and his experience in civic administration will be invaluable in this work. Mr. Bradburn is managing director of Bradburns Limited and is a lawyer.

Able Executive

Mr. Neal, president of the Outboard Marine & Manufacturing Company of Canada Limited, is ideally suited for the position of director of administration. Mr. Neal is one of the most able executives in the province, and will bring to the Defence Organization the experience of a long and successful career in administration and executive work.

The director of welfare, Mr. Bolton, is a well-known Peterborough citizen, who has been particularly active in civic and municipal affairs. Mr. Bolton is chairman of the Peterborough Recreation Committee, and is the principal of Prince of Wales School. During World War II Mr. Bolton was a Lieutenant-Colonel and he held administrative and staff appointments which, in addition to his other capabilities, will be extremely helpful in this section of Civil Defence. organization.

As director of utilities, the committee feels that in Mr. Hodgson they have an administrator well qualified for this planning and co-ordinating position. Mr. Hodgson is Assistant Works Accountant of the Canadian General Electric Company, and, prior to coming to Peterborough, was travelling auditor for the CGE. Mr. Hodgson has had a wide and varied experience in various organizing activities which are so necessary in Civil Defence work.

At the next meeting of the Coordinating Committee Peterborough's general Defence Plan will be discussed with these new directors, and work will begin immediately in extending the general plan to each of these Divisions. As soon as possible, subdirectors will be appointed to the various sections under each division of the plan.

Robert H. Ross Dies Aged 79

Robert H. Ross, 502 Water St., who retired from the staff of Fashion Craft store two months ago, died suddenly at his home early this morning. His age was 79.

Mr. Ross was born at West Zorra, Ont., son of Hector Ross and his wife, Ellen Sutherland. He was educated in Woodstock schools, went into drygoods merchandising, and came to Peterborough 56 years ago beginning a long engagement with the Richard Hall store when Mr. Hall was the proprietor in the premises on the north side of Simcoe St., present site of Elim Tabernacle, and subsequently on George St.

Retired on January 13

In later years Mr. Ross had been employed in the men's wear business under Mr. George Hildebrand of Fashion Craft, retiring on January 13. On that occasion he was presented with a fine gold watch from the company and gifts from the staff and other business men with whom he had long been associated. His memories of retailing customs and the successive proprietors of business houses down town extended over half a century.

Mr. Ross was predeceased in 1924 by his wife, whose maiden name was Catherine Ross. He leaves his daughter, Mrs. Robert Baldwin of Peterborough, two sisters, Mrs. E. Caister of Tavistock, and Mrs. T. Moyer of Woodstock, and a granddaughter, Mary Helen Baldwin.

Mr. Ross was an adherent of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. The funeral will take place Saturday at 2 p.m. from the Kaye funeral home, George St., to Little Lake cemetery. The service will be conducted by Rev. Charles G. Boyd of St. Paul's Church.

Bitter With Sweet

COBOURG, March 8.—(ENS).—The bitter with the sweet has been received by the Cobourg Public Utilities Commission. Right on the heels of the welcome news that the rebate from the HEPC to Cobourg is $12,972.25 came a bill for $12,360.28, being Cobourg's share for one year of the frequency switchover in Western Ontario.

No Witnesses Crown Asks For Dismissal

Failed To Subpoena Witnesses In Fur Coat Case

The drawn-out court case of Mrs. Dorothy Chambers, Leahy's Lane, charged with stealing a fur coat came to end today when the crown gave up and offered no evidence. The charge was dismissed.

Asked by the magistrate whether the crown was ready to proceed, Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw K.C., said "Unfortunately the witnesses haven't been subpoenaed for this and under the circumstances I'm offering no evidence."

Mrs. Chambers was originally charged last fall with stealing $395 from John F. Donoghue, 308 Park St.

After evidence was finally heard Feb. 1, the crown asked that the charge be amended to charge the woman with stealing a fur coat valued at $395, instead of the cash.

The trial was brought to a close and the case dismissed when Gordon H. T. Farquharson agreed that there was no evidence of any offence taking place between March 1 and April 4, 1950, as the charge stated.

Laid New Charge

The crown then laid a new charge dating the alleged offence as taking place in September. This date was derived from the evidence of Saul Kelman, Toronto fur wholesaler, who testified that in September he had sent Mrs. Chambers a credit note for the fur coat that had been sold to Donoghue by Mrs. Chambers in the spring. This indicated that Mrs. Chambers had sent the coat to him and received a credit in her account for the wholesale price of the coat.

In the face of the new charge, Mr. Farquharson Feb. 15 entered a plea of "autre fois acquit," claiming that his client had been charged with exactly the same offence previously and should not have to stand trial twice on the same charge.

Magistrate W. R. Philp K.C. ruled that the new date made the latest charge quite a different charge from the previous one and he therefore would not allow the autre fois acquit plea.

Mr. Farquharson would not consent to the same evidence being used in the second charge as that used in the first. The crown then asked for another two weeks to get the crown witnesses back to Peterborough.

However the witnesses were not subpoenaed and did not appear today. At this point the crown offered no evidence.

Crerar Declares Third War Already Tragic Fact

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP)—Gen. H. D. G. Crerar said today the third world war already is "a tragic fact" that puts Canada in a "desperate situation" because of lack of trained military manpower.

The former commander of the first Canadian army called for a system of compulsory military training that would place 60,000 to 70,000 young Canadians a year in uniform for six full months and then post them to part-time reserve units for two years.

He told Ottawa's Canadian Club that Canada has no right to "assume that we have any spare time whatsoever" and that even if compulsory training were ordered tomorrow it would be at least a year before the first trainees were ready for action.

In a speech prepared for delivery, he said:

1. Korea was the opening battle in a long conflict "with a sphere of action probably involving the greater part of the world."

2. The democracies are "dangerously handicapped" and must launch a "massive mobilization of their military strength" now.

Can't Be Sure

3. The government's $5,000,000,000 three-year defence program is impressive but Canada has no justification for believing she'll have three months, let alone three years, to prepare.

4. There is danger in the belief that war can be won by concentrating on the pre-war development of air power—as Canada is doing. Wishful thinking should not "unbalance the total of our military preparations" because it will be the infantrymen who will once again decide the victory.

5. Canada must be prepared to handle "serious domestic threats" and troubles on a scale never before known in the political, industrial and economic fields once Moscow signals her Communists to go to work on sabotage.

Gen. Crerar said the Communist tide might begin to recede in two years if, by then, enough actual, immediate employable military power is arrayed against the Red world.

Internally, Canada once again was relying heavily on a reserve army which was in a "very alarming" state, incapable of any serious duties. Instead of a six-division, 180,000-man force envisaged by the government in 1946, possibly not more than 10,000 of its men were ready to fight.

COBOURG, March 8 (ENS)—The carnival staged at the recreational centre last night by the Cobourg Figure Skating Club packed the arena. Seventy members ranging from three years to early twenties put on an attractive program under the direction of club professional Shirley Luffman.

The costumes were beautiful and the first carnival effort by the club drew very favorable comment. Visiting stars were Sonjia and Mike Fenner of the Granite Club Toronto, Jack Martin of Peterborough, Rudy Eymann of Oshawa, Eric and Len Loevenmark of Port Hope.

Locusts On Move

HAIFA, Israel, March 8 (Reuters). — Large swarms of locusts, believed to have crossed from Jordan territory, Wednesday were reported seen in the Jordan Valley area. Reports from Jordan said a large part of the country's manpower was fighting the pests.

Sabotage Charges

INDIANAPOLIS, March 8 — (AP). — Sabotage charges were filed Wednesday against a Camp Atterbury airplane mechanic accused of disabling two planes. Police said Sgt. Henry V. Green, 23, of Niagara, Wis., "just wanted to keep the planes from flying." He said the mechanic denied he wanted to see any firemen injured or killed.

TRADE UNIONIST—Albert Frederick MacDonald is Liberal member of Parliament for the Alberta constituency of Edmonton East. Born June 13, 1901, in Winnipeg, he is a former cashier for the Canadian National Railways. He served with the Edmonton Fusiliers in the Second World War. A past president of the Edmonton Labor Council, Mr. MacDonald was first elected to the House in 1949.

Spend $453,538 On Plan

OTTAWA, March 8.—(CP). — The Government reported Wednesday that $53,538 has been spent to date on the plan for improvement of the national capital. A Commons return tabled for C W. Hodgson (PC-Victoria, Ont.) said $51,114 has been paid to Jacques Greber, French architect, fathering the development.

Cuts Foot With Axe

ROSENEATH, March 8 (ENS) —Charles Elder, helping his brother-in-law Willis Timlin, cut wood, cut a deep gash in his left foot. He was rushed to the office of Dr. W. E. Wilkins, Cobourg, where several stitches were necessary to close the incision.

Easter Program Marks Fenella WMS Meeting

ROSENEATH, March 8—(ENS) Mrs. R. C. White entertained member of the WMS of Fenella United Church at the Roseneath parsonage on Tuesday.

The president, Mrs. N. C. Leach, presided over the devotional and business period with Mrs. Laurie Hope, secretary. Mrs. Frank Down was pianist. Theme of the meeting was centred around the Easter program. Mrs. Laurie Hope presented a chapter of the study book.

Mrs. Gordon Jewell was in charge of an Easter program assisted by Mrs. Marcus Lonsberry and Mrs. Carl McNaught and a piano solo by Mrs. Frank Down. Mrs. White served afternoon tea.

Rescued By Sub

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 8—(AP). — Thirteen fliers aboard a Navy PBM flying boat, which made a forced landing at sea 25 miles west of here Wednesday night, were rescued uninjured by the United States submarine Carp. It was the second such rescue here in eight days. Last Wednesday, the submarine Sterlet picked up 12 fliers when their FBY seaplane made an emergency landing.

Confesses Killing

ALGIERS, March 8 (Reuters). —A 16-year-old Arab boy told police Wednesday he had found a human hand while tidying up the flower shop in which he worked. Investigators found two boxes full of human remains. They arrested florist Joseph Jorino, who they said confessed killing his partner, Laiachi Ali, and cutting the body into 13 pieces.

Secondary Use

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—Four of New York state's big horse tracks are being equipped to serve as warehouses and emergency centres in event of enemy attack, the state civil defence commission announced Wednesday. The state's five racing associations were setting aside $50,000 for the purchase of cots, blankets and foodstuffs to be stored at Saratoga, Belmont Park, Aqueduct and Jamaica.

Auxiliary Holds Easter Meeting

NORWOOD, March 8 (ENS).—The March meeting of the Young Women's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mrs. Duncanson. The roll call showed 11 members present. The program was in charge of Mrs. William Golloher who gave a reading Feed My Lambs. Mrs. Burt sang a solo, "Just When I Need Him Most." The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Rothwell. Mrs. Duncanson read an Easter story, "The Moment That Changed My Life." This was followed by prayer by Mrs. Golloher. Mrs. Duncanson gave the topic from the study book "Advance, the Time Is Now," Mrs. Duncanson told of the WMS work in the Chinese, Hungarian, French, Italian and Ukranian missions in different parts of Canada.

Mrs. Duncanson and her joint hostesses Mrs. H. Morgan, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Rothwell and Mrs. Ross served lunch. Mrs. Golloher moved a vote of thanks to the ladies and to Mrs. Duncanson for opening her home for the meeting.

Churchill Returns

LONDON, March 8 (Reuters)—Winston Churchill returned to the House of Commons Wednesday, back to health after an outbreak of boils, and led his Conservative supporters into a sudden vote and defeat at government hands. It was a procedural matter on which Churchill called a division, asking that debate of the overseas resources bill Wednesday night should not be extended beyond 10 p.m.—usual time for ending the main business of the day.

Krupp Head Back

BONN, Germany, March 8 — (AP). — Alfred Grupp von Bohlen, head of the German armaments family, has returned quietly to Essen, headquarters of the Krupp industrial empire, his household said Wednesday night. He was recently released from Landsberg Jail, where he had been serving a war-crimes sentence.

WA To Sponsor Play From Peterborough

HASTINGS, March 8—(ENS)—The monthly meeting of St. George's WA was held at the home of Mrs. Ellery Smullin. The president, Mrs. C. M. Baker, opened the meeting with a hymn.

The sponsoring of a play, "The Late Christopher Bean" put on by a group from All Saints' Church, Peterborough was discussed and the meeting was in favor of it, if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

Several members took part in presenting the study book and at the close of the meeting tea was enjoyed.

EVERY THREE MONTHS some lucky woman will receive a superb $4,000 natural Canadian ranch mink coat. Another lucky woman will receive a $1,000 grey Persian lamb coat. A third will receive a $500 Canadian muskrat back coat, dyed in mink shade. Every one of these beautiful fur coats is a genuine "Algonquin" fur, and will be finished to your individual measure.
Fifty other lucky women will receive "Algonquin" squirrel scarves . . . 53 prizes every third month!
Enter now! Enter often!
EVERY SINGLE MONTH a lucky woman will receive a $300 blended Russian sable scarf; and another a dyed brown Russian squirrel scarf. And winners of these lovely prizes can still win a grand prize at the end of the three month period!
To enter, all you have to do is send your name and address with a Swift'ning carton top, or disc from a Swift'ning tin, or a reasonable facsimile of either. The more often you enter, the better your chance of winning one of these gorgeous prizes.
FIRST QUARTERLY CONTEST—MARCH 1 TO MAY 31, 1951
Here are the Simple Rules
1. Take the box top from a one pound carton, or a disc from a one pound or three pound tin of Swift'ning, or a reasonable facsimile thereof. (A three pound tin contains three discs and entitles you to enter three times.)
2. Print your name and address on the back, and mail to Swift'ning's Fur Coat Contest, P.O. Box 446, Terminal A, Toronto, Ontario.
3. Send as many entries as you wish. Be sure you send a box top or disc or a reasonable facsimile with each entry. Mail each entry separately.
4. Every three months, 75 lucky contestants will be invited to write not less than 25 words on "Why Good Cooks are Switching to Swift'ning." In addition every month 4 contestants will be given the same opportunity to win a monthly prize. The monthly and quarterly prizes—see left—will be awarded in order of merit. The decision of the judges is final.
5. No correspondence concerning the contest can be undertaken. All entries become the property of Swift Canadian Co. Limited.
6. This contest is open only to residents of the Dominion of Canada, who are not employees of Swift Canadian Co. Limited, their advertising agencies, or their families.
*Swift'ning is the trade mark for Swift Canadian Co. Limited's improved shortening.
Read this Carefully... it may help you win a Mink Coat
DIGESTIBILITY PLUS! With Swift'ning you get digestibility plus better deep fries and baked goods! For lighter cakes and flakier pastry, use Swift'ning—the shortening that makes all your baking easier and quicker. And remember, no shortening is more digestible! HMCS 'SALLY RAND'—The Navy, traditionally the silent service, played host to the one and only Sally Rand recently at the Naval Officers Club, in Montreal, when Miss Rand visited the club to see the original plaque carried by HMCS St. Laurent, or as the destroyer was affectionately known, HMCS "Sally Rand." Above Miss Rand poses with the plaque which is as lusty as Sally's dances. During the war Sally sent autographed pictures and other mementoes to the ship's officers and even conducted an "Advice to the Love Lorne," correspondence for the ship's men.

Too Many Poor Teachers In Canada, Low Declares

OTTAWA —(CP)—Solon Low says there are altogether "too many misfits" in the ranks of the Canadian teaching profession.

These are leaving a "trail of maimed minds from one end of Canada to the other," adds the National Social Credit leader and former Alberta education minister.

In a statement prepared in connection with Canadian Education Week, March 4-10, Mr. Low says the need of attracting the best teaching material to the profession is one of two big problems besetting the path of Canada's edcational future.

The other is the need of bringing "equality of opportunity" to Canadians seeking training and knowledge.

Education, says Mr. Low, is a means by which a nation can become a world power and an influence for the good of humanity.

"To live abundantly and happily requires a well-rounded personality. Here is where education comes in; for the purpose of education is to develop personalities that are well-rounded, and to ensure that they are solidly supported on the four columns of physical health, mental health, spiritual well-being and emotional stability."

Big Responsibility

Whenever any one of these columns is shorter or less strongly developed than the others, the personality will sag and some happiness will be forfeited, Mr. Low believes. Therefore the Canadian home, school, church and community face terrific responsibility in this business of personality development.

"Their biggest job is to give the incentive and the opportunity for development to each and every person in a country that is vast, thinly populated in many parts, and whose various areas are unequally endowed with wealth.

"Equality of opportunity will have to be the slogan of all four institutions of our society. And governments must be prepared to spend a greater part of the national income to make it possible."

There was this other problem, too:

"It must be driven home to everybody that good teachers are not necessarily those with the highest degrees. To be a good teacher requires a fitness for the work. Teachers have to be born as well as made. Today, there are altogether too many misfits in the profession, degreed and otherwise, who are leaving a trail of maimed minds from one end of Canada to the other.

"The four main agencies of society will have to take concerted action in making better selection of teacher candidates; give them better training, and induce the best material to come into the profession and to stay there by offering more attractive salaries."

Only when Canada has solved these problems, says Mr. Low, will we come "pretty close to the Utopia of education."

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Making Soap From Fat Of Leftovers

The Canadian housewife is a canny customer.

Just let the price of something go too high for even her patience and endurance and she will change her tack.

Why should she have all of that leftover fat from roasting beef or pork on Sundays, and yet be paying such unheard of prices for soap—made from fat?

Not she. She's going to make soap too—or so she tells me, if I can give her the "know-how."

Here is the houshold soap recipe straight from a soap chemist.

Homemade Soap

When you have saved up four pounds of drippings you are in the soap business. Buy one can of lye (net contents ten ounces).

Heat four pounds of leftover fat or drippings. It does not matter if they are rancid. Heat to 120 deg. Fah. This is hot to touch but not too hot to bear. Strain through double thickness of cheesecloth.

To one ten-ounce can of lye slowly add exactly three measuring cupsful of ice cold water. This should be done in a porcelain or enamel container. Stir slowly with wooden stick until boiling subsides. Let this cool to 100 deg. Fahr. (for the lye heats the water to about 150 deg. Fahr.). When you feel the outside of the container with your palm it is about 100 deg. Fahr. when it feels same temperature as your hand.

Slowly add fat to lye mix while it is still liquid enough to pour. Make no mistake—do not add lye mix to fat.

Slowly stir with stick until all fat is added. Then slowly and steadily stir with wooden stick for five minutes, until saponification takes place and emulsion is perfectly smooth.

Pour into cloth- or wax-paper-lined wooden box (a butter box is ideal) for hardening and moulding.

When hard cut wtih a heavy wire into cakes.

It is now ready to use for dishes or laundry purposes.

If to be used for toilet soap any kind of perfume or toilet water may be added to bury the odour of the fat.

A little carbolic acid or citronella mosquito lotion may be added. This is commonly done by makers of homemade soap.

Lavender oil and Bergamot oil are good homemade soap perfumes.

Variations and refinements of the above very simple process are endless.

Some soap makers like to add borax, salt, sugar and ammonia.

Here is a simple formula with those ingredients: five lbs. lukewarm melted grease, 1 lb. can of lye, 1 quart cold water, 3 teaspoons borax, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ cup cold water, ¼ cup ammonia. Mix same as above. After fat is added to lye, stir the other ingredients in, which have been mixed together until dissolved.

The cloth in the box facilitates lifting out the hard soap when you are ready to cut it into bars.

Write to me if you want more soap dope. I'll come clean.

Division of Legion Zone Outlined to Auxiliary

Mrs. E. Evans, zone representative, addressed the members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion at their meeting Monday night.

She congratulated the auxiliary on their splendid work. She explained that the present zone which consists of 22 auxiliaries will be split into three zones before the convention is held in Timmins in October.

A small zone rally will be held sometime this spring with three zone representatives to be chosen.

The annual zone rally will be held in Lindsay on September 7.

Mrs. L. Stevens, vice-president, was in charge of the meeting and welcomed Mrs. Evans and several ladies from the Hastings' auxiliary.

The three meals to be served to the Key Club on March 31 and April 1 were discussed and several ladies offered their help.

It was moved by Comrades O. Downer and A. Gynane that the auxiliary sell tickets and raffle off an Easter lamb made by Betty Wassell, formerly a member of the auxiliary and now a patient in Muskoka hospital.

Comrade F. J. Parsons and Comrade C. Hutchinson each donated a white wool baby layette and Comrade E. Walker a baby bonnet. Most of the sewing given out at the February meeting was returned and the auxiliary now has a good supply of baby clothing on hand.

Comrade C. E. Dormer gave the sick committee's report. One bouquet of flowers and two cards were sent and 29 sick calls were made during February.

Names drawn for food parcels to Britain were Comrade P. Jackman and Comrade M. Kernohan.

The winner of the raffle draw was Comrade E. Rollins, 2nd vice-president.

The total amount collected in the sunshine boxes was $2.38.

Two new members, Mrs. Don Elliott and Mrs. Tom Monk, were initiated.

A social hour was spent with Comrade M. Kernohan and her committee serving a dainty lunch.

At the February meeting Comrade A. Devall, retiring 2nd vice-president and Comrade C. O. Dowber, retiring secretary were presented with small gifts in appreciation of their work while in office.

CGIT Doings

GRACE UNITED

The CGIT and Explorers of Grace United Church met Monday night. The meeting opened with a sing song led by Mrs. B. Sherry.

Following the sing song the two groups separated. Joan Guthrie gave the scripture reading and Mrs. B. Sherry read the duties of the CGIT officers.

Lois Horner and Joan Guthrie gave reports of the YWCA Girls' Council held at the Y Monday night. These two girls were appointed representatives to the council for the remainder of the year.

The following girls were appoint to act as a committee to conduct the paper and rag collection: Betty Baird, 749 Payne St.; Jean Parnell, 531 Arndon Ave.; Beverly Ireland, 527 Arndon Ave.; Joan Guthrie, 284 McGill St.

Elected to the refreshment committee were: Joan Parnell, Jean Parnell, Betty Baird, Barbara Todd.

At the next meeting the girls will bring all their material for sewing and knitting for the bazaar.

Plans were made for a group under the leadership of Mrs. W. Gerow to attend the CGIT Rally at the YWCA Wednesday night.

At the close of the meeting a recreation period was enjoyed by members of the two groups.

OTONABEE CHAPTER

The Otonabee IODE Chapter meeting was held Wednesday at the YWCA with Regent Mrs. A. McWilliams presiding. Mrs. F. D. Kerr, education secretary, gave an address on the life of Disraeli and read letters from the chapter's adopted school. The sewing report was given by Mrs. L. Davis, who urged the members to come out and sew: Mrs. C. Sherwood reported that eight food boxes had been shipped in February. Mrs. W. A. Burrell reported a good supply of wool for those who knit. Plans were made for a rummage sale to be held in April. Donations were reported made to the Canadian Hospital, Nasik, India, and also to the Canadian March of Dimes. The next meeting will be held on March 12 at the home of Mrs. I. Rattenbury.

MAJOR BENNETT CHAPTER

The meeting of the Major Bennett Chapter was held Tuesday at the YWCA with Regent, Mrs. J. D. Hooper presiding.

A motion picture entitled "Cancer" was shown by Miss June Fraser in the absence of Miss Ruth Kingan, film convener.

Miss Louise Spriggs, convener of the Valentine Ball reported the ball was a very successful project both financially and socially. She thanked the girls who had helped her in the arrangements.

Mrs. H. K. Fallis, Echoes and Empire Study, read an interesting magazine article written by Nicholas Ignatieff, warden of Hart House, University of Toronto. She also mentioned that Echoes and Empire Study has been changed to "Empire and World Affairs."

Miss Jessie Johnson, post war services convener, reported that she would have sewing at each meeting.

Mrs. T. Gaskell, knitting convener, passed out small plastic bags containing two balls of blue, pink or white wool with typed instructions on bootees for the memebrs to knit. She reported that navy wool would be available later for men's service socks. Five food boxes are sent overseas each month.

Mrs. R. E. Clarke, convener of the raffle tickets on kitchenware, mentioned that plans were being made to bring the raffle to a close in April.

Mrs. B. E. Metcalfe, educational secretary, reported that the "History of Peterborough" by H. A. Pammett would be placed in 14 city schools when it became available.

Mrs. R. E. Gibbons, child and family welfare convener, reported that children's clothing had been brought to the meeting which would be placed in orphanages in the city. She also asked members to bring magazines which would be placed in the Catholic Old Peoples' Home and asked for volunteers to drive the blind. She stated that a total of $20 was allotted for buying toys and books for the Civic Hospital children's ward.

A scroll of thanks was received from the commander of the HMCA Cataraqui, to whom the chapter had given assistance during the war.

Mrs. George Barnes, convener for the chapter party in May has started making plans.

Mrs. K. V. Gadd's committee served refreshments after the meeting.

St. James' WMS Easter Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Association of St. James' United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. M. Stokes presiding.

Prayer by Mrs. Stokes and a duet "Have You Been to Calvary," by Mrs. Earle Wood and Mrs. Ray Pearson, accompanied by Mrs. F. Craik, set a spiritual atmosphere for the Easter meeting.

A very inspirational address was given by Miss Mary Collins on "Under the Circumstances," stating that in view of the glorious hope, consolation and strength Christ has given us, we should always be on top of any circumstances that may arise.

Mrs. E. Kitney added much to the meeting by her vocal solo, "I do not ask, O Lord, that life may be a pleasant road."

Messages of cheer by cards and flowers to the sick were reported by Mrs. B. Seabrooke. Mrs. George Rutherford reported on recent work of the Local Council of Women. Plans were made for a spring tea to be held in the Sunday School on March 28.

U.K. Buyers Favor Squirrel Fur Prices Rising Steadily

By MURIAL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—A No. 1 fur favorite in Britain's home and export markets is Canadian squirrel. And it's getting more expensive all the time.

"Demand has sent prices soaring," said a representative of a British firm with 60 years' experience. In February, skins that sold before the Second World War at 4¼d. (four cents) were marketed at 7s 3d. ($1.07) and prices are still rising.

"As long as demand remains high, prices will keep on rising," the spokesman said in an interview. "The trouble is that output of wild furs cannot be increased to meet demand."

A recent spring fashion display, valued at £50,000 ($150,000), showed furs ranging from £20 fox capes to "North American" minks costing from £900 to £3,000. These, of course, are export prices.

Styles are mostly full at back with wide sleeves and huge cuffs. Collars are both large and small, but never large enough to conceal the shoulder line.

In the more expensive furs, much use is made of the alternate three-quarter and full-length sleeve, achieved by lining the sleeve to the elbow with fur. The sleeve can then be cuffed to any length from wrist to elbow.

Cape-Coatees Popular

Cape-coatees, the double-purpose cape and jacket styles, are still greatly in demand—specially in silverblu mink. Equally popular are the tiny shoulder capes with stole fronts.

Whatever the style, silverblu mink is a top-ranking favorite. "Last year, our sales in silverblu equalled the total sales of all other mink," said the spokesman.

Furs ranged from Russian and Chinese ermine through Alaskan seal, peschaniki, Persian lamb, Chinese and Persian broadtail, natural fitch, fox and mink-dyed kolinsky, to shorn racoon, a fur favored by Princess Elizabeth.

For evening wear, there is a three-quarter white ermine cape, a three-quarter white fox cape and a hip-length coatee of white mink.

Fur designs include copies of those shown in Paris by Pierre Balmain. These include a dyed ermine stole ending in four oyster shells that converge to form a sleeve.

Another Balmain creation is an evening stole worked in single strands of natural mink set on pleated grey taffeta. This opens out in a wide scalloped fan-shape and drapes from shoulder to hip.

The most extravagant design is a three-quarter-length natural mink coat with huge barrel sleeves and dropped shoulderline. The sleeves are worked horizontally, while the whole of the coat, including the shoulderline, is worked vertically.

Says Parenthood Full-Time Job

WINNIPEG.—(CP).—Successful parents learn to distinguish between the wants and needs of their children, Dr. H. L. Stein told the Elmwood Home and School Association here.

Dr Stein said a child's behavior is patterned by felt needs. To understand behavior parents must realize there is a difference between what they expect of a child and what his actual capacities are.

Parents' behavior in front of their children is important, too, Dr. Stein said

"Children need social adjustment almost as much as they need anything else. They must feel they are a part of a situation and not on the fringe of it."

He said parenthood is a "full-time job." Parents should "stop and think" before making any move which might cause a child to think he was being misunderstood

Sodality Hears Ottawa Priest

St. Peter's Senior Sodality held their annual Communion breakfast Sunday, after the nine o'clock mass, in the Empress Hotel with about 70 members present.

The occasion was marked by the visit of Rev. F. Marrocco of Ottawa, as guest speaker. He was accompanied by Mel Mason also of Ottawa.

Miss Helen Strano, Sodality's prefect, extended a welcome to the honored guests and members from the Junior and Senior Sodalities.

Miss Helen Hajnik, the Sodality's vice-prefect introduced the guest of honor, Rev. F. Marrocco.

In his address Father Marrocco drew three parallels noting the close relationship of the Mystical Body—the Church; the human body; and the body of members that make up the Sodality. When any member of the human body such as a hand or a foot is injured or diseased because of its close relationship with them, all other members of the body are affected. Likewise in the Sodality as in the Mystical Body when one individual fails to play his part the remaining members suffer as well. Girls in the Sodality should realize that what they do is not just another sodality project but a definite community effort. As individual links in a chain sodalists may be weak but entertwined with other links (members) they combine to create a mighty force capable of pulling any weight — capable of mastering any problem.

By every girl striving to do her part in encouraging as many as possible to make the retreat the whole sodality will be pulling with great force and success will be won. The sodality is the right arm of the parish and therefore can be a source of inspiration and strength for the people.

As an outstanding example of what one individual or one group can reap in talent Father Marrocco introduced Mr. Mel Mason. Mr. Mason opened his talk with the question "How do we as Catholic lay people fit into the picture?" He pointed out the fact that in the Sodality as in any organization of young people there are certain talents and potentialities which should be encouraged to develop. These can be utilized in so many ways. There is a definite need for leaders in community life and in sponsoring adult education. Illustrating what can be done Mr. Mason spoke of his own particular group of young Catholic lay people which started as a discussion club about two years ago.

Loyalty Message Festival Feature

LONDON — (CP).— To mark the official launching of the Festival of Britain, next May, 2,000 members of the Boys' Brigade will race over the country's highways from Land's End to John O' Groats, carrying messages of loyalty to the King.

Running in continuous relays, day and night, except Sundays, the boys will converge at Buckingham Palace grounds on May 10, where King George will personally receive the messages.

Five routes have been mapped out, covering approximately 2,500 miles.

On each run, the senior boy will carry a silver baton bearing a message, for a distance of about four miles. He will be accompanied by two junior members of the Brigade. At every change-over point, special ceremonies will be staged by local authorities and church organizations.

DOROTHY DIX

Should She Accept Job Question of Childless Wife

DEAR MISS DIX: Before we married I had a fine position in an office and my old employer is very anxious to have me back at a good salary. We've only been married two years and both of us are in our 20s. I should like very much to go back to my old job because I like the work and we need the money, but I hesitate to do so because of the effect it might have on our marriage. Many people tell me that when the wife works it breaks down the morale of the husband, and that nothing braces up a man to do his best like feeling that his wife is dependent upon him. What is your advice in the matter?

Dorothy Dix

SARAH

ANSWER: No question is more complex than this. None to which it is more impossible to give a direct answer, because in every case whether or not the wife should follow some gainful occupation depends upon the individual circumstances.

I do not think that any woman who has young children should work outside of the home unless it is a case of dire necessity. Very often it is, because the earnings of the husband are not enough to give the children the food and environment they need, but with the mother's salary added they can be given advantages that more than compensate for the loss of her personal services.

Don't Hurt His Pride

[illegible] the wife should work [illegible] home depends upon [illegible] attitude toward [illegible]s strongly and if [illegible] pride for her to do [illegible]ould respect his feelin[illegible]he matter unless it is a case of actual starvation. If she humiliates him by taking a job it will wreck him because it will break down his belief in his ability to succeed. The clinging vine holds up many a tottering oak that would fall but for the brace it gives it.

The idea that it is any reflection on a man for his wife to work outside of the home after they are married is so antiquated that it seems to have come out of the hairtrunk in the attic. A man expects his wife, and rightly, to help him. If she can do it better by earning money than by cooking and washing and scrubbing, why should she not do so? And in many cases the wife working for a few years after marriage enables the husband to get on his feet and for them to have the home and children they crave.

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you really believe there is such a thing as love, except parental love? It is sex that makes the fascination between men and women; otherwise one woman would be as pleasing to a man as another. Most men and women marry through fascination, and the gilding soon wears off if there is not congeniality. Congeniality is what holds most couples together. But is there such a thing as love?

DOUBTING THOMAS

ANSWER: Isn't love made up of sex attraction and congeniality and perhaps a third ingredient that is appreciation or gratitude, call it what you will? It is something that binds us to people whose loyalty we have tested, whose sacrifices have been laid gladly at our feet, at the fires of whose affection we have warmed ourself.

What we know as fascination is purely sex attraction. It is nothing but sheer animalism. Love has sex attraction in it because we cannot love those who are physically repugnant to us. But love has congeniality in it also and that is why it lasts. It is the meeting of two minds with similar thoughts and desires and impulses. Fascination passes because there is nothing in it but passion, and that perishes of satiety.

That there is such a thing as love is proved by the thousands of old couples you see whose romance is long dead, who have no physical charms with which to attract each other, but who still love each other far more dearly than they did when they were young. Don't doubt love. It is the truest thing in the world.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a son who is married and has two children. He and his wife hate each other and fight like cat and dog. I have always taken the wife's part in order to try to keep them together, but now my son has left her and refuses to go back, no matter what I say. What shall I do?

MRS. J. M.

ANSWER: There is nothing you can do but let them alone. Nothing is gained by trying to force a discordant husband and wife to live together. Better a peaceful home for the children with one parent than with two who make it a place of strife.

3-Piece Suits Top Attraction In West Fashions

REGINA (CP). — Three-piece suits were top favorites in a fashion show here with top coats either matching or contrasting in three-quarter length.

Nine models showed gay spring fashions at the annual preview of the Regina section of the National Council of Jewish Women.

There were new sleeve treatments, unusual color combinations and perfectly matched hats with each costume. But the suits were the feature. Some of the suits had two skirts, one to match the jacket and one to match the top coat. One suit had a back-wrap skirt modelled in taupe with a beige jacket.

Interesting sleeve treatments in top coats included one with deep cuffs buttoned back to three-quarter length that could be unbuttoned to full length. Another, in Kelly green, had push-up sleeves which could also be let down to full length with the fullness gathered into soft tight cuffs.

A few of the coats were belted but most featured fluted full backs. Two fur jackets, one in squirrel and one in a cafe au lait calf had flowing backs and trim convertible collars that could be worn up or down.

Tangerine was among the new colors, showing up well in raincoats and in hats, scarves and accessories to spark navy or brown outfits. Persimmon was shown in a suit worn with navy hat and accessories.

What's Right

You feel a friend has been neglecting you lately.

WRONG: Tell him so.

RIGHT: Make allowances for the fact that he is probably busy and don't risk ruining the friendship by being too demanding.

Miss Margaret Vaughan Marries Robert Pollock

A quiet wedding took place on Saturday at two o'clock at the United Church parsonage, Havelock, when Margaret Maureen Vaughan, eldest daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Richard Vaughan, of Winatchia, Washington, became the bride of Robert Ross Pollock, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ross Pollock, Trent River.

Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh officiated.

The bride chose a beige gabardine dressmaker suit and off the face bandeau hat of natural straw and adorned with small white and yellow flowers. Her corsage was gold 'mums.

Mrs. Bill Pollock of Toronto as matron of honor chose a grey gabardine dressmaker suit with lavender accessories and she wore a corsage of deep red roses. Mr. Bill Pollock, Toronto, acted as groomsman.

Following the wedding a reception was held for about thirty guest at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pollock, Trent River.

Mrs. Pollock received wearing a torquoise blue two piece French crepe dress, large black hat and a corsage of purple lilacs.

A buffet lunch was served with Mrs. Harry Mann pouring tea.

For a trip to Niagara Falls, New York, the bride chose a red velvet dress, black accessories and a grey bunny fur jacket.

Mr. and Mrs. Pollock will reside in Toronto.

Lindsay Pair 60 Years Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Howe, pioneer residents of Lindsay, are observed their diamond wedding anniversary Wednesday. They have lived all their married life in Lindsay.

Mr. Howe was one of the early members of Lindsay's voluntary fire brigade. He is also a former councillor.

Mrs. Howe is the former Catherine Roberts, and while she is not in the limelight as much as her husband, she has nevertheless endeared herself to a wide circle of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Howe have five children, 19 grandchildren, and 16 great-grandchildren. Their children are Mrs. J. E. Richards of Lindsay, Mrs. B. Johnston of Toronto, Mr. Harry Howe of Oshawa, Mr. Reg. Howe of Toronto, and Mr. Sam Howe, Jr., Lindsay.

"BELL SINGERS" at George Street Church

BELL SINGERS AND DR. LESLIE BELL

Organized 12 years ago as an alumni girls' chorus, the Leslie Bell Singers will be heard in a concert of choral music under the sponsorship of Mark St. United Church Young People's Union on Friday, March 9th, 1951, in George St. United Church, Peterborough, have earned an international reputation as an 'a capella' group.

A major contributing factor, of course, to the Bell Singers' reputation are the unique musical arrangements by Dr. Bell who possesses a rare combination of musicianship, diplomacy and discrimination. Recognized throughout the world as a leading arranger of choral music, Leslie Bell arranges all types of music for 'a capella' or unaccompanied singing. Not handicapped, therefore, by the fact that fashion for the last three centuries has been to write choral music with accompaniment, the Bell Singers are not forced, like many present day choirs who have endeavored to revive the 'a capella' tradition to confine their activities to the works of the early masters or to some specialized field such as that of Russian church music or the negro spiritual.

Two years ago, the Leslie Bell Singers enhanced their fame by receiving top billing on the Canadian General Electric programme which is heard every Sunday evening at 8.30 over CHEX.

Rev. Earle Merrick Describes Mission Work In Bolivia

The Rev. Dr. Earle Merrick of Bolivia was the guest speaker at the thanksoffering meeting of the Mary Nicholl's Mission Circle of Murray St. Baptist Tuesday evening.

Mrs. A. Haddow introduced the speaker.

Dr. Merrick paid a warm tribute to the late Rev. Alex Haddow for the contribution he had made in laying the foundation of the Canadian Baptist Mission in Bolivia especially in the field of education.

In his address, Dr. Merrick presented the work of the mission during the past 50 years. The first missionaries began work under most discouraging conditions. They were forbidden by law to teach or preach and began work with only two or three followers, he explained.

During the past half century there has been an unique development until now there is a strong intelligent national leadership. Also the seeds of Christian democracy have worked their way through the government of Bolivia with the result that now some of the freedoms we enjoy are spreading through that country. However, there are constant revolutions almost annually.

Canadian Baptists have been instrumental in freeing some of the Indian farmers from the serfdom which has held these people down for centuries.

A splendidly equipped Bible college and a strategically located radio station are recent accomplishments of this mission.

Following his address, Dr. Merrick showed a number of slides of the missions work.

Mrs. P. W. Johnson presided. For the devotional period, Mrs. H. Welch read the scripture and the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan led in prayer.

An interesting feature of the meeting was a piano duet "Pizzicati" from the ballet, "Sylvia" played by Miss P. Hardwick and Miss E. Reed.

During the social period, refreshments were served by group four under the leadership of Mrs. S. Gillespie.

A good representation from the Gilmour Memorial and Norwood Baptist churches attended the meeting.

EVERITT—In loving memory of Arnold Everitt, who passed away March 9, 1947.
There is a link death cannot sever,
Love and remembrance last forever.
—Remembered by his wife Irene, son Ted and daughters Mrs. E. Hotrum and Mrs. J. Kanally.

HEWETT—In loving memory of a devoted husband and father, Cecil Douglas Hewett, who passed away March 8, 1950.
—Sadly missed by wife and family.

MONTGOMERY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joseph Wellington Montgomery, who passed away thirteen years ago, March 7, 1938.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear;
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Sadly missed by his wife and sons, Arnold and Noble.

PANTER — In loving memory of George Panter, who passed away March 7, 1950.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days,
Sincere and kind in heart and mind,
What a beautiful memory he left behind.
—Ever remembered by son Hubert, daughter-in-law Irene and family.

ROGERS—In loving memory of Mrs. Ethel Rogers, who passed away March 8, 1949.
We who loved you sadly miss you,
As it dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are ever near.
—Ever remembered by mother, brother and sister-in-law.

ROGERS—In loving memory of Mrs. Ethel Rogers, who passed away March 8, 1949.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears of silence often flow,
For memory keeps you ever near us,
Though you died two years ago.
—Ever remembered by sisters Gertie and Lottie and niece Madelyn.

ROGERS—In loving memory of Mrs. Ethel Rogers, who passed away March 8, 1949.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more
In heaven the happy life.
—Ever remembered by husband, son and family.

Farrow Plans Traffic Control

WINDSOR, March 8 (CP). — Traffic control will be taken into primary consideration in any reorganization of the police force, Carl Farrow, Windsor's newly-appointed Chief of Police, said last night.

Speaking at a dinner meeting of a Windsor service club, Chief Farrow said the traffic situation is "alarming" and has resulted in Windsor being penalized with the highest insurance rates in Ontario and possibly, the entire country.

Part of the blame he attributed to lack of personnel on the police traffic division. Most of it was placed on the shoulders of the hundreds of thousands of American motorists who use Windsor as a port of entry to Canada.

He said it was "startling" to see that this heavy traffic condition was handled by a traffic division of only eight men.

He was convinced that Windsor's crime record wasn't nearly as black as it had been painted. "It is no better and no worse than any city of comparable size in Canada. It certainly doesn't deserve the blame which has been heaped upon it."

Trio Held In Robbery Remanded In Custody

BROCKVILLE, March 8 (CP) —Three young men, two of them soldiers from Barriefield military camp, held here in connection with the robbery of a Kingston taxi driver March 1, were remanded in custody until Friday when they appeared in court on Wednesday.

The trio, Pte. Lawrence Madden and Pte. William Metcalfe of the RCEME, Barriefield, and Raymond Morgan of Kingston, entered pleas of guilty to car theft, robbery and forcibly seizing Clarence Curragh, driver of the Kingston taxi.

The two soldiers were picked up by Kingston police after a 50-mile-an-hour chase through city streets shortly after the incident. Morgan was apprehended in Cornwall a few hours later.

Col. Reynolds Named Director Of Red Cross

TORONTO, March 8.—(CP). — Lt.-Col. Walter B. G. Reynolds of Ottawa has been appointed national director of the Canadian Red Cross disaster services, the Red Cross announced today.

Col. Reynolds retired from the Canadian army last year. He succeeds Dr. Harvey Doney, retiring to private practice after five years' service with the Red Cross.

Butter And Cheese Production Lower

TORONTO, March 8 (CP) — Production of creamery butter and cheddar cheese dropped in Ontario during January, the Ontario Department of Agriculture said today in its monthly dairy report.

Creameries reported butter production at 2,966,000 pounds, as compared with 3,560,500 during January of last year. Cheese factories reported cheddar cheese production at 1,157,400 pounds, compared with 1,299,500 in January 1950.

Commercial dairies in Ontario, the report said, sold 36,100,500 quarts of milk during December, compared with 36,796,400 quarts in December 1949. The average wholesale and retail price in December 1950 was 19.2 cents, compared with 18.3 cents a quart in December, 1949.

Fluid milk sales were up slightly, amounting to 1,203,000 quarts in December, 1950, as against 1,199,000.

Obituary

FRED HERBISON

A Peterborough resident for the past 12 years, Fred Herbison, 107 McDonnel St., died suddenly on Wednesday in hospital after a short illness in his 51st year. He was born in Brockville the son of Rennie Lanson and the late David Herbison. He is the husband of the former Alice Campbell.

Musicians Union May Call Strike

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP) — The executive board of the powerful New York City Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL) has been authorized to call a strike if necessary against all major radio and television networks.

With bargaining sessions suspended last week, a voice vote Wednesday night by 1,500 members approved the necessary resolution.

The walkout threatened against the American Broadcasting Company, the Columbia Broadcasting System, the National Broadcasting Company, the Dumont Television Network and New York Station WOR—the main outlet station for the Mutual Broadcasting System.

The union seeks to raise television pay scales—now 10 per cent below the radio scale—to 20 per cent above it. It also wants to raise the radio scale.

Pay rates for radio and television musicians vary according to the location, the kind of program, and various other factors. Musicians now receive a minimum of $191 weekly on commercial network programs originating in New York.

The networks have been standing on their offer of a 10-percent raise.

Off-Street Parking Must Be Provided

TORONTO, March 8 (CP). — The Ontario government plans to introduce changes in the Municipal Act at this session of the Legislature to give municipalities authority to compel new buildings to provide off-street parking for their tenants.

Toronto's planning commissioners, Tracy LeMay told the works committee of city council yesterday that he had been told of the proposed amendments.

He said he had no details of the changes but assumed that they would apply particularly to office skyscrapers.

Ignored Stop Sign 4 Convicts Nabbed

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., Mar. 8 (CP)—Four convicts who fled from a state prison camp early Wednesday were captured four hours later because they failed to heed a stop sign here.

Two alert patrolmen spotted a car speeding across a through street. They arrested the four occupants and later identified them as the escaped convicts.

The four resisted arrest and were quelled only after police reserves were brought to the scene in five cabs.

Progress Satisfactory

LONDON, March 8.—(Reuters). —The King and his daughter, Princess Elizabeth, both are making good recovery from their feverish colds. Bulletins issued today said the King's progress was "satisfactory" and the Princess was "much better." No further statements will be issued about the princess.

Long Distance Chess

NEW PLYMOUTH, NZ (CP)—Chess players here are taking part in a long-distance contest with the Eagle Club of London. The match is being conducted by airmail and each side makes about one move a month. Some games will be finished in two or three years, others may take longer.

GIRL WORKS FEVERISHLY TO FREE BOY TRAPPED ON TRACKS

13-year-old Shirley Brydges, of Guelph, Ont., keeps courageous rescue a secret for several days

1. Young Shirley Bridges, was on her way home from a piano lesson. As she neared the C.P.R. crossing she became aware of two things. One was the sound of a fast-moving train. But the other made Shirley's heart pound with fear. She saw a 5-year-old boy on the tracks — obviously in great difficulty. She screamed at him, but the boy merely burst into tears.

2. She ran to him at top speed, planning to drag him away. Then in a flash she saw the trouble. His foot was caught in the rails! For a second she was stunned . . . then the whistle of the train drove her into action. Realizing that it was impossible to pull the boy's foot free, she put her nimble young fingers to work — unlacing the shoe!

3. Shirley was gambling with death — but she won! In a final effort she wrenched the boy free . . . just as the engine reached the spot where he had been trapped. To this gallant and brave young girl (whose parents didn't even learn about the incident until many days later) we are proud to present The Dow Award. Her heroism is an example to all Canadians.

THE Dow AWARD

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers, selects Award winners from recommendations made by a nationally known news organization.

Raps Sportsmen In Dominion

ST. CATHARINES, March 8. — (CP). — Canadians should be ashamed of the kind of sportsmen they are turning out in their national sport, Recreation Director Andrew Ley of Hamilton Wednesday told a conference of the west-central zone, Ontario Recreation Association.

He referred to a free-for-all fight in an Ontario Hockey Association junior A game in Toronto Tuesday night and the suspension of Gus Mortson of Toronto Maple Leafs for hitting another player with his stick in a National Hockey League game last Saturday.

"Any decent Canadian who read the papers this morning would be ashamed to be a Canadian," Mr. Ley said. "If this is the best we can turn out in our national sport we should go in to the nearest corner and die."

Any person involved in a fight on the streets or hitting another person over the head on the street would be arrested, said Mr. Ley. Just bcause these incidents happened "under the guise of sports and recreation they get away with it."

Several Demotions

BOSTON, March 8 (AP)—Several demotions of supervisors at the south postal annex were reported today as investigation continued into a $4,000,000 payroll fraud involving some 100 clerical workers. The investigation, officials said, disclosed that postal employees defrauded the government by collecting pay for work not performed. The men split their salaries with others who punched their time cards for them, inspectors said.

Eventual Negotiated Peace Possibility In Korean War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP) —Gen. Douglas MacArthur's pronouncement that the Korean war is headed for a "stalemate" today revived talk here of an eventual negotiated settlement.

But first, responsible officials said, they believe the Chinese Communists will have to be convinced that the United Nations' commander knows what he's talking about.

In the meantime, the United States appeared prepared to continue the war indefinitely while pressing for new U.N. action against China on the economic and diplomatic fronts.

MacArthur Wednesday said that "the battle line cannot fail in time to reach a theoretical military stalemate."

What it boils down to is that American military leaders have concluded that neither U.N. nor Communist forces can win a clear-cut victory in Korea. The Communists have a huge margin of manpower but the U.N. forces have superior firepower.

The U.N. command now is fighting, not to gain ground, but to take such a heavy toll of the Communist forces that they also will decide they can't win

If and when the Reds come to that conclusion, the expectation here is that they will be willing to make a "reasonable settlement."

Official Washingon apparently believes that such a settlement might provide for splitting Korea once more along the 38th parallel, which would realize the minimum U.N. purpose of ending the Red aggression in the south.

Township Teachers Hold March Meeting

ROSENEATH, March 8—(ENS) —The March meeting of the Alnwick and North Haldimand township teachers was held Monday afternoon in the senior room of Roseneath school, with Mrs. Ira Merriam as hostess. The president, John D. Loukes presided with Mrs. Louis King, secretary.

Included amohg the teachers present were: Mrs. W. I. Montgomery, Fenella; Mrs. Reginald Crego, Woodvale; Mrs. Floyd Murphy, Bowmanton; Miss Lillian Howse, North School; Mrs. John D. Loukes, Alderville; Miss Bernice Murphy, Burnley; Mrs. Louis King.

Special Army Force Ends Combat Training

FORT LEWIS, Wash., March 8 (CP).—The Canadian army special force Wednesday ended its combat training here with the entire brigade participating in the attack phase of "Ignes Bellum III" (Fire War) exercise.

The Royal Canadian, Royal 22nd and Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Regiments carried out the attack in three separate waves.

Brig. J. M. Rockingham, commander of the special force, said he was well satisfied with the brigade's performance.

Some 5,000 members of the brigade will leave soon for Korea.

Working On Beetle

BELLEVILLE, March 8 (CP)—Entomologists at the federal parasite investigation laboratories here are trying to develop a beetle that eats weeds—and nothing but weeds. They're also breeding insect foes of such pests as the spruce budworm and oriental fruit moth.

BIG HOLE

A canyon 3,000 feet deep in the submarine shelf surrounding Australia was discovered off South Australia in 1947.

Council Raises Firemen's Pay

HASTINGS, March 8 (ENS).—Pay for Hastings firemen was raised to $1 an hour at the regular meeting of the village council. Motion was made by councillors Thomas and Peck.

Fire chief I. Bonds, and J. Brinklow interviewed council on behalf of the firemen.

A bylaw calling for $5,000 expenditure on roads and streets was given its first and second readings and a bylaw on taxi licences received two readings.

Accounts totalling about $405 were ordered paid. Council rehired C. F. Glennie as auditor. A donation of $25 to the Percy township recreational centre was made.

Present at the meeting were Reeve J. S. Stevenson, and councillors Jones, Thomas, Lynch and Peck.

Mrs. A. Weir Named Norwood IODE Regent

NORWOOD, March 8.—(ENS). —The annual meeting of the 40th Northumberland IODE Chapter was held in the Legion Hall, and the following were appointed to office for 1950: Honorary regent, Mrs. Walter Bitten; regent, Mrs. A. M. Weir; 1st vice-regent, Mrs. W. H. Giffen; 2nd vice-regent, Mrs. H. Pearce; recording secretary, Mrs. C. A. Copp; correspondence secretary, Mrs. P. Kempt; treasurer, Mrs. A. A. Waddell; educational secretary, Mrs. W. E. Metcalfe; standard bearer, Mrs. George Bitten.

Reports of secretaries and treasurer showed that the past year had been successful. Each month a box had been packed and sent overseas. Donations had been made to British and European wool relief. The Sailors' Amenities fund, Manitoba relief and Norwood playgrounds. Prizes were presented to both Public and High schools. Christmas boxes and cards had been sent to shut-ins. Furnishings for Legion Hall had been supplied.

Future plans include sewing and knitting for overseas, also an afternoon of films at the March meeting, Mrs. Carlton and Mrs. Waddell to be responsible for same.

Three new members made the promise of allegiance and were welcomed into the chapter.

At the close of the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. Charles McMillan and Mrs. Earl Armstrong.

James Murray Buried In Marmora Cemetery

MARMORA, March 8 (ENS)—The funeral of James Murray, well-known former resident of Marmora Township, took place Tuesday. Burial was in the Sacred Hraet Cemetery at 1:30 p.m. following arrival of the cortege from Kingston where requiem mass was celebrated that morning. The pall-bearers were Frank McKinnon, Joseph Murray, Laughlin Hughes, Charles Crawford, Clarence Murphy, and E. D. O'Connor.

Mr. Murray died in Kingston on Saturday at the age of 82. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Murray, and most of his life was spent in Marmora Township. He moved to Kingston a few years ago. He is survived by three sisters and one brother, Mrs. Minnie McDonald, Erindale, Mrs. J. Clinton McGee, Stirling, Rev. Sister M: Dominic, Kingston, and Dr. Joseph Murray of Ottawa.

Murder Conviction

BEAUFORT, S.C., March 8 (AP) —A 40-year-old negro war veteran Wednesday was convicted of the murder of three young white men. He was sentenced to die April 13. An all-white jury took 45 minutes to call Smith Harvey guilty in the pistol slaying of two brothers, Jadie Godley and Lonnie Godley, and their companion, Wilson Lee McAlhaney, last Feb. 17.

Nothing To It

AMMAN, Jordan, March 8 (Reuters)—Informed sources said Wednesday night King Abdullah of the Hashemite kingdom of Jordan cabled President Truman this week asking his intercession with France to stop its "suppressive policy" in Morocco. In Paris, meanwhile Gen. Alphonse Juin, French resident general in Morocco, said that his territory had "never been so calm." "If there is any agitation, it is in Cairo and at the expense of the Egyptian people," he said on his arrival in Paris by air.

UK Starts Tough Training For Large Reservist Army

LONDON — (CP) — It will be anything but a holiday for nearly 250,000 British reservists to be called up for 15-days' military training this summer. A rigorous program is being prepared, with concentration on weapon training as if an enemy attack were imminent within a few days.

Since the order went out for the call-up, regular army and territorial unit commanders have been in almost daily consultation on the detailed plans to bring the country's stand-by force to a speedy state of readiness.

As a result of these conferences formation commanders are reported to have been given the following orders:

1. The 1951 "Z" class call-up is not to be regarded purely as a mobilization exercise. The army will imagine that war may break out a matter of days after the men join up.

2. No time should be lost in training. Infantrymen will get themselves acquainted with active service weapons until their fingers tingle.

3. There must be no wasted educational periods, no lecturing on civil affairs and no time-wasting parades. Every second must be devoted to urgent training.

Special Courses

While infantry reservists are in camp this summer they will be put through special courses on efficient handling of the service rifle, machine-guns, mortars and grenades. Particular attention will be concentrated on stripping down automatic weapons and dealing with "stoppages."

Tank men will be taught afresh the handling of automatic weapons with practical training in the operation and maintenance of the latest Centurion tank.

Reservists assigned to anti-aircraft units will be given a thorough drilling in defensive tactics against jet-propelled aircraft. They will also undergo specialized training in the workings of the new radar and predictor instruments.

In the motor transport units intensive courses are being prepared on maintenance and emergency repair of the latest engines that will power all army vehicles in the field.

The general purpose of the brief training program is to familiarize the reservists with their assigned duties and prepare them for instant call in the event of emergency. If war should break out the trainees would be summoney by a pre-arranged signal. They would then report to their assigned assembly centre within a few hours to find uniform and equipment ready.

Stresses Value Of Minerals

TORONTO, March 8 (CP). — Canada's vast and still unfolding mineral resources have never been so important to safety and her future in the world, Mines Minister Prudham said Wednesday night.

Canadians could not remain strong and free in the face of today's perils without the products of mineral industries. Everything possible was being done to develop these sinews of strength.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Prospectors and Developers Association he described some of the things Canadian mining was doing in the scientific field with the aid of the department. Canada was developing a rapid method of removing sulphur in the steel-making processes and this was now being tried by industry.

"If Canada is ever attacked in the far north," he said, "this new process in refining steel will improve our country's ability to wage cold climate warfare. Even small amounts of sulphur in the metal will cause breakages at very low temperatures."

The new method could result in an increase from 10 to 25 per cent in Canada's steel-making capacity without additional furnace facilities. It may result in a saving of $3,000,000 a year to the steel industry.

Crown Finishes Case Evidence

ST. THOMAS, March 8 (CP)—The Crown concluded its case on Wednesday in the murder trial of Lawrence Wiliam Jones in the shotgun slaying of his common-law wife, Mrs. Sarah Ann Evans.

The final evidence was a statement Jones had given to police after the slaying in their one-room cabin trailer at nearby Yarmouth Centre last November 21.

In the statement, Jones said he had no recollection of shooting Mrs. Evans and did not realize she was shot until he found her body some time later and placed it on a bed.

The defence offered no evidence.

Western Honors Prime Minister

LONDON, Ont., March 8 (CP) —The University of Western Ontario Wednesday conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Civil Laws on Prime Minister St. Laurent at its Founders' Day convocation. Mr. St. Laurent, second Prime Minister to be honored by the university, received one of the three honorary degrees awarded at the ceremonies.

Receiving the degrees of Doctor of Laws were John Worden Edwards, principal of Ridgetown District High School, and John Russell Hamilton, principal of Ridley College, St. Catharines.

Say Small Army For Japanese Backed By Canada

OTTAWA, March 9. (CP)—Canada is willing to accept a limited rearmament of Japan, External Affairs Minister Pearson said today. He told a press conference the Government has informed other powers that Canada feels Japan must be allowed to arm "up to the point where she can at least assist in guaranteeing her own security" against Communism. But, he added, the Japanese should certainly not be allowed to rearm "to the point where they will be a threat to their neighbors."

He recently told parliament a conference on a Japanese peace treaty should emerge before long.

He made these other statements at a press conference today:

1. The Government is keeping its "fingers crossed" as a Congressional committee discusses the St. Lawrence Seaway in Washington. Chances for US approval still appear better than in years but it's largely a question of whether strong backing by the Truman administration can get approval before Congress runs out of time.

Wait For Answer

2. Ottawa feels the seaway should be built as a joint U.S.-Canadian operation. If, however, Washington again fails to act, Canada would have to reconsider her position in that light.

3. India has not yet informed Ottawa whether she wants free Canadian wheat as part of Canada's $25,000,000 first-year contribution to the Colombo Plan. The last 300,000 tons of Canadian wheat sold commercially to India will go forward shortly.

4. The Commonwealth defence conference now under informal discussion will probably not be a general conference but one involving those countries directly concerned in defence of the Middle and Near East. It is doubtful that Canada will take an active part.

Tito Charges Russia Using Armed Pressure

BELGRADE, March 9 (AP) — Yugoslavia today formally accused Russia of applying "military pressure" against her and of supplying the Soviet satellites with arms and troops with which to overthrow Marshal Tito's anti-Cominform government.

The charges were levelled in a 481-page White paper which a government spokesman said would be sent to Trygve Lie, United Nations' secretary-general.

Deputy Foreign Minister Ivo Vejvoda summoned a special press conference and told foreign correspondents the complaint is being handed to representatives of the western powers stationed in Belgrade.

It was not being given to the representatives of the Cominform governments only because the Yugoslav government felt these countries already were sufficiently aware of the border incidents and provocations.

Toughest Indictment

The document appears to be the Tito government's toughest-talking indictment against the Kremlin and Soviet satellites since the country's independent Communists broke with the Cominform almost three years ago.

The minister was asked whether Yugoslavia is concerned about the possibility of invasion from the east this year.

He replied that the Yugoslav government is not given to making prophesies, but added that the details outlined in the White Paper show "that the people of Yugoslavia should be concerned and ready for any possible occurrence."

He was asked if Yugoslavia is ready to present charges to the United Nations. He replied that the Yugoslav government believes the U.N. has "enough worries" and it would be better to settle such matters in direct negotiations.

However, if the "policy grows worse,"—a reference to Russia—"we shall be forced to refer it to the U.N."

The White Paper charged that there has been "systematic overt and aggressive pressure by the states in the eastern bloc headed by the government of the U.S.S.R. against Yugoslavia."

Nova Scotia Rink Still Undefeated

HALIFAX, March 9 (CP). — Don Oyler's Nova Scotia rink from Kentville maintained its undefeated streak in the seventh round of the Canadian curling championship today with a 12-4 win over Newfoundland.

The Nova Scotians were the only undefeated rink among the 11 competing provincial championship fours but still had two late rounds against the west tomorrow.

Bill Gray's Edmonton rink defeated British Columbia 12-7 in the seventh round and took over the runner-up spot to Nova Scotia with five wins against two losses.

Northern Ontario's Copper Cliff rink, playing about the most unpredictable curling of the bonspiel, edged out Prince Edward Island this morning 12-10 for the north's third win against as many defeats.

Alcatraz Man Tries New Plan For Freedom

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9 — (AP)—James Williams, 31, is in Alcatraz prison. He doesn't like it.

After checking the prison library Thursday, he came up with a scheme for getting off the "rock."

In a self-prepared plea, he asked the federal court to order the attorney-general to show cause why he can't register as a Communist and be deported. He explained he follows the beliefs and leadership "of the United States of Soviet Russia" and asked to have his citizenship revoked and "be transported to the border of old Mexco."

Williams is serving 15 years for theft, assault and escaping.

Court attaches saw little chance Williams' petition would be granted. They explained the McCarran Act, which he cited as authority for his deportation, applies only to alien Communists.

Duke Giving Up Frigate Duties

LONDON, March 9 (Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh, now commanding the frigate Magpie in the Mediterranean, will give up this post in August.

He will not take up another naval appointment until the King and Queen return from their Australian tour in the middle of 1952.

In May, the Duke will visit Britain for about a week to take part in the opening ceremonies of the Festival of Britain.

It was reported the Duke will be posted to the Admiralty in London, making him available to help Princess Elizabeth in carrying out her state duties.

Force Car In Ditch Get $3,500 Bank Cash

SUDBURY, March 9—(CP)—Two armed men got away with $3,500 in cash today when they forced a Bank of Commerce car into a ditch and robbed two bank employees.

The money was being taken from Sudbury to the bank's branch in Capreol, railway town 20 miles north of Sudbury, by Philip Belcourt and George Schmidt.

A car parked along the road forced the bank car into the ditch.

Won't Be Called Up

THE HAGUE, March 9—(CP)—The Netherlands army said today that Dutch conscripts living abroad will not be called up for service or retraining in the Dutch army. This also applies to Dutch emigrants in Canada. Commenting on a report from Toronto that Hendrik Van Vogel and several of his friends, all living in Canada, have received draft notices, the army said this was due to a mistake.

Pats Drive Through Line Nearly A Mile

Capture Hill 532 With Bayonets In Great Battle

By WILLIAM BOSS

WEST - CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, March 9. (CP)—Canadian and Australian troops punched out gains up to three-quarters of a mile today in the Yongdu area against diminishing Communist resistance.

A communique issued at 6 a.m. EST, from US Eighth Army headquarters announced that the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry and Australian forces "gained 1,000 to 1,500 yards by midday" east of Yongdu.

The communique said:

"In the Yongdu area the enemy resisted the advance of a US 1st Cavalry unit during the early morning. However at 8:20 a.m. the enemy was forced to withdraw to the northeast as cavalry units continued to advance. Enemy forces engaged other elements of the 1st Cavalry three miles northeast of Yongdu and were taken under artillery fire at 8 a.m. with good results.

Gains of 1,000 to 2,000 yards were registered against diminishing enemy resistance to the east of Yongdu. Canadian and Australian forces gained 1,000 to 1,500 yards by mid-day. ROK (Republic of Korea) 6th Division elements registered gains of 1,000 to 3,000 yards."

Great Battle

Canadian troops Thursday night sat tight on Hill 532 after a two-day battle described by Lt. Col. J. R. Stone, their commanding officer, as one of the greatest in the annals of the Princess Patricias.

The engagement saw the battalion make two bayonet charges up a 60-degree slope covere with shoulder-height pine growth and cut by a lacework of enemy positions.

The Patricias Wednesday took two spurs leading up the hill, one of them with a bayonet charge and close - quarters fighting. Thursday's attack carried them onto the hill.

Chinese bodies counted on the ground today numbered 43. More undoubtedly were carried away before the Chinese withdrew and on the basis of the normal ratio of killed to wounded, at least 250 enemy must have been wounded.

Bloody Trail

Anyway, the trails I followed up Hill 532 Thursday were drenched with blood and they led right on down the forward slopes into enemy territory beyond.

Thursday's bayonet charge was made by the company of Major Vince Lilley of Hamilton.

Light Opposition

Unlike Wednesday, when the Chinese bitterly contested the assault by a company under Capt. Gordon Turnbull of Toronto, opposition today was light.

Even so, the performance was impressive for its sheer guts. It came after Major Lilley's men had spent the night within less than 100 feet of the Chinese higher up the hill.

A platoon under Sgt. Roy Ulmer of Castor, Alta., was the furthest forward. A slit trench occupied by Pte. Maurice Rheaume of Runciman, Sask., and Pte. William

Report Ernest Bevin Resignation In Bag

UK Foreign Secretary Has 70th Birthday, Said Far From Well

LONDON, March 9 (AP)—Ailing Ernest Bevin, who rose from a dime-a-day dishwasher to be Britain's foreign secretary, turned 70 today. Newspapers predict his resignation is in the bag.

The Daily Herald, often a mouthpiece of the Labor government, says Prime Minister Attlee informed the King Thursday that Bevin is retiring from the top foreign ministry post. Most newspapers said an official announcement will be forthcoming today or Saturday.

Other informants indicated, however, that the veteran Labor leader might try to remain in office until he can represent Britain at another Big Four foreign ministers' conference.

Bevin, ill for some time, has been the target of Conservative opposition. Even government supporters have demanded that Attlee choose a foreign secretary of vigorous health to face the critical international issues.

Routine Visit

Sir Oliver Franks, British ambassador to the United States, was mentioned as a possible successor. He returned to London Thursday from Washington—on what he described as a routine visit—and said he is going back to his U.S. post after a few days.

The independent Conservative Daily Mail says Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison will succeed Bevin, adding that Home Secretary James Chuter Ede will replace Morrison as Labor's leader in the House of Commons.

Big event of the day was to be the presentation of a gift from the Foreign Office staff, at home and abroad.

In a "Pennies for Bevin" drive, each member of the foreign service pitched in with a "tanner" (about seven cents).

Most of the secretary's cabinet colleagues planned to greet him, too.

Bevin is a shadow of the stout, powerful union boss Winston Churchill called into Britain's war cabinet as labor minister 11 years ago. He has lost nearly 40 pounds and the burden of 11 consecutive years in government office has wearied his heart.

U.S. Message Delays Parley

PARIS, March 9. (AP)—The Big-Power Foreign Ministers' Deputies went into their fifth session today amid reports an important message was received by the United States delegation from Washington. The Deputies, trying to find out whether a top-level Big Four conference can be held on international tension, were 20 minutes late in starting. Informed sources said this was because Philip Jessup, the American Deputy, was awaiting a message from the US capital and observers said it must have been an important one to have caused him to delay the session. The session opened in an atmosphere of glumness, brought about by the words of Soviet Deputy Andrei Gromyko, who has made it appear that the chances of hammering out an agreement on the agenda for the Foreign Ministers have lessened considerably.

This pessimism was reflected in the statements of western officials.

"Thursday," said an American official, "I had the feeling there was some small chance we might fit up (a list of discussion topics). Today I feel we have even less chance. We are miles and miles apart."

Going Backwards

Commented a French official: "From what (French delegate Alexandre) Parodi said at the beginning of the session, it seemed we were going ahead a little, but when Gromyko began speaking it seemed we were going backwards."

Most observers feel that little has been achieved at any of the deputies' sessions so far, but many cling to the hope that some kind of agenda will be agreed upon, and that the foreign ministers' meeting may still be arranged.

Burmese Court Of Appeal Orders Dr. Seagrave Freed

RANGOON, March 9. (AP)—The Burmese court of appeal today ordered the release of Dr. Gordon Seagrave, famed "Burma surgeon" who was sentenced Feb. 17 to six years in prison on a charge of aiding rebels in this country. The appeals court confirmed the forced labor sentence against Seagrave, 53, but reduced the term to the nearly six months he already has spent in jail. The reduction in sentence was made in view of his age and in gratitude for the services he had rendered to Burma.

A Burmese court sentenced the doctor on two of the three charges of high treason filed against him.

He was arrested last August at his mission hospital in the northern Burmese town of Namkham. He had spent more than 25 years giving medical aid to the Burmese people.

Not Aiding Fight

The appeal court agreed that Seagrave's motives in giving medical aid to the rebels was not to help them in their fight. But it said his actions amounted to helping the fight and therefore he was considered guilty of the charge.

The court decided to take a lenient view, however, because it was convinced the surgeon wanted only to relieve misery.

Seagrave was born in South Burma in a Baptist missionary family.

He received his medical degree in 1921 at Baltimore's Johns Hopkins. Then he returned to Burma to start his hospital.

General Staff Chief Arrested In Pakistan

LAHORE, Pakistan, March 9—(Reuters)— Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan today said his government has discovered a plot "striking at the foundations of our national existence" and has arrested the chief of the general staff and other "ringleaders."

Full details can not yet be disclosed "for easons of national security," he said.

Those arrested include Maj.-Gen. Akbar Khan, chief of the general staff, and his wife, Mrs. Akbar Khan; Faiz Ahmed Faiz, editor of the Pakistan Times, and Brig. M. A. Latif.

The plot, the prime minster said, "aimed to create commotion in the country by violent means and in furtherance of that purpose to subvert the loyalty of the Pakistant defence forces."

Two Troop Trains Leave For Ft. Lewis

CAMP BORDEN, March 9 — (CP)—In a movement that had many aspects of wartime secrecy, two troop trains Thursday night pulled out of this central Ontario army base for Fort Lewis, Wash.

The troops included men from the active Canadian army, who will serve as reinforcements for units already training in Washington state. But most were members of the special force and they may go from Fort Lewis to Korea.

A lone wife was on the platform to wave goodbye. She was Mrs. Lew McMullen of Alliston, a bride of five days. She and her 23-year-old husband had just returned from a three-day honeymoon.

Suicide Pact Said Misfired

WHITBY, March 9 — (CP) — Police today investigated the possibility of a suicide pact in the drowning Thursday of Mrs. Maude Best, 75, and the near-drowning of her daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Gaine, 36, and granddaughter Donna Gaine, 5.

Mrs. Gaine has been charged with attempted suicide.

R. D. Humphreys, acting crown attorney, said he did not know if other charges will be laid.

Earlier, he was quoted as saying that the case was "a suicide pact in which the little girl was unknowingly a part."

Witnesses said the two women and the child "fell or jumped" from a pier into Whitby harbor. Mrs. Gaine and her daughter were rescued by men working nearby.

James Sleightholm, waterworks engineer and one of the rescuers, said later:

"I watched them walking along the beach toward the pier. They marched right ahead. It didn't look as though they were there to look around. Then they disappeared."

'Copter Crash Injures 2 Men

OSHAWA, March 9 (CP)—The transport department today launched an investigation into a helicopter crash five miles east of here in which two men were injured.

The helicopter, on what its owners described as a "routine flight" from Oshawa airport, came down on a highway in the Courtice area at 5 p.m. Thursday. A farmer who saw the crash rescued its occupants.

The pilot, Walter Gadzos, 31, former RCAF man from Windsor, suffered burns, back injuries and shock. His passenger, Clifton Butler, 29, of the Toronto suburb of Scarboro, was found to have a fractured right arm, a dislocation of the left shoulder, cuts, abrasions and shock.

Cause of the accident has not been determined.

Ontario Rent Ceiling To Halt Chaos–Frost

TORONTO, March 9 — (CP) — Premier Frost said today legislation will be introduced in the Ontario Legislature in a few days to provide for a provincial system of rent control when the federal control system ends April 30.

The premier said Ontario "intends to bring order out of chaos" in the rental field.

The legislation was forecast in the speech from the throne when the present session of the legislature opened Feb. 1.

Raise Bus Fare Without Notice

KITCHENER, March 9—(CP)—The action of the public utilities commission in raising bus fares in Waterloo and Kitchener without advance notice raised a storm of protest from passengers who had to pay an extra five cents for four tickets today.

The commission acted swiftly after voting for an increase Thursday.

Rates now are four adult fares for 30 cents, eight student or children fares for 30 cents and a straight 10 cents for a cash fare.

The increase was necessary because of the "rapidly increasing operational costs" in the transit system, "and the necessity of raising funds to complete capital projects already undertaken," General Manager S. E. Preston said.

Provision for reserves in 1950 of almost $85,000 resulted in a deficit of $52,096. A deficit of about $90,000 in 1951 was foreseen if no increase were effected and costs remained the same.

Reverses Roulette Principle Wins Fortune In Short Time

BUENOS AIRES, March 9 — (Reuters)—Generations of roulette fans have remained faithful to the old principle—put your stakes on the numbers which are overdue.

Theoretically, and assuming that there is no mathematical interference with the working of the wheels, the traditionalists argued they couldn't go wrong.

But for generations, the amateur mathematicians have lost their shirts.

Now, empiricists have proclaimed a new principle which mathematicians may scorn but which may prove to be the "open sesame" to easy money. Their advice is: put your stakes on the most-favored numbers.

Experiments at the Casino Mar de Plata, Argentina's summer resort 240 miles from Buenos Aires, have proved successful — and made a fortune for a handful of gamblers who cast aside all theories and stuck to the system of trial and error.

Pioneer of the system is a Senor Delgado, a theatre owner whose hobby is roulette. First he used the traditional method. He played the overdue numbers. Fortune eluded him.

That set him thinking: "why not do just the opposite?"

Patiently, he stood by the roulette and noted down some 2,000 draws. Then he played only the numbers which had come out 100 per cent above expectations.

At the end of the season, Delgado had reaped 2,000,000 pesos ($420,000).

Plunge Ahead Four Miles Ripping Big Holes In Long Communist Line

Chinese Strike At Five Allied Divisions In Surprise Night Attack, Use Every Asian War Trick Against Allies

TOKYO, March 9. (AP)—Allied troops ripped gaping holes in Communist lines as they drove ahead as much as four miles today in their big new Korean offensive. Thousands of Red casualties were added Friday to the more than 17,000 killed or wounded in the first two days of the Allied northward push. A US 9th Corps spokesman said: "The enemy seems to be hightailing it" along the entire West-Central front. He indicated a general withdrawal from the US Eighth Army's major offensive is in progress.

Ninth Corps troops pushed northward up to four miles Friday through rough country. They met little resistance. This was described as rear-guard action.

The 27th Commonwealth Brigade, including Canadian troops, was reported to have kicked off on another attack.

U.S. 25th Division troops killed or wounded an estimated 2,000 Chinese in gaining a bitter mile on the western end of the thundering 70-mile Korea front.

Deepens Bridgehead

The gain deepened the 25th's Han River bridgehead to five miles. The division made three assault crossings Wednesday about 15 miles east of Seoul.

Some U.S. 7th Division units unsheathed bayonets and seized mile-high Mount Aemi in their advance through the forest wilderness 10 miles northwest of Pangnim. The Reds abandoned caves and foxholes and fled to the valley floor after a three-hour battle.

Red troops smashed at five Allied divisions before dawn Friday in their effort to check the grinding U.N. advance.

Use Grenades, Mortars

The Chinese and Korean Communists struck with grenades, rifles, mortars. They employed virtually every trick of Asian warfare.

The Red attacks started in the east against the South Korean sector, then rumbled westward against the Americans.

Some of the attacks lasted throughout the night. Others were short punches of only about an hour. The Reds broke off most of the longer attacks at dawn. The South Korean 7th Division was still locked in battle at daybreak Friday.

U.N. forces resumed their advance at daybreak behind thundering artillery barrages and heavy air strikes. American planes and those of South Africa and Australia joined in the assault.

Moose Derails Train

OTTER, Ont., March 9. (CP) — A moose derailed three cars of a westbound CPR freight train near here early today and blocked the railway's main line for four hours. Otter is 280 airmiles west of North Bay. The impact jarred three empty box cars off the rails. Little actual damage was done. The moose was killed by the crash.

44-Hour Week For Postmen Rinfret Orders

OTTAWA, March 9 (CP) — Postmaster-General Rinfret has asked Canada's postmasters to make clear to all carriers that they will work 44 hours a week —and no more.

In a circular letter to postmasters made public Thursday, Mr. Rinfret said the fear of carriers that the department is going to impose a heavier working week and heavier loads has been drawn to his attention.

"Please make it clear to them that such is not the case," Mr. Rinfret said. The readjustment in residential delivery service, from two deliveries a day to one, was bound to cause some upset. It goes into effect April. 1.

"When the readjustment period is over, however, no carrier should be expected to work more than the regulation work week of 44 hours (48 with every 12th week off where this is authorized).

"And no one should be required to carry out on any one trip more than the maximum load now authorized. Use of relay boxes and other expedients are to be adopted to see that this does not happen.

"Even during the trial period if it is apparent that the carriers are overtaxed, the surplus staff can be used to give temporary relief."

He asked for the complete cooperation of the working carriers and said that as soon as possible, all carrier routes are to be completely surveyed "to ensure absolute fairness, both to the employees and to the public served.

Union Pledges Baron Support

CORNWALL, March 9 (CP). — Representatives of 5,000 textile workers here Thursday night pledged to support Sam Baron in his fight against dismissal from the post of Canadian director of the Textile Workers of America (CIO-CCL).

Emil Rieve, president of the union, said in Boston meanwhile that Baron had been fired for conduct unbecoming a staff member.

Tom Duffy, president of Cornwall's joint textile board, issued a statement pledging support to Baron. He added that Baron's dismissal was a result of his support of George Baldanzi against efforts of Rieve to get rid of him as vice-president at the union's last convention.

The Canadian section, which has about 20,000 members, supported Baron at the convention, Duffy said. There was no reason to change its position now.

RCAF Standing By Evacuate Casualties

EDMONTON, March 9 (CP) — Planes and 75 personnel of the RCAF's 435 Transport Squadron here Thursday are on "stand-by" orders awaiting the first evacuation of Canadian casualties from Korea to the United States.

The order was issued as preparations were completed for the squadron's part in the operation, dubbed "Airev" for air evacuation.

Officials said the casualties will be flown from Japan to McChord Field, Wash., by North Stars of the air force's 426 squadron now working in the Pacific airlift.

As the patients reach the U.S., Dakotas of the Edmonton Squadron will be dispatched to carry them to hospital centres near their Canadian homes.

Britons Left In Ignorance Of Bitter Canadian Reaction

LONDON, March 9 (CP). — Britain reacted slowly today to new evidence of western Canada's bitterness over the four-year Anglo-Canadian wheat contract.

Three government departments —the treasury, the food ministry and the Commonwealth relations —ducked comment on Thursday night's statement in the Canadian House of Commons by Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner.

One informant said there might be something to say when the full text of the Canadian statement is received.

British morning newspapers passed the story up completely. So did the early evening editions. Later The Evening News used two paragraphs of the front page and The Evening Standard had a fuller story on an inside page.

The fact is that as far as this country is concerned, there is no story. Briton's don't know what all the shouting is about. Gardiner held a press conference in London Feb. 23, in which he hinted at Canada's feelings on the subject, but the background was too complicated for British reporters.

They glossed over the question of a wheat-contract settlement and wrote about the food Canada could give to Britain, if Britain could afford it.

"The trouble is," one government press-relations officer said today, "is that Canada's feeling has never been made clear in Britain; what you need is a good 'shock story.'"

While in London with Gardiner John Wesson of the Saskatchewan wheat pool said prairie farmers consider Britain guilty of a breach of contract. Wesson's statement was not reported here.

Give Equal Rights To Women In Field of Wages

TORONTO, March 9. (CP)—The Ontario Legislature was presented Thursday with two government proposals to give women equal rights with men in wages and in jury duty. Premier Frost said the new bills would remove the last barriers to women being given "completely equal status and equal responsibility with men." The equal wage proposal, first such measure in Canada, would provide that women who do the same work as men will get the same pay for it—all other factors being equal.

The bill, introduced by Labor Minister Daley, provides fines of up to $100 for offences but would allow a wage differential in cases involving differences in training, seniority and job conditions. It would apply to any factory, office or shop employing both men and women in the same jobs.

Special Branch

Premier Frost also introduced a fair employment practices bill which would establish a special branch of the Labor Department to administer the equal wage law and also the fair employment practices legislation.

A fair employment bill introduced earlier in the session was dropped and most of its provisions, prohibiting job discrimination for race, creed or color, are embodied in the new bill.

A new section was added which would prohibit unions from barring workers from membership on the same discriminatory grounds.

The proposed fair employment practices branch will be established under a director, to handle complaints about discrimination or unequal wages for women.

The machinery proposed for handling such disagreements is similar to present labor laws, with a conciliation officer. First a commission, having powers of a labor conciliaton board, can be called to investigate and make a report. On the basis of the report the labor minister may order any necessary changes and authorize prosecution, if he sees fit.

Leslie Wismer (CCF-Toronto Riverdale) opened the budget debate Thursday with an attack on government fiscal policies and a motion of non-confidence. The motion will not come to a vote until the end of the budget debate.

Included in his seven-point motion were charges that Premier Frost had "persistently misinformed" the province in his annual budgets and had failed to take available steps to combat inflation.

Planning and Development Minister Griesinger, only other member to take part in the budget debate, told the Legislature that Ontario still had undeveloped productivity in agriculture and natural resources to support a much larger population.

H. R. MacMillan Named To Board

VANCOUVER, March 9 (CP) —The name of H. R. MacMillan, appointed Thursday as Canada's representative on the North Atlantic Defence Production Board, is synonymous with the phenomenal industrial growth of British Columbia.

Just after the First World War, he set himself up in business with one stenographer in a small room in the Vancouver building where his businesses now occupy four floors.

Last year, the H. R. MacMillan Export Co. Ltd. biggest forest operator in British Columbia, grossed $89,971,738, returning a net profit of $7,412,381.

Considering his great wealth, he lives modestly, his one luxury a large and unprofitable farm on Vancouver Island.

He has a reputation for blunt talk. To this, he says he prefers a simple "no" to an evasion.

A native of Newmarket, Ont., Mr. MacMillan studied agriculture and forestry as a youth. At 27, he became chief forester of British Columbia.

Base Metals Decline On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 9 — (CP) — Base metals declined slowly to lead the market downward on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Base metal declines ranged from pennies to the $1.50 drop of Noranda. Consolidated Smelters was down $1 and other losses were fractional. Waite Amulet, United Keno Hill, Hudson Bay, Normetal and Falconbridge were lower.

Industrials eased in dull trading. Papers, steels, agricultures, textile banks, refining oils, retail s and manufacturing comp.. s' owed a majority of losses. Foods and constructions were higher and liquors were mixed.

Western oils were irregular with small price changes.

Siscoe Gold Mines, a feature Thursday, held the spotlight in the gold section. It was the most active issue in the entire market, climbing 18 cents to a new high at $1.25. The rest of the group was mixed in little trading.

$73, Cigarets Stolen From Tobacco Shop

The tobacco shop of Norman Bowler, at 540 Romaine St. was broken into Wednesday night and $73 in cash and some packages of cigarets taken.

The money had been left in the till. Entry had been made through a basement window. The screen had been ripped and the window forced.

Detective-Sergeant John Stevenson is investigating.

The Weather

Peterborough Temperatures:

Today:
Night low..16 Noon ...24
Noon barometer.....29.5

Yesterday:
Highest....34 Lowest..19

One Year Ago:
Highest....32 Lowest.. 0

¼-inch snow.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion Public Weather Office at 9.30 a.m. EST today.

Synopsis:

Cold air now extends through Saskatchewan eastward to the Atlantic and southward to the Gulf of Mexico. In the eastern portion of the continent only Florida remains untouched by the cold outbreak.

Skies are mostly clear but the Great Lakes area has been disturbed by snowflurries because of the warming influence of the lakes.

Quite variable sky conditions are expected in Ontario today. There will be periods of sunshine interrupted by cloudiness and light snowflurries, the snowflurries occurring more frequently just east of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay. With clear skies tonight, the weather will be fairly chilly. Saturday, however, there will be considerable sunshine which will raise temperatures quite rapidly.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Saturday:

Eastern Lake Erie, Niagara and Lake Ontario regions; Toronto and Hamilton cities:

Sunny with a few cloudy intervals today and Saturday. Little change in temperature. Winds west 20 today, light tonight and Saturday. Low tonight and high Saturday at St. Thomas, Toronto, St. Catharines and Hamilton 20 and 35. Trenton 15 and 30.

Dollar Edges Up

MONTREAL, March 9—(CP)—The American dollar today opened at 4 23/32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, up 5/16 from Wednesday's close. That is, it took $1.04 23/32 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.93¼, up 1/16.

$10,000 DAMAGE WAS DONE Thursday by fire which swept through the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hardinge in Hamilton township just east of Cobourg. Cause of the fire is unknown. By the time the fire was extinguished, only the main floor was intact and most of the contents burned. The gutted building is shown above. (Murray Smith Photo)

Talks Bog Down, Ask Conciliation

Negotiations between the CGE and the United Electrical Workers, representing 7,000 employees in Peterborough and Toronto, have bogged down. And the UE has applied for conciliation.

The UE has specifically asked for the intervention of Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer for Ontario.

Union officials say the company wanted agreement on contract issues before talking more money. One of these is the taking away of the guaranteed minimum rate for girls of 88 cents an hour; another is the company's insistence on their right to revise piecework prices.

A company wage offer of a 7.5 per cent increase was previously turned down by the UE.

Howard of Aylmer, Que., was under such constant fire that the men were almost buried by the dirt kicked up by bullets.

Bren gunners Pte. Ron Ebert of Nanaimo, B.C., and Pte. Ken Dobbs of Duncan, B.C., couldn't even dig in. They found shelter behind large rocks, with the enemy opening up on them every time they moved.

Attack In Dark

Major Lilley decided that the enemy positions denying the Patricia's the remaining two-thirds of the hill could only be taken by a bayonet charge at night.

The first dugouts were attacked at 5 a.m. by a platoon under Lieut. Don McColud of Vancouver. It meant crossing a 50-yard open stretch, then 50 yards up a 60-degree slope. The Patricias did not know how many of the enemy were holding the hill. They just knew they were to do a job. They went in an unwavering line straight up.

Of four Chinese spotted, two were killed and two ran like rabbits and escaped. Others and the main elements had been pulled back earlier.

Major Lilley immediately dispatched Sgt. Ulmer's platoon and an advance guard to the hilltop where they found the enemy decamped.

And he had decamped in a hurry. There were bodies here and weapons and ammunition. Two million rounds of British, U.S., Russian, Chinese and Czechoslovak ammunition and stockpiles of grenades were left. The enemy even left two wounded—spotted by Pte. Eric Carriere of Ottawa and Cpl. Ed. McDade of Hillcrest, Alta.—whom the Patricias evacuated.

Both Sides Watch

Thursday night the Patricias dug in on the forward crestof Hill 532 and watched the artillery. The Chinese were looking at the same things from hills 2½ miles to the north across an intervening valley.

Commenting on the terrain ahead—the highest point of the mountain ahead is 4,200 feet—L. Cpl. Gerald Imbeau of North Battleford, Sask., said:

"It doesn't seem to make any difference how high we climb. The hills ahead always seem to get higher."

The men in Major Lilley's attack advanced in darkness. By 7 o'clock the Patricias reported Hill 532 firmly held. The Canadian battalion was the first in the current phase of the 9th Corps offensive to report success.

The Greeks on the left and the Australians on the right reported themselves firm on neighboring hills later in the day.

The bayonet charge by Capt. Turnbull's company Wednesday undoubtedly instilled fear into the Chinese, who withdrew in haste, leaving only a token resistance group.

The attack represented the determination on the part of the Canadians to ferret out the enemy. The Chinese were in excellently prepared dugouts, heavily timbered and camouflaged above and with weapons slits only six inches high and 12 inches long.

Said Capt. Turnbull:

"The Chinese were down in their positions, so we had to grenade them. We threw grenades into their holes wherever we found them. They wouldn't come out. Otherwise, they would have been bayonetted."

Grenade Casualties

Canadian casualties were mainly from grenades and small arms. Several Patricias were wounded, from positions they had overshot, spun around and killed the enemy who had revealed their positions by trowing grenades.

Col. Stone, exuberant over the Patricias' performance, said that by beating two Chinese battalions on their own ground, driving them from positions stronger and more commanding than those of Hill 419 north of Sogu a week ago, and by courage exhibited in the bayonet charges, they had won a battle greater than any other in the battalion's history.

OBITUARIES

MRS. JULIA PEARSON

Mrs. Julia Pearson, 85, of 573 Downie St., died at her home Thursday after a short illness. She was the former Julia Kane, daughter of the late Michael Kane and Julia Allen, and was born in Douro.

She came to Peterborough 25 years ago, the wife of Daniel Pearson, who predeceased her. Mrs. Pearson was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral.

She is survived by five sons, Michael, Jack, James and Daniel of Peterobrough, Leo of Lindsay; two daughters, Mrs. K. Schell (Catherine), Mrs. S. W. Gosselin (Dora), and one sister, Mrs. David D. Curtin, all of Peterborough.

Requiem mass will be said Saturday at 9 a.m. in St. Peter's Cathedral, and burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery. The body is resting at the Lane Funeral Home.

MRS. JOSEPH McEWAN

BONARLAW, Mar. 9 (ENS)—A former Springbrook resident, Mrs. Joseph McEwan, died after an illness of two weeks today in Belleville in her 64th year. She was born in Springbrook the daughter of the late Henry Green and Elizabeth Lidster and is the wife of Joseph McEwan.

Mrs. McEwan has resided in Belleville for a number of years and previously lived in Springbrook. In Belleville she was a member of the Eastern Star and Rebekah lodges.

Besides her husband surviving her are a daughter, Mrs. William Ironside (Clara) of Belleville, a son, Morris of Detroit, a sister, Mrs. Allan McComb (Annie) of Sidney township and a brother, Amos Green of Belleville.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Sylvester Phillips

MARMORA, March 9.—(ENS).—The funeral of Sylvester Phillips was held Wednesday afternoon and was largely attended. It proceeded from his late residence in Marmora Township to St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, where service was conducted by the Rev. George D. Young.

The funeral was under auspices of Marmora AF and AM, 222, of which he had been a member for many years. The Masonic ritual at the graveside was conducted by Wor. Bro. C. R. Whittemore, assisted by Right Wor. Bro. C. H. Buskard and Wor. Bro. H. C. Barlow.

Pallbearers were Right Wor. Bro. C. H. Buskard, Wor. Bro. C. R. Whittemore, Wor. Bro. W. Simmons and Bros. B. McKenzie, H. Easton and F. R. Loveless.

Just A Nice Size

16 Living In Log Cabin Children Share Shoes

CORNWALL, March 9. (CP)—The twin sons to whom Mrs. Alberta Ruest, 41, gave birth this week—her fifth set of twins—are her 25th and 26th children. Nine have died. Mrs. Ruest now is resting with friends here. But later this week she will return to a full house in an 18x20-foot log cabin on a lonely side-road 12 miles northeast of here. She and the latest twins will share the two-room dwelling with her 61-year-old husband, Hector, and 12 of their 17 surviving children.

The family says the father has not worked since he was laid off a laboring job on the Cornwall Canal last year. Before that, he worked in a cotton mill.

Every month, however, $146 comes into the home as unemployment insurance and family allowances. The township gives the family 40 loaves of bread a week. Rent for the land on which the two-storey, two-room home stands comes to $5 a month.

Large Order

Besides bread, each week the Ruests use: A bag of potatoes, four pounds of margarine, six large cans of condensed milk, 10 pounds of meat, gallons of homemade soup and pound after pound of macaroni. In winter they obtain water by melting snow, in summer they carry it from a small stream near the house.

Three members of the family live away from home. Douglas, 20, is in Acton, near Guelph, as is his sister, Theresa, 18, who is married to Leslie Butler. Lucy, 19, works as a maid in Cornwall.

At home are Mary, 17, the chief housekeeper; Dominic, 15; Jeanette, 13; twins Jean and Joan, 10; Rose, 7; twins Victoria and Victor, 6; Alfred, 5; Margaret, 4, and twins Bernard and Bernice, 2. To these will be added the newest twins, Lawrence and Leonard.

Another set of twins died shortly after birth.

Mr. Ruest also has two sons by a former marriage, Elzear 39 and Albert 36.

He comes from a family of 13 children, his wife from one of 14.

Observe Fast Days

The family meat budget is helped out by the Ruests' faith. Parents and children strictly observe all fast days. They go to mass at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Church, 3½ miles from their home.

The Ruest children never all go to church at once. In the winter, the number setting out on a trip to church, or to school, is dictated by the number of pairs of shoes and the quantity of other clothing on hand. There never is enough for all. Sometimes the older children share a pair of shoes, wearing them by turns.

Short $1.06 For Meal Ottawa Man Jailed Day

An Ottawa man, Ronan Morel, 57, who ordered a $1.20 meal in a restaurant here Thursday night and had only 14 cents in his pocket to pay for it was sentenced to one day in jail in police court today.

He was charged with causing a disturbance. The crown said that in an argument over his check, Morel used rough language and pushed a waiter around a little.

"I'll plead guilty," said Morel. "I was really drunk."

"If you just give me a chance I'll get out of town."

He said he was in Peterborough visiting a sister.

Declare Soviet Fomenting New Arms Race

PARIS, March 9 (AP). — The United States accused Russia Thursday of fomenting the current armament race and said any western move now to disarm would alarm the free peoples of the world. U.S. Ambassador-at-large Philip Jessup made the statement at the meeting of the Big Four deputies who are trying to arrange an agenda for a meeting of the foreign ministers of Britain, France, the United States and Russia.

Sitting at his right was Andrei Gromyko, Russian deputy foreign minister. One source present said Jessup looked squarely at Gromyko as he asserted:

The majority of the free peoples of the world and those seeking escape from bondage are alarmed by the mass of armaments of the Soviet Union and its bloc.

This alarm will increase, not diminish, if Britain, the U. S., and French halt their efforts to reach a military parity with Russia, unless there is some assurance from Russia that she has abandoned her aggressive policy.

Same Charge

A short time before, Gromyko had said that the "furious arms race of the West" is causing the world's tensions. He said the West had started the movement and that the people of the world are worried by it.

This exchange was part of the fourth session of the deputies. Persons who attended said there still was no apparent progress in framing an acceptable list of points for discussion by the foreign ministers.

A French spokesman said: "We spent a lot of time going around in circles."

The Russians came up with one new proposal—that the foreign ministers discuss German unity. The western powers had originally suggested this, but the specific point of German unity was left out of the draft agenda submitted by the Russians.

Today, they modified one of the points on the list to include the subject. Gromyko took pains to explain that this was not a shift in Russian position—just a clarification.

German General Gets 10 Years Hard Labor

BRUSSELS, March 9 (Reuters) —Gen. Alexander Von Falkenhausen, 73, wartime military governor of Belgium and northern France, today was sentenced to 12 years at hard labor by a military court for war crimes.

Gen. Egert Reeder, head of the German administration in Belgium, was also sentenced to 12 years. Gen. Franz Bertram, German governor of Liege, was sentenced to 10 years, and Gen. Bernard Von Claes, also wartime governor of Liege, was acquitted.

All were accused of responsibility for executions and deportations.

Associated Press correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported from the central front that the Red night attacks may be the start of a last-ditch Communist attempt to drive the allies out of Korea. Gen. MacArthur has reported signs of a Chinese build-up for a new drive.

Some American officers, however, said they think Chinese Communist strength is waning. One officer said the Chinese may have suffered so heavily in battle and from disease and cold that "they are withering on the vine" and added:

"Even a mule will reach a point where even the whip will persuade him to go no farther. Perhaps we have found a breaking point of a Chinese soldier."

Out Two Weeks, Arrested Again

COBOURG, Mar. 9— (ENS) — Released two weeks ago after serving a reformatory term for shopbreaking, John Rhyness, 19, of Toronto, was arrested here Thursday on another shop burglary charge. He was remanded in custody until today.

PC H. Pearse spotted Rhyness in town Thursday and, linking him with a grocery store robbery of two days before, picked him up for questioning. Later he was charged. His previous conviction was for breaking into a Cobourg corner grocery.

Also arrested, on a charge of shoplifting, was 50-year-old Arthur King of Toronto. He is charged with theft of two cigaret lighters and a box of chocolates from a Cobourg cigar store.

Campbellford IODE Gives Annual Report

CAMPBELLFORD, March. 9 — (ENS)—The annual report of the Bemersyde Chapter, IODE which has just been released, shows the chapter held nine meetings with an average attendance of 36.

A service to which the public was invited, commemorating the 30th anniversary of the IODE, was held in the Aaron Theatre. Dr. Douglas of Queen's University, was guest speaker on this occasion. A most successful birthday tea was held at the home of Mrs. J. D. Mills in April.

The Christmas Seal campaign for this district is sponsored by the chapter, and the money is used locally in the cure and prevention of tuberculosis. In April, 1950, 2,982 persons received free X-rays in Campbellford.

The chapter sent out Christmas parcels to patients in nursing homes and hospitals; gifts of clothing to two families knitted articles to headquarters, two food parcels a month to England, and two members visit the local nursing homes each month.

A tag day was held in June in aid of the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund; a donation was made to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind; the chapter was responsible for the tea tables at the annual Hospital Auxiliary bazaar, and each school in Seymour township received a one year subscription to the Canadian Geographic Magazine.

A "Queen Victoria" float was decorated and entered in the community Santa Claus parade.

Wallace H. Moore

A funeral service for Wallace Herbert Moore, Keene, who died in hospital Tuesday was held Thursday at the Comstock Funeral Home.

Fishing Shack Burns Big Sturgeon Blamed

HAILEYBURY, —(CP) Ontario Provincial Police officers here tell the tale of the Lake Temiskaming sturgeon that burned down an ice-fisherman's shack.

The fisherman hooked a five-footer and landed him after a terrific battle. Dragging the monster into his hut, he dashed out to tell his friends about his luck.

Thrashing around the floor, the sturgeon upset the fisherman's stove. By the time he returned with his friends, a pile of glowing embers was all that was left of his hut, fish and equipment.

The O.P.P. narrators of the yarn are unable to supply the names of the fishermen involved.

Women Jurors In Ontario

Women are not second-class citizens. They therefore should have full civic duties as well as privileges. One of the duties exacted of all men in democratic countries (except inmates of prisons, idiots, newspapermen and several other special categories) is jury service. It is time that women were required to serve on juries. Attorney-General Dana Porter yesterday introduced a bill in the Ontario Legislature this session to permit the province and courts to take advantage of women for juries. This will be a reasonable and just amendment of the Provincial laws.

* * *

We do not claim that women have a special aptitude for sifting facts to get at the truth of a matter, nor an intuitive feeling for guilt and innocence, nor mental capacities beyond the horizons of men. On the other hand, we do not believe that men are better qualified than women to serve on juries. Our point is that men and women are equally competent and equally incompetent as species, to give just verdicts, that men should not have to shoulder all the responsibility, and that women should be expected to take their full share of it.

* * *

Whenever women get into places from which they have previously been barred, there is always a good deal of harumphing and hawing. Old chestnuts are freshly roasted: that women's place is in the home; that women have no experience in this or that sort of thing; that their thinking mechanism is dominated by their hunches; that they are distracting, irrelevant and lacking in dignity. That is a pack of nonsense. They can think as logically as men when they have to; they can be impartial and stick to the facts; and, as far as their appearance in the courts go, no one expects them to sit knitting in the juror's box, to upset the court's decorum or to be wooed by blandishments of lawyers or smirks of prisoners.

There are many cases before the courts, both civil and criminal, where justice will benefit from the presence and decisions of women jurors. The soft-heartedness of male jurors towards an indicted, personable woman, or their class sympathies for male fallibilities, can be balanced by the calculating eye, and sometimes sympathy, of a woman juror. Further, it is fair to women on trial that the panel who render the verdict should include members of their own sex.

* * *

Truth is relative; twelve good men and true see it in a different light than twelve women would do. Justice will be well served when the sights are synchronized and a mild proportion of juries is female.

No Conscription In Canada

Canada is the only North Atlantic Treaty country which has neither conscription nor national service of one kind or another ranging from eighteen to twenty-four months—with the exception of Iceland. Is that disgraceful? No. Is it discreditable? No.

Nations have conscription for three reasons, that is nations which are not Communist or totalitarian; Russia, for instance conscripts for political and industrial reasons as well as military. A nation conscripts its men into the armed services because it fears its neighbors; because it is big and powerful and keeps large standing armies as instruments of that power, and, thirdly, a nation conscripts in time of war because it cannot otherwise get enough men into the armed services. These reasons do not apply to Canada, not yet. Canada has no cause to fear her neighbours. Canada is not a great power with the responsibilities and pride of a great power. Canada does not need conscription to get the men required to serve in the air force, navy or army.

This last point may be argued hotly, but the facts of the service in the two world wars pretty conclusively prove our point. True, conscription was introduced later during each war, but the conscripts had little to do with filling the ranks overseas. In the first war 7.98 per cent. of the population served in the armed forces. In the second war 9.65 per cent. or 1,086,000, all of whom were volunteers except about 100,000 "called up." An estimated 40.6 per cent. of the total male population between the ages of 18 and 45 served in the armed forces, and, let us repeat, all but ten per cent. were volunteers. Canada's record, therefore, is a proud one, and should indicate to other nations as well as our own people who now demand conscription of some kind or another, that Canadians will not fail in their duty, when the duty is clear and the need proven.

Canadians are greatly influenced by events and methods across the border. The Americans now have plans to call for two-and-a-quarter years' universal military service. Canada has no plans for conscription and none of the three largest political parties has advocated it in Parliament. The reason is not entirely, and perhaps not chiefly, that political parties fear opposition in Quebec. The opposition would, we suspect, be very strong right across the country. (Incidentally, French-Canadians are not shirkers in military service. Their numbers overseas were impressive and their exploits striking.) The fact is that conscription is alien to Canadian thinking. Canada is less ruthlessly democratic in this regard than the United States. In that great democracy the logic and preaching about democracy are far more insistent than in Canada. Many Americans think it quite right and proper to have conscription, wrong and improper to permit volunteering. They think it is undemocratic to allow an army of volunteers to represent the country which is fighting for all: equality of opportunity and privilege, equality of responsibility and service.

Canadians are not so straight-laced about democracy. They tend to think that a good country like Canada which cannot produce enough volunteers to serve it must have some flaw in it, or that the cause itself is not sufficiently worthy. Further, they tend to think that a conscript is not the best kind of fighter for his country. There is a basic Canadian belief that it is democratic to offer a man the right to serve, undemocratic to force service upon him.

Canada has neither the temperament, the administrative machinery nor the resources to bring in conscription now. In fact, in view of its industrial commitments, it has not the man-power to afford it.

A Residence For The Lieutenant Governor

Premier Frost said in the Legislature on Wednesday that his government hopes, when housing in Toronto is somewhat easier, to provide a residence for the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario. We are glad that Mr. Frost has made such a clear statement on this matter; one of the stupidest actions of the Hepburn administration was to close and, as Mr. Joliffe pointed out, loot Chorley Park. The Lieutenant Governor needs a fine house and an adequate staff, and it is not fair that he should be expected to provide such things himself; if that is made a condition of holding the office it will be confined to very wealthy men, and even they will seek to avoid it.

Mr. Hepburn had the demagogue's passion for pouring scorn on any ceremonials or entertainments which were not directly under the control of the Ontario government. We cannot recall that he was notably parsimonious in his own expenditures or those of his colleagues while in office, but he did not like the Lieutenant Governor to spend any money except from his own purse. But every Government must have its ceremonial side, and it should be paid for by public funds—at least in larger part.

It has been suggested from time to time that the office of Lieutenant Governor be abolished. In our opinion, such action would be short-sighted. Ceremonial duties must be fulfilled and distinguished guests must be entertained; the duties of the Crown must in some way be met. This work cannot properly be thrown on the shoulders of the Premier, who has a heavy administrative job to do, and who may have no appetite or talent for such work. It is, properly, the task of a Lieutenant Governor, and the existence of such an office makes it possible for men who have done notable service for the province—not always in the political field—to receive honourable recognition.

The cost of maintaining a residence for the Lieutenant Governor is not a very great one, considering the provincial budget and its major expenditures; the return to the province from such a residence is plain—the social duties of the province are suitably taken care of, and the office of Lieutenant Governor is not closed to all but a handful of very wealthy men. The Lieutenant Governor has, at present, an apartment in the Legislature building, but it is not suitable for its purpose, and an entertainment there takes on something of the character of an Open House at one of our public schools.

More power, then, to Premier Frost and his plan to re-establish the Lieutenant Governor in a proper residence. If it is to be a new house, may we suggest that its design be put in the hands of one of our best Canadian architects, and that it be built in a modern style? In that way it would not only fulfil its primary purpose, but would provide an example of good modern architecture to builders everywhere in Ontario.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In Paris, women are having their poodles dyed to match their clothes. The question in our minds is: which is supposed to look like what?

"A steering wheel in the shape of a harp might cause a few motorists to think," says the Kitchener Record. What about a wheel shaped like a pitchfork?

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: Do Roman Catholic schools get bigger Ontario Government grants than Public Schools? I have heard that the Government is paying most of the cost of building St. Alphonsus School in the south end of the city. What does the Government pay for additions like the one to Prince of Wales School?

ANSWER: The system of grants for both Public and Separate school buildings is the same; but communities with low assessments, for instance rural school sections, get bigger grants than city school boards. The authorities responsible for building the two new Separate schools in Peterborough cannily looked the system of grants over, and decided to build outside the city, just on the edge of it. So both St. Anne's School at the north end of the city and St. Alphonsus School at the south-west end of the city, are outside the limits and, for purposes of grants, 'rural' schools. Each has its own school board, although the Secretary-Treasurer of them is Mr. John Black, Secretary-Treasurer of the Peterborough Separate Schools board. The extent to which the two new Boards' duties are purely formal is not known to me.

I understand that 90 per cent of the pupils attending these schools live in the city.

The Ontario grants towards their building are quite large in comparison with building grants for, say, the Prince of Wales School addition. The grants to the Separate schools amount to about 95 per cent. of the building costs; for Public schools within the city limits, the grants are only about 27½ per cent. of the building costs. A further interesting item is this: the Provincial Government guarantees payments on the bonds issued for the separate schools.

Perhaps the Peterborough Board of Education should play the same canny game as the Separate school authorities, and build its new schools just outside the city limits.

DEAR ALPHA: I wonder if you could give us a summary of the car licence numbers for this year. It would be nice to know what town or district a car comes from just by looking at the licence plate. For instance, 'S' and 'U' are the new Peterborough letters.

ANSWER: I have written the Registrar of Motor Vehicles in Toronto, Mr. J. P. Bickell. (His signature is on all motor permits.) He tells me that his branch does not compile public lists showing the allotment of licence plates to the various issuing offices. The central office, of course, records the number issued, and I believe that, with in a very few minutes, the Provincial Police can get from their central files the name of the owner of any car, from its licence number.

A complete list such as you ask would be valueless in a few weeks because changes are made from time to time, additional plates are supplied, or some already issued to distributing offices are withdrawn. Plates with the letter 'S' have been issued to Peterborough and eleven other points in Ontario, including Windsor and Port Arthur.

Certain letters have been definitely allotted as usual for certain purposes. The letter 'B' and 'C' are reserved for commercial vehicles, used either as prefixes or suffixes to the numbers. 'T', both as prefix and suffix, is for trailers. The prefix 'D' has been reserved for medical practitioners ('D' as in doctor). 'X' goes on the plates of all dual-purpose vehicles, and the letter 'M' as a suffix after the number, is for motor vehicles dealers' registration plates.

SIR: How many beds has the Queen Mary Isolation Hospital? I would think that that hospital, so little used, would have been of good use for extra accommodation.

ANSWER: The Queen Mary Isolation Hospital has no beds at all. It is closed, and has been since the new Civic opened. The Civic has a communicable diseases wing. I believe it had some twenty-five beds when operating, and, during the war, when the army camp at the Exhibition Ground used it for supplementary cases, accommodated as many as forty patients at a time.

It is curious that the Queen Mary Hospital was built to overcome an unsatisfactory situation which present Provincial Health authorities now find satisfactory. Before it was built, patients with communicable diseases were put in a separate wing of Nicholls Hospital. The authorities frowned on this and said the city must build a new separate hospital to house these patients, that they must not be kept under the same roof as patients with non-communicable diseases. Now, the same roof is considered satisfactory.

Actually, the new system is not so much a reversal of policy as an indication of the extent to which the more vicious kinds of communicable diseases have been brought under control and nearly wiped out, e.g. smallpox. Now, communicable diseases are not dreaded as in early years. Houses are no longer placarded, and quarantine is rarely imposed.

When the Provincial Health authorities finally ordered the city to establish a separate isolation hospital (1908-1909), the Queen Mary was planned, and finished in 1911, forty years ago. It cost, complete with fittings, $12,500. Such costs for a 25-40 bed hospital contrast sharply with the multi-million dollar structures now being built to house not more than ten times as many patients.

The Queen Mary hospital building is, I believe, still sound, and some good use should be found for it. The name was given it because King George V and Queen Mary were crowned in that year.

SIR: For whom was Sherbrooke Street named?

ANSWER: I presume after Sir John Cope Sherbrooke, Governor of Lower Canada (Quebec) from July, 1816 to August, 1818. I doubt if the connection is direct; probably it was named after Sherbrooke, the town in the Eastern Townships of Quebec, which got its name from Governor Sherbrooke (as did the village of Sherbrooke in Nova Scotia; Sherbrooke had been Governor of Nova Scotia before taking up his Quebec duties). He was an army officer who had gained distinction in India and the Peninsular campaigns under Wellington. Perhaps some of the local retired officers and soldiers in early Peterborough had fought under him. He was one of the most able governors Quebec has had. His term was short because of ill-health, but after he returned to England he lived until 1830.

The Quebec chronologer and historian, E. A. Collard, who writes for the Montreal Gazette, recently told this story of Sherbrooke: He says that Sir John Cope Sherbrooke once saw a ghost. Sherbrooke was then a young officer, stationed with the 33rd Regiment at Cape Breton, about the year 1785. On that particular evening he was sitting with his friend, Lieut. George Wynyard, in Wynyard's apartments. While they were talking together, Sherbrooke suddenly saw a boy, of about 15 years of age, appear in the doorway of Wynyard's bedroom. The boy seemed as pale as a corpse. When Sherbrooke cried out in surprise, Wynyard turned round. 'My God!' he exclaimed, seizing Sherbrooke by the arm. 'It's my brother.' 'You must be mistaken,' said Sherbrooke. 'But let us make sure.' They threw themselves into the room. But the room was empty. And there was no way any living being could have escaped, as the only door from the bedroom opened into the room where they had been sitting. Several weeks later, Sherbrooke received a private letter. 'Would you inform your friend Wynyard,' it said, 'that his favourite brother is dead.'

FOR THE RECORD: I notice that the General Electric Co. is advertising in the United States a clock-radio which "lulls you to sleep then turns itself off....wakes you to music too....starts your coffee automatically." This ingenious contraption for bedside comfort is behind the times. Lady Clutterbuck, wife of the British High Commissioner in Ottawa has long had at her bedside this chronometrical robot: an alarm clock in connection with a tea-pot arrangement (the British make a fetish of early morning tea). At the prescribed hour, heat goes on under the tea-kettle which has been filled the night before. When the water is boiling, the pot is automatically tipped into a tea cup over which is a strainer containing tea leaves. Thus the tea is infused. Then the bed-table lamp goes on, and finally, the alarm wakens the good lady to a lighted room and her cup of tea.

"WHITE BIRD" IS THE NAME of this picture by Grant Macdonald, O.S.A., one of the works being exhibited in the current show of the Ontario Society of Artists. This is the 79th annual exhibition given by the Society, which was opened this afternoon by His Excellency, Viscount Alexander of Tunis. Mr. Macdonald is perhaps the most subtle painter at work in Canada today, and his work is distinguished by remarkable and poetically evocative juxtapositions of colour; no hint of this can be reproduced in the engraving above, of course, but it does succeed in giving an impression of this remarkable Canadian artist's command of composition and line.

Letters To The Editor

COUNCIL SHOULD RESIST

Sir: It was an unpleasant shock to read Mr. Sadlier's letter in Tuesday's Examiner. The Summer Theatre has established itself as a very important part of the cultural life of Peterborough, providing entertainment on a high standard for thousands of our citizens and stimulus and instruction for many of our amateur theatre groups. I sincerely hope the Council will not permit this very necessary cultural asset to be lost to Peterborough and district, especially when I remember how enthusiastic they were last year about the presentation by the Summer Theatre of Peterborough's Centenary play "At My Heart's Core."

The situation which has arisen with regard to the uses to which Queen Mary Auditorium may be devoted should be cleared at once. It is by far the finest place available in Peterborough for the presentation of plays and musical offerings which require to be "staged." The acoustics are excellent and facilities for storing and handling properties are good.

Last year Peterborough and district had its first Community Drama Festival. With Professor Arnold Edinborough as adjudicator it was highly successful and aroused great interest. But it should be recognised that a great part of that success was due to the fact that the Association was able to rent Queen Mary Auditorium. What constituted a fair-sized audience at Queen Mary would have been wretchedly small in the Collegiate, and a considerable financial loss would certainly have been incurred.

I trust the Council will resist this selfish attempt to limit the citizens' use of Queen Mary Auditorium.

I am, yours etc.

PETER McCOMBE
Chairman Peterborough and District Drama Festival Association

HOW WILL PETERBOROUGH LOOK?

Sir: Your editorial about the letting of Queen Mary Auditorium, and Mr. Michael Sadlier's letter, came to me as a real shock. Can the slight inconvenience of one man be set higher than the pleasure and entertainment of as many as 2,000 people every week? Is it possible that the people who have paid for and own the auditorium, the taxpayers of the city, should be denied the use of it because one man chooses to set his personal feelings against the citizens?

How will the city of Peterborough stand in Ontario if the Summer Theatre is driven out, because the elected Board refuses to let the best and most suitable hall in the city in case a neighbour should object? And how will the Board members look when they come up for election next December? I cannot believe that the progressive city of Peterborough, which gives such a warm support to the arts could allow such a thing to happen.

This city is a tourist centre which attracts visitors from all over Ontario and as far away as the USA. Are these people, who are just beginning to realize that there is a flourishing theatre here to provide amusement for them in the evenings, to be told that there is no longer a theatre because the Board of Education has refused to let the charming auditorium be used by the people who paid for it?

It seems strange that the Board of Education, which has many warm supporters of the Summer Theatre among its members, who have taken a lot of trouble to assist Mr. Sadlier, should as a body have refused to let him the theatre. Surely something can be done before it is too late. The cause of Canadian theatre is too great and growing a one to be blocked by what appears to be such a slight matter.

Yours truly,

B. E. MATHEWS

SHOULD COUNCIL INTERVENE?

Sir: As a taxpayer and holder of a subcription to the Summer Theatre for its two seasons, I wish to register a strong protest against the fate to which our pride and joy seems headed.

The outrageous situation of one man dictating the use of OUR auditorium is enough to arouse the ire of people not even interested in the theatre. It could be something in which they are interested.

Those of us who have enjoyed the past plays and are looking forward to more, can no longer sit back and let our summer's pleasure slip away from us. Someone living very close to Queen Mary who does not find the arrival of the people at about 8:15 and their departure around 10:30 an unbearable disturbance and who is proud to have Canada's best Summer Theatre here has suggested we get up a petition. Unfortunately such a move would take time and we can scarcely expect Mr. Sadlier to be patient with us indefinitely. His reasons for not using the Collegiate auditorium are logical and understandable. If a law by City Council is necessary to prevent the Board of Education from having a law suit on their hands we must let our representatives know what we want.

Let us all take up our pens and I trust, dear editor, that you will be deluged by letters which need only say, "We protest. We want our Summer Theatre."

Thanking you for your space, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

(MRS. L. J.) GLADYS CALVERT

DRIVES EIGHTEEN MILES TO SUMMER PLAYS

Sir: I have been following with deep interest and apprehension the controversy in your paper on the Summer Theatre.

Not being a resident of the city I know nothing about the conditions which have caused dissent, but surely these conditions if any, can be rectified.

I live eighteen miles from the city but try to see as many plays as possible as do many of my friends. It may interest you to know that many of the summer residents on Rice Lake and the Trent River are constant attendants. The splendid entertainment afforded by the Summer Theatre is a wonderful advertisement for the Peterborough district in many centres and in many States.

There is great stress laid today on adult education. This is provided by the Summer Theatre. Don't let Peterborough lose it.

Yours very truly,

(MRS.) ETHEL W. S. BIRDSALL

CITY TOO BIG FOR SUCH NONSENSE

Sir: Once again I feel I must write on behalf of the Peterborough Summer Theatre, speaking not as a patron, but as one who really has enjoyed the plays so much during the past two seasons. I am sure I am not alone when I say the Peterborough Summer Theatre will be missed.

It is regrettable that OUR Board of Education has been swayed by one complaint. We can all appreciate the confusion every evening for possibly ten minutes or so, when the playgoers are leaving the Auditorium after a most enjoyable play, but then aren't we all inconvenienced some time or other in this life we live? Doesn't this seem just a little selfish on the part of this individual? His feeling (and those he has persuaded into signing the petition we understand has been going around) against the two thousand weekly who have been attending the plays! From one source it is understood the Summer Theatre brings life to this particular district every evening—a little gaiety and brightness from the usual hum-drum routine of the neighbourhood.

No doubt the Board of Education has been "put on the spot," however, in their minds they must have realized their offer of the PCVS auditorium would be refused. One had only to attend the recent Fashion Show in this month of March to understand what it would be like in the summer. The show itself was excellent but the auditorium was almost unbearably warm, not to mention the small and uncomfortable seats. Then, too, just where would the actors and actresses dress, make-up, etc.? Any one who has had anything to do with a play or concert in this auditorium knows just how inadequate the rooms are for this purpose.

The Queen Mary auditorium is perfect in every respect, both for the players and also for those who attend plays.

Too, the financial undertaking of the PCVS comes into view—would the complainer take on a business that he knew would be doomed to failure?

However, to be sporting about this whole business, wouldn't it be possible to arrange parking facilities to the side and rear of the Queen Mary school itself? There certainly is space and the ground does not seem to be seeded. Laneways could be arranged between cars, then there shouldn't be any confusion or danger of accidents. No doubt Mr. Sadlier could arrange to have an employee especially for this purpose. After all, he is a reasonable co-operative chap but it must be admitted that he has had to face considerable, shall we say "dirt" from some of our citizens in the past two years. Really, one can't blame him for "pulling out" and giving some other city the benefit of his experience and talent which definitely would be our loss.

If the Board could only see the way clear this Summer to let the Summer Theatre carry on in the Queen Mary, possibly so many of us who are so interested in this kind of work could see our way clear to assist Mr. Sadlier in securing another location for next season. Would it be possible for the owners of the Regent Theatre to renovate and rent their theatre for another year? Or, wasn't there some mention some time ago that the old Customs House might be made into a suitable auditorium when the new Federal Building is completed?

Our local Chamber of Commerce is a representative group of citizens interested in the activities of our city—how about a little co-operation and assistance from them? After all, the Summer Theatre certainly has helped put Peterborough on the map from the theatre movement point of view. Too, revenue has been brought into the city through out-of-town people who enjoy driving into the city to see the professional plays. One has only to read the drama page in other newspapers during the summer and invariably the Peterborough Summer Theatre will be included in the comments of the reviewers.

Thanks to Mr. Michael Sadlier and his players, and to all those who have assisted him in any way, the Peterborough Summer Theatre is outstanding, not only in Canada, but now in Bermuda. Please, let all of us see the light and not be petty about this whole matter. Peterborough is really getting too big for this sort of silly nonsense nowadays.

The columns of the Examiner have been opened to us—let us not allow the Summer Theatre to leave our midst. To all those who have enjoyed the plays, do not be afraid to write your views on the subject. We must show the Board of Education how wrong they are in this respect. In all fairness, if they do not rent to the Summer Theatre, they cannot rent to any other group at any time.

Thanking you for the privilege of expressing my views, I remain,

Very truly yours,

ALENE E. HOLT

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds; who being the brightness of his glory, and the express image of his person, and upholding all things by the word of his power, when he had by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high. (Heb. 1: 1-3.)

Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip....

But one in a certain place testified, saying, What is man, that thou art mindful of him? or the son of man, that thou visited him?....

Thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet. For in that he put all in subjection under him, he left nothing that is not put under him. (Heb. 2: 1, 6, 8.)

Invalids Order Baths By Phone

SOUTHALL, Middlesex, England —(CP)— Elderly persons and the chronically ill soon may be able to order a bath by telephone in this Middlesex town.

Under the plan, people whose homes lack bathrooms would place a telephone call. In a jiffy a truck equipped with portable bath and hot-water container would drive up to the front door.

The scheme has the blessing of local authorities. If it goes into effect, no charge will be made.

Greek Women Vote

ATHENS, March 9 (CP).—For the first time in history, Greek women will be allowed to vote in Greek municipal elections April 15. They also are allowed to run for office. Women still are not allowed to vote in national elections.

Mrs. T. C. Shield Buried At Mount Pleasant

MOUNT PLEASANT, March 9 —(ENS)— Funeral services for Annie Kathryn Shield, wife of T. Garnet Shield, were conducted Monday by the Rev. E. S. Linstead at Mount Pleasant United Church. The Rev. E. W. Rowland assisted.

For many years Mrs. Shield was active in church work and with the Women's Institute. She was organist of the church for a number of years, and teacher of the young people's class in the Sunday school for 20 years.

She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Graham, and spent her life in the Mount Pleasant community.

She served as president and secretary of the East Durham WI and as a member of the provincial board of the Federated Women's Institute of Ontario.

Mrs. Shield is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. C. J. Nichols (June) of Port Hope, two granddaughters Gloria and Joan Nichols, and two brothers, Richard and Thomas Graham of Mount Pleasant.

Pallbearers were Chester Best, Hiram Best, Ira Lowe, Eric McLean, Harry Jamieson and Hubert Lowes. Burial was in Shield's cemetery, Cavan township. Friends and relatives came from Hamilton, Toronto, Lindsay, Port Hope, Peterborough, Bowmanville, Newcastle, Orono and Omemee.

Keene WMS Discusses Presbyterial Report

KEENE, March 9—The March meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Keene United Church was held Tuesday evening. The president, Mrs. Herb. McFarlane, was in the chair. After the business the Willing Workers' group, with Mrs. R. Kempt as leader, had charge of the worship and program. A poem, composed by Kagawa, "Love Means Adventure," was read by Mrs. Kempt.

A report of the Peterborough Presbyterial, held in George St. United Church in February, took the form of a round table conference. Those who took part were Mrs. H. McFarlane, Mrs. S. Comrie, Mrs. David McIntyre, Mrs. H. Wright, Mrs. H. B. Herrington and Mrs. Knox.

Apprentice Now Owns 37 Stores

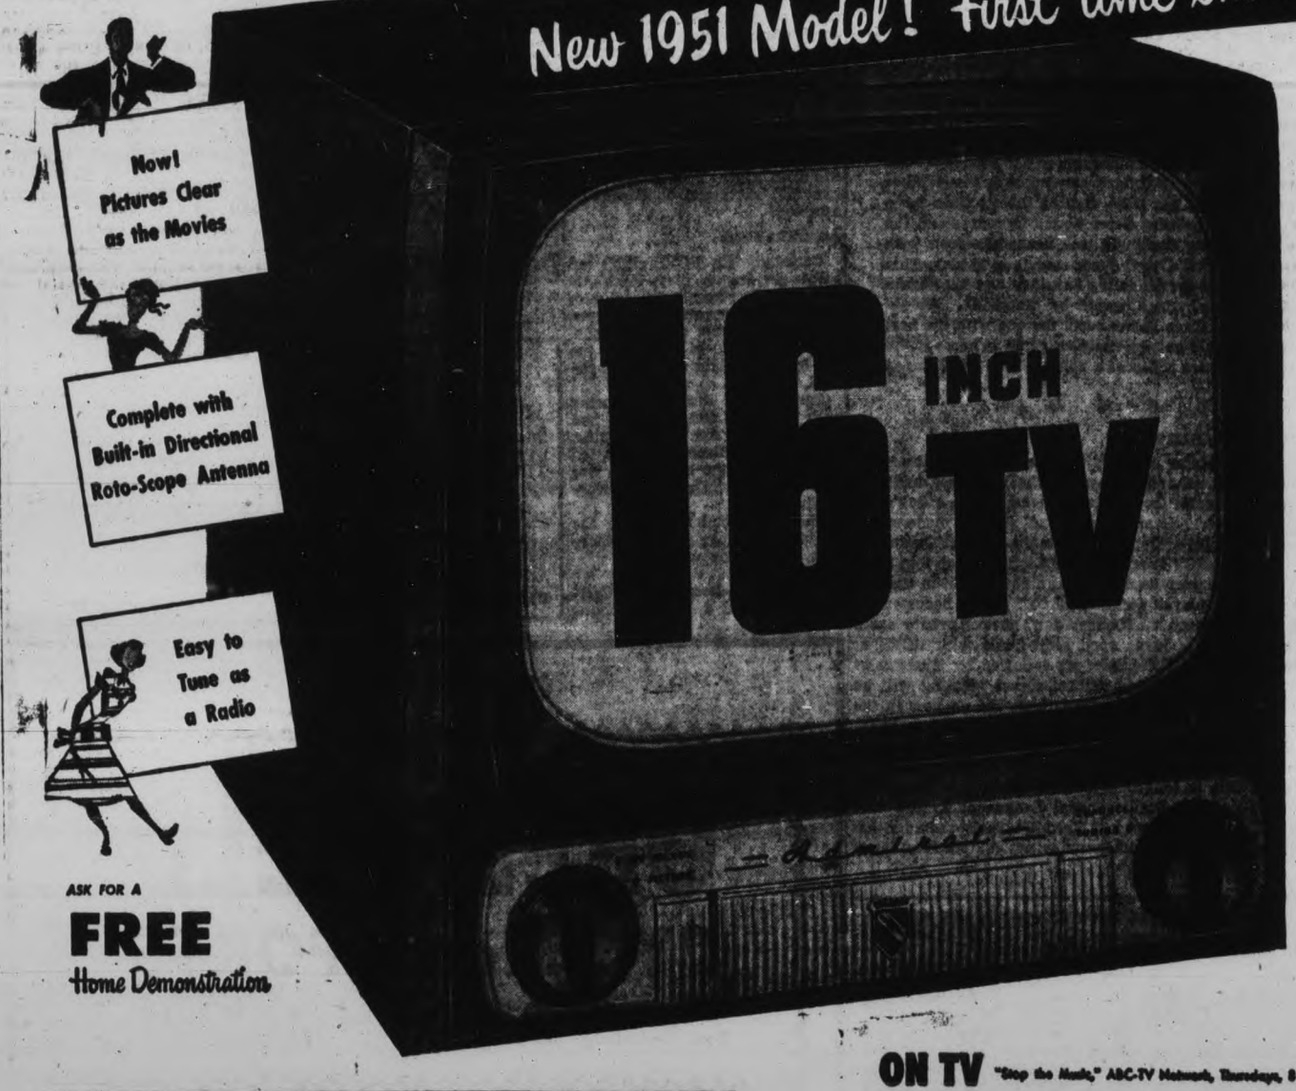
VANCOUVER, —(CP)— It was 40 years ago that George Torrance Cunningham of Vancouver started out as a $3-a-week druggist's apprentice.

Today, at 62, Mr. Cunningham owns a chain of 37 drug stores in Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, Nanaimo and Chilliwack.

He says the key to business success is "service, hard work and good luck—a lot of good luck."

In his first small store which he opened when he was 21 he used to deliver personally postage stamps to customers.

"As a result," he says, "we're now serving the third generation of those same customers."



Last year, his business grossed $8,000,000. One third of net profits were distributed as bonuses among the 425 Cunningham employees.

In 1948, Mr. Cunningham donated $25,000 to the University of British Columbia School of Pharmacy.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

While this was written in a Kingston editorial, it could well apply, alas, to Peterborough: "That Kingston has for years lacked adequate hockey and indoor skating facilities, and arena facilities generally, has been self-evident. Accommodation that met the deman of, say, ten years ago became inadequate with the rapid population growth of the past decade. The arena of the Community Memorial Centre appears admirably designed to meet this need and to provide entertainment for spectators in addition to fulfilling its greater function of providing a centre for the use of the youth of the community. We congratulate the Community Memorial Centre on an auspicious opening."

* * * * * *

That Centre will be opened shortly for hockey, having a crowd capacity of 4,100, and costing $600,000. It will be one of the finest in the country, from all reports. The management, the contributors, the volunteer workers and the three governments made it possible, even though Kingston already as a large (but old) artificial ice place in the Jock Harty Arena. After all these years, we are fortunate enough to have an arena which is strictly a hockey and skating rink able to accommodate a bit more than 2,000 spectators. Ah, well. To the good workers in Kingston, we submit our congratulations.

Looking For Entries

Annual open meeting of the men's City Softball League will be held March 11 at 1.45 in the hall on George St. above Lowe's store. Election of officers, entries taken and the OASA delegation selected. Some reports made, too. Anyone interested in entering a club for the two twin bills weekly under the Ashburnham Bowl arcs this summer should be on deck. Several new officers are likely to be elected, as Prexy Pat Calladine, Secretary Bert Bailey and Treasurer Ted Naish have all indicated that they would not stand for re-election to such active posts. Various other duties have intervened. So, this is your invitation to get things lined up.

Oshawa Bees will be buzzing in Civic Arena tomorrow eve along about 8.30 as they try to put the sting on the local Oddfellows. It's the first of their best-of-seven OHA junior "B" group finals, second being in the Motor City on Monday. This sawoff serial of course means the end of the trail for one club or the other, while the victor prances down the provincial playdown path. The first game is most important and both sides will be battling hard to take it. A sizzling scrap is assured by these junior group finalists — now in the peak of condition — and the game rates a big crowd of fans.

St. Kitts Playing Here

In OMHA semi-finals, our midget Marines have a bye till next week, while our bantam McGillis Eaglets go to Barrie tomorrow to finish up their series. They are down six goals after dropping a 9-3 number here, so they've really got to stage a comeback or that's that. Our juvenile Oddfellows open their two-game semi-finals here tomorrow aft at two in Civic Arena against the strong St. Catharines Lions, and that ought to be a swell struggle to see. The boys deserve lots of support. It'll cost them nearly $250 for the return trip Tuesday to St. Kitts, while their gate here tomorrow has to be cut up considerably for rink rental, OMHA slice, referees' pay and advertising. Costly, eh?

* * * * * *

While Eagles are off tonight for Belleville and hoping to oust the Redmen and make OHA senior "B" group finals 'gainst Kingston Nylons, the senior "A" Petes are ready for Allan Cup playdowns. With other senior "A" squads around the peninsula and Western Ontario starting to saw each other off, George Panter of the OHA figures there's time for a best-of-seven series betwixt Owen Sound Mercurys and the Petes. So, the Jopling gents will trek north tomorrow with the next two games here, next Wednesday and Friday. Then back to Owen Sound the following Saturday and here again the next Wednesday, which would be March 21. Should the clubs be tied at three games each, the one with the best scoring average would get the deciding game at home if the OHA agrees; otherwise a flip of a coin. That's the dope at present.

Hither And Yawning

H. Legrow of the Major Bowling League, M. Gimblett and R. Willshaw of the Mercantile, and B. Pogue of the YM lasses, had high triples this week....Several local badmintoneers are in a Bowmanville tourney tomorrow....Grant Henry and partner made semi-finals in the men's doubles of Canadian championships at Quebec.. Coach Temesy's bantam PCVS cagers erased Lindsay to go into lakeshore finals....Girls' quarter-finals open at eight tonight in the YW ....Ray (Red) Thomas played for Central "Y" senior hoopsters as they made finals this season....Marines don't meet Toronto again till next week....St. Kitts juves open semi-finals with PCVS at seven tomorrow eve in the Collegiate; it's followed by Riversdales vs. the senior PCI-ers....City and district soccer meeting will be Monday at eight p.m. in the "Y"....Semi-finals are on now in the Otonabee rural puck loop....Powassan juveniles won 9-7 in Lakefield to start their semi-finals....Bolton plays at Lakefield on Monday night to begin OMHA midget "C" semi-finals....Bowmanville took the lakeshore title in four straight o'er Cobourg intermediates ....Grove juniors won the Public School League puck title over Prince of Wales....Haven't heard if Fred Garvey's shoulder has healed enough for him to play tomorrow or not....'Tis the Ides of March again.

FINAL CLASH—Detroit Red Wings just about sewed up the N.H.L. title Wednesday night, when they blanked the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs, 3-0, to take an eight-point lead in the standings. Red Kelly and Sid Abel have Leafs' Max Bentley out of action for a moment. Bentley makes like a ballerina, having lost his stick. The Wings still have their sticks, but seem to be doing their best to hide them from the camera.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Big, rugged Lionel Conacher, Canada's athlete of the last half century, said Thursday that "sport has its proper place in our way of life."

He made his maiden speech in the Commons after his fellow members paid belated tribute to his selection in a Canadian Press poll several months ago as this country's most outstanding sports figure of the last 50 years.

The Rev. Dan McIvon (L-Fort William), a veteran sportsman, rose at the opening of the Commons and said that in other years the membership had included many outstanding athletes. This year "we in this House have a champion boxer, champion rugger and champion hockey player" in the person of Mr. Conacher, who sits as Liberal member for Toronto Trinity.

Amid applause, Mr. Conacher said that sport, while overdone in many instances, has served a useful purpose, particularly in the development of healthy bodies and minds among the younger generation.

It's still a long way from challenging rivalling cricket and soccer, but baseball is becoming increasingly popular in Australia.

Its growth was reflected in an announcement Thursday that a United States all-star baseball team would visit Australia this year. The team, which toured Japan last season and holds the world amateur championship, will take part in the 1951 Australian Jubilee Carnival at Adelaide, and will play exhibition games in Sydney and Melbourne.

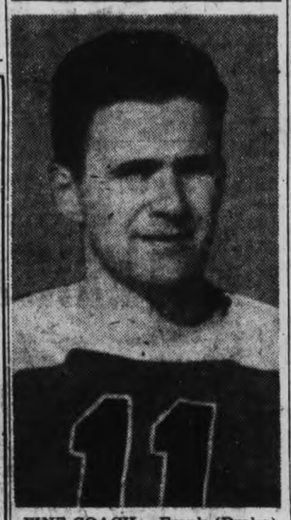
Jockey Gordon Glisson, American riding champion in 1949, suffered a fractured back Thursday in a heavy spill at Santa Anita Park during the running of the fourth race.

Glisson, whose brother was killed in a riding accident at Del Mar last summer, was knocked unconscious when his mount, Little Nonnie, fell during the run in close quarters.

The United States won the Pan American basketball championship Thursday night beating Argentina, at Buenos Aires 57 to 51, before an overflow crowd of 25,000 at Luna Park. The U.S. led 29 to 23 at half-time.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association will be held at Montreal Saturday when prospects for Canada's 1951 Davis Cup Team will be discussed.

Whipper Watson In Title Bout With Lord Layton



Peterborough wrestling fans are again favored with the announcement that a British Empire title match will be staged at the Brock Arena next Tuesday night.

Whipper Billy Watson has agreed to put his title on the line against none other than the spectacular Lord Athol Layton. This is the best news mat fans have received, a real wrestling scoop.

Layton has been demanding a title bout with Watson for the past month and the Whip finally conceded. This will be a mat classic as both men are tops in their profession. As a matter of fact there is little to choose between them as far as ring experience goes, and they are prime favorites with the fans.

The remainder of the card measures up to the feature match. Lee Henning tackles Sonny Kurgis in the semi-final and George Scott takes on Jack Wentworth in the opener.

A record-breaking crowd is predicted.

FINE COACH— Frank (Drake) Jopling, in his first year as the playing coach of the Petes, has piloted his squad into Allan Cup playdowns after finishing the Senior B group schedule in top spot. They defeated Kingston Nylons to go into the Senior A hunt.

Barrie Takes First One Over Eaglets

Barrie bantams defeated McGillis Eaglets 9-3 last night at Civic Arena in a spirited playoff hockey match before a fine crowd. It was the first of a two-game series, goals to count, for the right to advance in the OMHA bantam playdowns. Eaglets are now Eastern Ontario champs.

Happy Emms' boys put on a smart drive in the third frame to outscore Eaglets 6-2 and earn the necessary margin of victory after two close, hard-fought periods, with little to choose between the two clubs. They meet again on Saturday in Barrie.

Bob Garner, smart left winger, and Tim Hook led the visitors on attack, the former with three goals in a good offensive showing, the latter scoring four, all in the hectic final frame when Barrie had the better of the play. Bill Godfrey scored two for the Eaglets, while Paul Davis clicked once with Ben Floyd assisting twice and Peter Heffernan and Jerry Garvey setting up a goal apiece. Every Eaglet gave his best and the great work of Albert Curtis in goal was a big feature of the game as he stopped many hard shots. Eaglets hope to even the score on Saturday.

The teams:

Barrie — Goal, Christie; defence, Kirk, Pratt; centre, Farrell; wings, Garner, Hook; alternates, R. Christie, Miller, Forbes, Moore, Tomlinson, Graves, Kennington, Van Valkenburg.

McGillis Eaglets — Goal, Curtis; defence, Brown, Orr; centre, Godfrey; wings, Heffernan, Floyd; alternates, Davis, Rusaw, Sutherland, Buckley, Forestell, Garvey, Mahoney.

Referees—Lloyd Eberts, Ralph Wakelin.

Betty Pogue Leads

Three-point wins were scarce this week in the YMCA ladies' senior bowling circuit, Commandos being the only team to use the whitewash. Hurricanes were the victims. Tigers, Bombers and the Glengarry's took two points each from Aces, Corvettes and Lucky Strikes. The Tigers had top pinnage of 2,988 as Aces led in single games with 1,100

Betty Pogue's 717 was tops and she also led in singles with 278, followed by Shirley Heckman with 273, Norma Stanbury 263, Beryl Csumrik 261, Maisie Cunningham 253, Wanda Leckie 247, Elda Pearcey 246, Marjorie Wood 242, N. Barrett 233, A. Reid 238, Mary Morton 239 and Ethel Stanbury 231. Good triples included: E. Pearcey 682, B. Csumrik 644, M. Cunningham 634, A. Reid 633, E. Stanbury 625, N. Barrett 617, M. Morton 615 and W. Lockie 604.

Legrow Rolls 803

Harold Legrow rolled a high three of 803 this week in the Major Bowling League as V. Healey took high single of 392. High pinnage and team high single went to Crowley's with 3350 and 1248. Six points were taken by Crowley, Modern, Campbell, Wood, Parkway, Bassell's and E and B respectively over Edgewater, McLeod, Selkirk, Calvert, Mongraw, Plazas and McWilliams. The others were 4-2 wins for Wonder, Bickell, Posties, Wade and Caccavella over Kawartha, Kingsmen, Hunt, Odeon and Cherney.

Good scores included: I. Hanes (325) 792, M. Hill 782, R. Parnell 765, G. Walton 772, W. Stanbury 752, W. Boon 748, Jake Wade 745, C. Signorotti ()00) 771, D. Pilling (311) 734, J. Dormer 728, V. Healey 726, I. Wall 723, D. Moriority 718, G. Reynolds (315) 715, B. Kent 714, L. McIntosh 710, H. Legrow (319) and W. Harris 315.

PCVS Bantams Get Series Over Lindsay

Zolton Temesy's PCVS bantams after a two-week lapse will enter the lakeshore championship series to defend the title won by the Collegiate last year. Thursday night in Lindsay the Garnet and Grey youngsters swamped Lindsay in the first half and kept up the pace in the second to win the second game of the points-to-count series 34-18. Two weeks ago Lindsay Collegiate cagers won the first game at PCVS 38-26; therefore PCVS took the round by four points, 60-56.

John Boorman with three field baskets, H. Carleton with two and a foul shot, and Ash with three points gave PCVS a 14-4 score in the first half. Teel dropped in two foul shots and G. Blackwell a basket.

Kept The Lead

Carleton, the PCVS club's top scorer in league play, with six points in the second half. Ash also with six, Boorman with four, Turner and Davis with two each, kept the lead 20-14. Lindsay was led by J. Sinclair and G. Blackwell.

Carleton led the game scoring with 11 points and Boorman had 10 for PCVS. Ash totalled nine. Lindsay's G. Blackwell, who led the scoring in the game here, was tops with six while Sinclair scored five.

The PCVS club will enter the bantam finals against a lakeshore club, likely Bowmanville.

Line-ups:

PCVS (34)—Boorman 10, Carleton 11, Turner 2, Roberts, Foote, Gallagher, Starr, Baptie, Davis 2, Ash 9.

LCI (18)—Sinclair 5, Truax 3, Teel 4, Blackwell 6, Truax (A), Georgas, Arnold, MacLean, Webster, Rowland.

Marmora Triumphs Over Madoc 7 to 6

MARMORA, March 9 (ENS)—Marmora hockey team was at home to Madoc on Thursday evening, in a Marmora Merchants' Cup game and won by the score of 7-6.

The game was close and interesting to watch. Doyle led in the Marmora scoring and Nickle was top scorer for the losers. It was Marmora's second win in the series. At Madoc on Tuesday evening they were victorious by 12-9.

Madoc: Goal, Ross; defence, Lavender, Lester; centre, Nickle; wings, Tufts, Smith; alternates, Reynolds, Kellar, Locke, Thompson, Crawford, Donnelly, Baker.

Marmora: Goal, Drummond; defence, Doyle, Gray; centre, Stewart; wings, Lavender, Trumble; alternates, Brooks, Mantle, McInroy, Jones, Darrah, Brown, Maynes, Smith.

Referees: T. Cousins, P. Gray.

Walcott Requests New Title Chance

DETROIT, March 9 (AP). — Old Jersey Joe Walcott, who got a record fourth crack at the heavyweight title when he lost to champion Ezzard Charles Wednesday night, wants another chance.

His manager, Felix Bocchicchio Thursday offered to guarantee Charles a 40-per-cent cut of a guaranteed $300,000 gross gate if he would meet Walcott again in Philadelphia in June.

Jake Mintz, co-manager of Charles, said he was "very interested" and wanted some time to think things over.

Fielder 20, To Try Hand Playing With Black Hawks

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., March 9 (CP)—Guyle Fielder, a 20-year-old hockey player whose press clippings already exceed those of numerous stars many years his senior, will get his first taste of National League action this week-end.

Fielder, one of the most publicized junior pucksters in Western Canada during his two-year stint with Lethbridge Native Sons, left here by plane Wednesday to join Chicago Black Hawks in Montreal for their Saturday night meeting with the Canadiens.

The flashy centre is also scheduled to play against Detroit Red Wings Sunday and Toronto Maple Leafs next Thursday. He will then return to Lethbridge to spend the off-season.

Fielder ended his junior career last week when the favored Native Sons lost out to Crow's Nest Pass Lions in the Western Canada Junior Hockey League semi-finals. But the American-born star, whose parents live near Seattle, enjoyed two tremendous seasons with the Native Sons.

The first year he racked up 104 points in 39 league games, was named the most valuable player and selected the league's all-star centre. He lost the scoring title to Crow's Nests' Vern Pachal on the last day of the season.

Leads To Pennant

This year, however, he sparked the Sons to the league pennant and took individual scoring honors with 100 points, 21 better than runner-up Eddie Litzenberger of Regina Pats.

He has already been selected as the league's most valuable player for the second straight season and is regarded a cinch to be chosen as all-star centre again.

Tiny Thompson, the Black Hawks' chief scout and a pretty fair player in his own day, labelled Fielder "the greatest passer I've ever seen in professional or amateur hockey."

Fielder is chunky, packing 165 pounds in his five-foot-nine frame. His greatest assets are clever stickhandling and an uncanny ability to make the perfect move at the right moment.

Combines Take Trent Opener

BELLEVILLE, March 9. — Frankford-Bata Combines edged Trenton Taximen, 4-2, Wednesday night here in the first game in their best-of-five series for the Trent Valley Hockey League Southern Division championship in the Belleville Memorial Arena.

Mike Cosgrove claimed a goal and an assist for the winners, while Gord Elder and Jerry Foster got the others. Moe Jones was credited with a goal and an assist for Trenton, while Austin Scott also scored.

The second game will be played in Frankford Friday night, weather permitting.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Mike McTigue, former light-heavyweight champion of the world, lasted only two minutes against Isidore Castanega at Havana in an attempted comeback 21 years ago tonight. The Irishman had won the title from Battling Siki in Dublin on March 17, 1923, and lost it to Paul Berlenbach in 1925.

LEADERS—The Nova Scotia entry in the Dominion bonspiel shot into an unexpected early lead when they won their first five matches. From the Glooscap Club of Kentville, they are, left to right: Wallace F. Knock, W. Dyke, George F. Hanson and skip H. Donald Oyler.

Port Hope Whips Unionville 9-6

PORT HOPE, March 9.—Port Hope Panthers OHA junior "C" semi-finalists, had little trouble gaining a 9-6 verdict over Unionville in an exhibition game here. Unionville took the lead early in the first period on a goal by Art White. Before the period ended, the Panthers went ahead on goals by Coon Medhurst, Doug Siher and John Fisher and were never headed.

Medhurst, Jim Freeman and John Fisher each scored two for Port Hope with D. Fisher, H. McKeen and Darcy Campbell rounding out the scoring. Unionville's goals were scored by Art White, Doug Courier and Frank Bonello, each getting two.

Nova Scotia Leading Curling Race

By W. R. WHEATLEY.

HALIFAX, March 9. (CP). — The "Stop Nova Scotia" cry among Canada's top curlers began to sound today like so much wishful thinking.

Don Oyler's rink from Kentville, N. S., advancing undefeated through five rounds of the Canadian curling championship, was to meet the lowest-placed teams in today's crowded three rounds — morning, afternoon and night play.

There was the possibility that among Newfoundland, Quebec and Prince Edward Island, at least one rink would upset the only undefeated quartette of the bonspiel. But the prospects were none too bright. Oyler's 13-4 win over New Brunswick Thursday afternoon was all too convincing.

In Second-Place Tie

Both British Columbia and Manitoba are locked in a second-place tie behind Nova Scotia with four victories and one loss.

Nova Scotia had the bye Thursday night in the sixth round and a cut-throat all-western match between Saskatchewan and British Columbia went to Alf Chesser's west coast curlers 12-7.

Manitoba matched British Columbia's 4-1 record with a 10-8 win over Ontario in the sixth round, and facel Bill Gray's Alberta rink today in the morning play.

Gray's fast-coming four defeated Prince Edward Island 12-6 on Thursday night to move into a tie with Saskatchewan, both having only two defeats in six starts.

Gordon Campbell's Ontario entry from Toronto, with three wins and three losses, met British Columbia in the morning draw.

KEEP HABS HOPES ALIVE—These three gents were the marksmen recently, shooting the three goals as Canadiens beat Bruins in Boston in the "big game" 3-2. Left to right—Elmer Lach, Maurice Richard and Calum MacKay. The win enabled the Rangers to move into 3rd place in the N.H.L. standing, one point ahead of the Bruins and 3 points in front of the Canadiens.

Powassan Edges Lakefield 9-7 In Opening Game

LAKEFIELD, March 9 (ENS)—Battling the flu and the Powassan juveniles the Lakefield Lions were edged 9-7 Thursday night in the first game of the OMHA juvenile "C" semi-finals. The Lakefield team will return to Powassan Friday for the next game of the points-to-count series.

In spite o fthe flu the Lakefield hockeyists outskated Powassan in the first and third periods, but slackened enough in the second to allow the northern Ontario team to take the lead which they never relinquished.

Several of the Lakefield players have just finished bouts with the flu and goalie Wingett still had a high fever of 102.

Powassan's Hamilton proved to be Lakefield's main trouble as he rocketed in six goals and assisted on a seventh. Worto was Hamilton's play-maker. The Lions' Heffernan nearly matched Hamilton's effort with two goals in the first and two in the third for a total of four while McCracken scored two and assisted on two others.

Get The First

Greenlaw opened the scoring for Powassan midway through the first on a pass from Hamilton. Heffernan tied the score but Worto again pushed Powassan up. Heffernan for a second time tied the score and started a four-goal scoring spree by Lakefield. Coyle from Pue, and McCracken with two, the first with Pearson and the second alone, gave Lakefield a 5-2 score. Powassan ended the first's scoring when Hamilton flipped in Worto's pass at 19:40.

Powassan immediately changed tactics in the second, playing their defence up further. This change proved highly satisfactory, as they outscored Lakefield 4-0. Hamilton scored three straight, the first from Greenlaw and the other two from Worto. Steele whacked home the puck after a passing play with Ibbitson and Ulrich.

Lakefield held an edge on the third's play but Powassan held them to a 2-all period score. Hamilton continued his hot pace by scoring the first two goals, one with Coutus and the second with Worto. Heffernan then took over for Lakefield in a rally for two goals with Pearson and McCracken.

Lineups:

Powassan: Goal, Dagenais; defence, Odrouski, Coutus; centre, Steele; wings, Ulrich, Ibbitson; alternates, Hamilton, Worto, Greenlaw, Gaudaur, Eckford, Purdon.

Lakefield: Goal, Wingett; defence, Pue, Sabatino; centre, Hunter; wings, Pearson, Coyle; alternates, McCracken, Sloan, Twist, Heffernan, Henry, Wilson, Batten, Brown.

Referees: Payne, Junkin.

Bears Down Indians As Caps Trip Mohawks

By The Canadian Press

The second-place teams in both the Eastern and Western sections of the American Hockey League gained ground on the leaders Thursday night in the only two games scheduled.

In the Eastern division, Hershey Bears downed Springfield Indians 5-4 to move within four points of the leading Buffalo Bisons while Indianapolis Capitals downed Cincinnati Mohawks 6-3 but they are still 16 points behind the pace-setting Cleveland team.

At Hershey, Jerry Brown scored in the final minutes of play to give Hershey their victory before 2,850 fans.

W. McCarrell On Top

Winnie McCarrell had high single of 281 for lasses in the Mercantile Bowling League this week as Mary Gimblett led in triples with 625. For the men, Bob Willshaw's 720 was best and he also was in front in singles with 296. Austin Jewellers had best pinnage 2906 and their 1042 was tops in single games. Braund's No. 1, Prudential and Austin's respectively whitewashed Utilities, A&P and Braund's No. 2, while Loblaw's beat Lift Lock 3-1, and Bond's downed City Hall 3-1.

High threes among ladies were: Marg Beehan 608, Beulah Chambers 604, Marg Parker 589, W. McCarrell 587 and Betty Crowe 578. Men's triples included: George Gimblett 714, Harold Cawker 604, Jack Gimblett 593 and Curly Curtain 581.

Have 500 Entries

HAMILTON, March 9 (CP).—A total of nearly 500 entries from 52 different clubs or schools, including some of the leading runners in the United States, have been received for the annual indoor track meet here Saturday of the 91st Highlanders Athletic Association.

Grove Captures Junior School Title

Grove School defeated Prince of Wales 3-1 to capture the final game of the Public School Hockey League junior playoffs and the title. It was a real close game, the score being 1-1 for more than half the distance. Grove scored a second goal near the end of the second frame to turn the tide, their final marker coming with just 30 seconds left to go in the contest.

Both goalies were good, while teamplay went particularly well for the winners. McFadden, Playford and Parker proved a dangerous line for the other side. Playford got their lone goals, while Simmonds tallied twice for the winners, Sherry getting the other and an assist. Patterson and R. Wood each earned an assist. But one penalty was handed out in clean going. Teams:

Grove: Sherry, Patterson, Simmonds, Casey, R. Wood, Hargreaves, Copping, Duncan, L. Wood, Rowe, Simmons, LaPointe, Sanders, Doughty, Atkinson.

Prince of Wales: McFadden, Playford, Parker, Burns, Robinson, Evans, Faulkner, Billingsley, Connors, Allen, Davies.

Referee: Mr. McNeil.

Tom Gard's Note Book

It is with sincere pleasure that I return for a second series of these informal chats. It is still my purpose to share with you practical ideas that can be used to improve your garden and your home — all tried in my workshop or gleaned from my jaunts across the province. Your comments on the suggestions given or requests for more details on any of the items described will be welcomed.

Valance Boxes

One of my New Year's resolutions that has just been fulfilled is completing valance boxes for our living room and dining room. The job has been hanging fire for several months and it was my 12-year-old boy who finally shamed me into doing it. I'm still not certain that his mother hadn't put him up to it, but he came home from the school shop with a miniature box, complete to scale and trim! They weren't too difficult once started and did add a great deal to the appearance of the rooms. I chose dressed inch lumber as the rooms and windows are quite large and could stand the "heaviness" of this material. If your eye must watch the purse strings, use packing box material or cheap lumber and cover it with tag ends of the drapes.

Spring Is Almost Here

One other task that has been completed just in time to get under the wire is an ash sifter from the bottom section of a butter box. I had seen one over a year ago and always intended making one but didn't get around to it. Oh well, this is the season when it is of most use now that the coal furnace always seems to be getting away from me or is on its way out.

It is also time for seed flats and seed planting. I hope you are not one of those who always gets their seeds planted too early — unless, of course, you have a cold frame for the first transplanting. Follow the instructions given with the diagram for filling the flat and planting the seeds. Place the flats where they will get plenty of sunlight for sturdy plants.

You will find the wood-box idea a practical one for the cottage. The barrel has been rounded up but the project is still not completed. I'll soon be forced into it as the cottage season will be here before we know it.

U.S. Capital Flows Into Canada Canadians Lack Enterprise

Greater participation in the development of Canada's natural resources by small Canadian investors was recommended Thursday night by W. C. McBride, manager of the corporation trading department of the Midland Securities. He was guest speaker at the Kinsmen Club's bimonthly meeting at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

"This country needs the capital of small investors and surely they have a right to enjoy a share of the country's growth and prosperity", he said.

Actual participation by Canadians in the great Alberta oil developments has been small, he said, as compared with the huge sums of U.S. capital involved. He warned that unless Canadians are watchful, the control of the vast iron discoveries in Labrador will also pass into other hands.

Involves Risk

Mr. McBride admitted that the investment of small savings in the development of Canada's natural resources and industrial companies does involve a measure of risk. But he added it was this type of risk in the past that has brought Canada to the status of today.

Speaking primarily on "the Functions of an Investment Dealer," Mr. McBride said that the governments, provincial and municipal, the public utilities and business corporations all look to the investment dealer for distribution of securities when they have to borrow.

Provincial governments, he said, since the end of the last war, have been heavy borrowers, having on hand a large backlog of work which has been curtailed by the shortage of materials. Municipalities similarly are now proceeding on heavy programs of new school building, roads and waterworks. Many industrial companies need funds either for expansion or to improve their working capital position.

Renders A Service

Mr. McBride said that the investment dealers have rendered a great service to Canada in the past several years. Through their efforts, he said, large sums of money have been raised to develop natural resources. During the war years the investment dealers contributed young men to the armed forces and casualties were high. Others not joining the services contributing by working in the nine Victory Loan campaigns.

In Peterborough county, loan drives netted in excess of $125,000,000, Mr. McBride gave full credit to the efforts of the loan salesmen and various committees but added that he did not believe that sufficient credit was ever given for the amount of work and leadership which was given by organizers drawn from the investment industry.

"I might also say that I know of no organization, be it manufacturer or labor, which entered into a war job not knowing what its remuneration was going to be until the job was finished. That, however, is what the investment dealers did and, while I am not saying they were underpaid, I think I can be definite in saying that they were certainly not overpaid."

Gordon Farquharson introduced the speaker who was thanked by Eric Johnston.

MAURICE BELLONTE, a dare-devil French flier who once earned $25,000 for a 37-hour flight and who also made one of the earliest endurance flights on record, now is in Montreal as one of two investigators sent by the French government to learn the cause of the crash of the "Canadian Pilgrim" which took 57 lives. It is Bellonte's job, along with Paul Carour, to find out what happened. While the investigation is proceeding, however, he is not talking about this. But he is having a chance to talk freely with old flying companions in the metropolis about the pioneer days of aviation, when he proved east-to-west uninterrupted flights between Europe and North America were feasible. The above photo shows the four men investigating the crash of the aircraft Canadian Pilgrim. Third from left is Maurice Bellonte, first pilot to make a non-stop Paris-New York flight 21 years ago. Left to right, G. P. Fournier, Montreal; Paul Carour and Mr. Bellonte, representing French aviation, and Gerard LaCroix, K.C., Quebec City.

Feeder Cattle Worth $210

Retired farmers will hardly believe a Stratford report that feeder cattle are "difficult to purchase" and are bringing over 30 cents a pound in many instances.

"One farmer paid 33 cents for feeders weighing around 700 pounds," the weekly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture reports. "Weanling pigs are selling at $12 and up; there is an unusual demand for early hatched chickens for broiler use; farmers are now being paid 70c a bus. for turnips; there is a plentiful supply of No. 1 commercial seed grain, and there is no indication of frost damage to fall wheat or hay fields".

Altogether the first spring evidences from that part of Ontario are quite satisfactory.

Then in North Simcoe: grade cows are selling at from $400 up; bred sows and gilts bring $90 to $150; weanling pigs $15 to $16 each; feed supplies are good; mixed loose hay is selling at $10 to $12 a ton in the mow. But, satisfactory labor is scarce.

Bruce farmers are keeping a large number of brood sows. Townships are making plans for warble fly spray. All cattle in Bruce have been sprayed in three consecutive years.

In Brant: 1,735 herds with 21,720 cattle have been tested in the 4th general test. Fewer than 1% reactors are reported, and Brant gets an accredited area rating until the fall of 1953.

Consignment sale of 90 head of Holsteins in Elgin brought an average of $450 for fresh and springer cows. At the Elgin seed fair there were 187 entries by 59 exhibitors. Registered oats sold for $1.70 to $2.75; commercial oats $1.90 to $2.45; soybeans $4.35 to $5.

Want Old Desks?

TORONTO, Mar. 9 (CP)—Anyone want 8,000 old school desks—for free? Toronto Board of Education decided last night that it no longer wants the desks and will offer them to anyone anywhere who wants them. All anyone has to do to get them is pay the freight charges of shipping them to their destination.

Mystery Explosion

TORONTO, March 9 —(CP)— A mysterious explosion rocked the area around Queen's Park in west-central Toronto Thursday night. The loud blast about 11:30 p.m. shook the sidewalks in the district and was felt by persons in University of Toronto buildings and the Ontario Legislature. But no one was able to explain what caused it. No damage was reported.

120 Attend Euchre Held At Coldsprings

COLDSPRINGS, March 9. — (EN$). — A progressive euchre party was held in the new community hall on Wednesday evening, sponsored by the Women's Institute. There were about 120 in attendance with 28 tables of euchre played.

Prizes were won by Mrs. John Noble, Wilbert McMann, Mrs. Evan Waldon, Ted Cusworth and Mrs. Graydon McIntosh. The door prize was won by Wilbert McMann.

Lunch was served by the committee in charge: Mesdames Alderson, West, Cusworth, Baptist, Gibson, McBride, Hoskin, M. Dines. After lunch Mrs. C. Timlin and Lorne provided music for dancing.

Find Ancient Bones

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA, March 9—(AP)—Discovery of Mastodon bones believed to be between 100,000 and 200,000 years old was announced Thursday. The bones were found near Mosquera, on Colombia's southwest Pacific coast. The discoveries were by the Spanish professor Jose Royo Gomez, and professor R. A. Siterton of the University of California.

Signs With Cardinals

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9 (AP).—Max Lanier, the southpaw hurler who jumped to the Mexican League in 1946, signed a new contract Thursday with St. Louis Cardinals. Lanier is reported to be in the $17,000 class. He won 11 and lost nine last season.

Havelock H and S Hear Talk On Mental Health

HAVELOCK, Mar. 9—(ENS)—The Havelock Home and School Association celebrated its 14th birthday at the March meeting when a large birthday cake decorated in pink and white and topped with candles lit by the president, Mrs. H. A. McNeely was on display.

H. Hunter of the public school staff was guest speaker for the evening, taking "Mental Health" as his subject, which he defined as the intelligent facing of reality and the attaining and maintaining of satisfactory relations.

Mr. Hunter said these were two of the many things in life that should be regarded as highly significant and that should surpass all others, namely physical and mental health.

Need Both

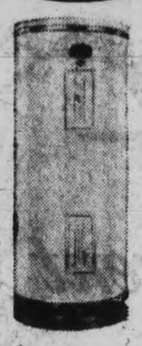
Both are vitally related and both must be possessed if we are to make the most of the life we are given. Medical doctors are becoming more skilled and nurses and hospitals more efficient so that our physical needs are reasonably well served. However, the same is not the case in connection with mental health because the mind being intangible is very difficult to analyze.

Needless physical ill health it is estimated at 30 per cent of all bodily ills and can be traced wholly or partially to poor mental health.

In closing, Mr. Hunter said that to cultivate mental health, we must learn to live within the limits of our own potentialities; to live with our fellow man happily and productively without being a nuisance, to develop a compromise between what we are and what we must do.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Hunter by the program convener. The following pupils from grades 3 and 4 presented a folk dance with Mrs. D. Kirk at the piano: Donna Johnson, Doreen Whitney, Carol Anderson, Carol Rutherford, Donald Graham, Peter Ellis, Peter Clarke, John Chileo.

Miss P. Belt was the accompanist for the community singing period. During the business session it was decided to sponsor an amateur night on April 18, open to Havelock and district.



The attendance shield and prize of $1 was won by Mrs. R. Backus' room. Mrs. W. Cornell spoke briefly about the H. and S. publications. Refreshments were served.

Canadian Radio Winning Listeners In Balkan Area

By PAUL HUBMUSES

ATHENS — (AP) — Canadian broadcasts of news and entertainment can be heard easily by listeners behind the iron curtain in southeastern Europe, if the results in Greece are any indication.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's short-wave transmissions are gaining an ever-increasing audience in this country, and reception is good. It is frequently better than reception of European-based stations of the BBC and the United States' Voice of America.

In the propaganda war between east and-west, the Canadians programs are a powerful factor. Some Greek listeners, as well as British and Americans, have expressed preference for the Canadian program because of what they call its "objective" reporting. Its handling of United Nations' happenings is particularly praised.

So far the Russians have made no attempt to "jam" the CBC's English-language transmissions, as they have done for some time with the British and American broadcasts. But there is no evidence here of how the Canadian broadcasts in other languages are standing up.

Battle "jamimng"

United States engineers now are working around-the-clock through powerful transmitters at Munich, Tangier and Salonika, in Northern Greece, to overcome the Russian jamming. The BBC's European service also has had trouble getting through to the Russian satellite countries.

To augment the present transmission from Canada, CBC sends transcriptions made in Montreal for Greek-language broadcasts over radio Athens, which has allotted 10 minutes of radio time weekly to the Canadian Embassy. These recordings—in addition to script material—are non-political and of a purely informative nature with Canadian life and customs as their theme. Letters to the Embassy attest to a sizeable Greek listening audience.

Although the foreign-language broadcasts probably hold an edge over straight English texts, the English language has gained tremendously in usage by Europeans. More Greeks than ever before know and speak English today. While it is difficult to evaluate accurately the advantages of an English transmission, some foreign observers believe Europeans generally are apt to have more confidence in an English text over others.

It is possible that the Russians may be working on this theory. Recently they beamed one of their anti-West propaganda blasts to India, from transmitters based in Tashkent, in the middle of Asia. The broadcasts were done in English. So also are their transmissions beamed to the nearby Middle East.

Must Stand Trial For Manslaughter

WOODSTOCK, March 9 (CP) —Charles A. Metcalfe, 27, of nearby Ingersoll, must stand trial for manslaughter in the death of his apartment-house neighbor. 62-year-old William Wells.

Two statements police said were signed by Metcalfe, a 100-per-cent war pensioner, were admitted as evidence at the preliminary hearing Thursday.

Mrs. Agnes Wells, wife of the slain man, said her husband left the supper table the night of Feb. 22 to check on noise being made by the Metcalfe children. After some time, he staggered back to his own living quarters, bleeding from the head. He died in hospital the next morning. The cause of his death was said to be a skull fracture.

Board Of Education Has Record Budget

TORONTO, March 9 (CP) — Board of education Thursday night approved the record $21,403,942 school budget passed recently by its finance committee.

Toronto taxpayers face a $17,802,691 bill, an increase of $3,650,000—or 2.5 mills—over the 1950 budget.

Seventy per cent of this year's budget will go for salaries of both teaching and non-academic employees, recently raised.

Legs Amputated

CHICAGO, March 9 (AP). — Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, Chicago's frozen woman, had both her legs cut off Thursday to save her life. Mrs. Stevens, 23-year-old Negro, was found frozen stiff in an alley Feb. 8. Her body temperature then was recorded at 64 degrees, about 34 degrees below normal. Doctors took off both her legs Thursday nine inches below the knees.

Cheque-Cashing Up

OTTAWA, March 9 (CP). — Cheque-cashing in Canada climbed to $9,000,000,000 in January, an all-time high for that month, the Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday. Every region in Canada shared in the big increase from $7,300,000,000 a year ago.

Expert Says Mining Pays Rich Rewards If Keep Pushing On A Little Further In Digging

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Mining men are people who live in the past, present and future, and make it seem a normal thing to do.

They live in the past because their chances of success depend upon something that happened many millions of years ago; and they try to figure out what occurred in places now far underground, when the earth was hot and was being torn by stresses and strains.

For the breaks and fractures of the long-ago were what allowed the gold, silver, copper and other metals to come pouring through.

They live in the present because they are doing a practical thing, trying not only to find where the buried treasure is, but to get it out of the ground at a cost which will give them a profit.

They live in the future because they are the most optimistic of people, who believe that tomorrow or the next day will see today's hopes realized.

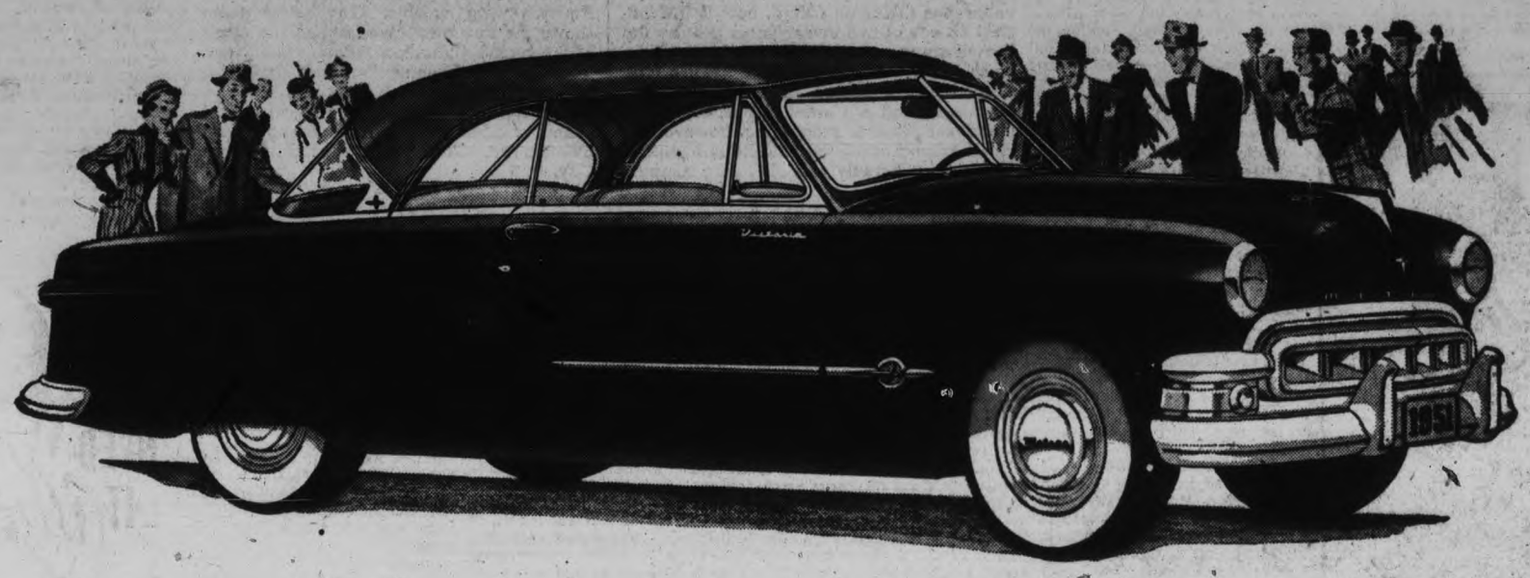
It is a game of rich rewards and heartbreaks. Men from northern Ontario's Cobalt, in Toronto this week for a prospectors' and developers' convention, tell of running into high-grade silver in reopened mines, only a few yards beyond where the miners of 40 years ago stopped.

"Mining is a matter of going just a little bit further," one of them commented.

Intriguing Exhibit

One of the most intriguing exhibits around the convention hotel was a 47-pound piece of material which in itself was a story of the long ago, now brought to light.

It has long wires sticking out of it to a length of several inches, and is known as wire silver set in argentite. It's story is something like this:



The cooling and contraction of the earth created a pocket. Near it was a mixture of silver and sulphur. This flowed into the pocket. It hardened into argentite. Then, in due time, the silver "grew" out of the argentite like sprouts out of a potato in the cellar.

Silver apparently does this when in argentite, and wire silver is not uncommon, but this 47-pound sample is worth about $300 at today's silver prices and is considered a rarity. M. J. de Bastiani, superintendent in charge of operations at Cobalt Lode Silver Mines, Ltd., from which it came, says it will end up in a museum.

May Recall N.S. Legislature For Provincial Sales Tax

By The Canadian Press.

For at least one Canadian province, the question of whether government spending will produce a surplus or deficit this year is chiefly one affecting the constitution.

Premier Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia, also provincial treasurer, introduced his budget Thursday and it contained a major question mark.

The Premier said Nova Scotia plans to put a new turnover sales tax into operation as soon as it can. The only thing barring the way is that the British North America Act must first be amended.

Mr. Macdonald said the tax, which would be less than the maximum of three per cent in his province, would produce an additional $2,000,000 a year in revenue.

He said he was budgeting for a deficit this year of $908,912. However, if the constitutional amendment is made by the provinces and federal government, the Nova Scotia Legislature might be called back into session to pass the sales tax bill.

The sales tax question was also discussed in two other of the 10 legislatures now in session.

Asks Support

In Victoria, Premier Byron Johnson asked support of a resolution approving the amendment which will give the provinces power to pass sales-tax legislation.

He said this did not mean that British Columbia would substitute the hidden sales tax for the present direct three-per-cent tax. However, since other provinces wanted to impose indirect sales taxes, British Columbia should co-operate.

Premier J. Walter Jones of Prince Edward Island said that passage of the BNA Act amendment would not necessarily mean that his province would impose the sales tax.

"But if the time ever comes when the province wants to impose this tax, we should have the constitutional amendment to enable us to do so." He described the proposal as a move toward decentralization of government in Canada and welcomed it.

Discussions in other provinces ranged from export of natural gas to the fishing industry.

Tariff Production

In Edmonton, the Alberta Legislature voted unanimously to ask the Federal Government to seek tariff protection from the United States before allowing export of Alberta's natural gas to that country. The province wants assurance of free entry into the US of any product in which natural gas is the raw material.

In Fredericton, a Liberal member asked the New Brunswick Government to help Miramichi Bay fishermen. M. A. Savoie said early ice breakups in the bay are producing losses of $100,000 a year. He asked action to construct a breakwater to ease the damage.

In Quebec, Provincial Secretary Omer Cote claimed the Union Nationale Government is sound and the province prosperous. Speaking in the budget debate, he said that while Ontario's net debt has grown by $46,000,000 Quebec's debt has been reduced by $4,000,000.

In Regina, a Bill reducing the number of constituencies in Saskatchewan from 49 to 48 was introduced. The total number of members will remain the same because Regina's representation will be increased from two to three.

In Winnipeg, Health Minister Ivan Schultz said the Manitoba government plans to bring in legislation this session to provide for higher payments to hospitals serving indigent patients. He did not say how much the increase would be except that he was "quite confident" it would be satisfactory to the hospitals concerned. At present they receive $3 a day from the municipality in which the indigent resides, 75 cents a day from the province, and another 75 cents if the institution is a "teaching hospital" for nurses or doctors.

And it's hard to tell whether Walcott is grinning or in slight pain. Urges Change In Field Of Arts

TORONTO, March 9 (CP). — Thomas B. Costain, Canadian-born author of historical best-sellers, said Thursday that, while the revolution in the arts during the first half of the 20th century had admitted much fresh air in that field, "it has also admitted a great deal of dust and dirt as well."

Mr. Costain, who plans to visit Brantford and Guelph during his present visit to Canada, told the Empire Club:

"We have not been getting from music, painting, letters and the theatre the right kind of assistance in overcoming the depression of our international and political troubles.

"If mankind could be given as much as a full century of peace and happiness, it might shake off the last hold of tendencies that trace back to the stone age."

Will Process Wool

OTTAWA, March 9 (CP). — Trade Minister Howe said Thursday that most of the raw wool purchased outside Canada to meet the needs of the armed forces will be processed in Canada. He told the Commons a committee has been established under the Canadian Commercial Corporation to purchase the wool. The seven-man committee is headed by Harry Brown of Toronto.

New X-Ray System Speeds Up Service

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) —A new X-ray system, said to hold promise of revolutionizing and speeding up the care of wounded on the front lines, has been developed for the United States military services.

It turns out X-ray pictures in a minute, without the use of a darkroom instead of a half hour required under the usual process.

This is done by using the same principle employed in the camera which produces a finished photograph shortly after the picture has been taken.

Praises Work Of Outfitters

TORONTO, March 9 (CP). — Importance of the role to be played by camp owners and outfitters in the expansion of Ontario's tourist trade was emphasized on Thursday by Travel Minister Cecile when he presided at the opening ceremonies of the 22nd annual convention of the Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association.

"The government of Ontario is keenly aware of the importance of your organization and the work it is doing," he said, commending the association for "pioneering work" in making northern Ontario a valuable vacation area.

Indications were that 1951 would be even more successful than 1950 from the standpoint of the province's tourist business. People in the United States were reluctant to travel far afield because of the tense world situation. For that reason, Ontario, close to heavily-populated sections of the States, could expect greater numbers of American visitors this year.

Immediate Election Demanded In Britain

LONDON, March 9 (Reuters)— The Conservative Party Thursday demanded an immediate general election "because the Labor Government has lost the confidence of the people."

The annual party convention unanimously passed a motion calling for an election after the retiring party chairman, Anthony Nutting, said:

"There is not one senior minister in the government whose name is not associated with some major disaster, or whose policy, either past or present, does not lie in ruins—an eternal self-erected monument to his utter incapacity."

RAF Cadets Arrive

MONTREAL, March 9 (CP). — A group of 29 Royal Air Force cadets, coming to Canada for training arrived at the Montreal airport Thursday. This is the second group to come to Canada this year under the scheme by which Canada has promised to train personnel of the Atlantic Pact countries.

Breaks Out In Rash Of Tartan

TORONTO, March 9 (CP)—The normally-sober Ontario Legislature broke out in a rash of Scottish Tartan Thursday. Raccoon-tail hats and plaid shirts were sported by a number of members. The occasion is the convention of the Northern Outfitters' Association now being held here.

The Tartans were introduced by the Fort William Girls' Pipe Band, under Pipe Major Mary McCrae. The band held up work in the parliament buildings for almost an hour with a concert in the entrance hall and then were the Legislature's guests during the afternoon sitting.

Engineer Dies

TORONTO, March 9 (CP) — William Henry, Taylor, 68, marine engineer with Canada Steamship Lines for 47 years, died here Thursday. A native of Kingston, Mr. Taylor was chief engineer of the freighter Hochelaga until his recent retirement. He is survived by his widow and four sons.

Cattle Prices Up 25 Cents During Week

TORONTO, March 9 (CP). — Cattle prices were 25-50 cents higher on steers and heifers this week at the Ontario Stockyards, the Dominion Marketing Service reports. Prices were firm on cows and bulls, but calves were down $1. Hogs dropped 25-50 cents while sheep and lambs were steady.

The cattle run of 5,401 was about the same in volume as for this week a year ago. Export buying was light, but domestic inquiry strengthened late in the week. Good to choice weighty steers were $31-$33.50, while medium to good light steers sold at $31-$32.50. Good heifers sold for $31-$31.50, with tops at $32. Medium to good cows closed at $25-$26.50. Bulls brought $28-$29 for good quality, with common lights downward to $25. Fed yearlings were mostly $30-$33.50, with a few tops at $34.50. Small lots of medium to good stockers were sold at $30-$32 cwt.

Calves totalled 989 head. Prices were down $1 at $37-$38 for choice, and common to medium lights and heavies from $25-$35.

Hogs totalled 2,201 head. Prices settled on Wednesday at $34.50 for Grade A. Sows were $29, dressed.

Sheep and lamb sales were only 157 head. Common to medium lambs were $30-$38, and a few good Southdowns sold at $40. Good light sheep brought $20-$22 and culls sold downward to $10.

Locate Woman In Hospital

KINGSTON, March 9 (CP)—Missing from her Point Claire, Que., home since Feb. 25, Mrs. Yvette Quinty, was located Thursday in the maternity section of the Kingston General Hospital. She gave birth to a baby, her fourth child, Friday morning.

Mrs. Quinty is understood to have arrived in Kingston Feb. 27 and attended a pre-natal clinic at the hospital. Since it was not yet time for her to enter hospital, it is understood she was referred to the Kingston Children's Aid Society which located a room for her and funds. It is further understood she reported her whereabouts to the Kingston Police Department in case any enquiries were made about her.

Just prior to the birth of her third child Mrs. Quinty is said to have suffered an amnesia seizure and wandered away, to be found later in a field and suffering from exposure.

This time she left home while her husband was at church with their three children.

Western Ont. Opens Drama League Festival

KITCHENER, March 9 (CP)—The Western Ontario Drama League festival opened Thursday night with the London Little Theatre presenting "On Borrowed Time," by Paul Osborn.

R. G. Newton, adjudicator, said the play was thoughtfully produced and well acted. His major criticism was that there was not quite sufficient translation of the relationship of the character to Mr. Brink played by Meyer Epstein.

He said the acting would have been in top form had it not lacked slightly that indefinable quality attained when an actor is doing his role intensely, from inside himself.

He summed up by saying the play was a creditable performance.

Mrs. Laura Eszard

MILLBROOK, March 9 (ENS) The Rev. A. A. Chote of St. Thomas Anglican Church of Millbrook officiated Tuesday at the funeral service for Mrs. Laura May Eszard at the MacPherson funeral home. Mrs. Eszard died after a lengthy illness in her 48th year in Cobourg Sunday.

She was a resident of Cobourg for the past three months, living previously in Peterborough and Millbrook. Mrs. Eszard was born in Millbrook the daughter of the late John and Mary Sloan and was the wife of the late Harry Eszard who predeceased her sometime ago.

She is survived by sisters and brothers, Mrs. H. Wiley (Esther) and Mrs. E. Mitchell (Nellie) both of Toronto, Mrs. Harold Coulter (Myrtle) of Weston, Alice, Stanford and Mrs. Grace Sanders, all of Millbrook.

Pallbearers were D. Fowler, Charles Sanderson, Ted Scott, J. Miltz, Douglas and Wesley Sanders. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

UK Refused To Make Final Wheat Settlement Gardiner Says

OTTAWA, March 9 (CP)—The United Kingdom government was accused in the Commons Thursday night of declining to make a final settlement with Canada on their wheat agreement.

The charge was made by Agriculture Minister Gardiner, who said Britain has met Canadian requests for settlement with the statement that she considers the matter closed.

Hub of the inter-Commonwealth dispute is a clause in the four-year Anglo - Canadian wheat agreement which said Britain, in deciding wheat prices with Canada in the last two years, would "have regard to" the low prices at which she obtained Canadian wheat supplies in the first two years.

The price for the first two years was $1.55 a bushel, well below world rates. It was set at $2 for the last two years, with the understanding that a final settlement would be agreed on later when all factors were known. The agreement, under which 631,000,000 bushels were sold, expired July 31 last.

Won't Make Adjustment

Mr. Gardiner said that when Canada finally asked for a closing-out settlement, Britain said she thought the matter was closed. The United Kingdom then rejected a Canadian propsal that she make compensation with $65,000,000 remaining unused from the 1946 $1,250,000,000 Canadian loan. The United Kingdom said merely that the money would not be used for any purpose.

The Canadian government now, as announced recently by Prime Minister St. Laurent, is turning that money over to Western wheat producers to provide a settlement payment of 8.3 cents a bushel. But the money will come out of the Canadian treasury—not out of United Kingdom government coffers.

Serious Rupture

Indicating the gravity of the rupture. Mr. Gardiner said the government would not have taken the dispute, even had it been set out in legal terms, to the International Court of Justice.

Opposition members, who contended the farmer should get more than eight cents a bushel, introduced two motions. One, from the Progressive Conservatives, urged that the Wheat Board amendments be deferred until the question is considered further, the second, from the CCF, called specifically for a wheat payment of 25 cents a bushel.

Earlier, the chamber completed a long study of a bill setting up a deparment of defence production.

Trade Minister Howe reported that Canada has not shipped anything of "strategic importance" to Russia or her satellites for a "long time." Such exports have been rigidly controlled and metals under such control now include steel, copper, zinc, lead, antimony, nickel, aluminum, tungsten and cobalt.

Rejecting an opposition request that the life of the department be limited to three years instead of five years, he said a five-year existence was essential in the light of the government's defence program and possible after-effects.

Temporary Hook-up

IROQUOIS, March 9 —(CP)— Five thousand consumers Thursday were served through a temporary hydro hook-up after Wednesday's destruction by fire of the power house in this village 35 miles west of Cornwall. Loss was estimated yesterday at between $200,000 and $300,000. Stuart Beach, owner of the plant, said today hydro may set up a permanent service if the generating plant isn't rebuilt.

Fund Short $32,575 Of Objective

Industrial Division With Top Objective Leads Campaign

A total of $52,425.96 has been reached in the Community Fund drive. These figures were released by the Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign headquarters today. All divisions with the exception of the retail division have passed the halfway point of their objectives.

The Industrial Division with the highest objective, $38,000, leads with the highest amount collected, $30,535. The Women's Division is nearing their objective of $5,000 with $3,242. The Retail Division is lagging with $5,510 of their $17,000 objective collected.

Division totals to date are:

Division	Objective	Total
Industrial	$38,000	$30,535
Special Names	25,000	12,605
Retail	17,000	5,510
Women's	5,000	3,242
Penny-a-Day	500	533.36
Total	85,000	52,425.96

The closing dinner of the campaign will be held for the workers in the Empress Hotel tonight. But the campaign headquarters report that the drive will not come to a close before the objective is reached.

"EVERYTHING WAS ALL RIGHT WHEN I LEFT about midnight," Ambrose Lee tells Fire Chief George Smith and others as he looks over the charred remains of his restaurant. Fire roared through the newly-renovated building at Lock and Braidwood, shortly after 12:30 a.m., doing $8,500 damage to building and contents. An oil stove, which he filled a half hour before leaving, is seen near the window. Wrecked stools and booths can be seen in the foreground, also an overturned and burnt-out Wurlitzer. Chief Smith is shown, extreme left, and Mr. Lee third from the left. An outside view of Lee's Lunch is in the lower inset.

Tell Sadlier To Remove Opposition

Auditorium Closed To Summer Theatre As Things Now Stand

If Michael Sadlier holds the summer theatre in Queen Mary auditorium this year it will probably be as a direct result of "self help."

Thursday night the Board of Education considered Mr. Sadlier's letter (Examiner, Mar. 6), hinting that he might not hold the summer theatre in Peterborough if he cannot hold it in Queen Mary. And it was agreed by several members of the board that Mr. Sadlier might solve the difficulty by directly negotiating with those residents who oppose the operation of a theatre in their residential area.

Threat Of Injunction

(Some residents in the neighborhood of Queen Mary have objected to the nightly performance of the plays during week nights with the accompanying noise and the parking problem; also to the unloading of scenery and hammering on the sets during Sundays. A threat of an injunction being taken out branding the theatre as a "nuisance" caused the board to seek legal advice, and as a result of this advice the board offered the collegiate auditorium.)

Commenting on Mr. Sadlier's letter, W. B. Gordon said:

"The letter leaves us somewhat in doubt whether or not he would assume the accommodation of the collegiate. He's the man to decide; it's there for him anyway.

"I wouldn't like to shut this thing off abruptly. We should express some encouragement for Mr. Sadlier to take the collegiate . . . make it abundantly clear that we would like him to come and use it."

Mr. Gordon added that he would like Mr. Sadlier to come to some decision on the matter.

Remove Opposition

"We should consider what would happen if opposition to the rental of the auditorium were removed," said Dr. Morgan. "Some people like the theatre and they may bring influence to bear. If the possibility of an injunction were removed, would it be possible to rent it?"

"I suppose so, if the injunction were removed," replied Dr. Ralph C. Honey, chairman.

Mr. Gordon urged caution as the board was "flying in the face of legal advice." He said he would not want to see the taxpayers money spent on a costly legal battle.

"It's a wonder Mr. Sadlier himself hasn't made some attempt to remove this opposition," said G. Wilson Craw. "He could do something for himself."

"That would certainly be the supreme test of his dramatic ability," agreed Dr. Honey.

Mr. Sadlier should have acted in a "businesslike way" and come before the board instead of "stirring up opposition," said Mr. Jobbitt.

Stanley Adamson said the board was a fourth party. That the dispute was actually between Mr. Sadlier and the opposition residents, with the theatre patrons a third party bringing pressure to bear.

"Dr. Morgan's question was pointed." said Mr. Adamson. "Would we reopen this matter if the opposition were removed?"

The legal angle was then reintroduced, and Dr. Honey concluded: "We'd all like to see this theatre group here but we've gone as far as we can in providing accommodation without involving ourselves legally."

HIS EXCELLENCY, Most Reverend G. Berry, DD, Bishop of Peterborough will ordain to the priesthood the Rev. Louis Michael Dubbery, on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The ceremony will take place in St. Peter's Cathedral. Father Dubbery was born in London, England, of an English father and an Irish mother. He began his studies for the priesthood in England, but the war intervened and Louis Dubbery took up electrical engineering. It was to continue the course of electric engineering which brought him to Canada and Peterborough. Whilst here he contacted Bishop Berry who sent him to St. Augustine's Seminary to complete his studies for the priesthood. Father Dubbery will visit with his people in England, leaving at once, and will return here after two months.

Revision Of Taxi Fares But Oppose Meters Operators Tell Commission

Would Do Away With Present Zoning, Introduce A Mile Scale With Charge of Basic Fare of 50 Cents

The Peterborough Taximen's Association through a two-man deputation asked for a revision in the taxi fare rates for the city at a meeting of the Police Commission Thursday. The taximen asked that the now-existing zoning be done away with. Instead the taxi operators want a mile scale. They propose a basic fare of 50 cents for one or two passengers up to two miles. For each additional mile, the taxis would charge 25 cents and 25 cents for each additional passenger.

The deputation said it represented 19 of the city's 34 taxi operators who voted unanimously at a meeting last Sunday for the proposed system. The meeting, they said, represented every taxi outfit except one. Hugh Davis, of the Capitol Taxi Co., later came before the board with a counter-proposal and said he had the flu last Sunday and did not attend the cab owners' meeting.

Divided Into Two Zones

Under the present by-law the city is divided at McKellar St. into two zones. Taxi trips to and from south of McKellar St. cost 75 cents basic.

The two men on the deputation, William Kemp and James Donnelly, said this often led to unfair charges. A person being brought from a few blocks south of McKellar St. only as far as Lansdowne St. was supposed to be charged 75 cents. But on the other hand, a person taken from the Jackson Park area in the north-west corner of the city to the east Lansdowne St. area, a distance of about four miles, was charged only 50 cents.

At present, said the taxi men, there was considerable trouble because many members of the public did not understand this system and because many of the taxi operators undercut the proper charge.

Under the mileage system, people would be charged on a basis of the mileage of their trips which was a much more fair system, they said.

The mileage could be tabulated on an easily-installed gadget, they said, for the taxi driver and the customer to see.

Opposed Meters

However, the ma[illegible] the cab operators were against installing meters.

Mr. Donnelly said the night before he had tested a meter in a car working on the Toronto rates. On several of the more common trips, to and from the hospital, the bus depot and railway station, from various parts of the city, the passenger would pay considerably more than 50 cents. Yet these trips would come within the two-mile, 50-cent basic fare they were proposing, Mr. Donnelly said.

He said the cab owners had several other arguments against meters.

The cab owners also asked hourly rates to be the present $2 an hour for a five-passenger car and $2.50 an hour for a seven-passenger, but they wanted 25 cents a mile added.

Mr. Davis also came to the meeting after the deputation, with a Mr. Klein, salesman for a meter company, with him. Mr. Davis said that at a meeting of the taxi men's association two weeks ago, the majority of the men had been in favor of meters. He did not know what had happened to switch the cab operators' minds.

The police commission members told the deputation they would consider the proposals and told Mr. Davis and Mr. Klein to go and talk to the operators about the benefit to both customers and cab operators of meters. The commission didn't express its opinion on either proposal.

Irishman Gives Police Battle Gets Seven Days

"A big, strong stubborn Irishman," Joseph B. Healey, New Romaine St., who was arrested after a struggle with three policemen Saturday afternoon, was convicted in police court today of drunk driving.

He was sentenced to seven days in jail and his car was impounded for three months.

His defence counsel W. J. Arthur Fair K.C., argued that Healey wasn't drunk. He was just "a big strong, stubborn Irishman" who resented being pushed around by two provincial police constables.

"I find that there was a degree of intoxication that comes within the meaning of the section," Magistrate W. R. Philp K.C. said.

Police Tell Story

Provincial Constables Roy Feeley and Thomas Fitzpatrick testified that as they turned right to go east on McDonnel St. about 4:30 p.m. Saturday they noticed a car coming toward them driving in an erratic manner.

The police cruiser turned around in front of the brewery warehouse and drove to catch up with Healey's car. The police were unable to pull up alongside the accused before he reached Monaghan Road because of the way he was driving from side to side.

At Monaghan Rd. he stopped and Constable Feeley got out and went over to him. He asked him to get out and to walk along the sidewalk. Healey fell over the bumper of the police car and then caught himself before he fell down. He staggered a short distance down the sidewalk and then returned.

Refused To Get Into Cruiser

The constable asked him to get into the police cruiser and Healey refused. The constables had to use force to try to get him in the cruiser. They had him about half way into the back of the car when Constable C. McGillen of the city police force arrived.

Lunch Counter Gutted Fire Damage $8,500

Ambrose Lee Lost Business Only Operating Since February

Peterborough's biggest fire of the year broke out shortly after midnight. The flames gutted the interior of Lee's Lunch, Lock St. and Braidwod Ave., causing $8,500 damage. The proprietor, Ambrose Lee of Engleburn Ave., has only been in business since Feb. 1. He is partly covered by insurance.

Cause of the outbreak is not yet known. But firemen and eye-witnesses say the heart of the fire was in the northeast corner of the building, adjacent to an oil heater.

"Everything was all right when I locked up and left the building about midnight," said Mr. Lee. He had refueled the oil heater a half hour before.

Interior Ruined

Today the interior of the restaurant is a mass of overturned and charred furniture. Everything is in ruins. Broken soft drink bottles, counter seats, the remains of a pinball machine and a wurlitzer, together with other odds and ends are strewn about the floor.

Some of the chief items in the loss are a $400 refrigerator in the kitchen, a gas stove used for cooking customers' orders, and a modern soda bar.

By the time the firemen arrived the inside was a roaring mass of fire. A backdraught, caused by the extreme heat, is believed responsible for an explosion that blew out most of dozen window sections on Lock and Braidwood.

It is this explosion that is believed to have roused Miss Audrey Ralph who lives at 77½ Lock St., in the house immediately north of Lee's lunch.

Discovered Fire

Miss Ralph had returned shortly after midnight from doing her night shift at CGE and had just got to bed when she heard a noise. From her bedroom window she saw a reddish glow and then noticed flames from the south.

She wakened her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ralph, and Mr. Ralph turned in the fire alarm.

"The flames were shooting right past our house," said Mrs. Ralph. "They must have been 12 feet in length, anyway. It was awful."

Despite the fierceness of the fire it did not break through the roof. The outside of the building is intact. The only part of the inside that escaped damage is a lean-to shed at the rear of the building.

Sheeting was burned off the walls and ceiling of the kitchen and the restaurant proper; and the flames broke through the ceiling into the rafters at the north-east end of the buiding. In the southwest corner racks of papers and 25-cent books were destroyed.

Supplies Destroyed

A large stock of cigarets, as well as the supply of food, was also destroyed.

Mr. Lee recently bought the building and the business and opened at the beginning of February after spending $600 remodelling the kitchen, painting and decorating. It was formerly Will's Grill.

It could accommodate 25 people—16 in the booths and nine on the counter seats. Loss is estimated at $8,500 with about $4,000 of that figure being damage to contents.

The cash register was destroyed by the flames but there was no money left in it. However $75, hidden elsewhere in the restaurant by Mr. Lee, was burned.

Boost Port Hope HS Teachers $500 Maximum $5,500

PORT HOPE, Mar. 9—Salaries for this district's secondary school teachers will reach an all-time high under the new salary schedule recently drawn up by the Durham county district high school board.

The schedule provides for a flat $500 raise and $200 yearly raises to maximums of $5,300 and $5,500. The latter rate is for teachers with specialist's training. Previous maximums were $3,600 and $3,800.

It is understood that district teachers have agreed to accept the schedule. The district takes in teachers from Bowmanville, Newcastle, Orono, Millbrook and Port Hope.

One member of the district high school board described the schedule as being in line with salary scales in schools of comparable size anywhere in the province.

Retroactive to January

The new schedule calls for a minimum salary of $2,700 for teachers trained as specialists and $2,500 for others. The $500 increase is retroactive to January 1 of this year.

Stuart Ryan, chairman of the board's management committee, said yesterday that high school principals will also receive the $500 boost, although the board has still to set a maximum salary for principals.

THREE NEW POLICEMEN

The Police Commission Thursday authorized Chief Constable John Thompson to take applications from which three new constables will be added to the police force.

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR

Chief Constable John Thompson was named by the Police Commission Thursday to take a position of Assistant Director for police for Civil Defence on Peterborough's Defence Committee. The defence committee asked that the chief be appointed.

'Quiet Wedding' In Knox Pleases Patrons

Esther McCracken's charming comedy, "Quiet Wedding," has been a favorite with amateur groups since its first appearance in 1938. Its presentation by the Knox Theatre Group on Thursday evening drew a large audience, which expressed strong satisfaction with the play. The performance will be repeated tonight.

"Quiet Wedding" deals with a domestic problem which has come within the range of most people's experience. A charming girl is to be married to a young man whom she loves, but for a couple of months before the event she is bothered by wedding arrangements, plagued by dressmakers, hounded by her excited, managing mother, offended by an aunt who refers to the night before her wedding as "your last night," with a wealth of meaning, nagged to make decisions of every kind until, quite understandably, she is sick of the whole affair, and comes close to calling the wedding off. Her solution is to spend the night before her wedding with her finacee, and upon her wedding morning she is in a calm and assured frame of mind.

Charm [illegible]pirit

The [illegible]e bewildered girl is pla[illegible] charm and spirit by [illegible]osh; her financee is playe[illegible] Victor Potter who, though effective lacks the quiet assurance for the part in some of his difficult scenes. Dennis Brockman gave an excellent performance as an indulgent father, and Ada Huffman, though nervous at times, carried the difficult part of the managing mother with decision.

Two contrasting aunts, one firm and understanding, the other soft and dithery, were admirably played by Susan Summers and Margaret McCombe. Elda Crowhurst was quietly helpful as a married sister who has a problem of her own, and Dennis Crowhurst gave a pleasantly humorous performance as the problem. Betty Blair was excellent as an excited child of fourteen.

As a young woman of artistic pretensions Betty Massey-Cooke played amusingly, and Roger Davis, as the man who explodes those pretensions, was assured and polished. Harry Tasker gave a most effective performance as a strong, reasonably silent man; we were grateful for his fine, deep voice. Betty Staresmeare gave us a nicely finished little cameo as a French modiste, and as the much enduring family servant Dorothy Faulkner gave a performance which was, within its limits, among the best of the evening.

Difficult Play

"Quiet Wedding" is an exceedingly difficult play. It demands ease in its actors, and a good

Certification Said Victory For CCL Outboard Forces

The Ontario Labor Relations Board has certified Local 230, Outboard Marine Workers, as bargaining agent for 340 production workers at the Outboard plant. It is a chartered local of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

Already the union has submitted its proposals for a contract to the company, but has received no reply.

Certification of Local 230 is a victory for CCL forces in the bargaining unit, formerly an independent union.

On September 21, 1950, a tentative agreement was reached between the company and the independent union on the 1950-51 contract.

It included a reduction of the work week from 45 to 43 hours with the same take home pay, and a straight seven cents an hour increase. This would have given the workers a minimum starting rate of $1.03 an hour with the lowest job rate $1.10 an hour, after automatic increases.

Overwhelming Vote

On October 3, at a meeting called ostensibly to have the membership ratify the proposed agreement, an overwhelming majority voted to affiliate with the CCL.

This started controversy in the plant, because of which it was agreed to have a ratification vote in the plant, supervised by William Jones, former captain in the Peterborough Fire Department.

Members of the bargaining unit voted against accepting the company offer. And this was taken as a "go-ahead" signal to the CCL group who said they would negotiate an even better contract.

At a hearing before the OLRB early in February, the union filed 243 cards of signed and paid-up members—a substantial majority. The UE intervened in the hearing but withdrew after a protest about a 1948 hearing.

Certification has now been granted without the necessity of a vote.

Wednesday afternoon the negotiating committee submitted Local 230's contract proposals to the company. Fred Burritt is committee chairman and other members are Douglas Moscrop, George Rutherford and Lou Dirkin.

Negotiations will begin when the company gives counter proposals.

Officers of the local are Joseph McGuire, president; John Meehan, vice-president; George Reynolds, treasurer; and Charles (Pete) Meridew, secretary.

British Climate Little Changed In 100 Years

LONDON (CP)—Weather records traced back to about 1850 show there has been no substantial change in Britain's climate during the last 100 years.

The information is disclosed in a detailed survey completed by the Meteorological Office which dispels some popular beliefs about the capricious weather of the British Isles.

A common view, the report says, is that the coldest winters are to be found in the extreme northern areas of the islands, with the warmest in the south. Investigations, however, prove there is practically no diference between the average winter day in the Orkneys and Shetlands and the temperature along the south coast of England.

Slight Advantage

But the average for the full year gives a slight advantage to the south which also enjoys a bit more sunshine. The summer skies are clearest over the Channel Islands, with the Scillies, Penzance, Eastbourne and Worthing close behind.

The legendary dampness of Manchester is borne out by the survey but its average yearly rainfall of 32 inches is exceeded by a number of cities without any special reputation for wetness. Among them are Cardiff, 42 inches, Plymouth 37 inches and Glasgow 36 inches.

It is in the highlands, the lake district and North Wales where the rain really comes down. In some of these areas the annual fall often is in excess of 150 inches.

The distinction of being the driest spot in the islands goes to Wakering in Essex County. There the average annual rainfall is a fraction over 18 inches.

Presents Manuscript

BRANTFORD, March 9 (CP)—Thomas B. Costain Thursday presented the typed manuscript of his novel, "Son of a Hundred Kings," to the Brant Historical Society Museum. It was the third autographed copy of his work which the well-known author has given to his home-town, the other two being "The Black Rose" and "The Moneyman." The latest of his novels, "Son of a Hundred Kings" has its locale in the town of Balfour, otherwise turn-of-the-century Brantford.

22nd AND 23rd—Mrs. Hector Ruest, 40-year-old mother from Bonville, Ont., holds Lawrence and Leonard, her fifth set of twins. They bring her number of children to 23, 17 of whom are still living. Three other sets of twins, aged 10, 6 and 2, are still living. Mr. Ruest, 59, a canal laborer, had three other children by his first wife, two still living.

Kitchener Tax Rate Likely Go To 60 Mills

KITCHENER, March 9 (CP)—Kitchener's 1951 mill rate is likely to soar to 60 mills, 6½ mills higher than last year, Louis Dahmer city treasurer said Thursday. Preliminary estimates of council committees and boards and commissions show requirements of 63.316 mills and the treasurer does not believe council will be able to pare below 60 mills at their annual estimates meeting next week.

Fossils Form New Link

JOHANNESBURG (CP).—Fossils probably 200,000,000 years old have been identified in South Africa.

This is the result of a research program carried on by the Bernard Price Institute for paleontological research in the Karoo district of Cape Province.

The fossils are of mammal-like reptiles which were the ancestors of all animals of the

In evolution, fish are taken as the most primitive creatures. Although spineless forms of life like shellfish are, in fact, still more primitive.

From fish developed two kinds of prehistoric frogs. From one of these came modern frogs and other amphibians. From the other came three branches of development. One led to tortoises, crocodiles, lizards and snakes—the modern reptiles. The second resulted in birds.

Former Mystery

The third branch was a mystery until the work on the Karoo reptiles. The puzzle was how the prehistoric reptiles grew into mammals. How did the pure reptiles with scales, egg-laying habits, teeth of uniform pattern and other distinct features change into mammals, with hair, babies born as such, and several types of teeth?

The Karoo reptiles have been proved to be a stage between the two. They were reptiles which in some cases had hair, in others gave birth to their young, and in others still had canine, molar and incisor teeth like modern mammals.

Old Ontario Town Hub Of Bristling Farming Area

MILTON, —(CP)—The town of Milton is a good example of Ontario's changing economy. Centre and county town of the rich and once totally agricultural Halton County, Milton is situated 10 miles northwest of Lake Ontario and 25 miles southwest of Toronto.

The change from an Agrarian to an Industrial Society has been fully mastered by the town. Milton does it by mingling the two, letting go of neither.

In the district a few miles beyond the town, full-time farmers —some of them on the same land their forefathers cleared 150 years ago—have built up flourishing farms. Modern agricultural methods and industry encourage the rich productivity of the Halton soil.

I nMilton itself four industries, the screw factory, a brick company, a milling company and a knitting mill, support from 500 to 600 of the 2,400 population—the factory workers.

In between is that peculiar phenomenon, the factory-farmer. He lives on a small farm and works it in his off hours from his factory job.

Then there is the town farmer, typified by the police chief and the town engineer.

With his combination of the rural-urban setup there is no unemployment in Milton. Relief last year cost the council only $1,484, and most of that has been recovered, the rest going for food and shelter for unemployables.

Milton's fortunate economic position is the result of a slow, quiet, aging process that began 150 years ago when English settlers came and cleared the densely-wooded land.

In 1862 Jasper Martin built a grist mill on Sixteen Mile Creek and soon the community around it became known to the area farmers as Mill Town. Later a tannery, brickyards working the rich red and yellow clay, and a woolen mill employed the townsfolk. Still later, when the farming picture changed to a more specialized type—requiring harder work and more money—the rising factory wages and shorter hours caused farm boys to leave the farm.

But in Milton they went back home at night because the factory was practically at their door.

Today Milton bricks rise in buildings across the nation; the socket-head screws that Peter Robertson was told couldn't be made are used in countless articles; fruit and vegetables from the rich farm lands are shipped by the ton to canning firms.

Milton citizens have discovered how to "eat their cake and keep it, too."

Clerk Identifies Mrs. Pitre As Buyer

QUEBEC, March 9 (CP)—Leopold Giroux, 59-year-old clerk in a lowertown hardware store where dynamite is sold, Thursday identified Mrs. Arthur Pitre as the woman who bought 20 sticks of dynamite less than a month before the time-bomb explosion of an airliner at Sault Au Cochon, Sept. 9, 1949.

The court moved to the Bagot Street residence of Giroux, who is ill, to hear evidence in the trial of the 42-year-old woman, charged with murder in the death of Rita Guay, one of the 23 persons killed in the crash of the plane.

Approve Estimates

LONDON, March 9 (CP).—After a 12½-hour session, the House of Commons today approved army estimates for this year under which Britain will spend £420,000,000 ($1,239,000,000). This is £120,000,000 more than was spent in the year 1950-51. Winding up the debate, war secretary John Strachey said the government was planning two new tank-producing plants.

Publisher Dies

GANANOQUE, March 9 (CP) —Byron Oliver Britton, former owner and publisher of the Gananoque Reporter, died Wednesday in St. Petersburg, Fla., where he had been spending the winter. His death came less than two weeks after he celebrated his 90th birthday. Member of one of this eastern Ontario town's oldest families, his name had long been identified with the weekly newspaper here.

Ruled Invalid

SYDNEY, Australia, March 9 (CP).—The Australian high court today ruled invalid federal legislation outlawing the Communist party. The bill, which became law in October, gave the government sweeping powers to remove Communists from public and trade union posts.

Priest Dies

AYLMER, Que., March 9 (CP) —The Rev. Charles Emile Lemay, 27-year-old priest at the Redemptorist Fathers Scholasticate died here Thursday. Last December he was granted special dispensation from the Pope and ordained to the priesthood prematurely because he faced certain death from cancer.

You, too, were there

Who can forget the "Noronic"? As flame and death raced across those tragic decks, your Red Cross was quickly on the scene. And through your Red Cross, you were there. Your contribution made the work of mercy possible.

The "Noronic" . . . The Manitoba Floods . . . the Rimouski and Cabano Fires . . . never, except in war, has the need for Red Cross services been so demanding . . . or the drain on Red Cross funds so heavy. And today, the future presents a new challenge and new demands—as the Red Cross prepares its nation-wide organization to play its role with the Armed Forces and in Civil Defence.

Booklet Shows Children Value of Caring For Teeth

OTTAWA, March 9—(CP)—If mother can get junior to the dentist without a whimper, she can pass up this column.

If she has trained her child to look on a glass of milk with the same favor that he looks on a bottle of pop, she must have a model child.

But these mothers are probably in the minority. The Federal Health Department apparently thinks so, or it would not have published "Ten Little People and Their Teeth."

The picture booklet of 10 pages is calculated to catch the small fry unawares, inoculating them with a bit of good teeth propaganda before they know what has happened to them.

See What Happens

Page two informs the reader that five of the children are "wise"—they drink milk "because it is good for their teeth."

The five others are "foolish"—they drink pop "because they do not know it is bad for their teeth.'

As the story moves along we see the five "wise" children dutifully polishing their teeth after every meal.

The five you-know-what children are "too lazy" to brush their teeth.

Finally the five foolish ones end up with bad teeth "with lots of holes."

However, everybody lives tooth-happily ever after with the five foolish children doing what the dentist told them.

Now all 10 children are wise.

Meat Buying

Home economists of the consumer section, federal agriculture department have under way a meat project the results of which will go a long way in helping the housewife with one of her most serious problems — trying to stretch her food budget to cover such expensive items as meat.

With beef varying from 70 to 85 cents a pound, she can't afford to make many poor choices.

The home economists urge buyers to get beef that is properly aged.

"Even red or blue brand beef can be tough if it hasn't been aged well," said a member of the department.

She recommended looking for beef that is "deep red" and with a good distribution of fat.

Beef that isn't bright red hasn't been aged long enough.

It takes about 10 or 12 days before beef is properly aged.

Budget Steak

Here is a recipe suggested by an Ottawa housewife and mother of four for making 1½ pounds of round steak into a tasty dish these expensive times.

"No matter how tough the steak, this way it always comes out tender," she says.

Brown the meat quickly in a hot frying-pan and then add enough water to almost cover. Cover pan and simmer from one to two hours —or until meat is tender to the touch; remove from pan and keep warm in oven while making gravy. Put gravy in dish and return meat to pan. Sizzle on each side with a little butter.

"The butter gives that freshly fried taste."

Light Slander Douglas' Lot

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 9 (AP) Kirk Douglas was stopping in the studio restaurant to talk to actress Jan Sterling when she said: "I don't like you."

This was nothing personal on Miss Sterling's part. She had just seen the picture they had done together and was carried away by his characterization.

This sort of thing happens often with Douglas. People pass by him and mutter, "Hello, you rat." He wails: "If people who know me do that, what must the general public think?"

The light-hearted slander he receives is due to the roles he has played during his brief but fast-climbing film career. His first big hit came in "Champion," in which he played a fighter who climbed over his friends and family to get to the top.

He does the newspaper profession up to a fare-thee-well in the forthcoming "Ace in the Hole." He plays a reporter who stalls a cave-in rescue so he can have a hot story. He is currently taking care of the police by enacting a stone-hearted detective in "The Detective Story."

How to Lose Friends

I cornered Douglas, thinking he might have some tips on how to lose friends and alienate people —on the screen at least. "How do you play a heel?", I asked.

"I look at them this way: they aren't completely bad guys. I don't believe you could hold the audience's interest throughout a picture if you played that type of role.

"I think of the roles I play as either strong men with certain weaknesses or weak men with certain strong points.

Bring Out The Bad

"You take the normal things that people do and give them just a little twist—not too much, or that would be comedy. For instance, in 'Ace in the Hole' the guy says to people 'Hello fan.' It's meant to be a normal greeting, but you get the idea of what he thinks of other people.

"In 'Detective Story' he addresess his superior in such a manner that the boss finally says, 'cant you say 'sir' without making it sound like an insult?'"

PROMISES INQUIRY

OTTAWA, March 9 (CP) — Justice Minister Garson promised Thursday to investigate reports that families of soldiers who become casualties in Korea are receiving letters said to be "communistically inspired."

Women Exempt From Jury Duty

TORONTO, March 9.— Special exemptions to meet the specific problems of women are contained in the Bill to qualify women for jury duty, introduced in the Legislature Thursday by Attorney-General Porter.

The Bill was given first reading, one of three which Premier Frost described with a smile as ".....Ontario's emancipation of women." The others were a Bill to provide equal pay for equal work and a Bill to wipe out discriminatory practices in employment.

Those exempted from jury duty include:

Members of religious orders in convents and other religious communities; registered nurses, wives of judges, magistrates, sheriffs, jail employees, and others in similar occupations, wives of barristers and solicitors, and wives of any court officials.

Housewives whose duties would not permit lengthy absence from those duties.

Women who in the opinion of the presiding judge should be excused because of special reasons.

In any civil case a judge may direct that the jury be all men or all women.

A judge may also excuse a woman from criminal cases where the type of case and the evidence to be heard is deemed to be "unacceptable" to women.

Federation Hears Dr. D. B. Gordon

"The Cross and its many symbols" was Dr. D. B. Gordon's topic at the regular monthly meeting of the Trinity Women's Federation which was held at Mrs. Oscar Jamieson's home, Ross Street, on Monday evening.

Mrs. R. Clayton, program convener, chose as her theme for the devotional period, "Jesus in the garden of Gethsemane."

Mrs. M. Latimer read the scripture followed with a prayer by Mrs. James Turnbull.

A solo by Master Allan Jamieson was rendered and Easter hymns were sung, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Jamieson.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. S. Johnston. Reports were read and adopted after which Mrs. R. A. Philp, delegate to the recent Presbyterial meeting reported its activities, outlining Dr. Thomas' suggestions on the forming of Women's Federations in the United Church.

Mrs. J. H. Moebus moved a vote of thanks to Dr. Gordon, to those taking part on the program and the hostess.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Home and School Association News

PCVS

The PCVS Home and School Association met Wednesday evening with Mr. J. H. Moebus presiding.

During the business session of the meeting the following activities of the association were reviewed by Mr. Moebus: The public meeting sponsored by the association in November to focus public opinion on the need for a second collegiate in the city; the series of group meetings for the parents and teachers which were held during January and February and the open house when the parents visited the classrooms to talk with the teachers and were given the opportunity to watch extra curricular activities in the gymnasium and the auditorium.

Mr. Moebus reported that these activities had resulted in a better understanding on the part of parents of the school program.

Mrs. J. Low reported on the success of the open house tea and sale and Mrs. P. Martyn, treasurer gave the financial report.

A motion to raise the individual annual membership fee to 50 cents was passed. This motion will be put into effect next term

Delegates will attend the one day's session of the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations to be held in Toronto during the Easter week.

Mrs. A. Nelson, district chairman and nominations convener explained the nomination procedure and the recommendation of the executive that the number of vice-presidents be increased to four. This was made a motion and passed.

Dr. E. Ray, representing the academic department, outlined the general course and stated that at the end of Grade 9, students would be able to choose in which they wished to continue.

He explained that if the academic course was chosen students would find little change in Grade 10. The study of French and Latin continues in Grade 11. German can now be introduced. Geography may be chosen as a substitute for Latin. Students planning to attend university or Normal School should choose the academic course and selection of subjects in Grade 13 should be chosen according to plans for higher education.

Mr. H. A. Toole in explaining the functions of the commercial department stated that students enter the regular commercial course in Grade 10. This course offers a good general as well as a commedcial education, which consists of 25 periods a week of general subjects and 19 of commercial subjects. This is reversed in Grades 11 and 12 when office training takes the place of French Latin, Geometry and Algebra. Library science has been added to the course in recent years. A special commercial course is to students who graduate from the academic department.

Miss H. Gerrard, of the Household Arts Department, explained its curriculum. She stated that students are also taught general subjects in this course. Included in the course are the fundamentals of good family living, the management of the home, the knowledge of food and its nutritional value, the way to dress, the making of garments, technical knowledge of textiles, of handicrafts and of interior decorating.

She explained that graduates of this course were fitted to become homemakers, could train for the nursing and many other professions.

Mr. Switzer, director of the Industrial Arts Department explained that the purpose of this department was to graduate above average apprentices with a good general education. The majority of the graduates enter factories.

Joseph Mills and John Denure, duo piano team and students of the school delighted the meeting with their rendition of "Deep Purple."

CGIT Doings

ST. JAMES' GROUP

The St. James' United Church CGIT met Tuesday with Donna Moffat presiding. The girls learned camp songs in preparation for the CGIT Rally Wednesday. Lynn Davidson led the devotional period and also explained the meaning of the letter CGIT. The cabinet members gave their report. It was announced that Palm Sunday church parade was cancelled, but one would be held March 11. The girls separated into groups to study their projects—missionaries with Mrs. Booth, sewing and etiquette with Mrs. Clysdale and Lynn Davidson with the senior quiz group.

DOROTHY DIX

Only Natural Parents Make More Fuss Over Firstborn

DEAR MISS DIX: Why is it that there is so much excitement made over the first child, while the second, third, and so on, are course? Before my first child was born I had the spotlight turned on me by my family and husband and was the object of all their attentions and solicitations. But now that I am going to have another baby, it is just "one of those things" and nobody is much interested in it except me. I am not complaining, I am just wondering about it and cannot understand why there is such a difference in people's treatment of the mother when the ordeal is so much harder the second time, and it requires so much more courage to bear the second baby than it did the first. Can you solve this puzzling thing for me? I think it would make it easier for me if I understood.

PUZZLED MOTHER

ANSWER: I suppoee the reason that the first baby rates the most attention, has the most fuss made over it and gets the most presents is because everything is in the nature of a miracle. It is something wonderful and to be marvelled over because it has never happened before.

Touches Friends' Hearts

The young mother is cherished with a peculiar tenderness by her family and friends because the trailing clouds of glory of her girlhood still hang about her; and because there is something so touching and so brave in the thought of the young creature, hardly more than a child herself, going down into a hell of suffering to bring back another life, that it grips the hearts of all who know and love her.

But the feat once accomplished becomes a commonplace that calls for no beating on the drums. Drama doesn't bear repetition. The surprise and tenseness and excitement oozes out of it at a second performance. The first baby is a miracle. The second one is an achievement. After that they are just a habit.

And, curiously enough, you will find that you will ake exactly the same attitude yourself toward your children. No matter how many children you have, there will never be one like the firstborn. Fortunately, a mother's heart is big enough to take in all the babies that come no matter how many they be, but she will never wait for the coming of another with just the same thoughts and dreams as she did while she sewed on little garments for the first one.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been working for five years. This brings me in contact with a number of people of my age whose friendship I want to keep, but I don't know how to do it because my parents have never allowed me to have any friends or dates, or to bring any company to the house. This rule still continues, although I contribute to the upkeep of the nice home we have and am helping my brother through college. When I have a date or two with a man I am told not to let him come to the house again. I am 24 years old and I see my chances of making friends and of perhaps marrying slipping from me because of my parents' attitude. What can I do?

DESPONDENT BESS

ANSWER: Screw up your courage to the point of reading the Declaration of Independence to your family and asserting your rights to some privileges in the home that you help support. Tell them that unless they make friends welcome you are going to leave and set up an apartment with some other girl. Maybe when they see your money slipping out of their fingers they will treat you as well as they would a strange boarder who paid her way and more Either your parents are so utterly selfish that they are willing to blight your youth to save themselves from the trouble of entertaining young people and the annoyance of being kept awake at night by the coming and going of your friends, or else they are abysmally dull and stupid not to realize that not only a young girl's happiness but also her chances of making a good marriage depend upon her being popular with the crowd. This she cannot be unless she can entertain them in her home as she is entertained in theirs.

DEAR MISS DIX: What can I do with a wife who insists upon doing everything contrary to my wishes?

A HUSBAND

ANSWER: Take the opposite point of view. If she thinks she is spiting you she will go your way. Anything to be disagreeable.

What's Right

You are standing with your husband at a party when a person you have met, but he hasn't, comes up to talk to you—and you cannot think of the person's name.

WRONG: Go along talking without making an introduction.

RIGHT: Admit that you can't remember the name and then make the introduction.

FUNNY BUSINESS - - By Hershberger

"After dragging it along for 20 years, my husband brought it home for a door-knocker!"

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Controlling Food Craving By Few Intelligent Rules

QUESTION: Will you please send my friend and I a calorie chart. She lives with me and we are both interested. We must lose poundage as soon as possible. I have arthritis and cannot walk without my crutches, so therefore I cannot walk much, and it seems all I do is sit and put on more fat. I have an awful appetite, and can eat anything at anytime. So will you please give me all of the help you can, such as basic reducing diets, or anything that will help reduce. I am real well, only fat.

My friend and I will be very very grateful for your help. — Mrs. A. P.

ANSWER: I am only too familiar with that healthy appetite you describe.

But this craving for food can be controlled by an intelligent application of a few rules.

I think a splendid idea that works is for you to deliberately taste everything you put to your lips. Do you enjoy the flavor very much? OR are you eating it out of habit?

For instance, when one is preparing a meal nothing is easier than to slice off a piece of apple and slip it in your mouth when you are slicing them for a pie. Or if you are chopping nuts, than to eat a handful during the chopping process. Assess the results of every ounce of food that passes your lips. Are you so hungry you must eat it? Does it taste so good you do not care if it puts on ounces?

Be Very Critical of Every Bit of Food. Study the calorie chart I have sent you and pick out the bulky things that contain very few calories—like tomato juice, malaga grapes, oranges, buttermilk, celery, carrots, tomatoes, grapefruit—and eat those to fill up on.

Do not deny yourself this little reprieve—for if everything is "must not" food then the fun of eating is denied you.

The "must not" foods are fat and sugar and starch. The "may have" foods are fruits (all except dried fruits) and vegetables (all except potatoes) preferably fresh. Now this leads to eating sugar on fruit, mayonnaise on salads and sauces on cooked vegetables. All of these are taboo. Eat your fruit as is— no extra sugar added—it is much more delicious anyway. Instead of mayonnaise on your salads (of which you should eat at least one every day—preferably two) use cottage cheese. You may have 1 teaspoon of mayonnaise every day if you are strict about this ciet. Instead of sauces on your vegetables or butter, sprinkle them lightly with salt and pepper and buy packages of grated skim milk cheese and sprinkle the vegetables which you do not enjoy plain, with this skim milk cheese.

Eat one egg per day. This is how I eat mine: I butter a pyrex custard cup with ¼ teaspoon of butter, then break an egg into it, sprinkle it with salt and pepper, and lower it into hot water in the bottom of the double boiler to cook until white is set. I eat this with half slice whole wheat toast unbuttered every morning for breakfast—plus one-half grapefruit or one whole orange and 6 ounces hot skim milk. This seems to fill me and satisfy until noon. I eat it at 7:30 a.m.

Eat at least 4 ounces of lean meat per day—no fat for a long time yet. This should not be counted in the meat or filling in your lunch time sandwich which should be made of 2 slices of unbuttered whole wheat bread, plus cheese or lean meat or fish.

My last word of advice today on ways to beat the scales is this: Drink a 6 or 8 ounce glass of tomato juice or other Unsweetened fruit juice just before eating your dinner. This fills your stomach and prevents you overeating solid food—and never go into the kitchen after the dishes are done in the evening. All eating is finished with, after that —drink water if you have to break the eating-before-going-to-bed habit.

Note to Other Overweight Readers:

I have answered Mrs. A. P. in some detail because it is an answert to dozens of you who have written to me. If you put all of that advice into works you will be slim before you know it.

Good luck.

Playtex Living Girdle

5.98 PLAYTEX 'Living GIRDLE (with garters)

Changes in fashion in the last few decades have been changes in foundations as much as changes in style. And the girdle that has made possible the latest figure revolution is the sensational Playtex Living Girdle . . . the girdle that gives you the slim, young, supple figure of 1950.

Made of that modern miracle material — tree grown liquid latex — Playtex combines figure-shimming power with complete comfort and freedom of action!

A truly modern girdle — Playtex hasn't a single seam, stitch or bone. It's absolutely invisible even under the most clinging new fashions. And it washes in 10 seconds, pats dry with a towel!

6—In Memoriams

COPPAWAY—In loving memory of dear mother, Mrs. Alf Coppaway, who passed away a year ago today, March 9, 1950.
You can only have one mother,
Patient, kind and true.
No other friend in all the world
Will be as true to you.
For all her loving kindness,
She asked nothing in return
If all the world deserts you
To your mother you can turn,
So all we can do dear mother,
Is to go and tend your grave,
And leave behind a token of love,
To the best mother God ever gave.
—Lovingly remembered by her four daughters, Ester, Flora, Clara and Leulla.

COPPAWAY—In loving memory of our dear grandmother, Mrs. Alf Coppaway, who passed away one year ago today, March 9, 1950.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear grandma,
That we do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by Bill, Norman, Beulah and Shirley.

COPPAWAY—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Alf Coppaway, who passed away March 9, 1950.
Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile,
Deep trust in God that all was right
Her joy to make some other bright.
If sick or suffering one she knew,
Some gentle act of love she'd do,
No thought of self, but of "the other"
I know He said "Well done, dear mother."
—Always remembered by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Nicholls.

EDWARDS—In loving memory of my dear brother, Henry, who passed away March 9th, 1949.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion
Of one who thinks of you.
Gone from me but leaving memories,
Death can never take away,
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth I stay.
—Ever remembered by his loving brother, Neil.

EDWARDS—In loving memory of Henry Edwards, who was accidentally killed, March 9, 1949.
His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall,
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
—Ever remembered by mother, father, sister and brothers.

EVERITT—In loving memory of Arnold Everitt, who passed away March 9, 1947.
There is a link death cannot sever,
Love and remembrance last forever.
—Remembered by his wife Irene, son Ted and daughters Mrs. E. Hotrum and Mrs. J. Kanally.

WITHERS—In memory of my dear husband, John Donnelly Withers, who passed away on March 9, 1949.
"Time passes—memory lingers."
—Isobel Withers, 13 Oak Bank Ave., Blackley, Manchester, England.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED BY-LAW

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of The Corporation of the City of Peterborough will consider the following By-law at a Meeting of the said Council, to be held at the Council Chambers, City of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, on the 2ND DAY OF APRIL, 1951, at 7:30 o'clock p.m., and that it considered advisable the said By-law will be passed at such Meeting.

BY-LAW NUMBER OF
THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH

for the Stopping Up and Closing of a Portion of Bethune Street, in the City of Peterborough, and for the Sale of the Soil and Freehold of the same.

WHEREAS that portion of Bethune Street, in the City of Peterborough hereinafter described is not used or required as a Highway and it is expedient to Stop Up and Close and Sell the Soil and Freehold of the same.

AND WHEREAS Public Notice of this By-law has been given as required by the provisions of The Municipal Act, R.S.O. 1950, Chapter 243, in that respect.

AND WHEREAS all Persons who claim that their Land will be prejudicially affected by this By-law, and who have applied to be heard in person or by their counsel, solicitor or agent, have been so heard by this Council.

NOW THEREFORE the Council of The Corporation of the City of Peterborough HEREBY ENACTS as follows:

1. That the portion of Bethune Street, in the City of Peterborough, more particularly described as

ALL AND SINGULAR that certain Parcel or Tract of Land and Premises situate, lying and being in the City of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough and Province of Ontario being composed of that portion of Bethune Street more particularly described as follows: COMMENCING at the point of intersection of the southerly limit of Perry Street with the easterly limit of Bethune Street; THENCE westerly along the production westerly of the said southerly limit of Perry Street 24 feet more or less to its intersection with the line of a fence; THENCE south three degrees thirty minutes east (S. 3° 30' E.) along the line of the said fence 83.3 feet to a point; THENCE south two degrees thirty-eiyht minutes West (S. 2° 38' W.) continuing along the line of the said fence 271 feet to a point; THENCE south nine degrees five minutes west (S. 9° 5' W.) continuing along the line of the said fence 66.62 feet more or less to its intersection with the westerly limit of Bethune Street; THENCE southerly along the said westerly limit of Bethune Street 55.51 feet more or less to its intersection with the northerly limit of Lake Street: THENCE easterly along the production easterly of the said northerly limit of Lake Street: 68.4 feet more or less to the point of intersection of the northerly limit of Lake Street with the easterly limit of Bethune Street; THENCE northerly along the said easterly limit of Bethune Street 454.5 feet more or less to the place of beginning.

be and it is hereby Stopped Up and Closed; subject, however, to the rights of The Canadian National Railway Company; and that the Soil and Freehold of the same be sold.

2. That the owner or owners of the Lands which abut on the portion of the said street hereinbefore described shall have the right to purchase the Soil and Freehold of the same in accordance with the provisions of The Municipal Act, within a period of Fifteen Days from the date of this By-law at such price as may be fixed by this Council.

AND FURTHER TAKE NOTICE that at the said Meeting the Council shall hear in person or by his counsel, solicitor, or agent any person who claims that his Land will be prejudicially affected by the said By-law and who applies to be heard.

DATED this 8th Day of March, 1951.

Peterborough Rink Wins Consolation

The Peterborough rink skipped by Mrs. G. A. Wood won the final round of the consolation series in the Shannon trophy games in Toronto Thursday. Mrs. Tom Doughty was vice-skip, Mrs. Vern Selkirk was second and Miss Hazel Fanning lead.

The Peterborough ladies took the eights round by 12-3 from Mrs. W. L. Hugill of Torontos, and in the semi-finals they put out Mrs. F. Cuttle of the Toronto club by 7-5, Mrs. Wood counting with her last stone in an extra end.

They then won the final game by 13-7 from the rink skipped by Mrs. S. Marshall of Granites.

St. James YPU Presents Comedy

"Up at Minty's," a three-act comedy presented by the St. James' Church YPU, was well-received Thursday night in the church's Wesley Hall.

The play is the story of an English society girl who craves the quiet life, moves to a cottage in Derbyshire, and finds the country anything but quiet. Outstanding in the part of Fanny the maid was Marion Lee.

Minty the society girl, played by Jeanne Bull, was at times too forceful but for the most part convincing. The part of the martinet aunt, Miss Tillingtop, was taken by Shirley Wood.

Mr. Kent was played by Art Dixon; Peter, a poet, by Ron Davis; his sister by Ethel Menzies; and Mrs. Dean by Rayma Brown. Director was Art Dixon, and make-up and costumes were supervised by Jeanne Bull. Evelyn Shier was stage manager. The play will be presented again this evening.

Irishman Gives

"Are you being as reasonable and considerate of the accused as possible?" Mr. Fair asked Constable Feeley.

"I think I am," the constable said.

Constable Fitbpatrick said he stayed in the cruiser until he saw the accused was refusing to get into the cruiser. Both said the man was drunk.

Constable McGillen arrived on the scene by chance and saw a crowd gathered. He walked over and saw the provincial constable struggling with Healey who was handcuffed and half in and half out of the cruiser. He had known Healey all his life and he talked to him and started to walk with him over to his own cruiser.

About half way to it, Healey suddenly balked again and he and Constable Feeley picked the accused up and carried him to the car.

He said Healey smelled strongly of liquor and was in a very belligerent mood. He added that Healey had a very hot temper. He was objecting that he had to get to work by six p.m.

Not Drunk

Three friends of Healey's, James Chalmers, Bernard Pearson and Valentine James Hunter who had all been with Healey in a beverage room that afternoon, a waiter at the hotel, John Currie, said Healey wasn't drunk.

Healey said in his own defence he had been driving up McDonnel St. from side to side to avoid the many pot holes on the road.

When the constable asked him to walk, he slipped on the icy street and fell over the front of the cruiser. He told the police he did not have time to go to the police station and see the chief as they asked because he had to get to work.

"I put up a bit of a beef and they threw me around a bit," he said. He had had one pint of beer and five draughts of beer that afternoon.

Quiet Wedding

quick pace, but no haste. The ease was there in the Knox Theatre performance, but now and again the pace flagged, owing to some uncertainty about lines. Certain scenes stood out: when Roger Davis rejected the sticky advances of Betty Blair, as a hero-worshipping little girl, a fine atmosphere of comedy was created. In the scene with her fiancee in her flat, Lindy McIntosh gave us true emotion, and was genuinely touching. Individual bits by Dennis Brockman and Margaret McCombe gave the play a special lift. This group has some excellent actors.

It has also an excellent director. Peter McCombe is to be congratulated on having put a difficult comedy on a small stage with skill. And in this work we must not forget that he was aided by Ray Gillies, the stage manager, whose work, though unseen, was first rate. It is to be hoped that tonight's audience will be worthy of this good show.—R.D.

Must Go North For Skiing

If local skiers want to enjoy their favorite pastime, they'll have to head north into the northern Ontario area. The Peterborough area is classed as no skiing with Barrie, Cobourg, Dagmar, Midland, Orangeville and the Toronto Summit.

The nearest skiing is at Collingwood where the conditions in the upper bush trails are fair. There is no snow on the tow hills at Flesherton or Markdale but skiing is possible in the bush.

Skiing conditions at Fort William, Port Arthur and Sundridge are reported excellent. They are rated good in Haileybury and Huntsville districts and fair in Kenora.

Didn't Know Flasher Meant He Should Stop

A car and a truck collided at Aylmer and McDonnel streets a few minutes after midnight Thursday night when the traffic lights had been switched to flashing red and orange signals.

Edward J. Hellewell, 560 Brioux Ave., was driving north on Aylmer St. He said he saw the red light flashing, but thought he didn't have to stop for it.

Clarence Cameron, Indian River, driving a truck west on McDonnel St., saw the car approaching, but said he realized too late it was not going to stop.

They collided about the centre of the intersection. No damage was done to the truck. About $45 damage was done to the car. Constable William G. Scott investigated.

City Man Fined $15 Had Liquor In Car

Charged with supplying liquor to his younger brother who was under age, Lawrence Fontaine, 21, 146 Aylmer St., pleaded not guilty in police court today and was given an adjournment until Mnoday.

He pleaded guilty to another charge of having liquor in a car and was fined $15 and costs.

The younger brother, Robert Fontaine, 17, same address, was also charged with having liquor in an illegal place and pleaded not guilty.

Boy Takes Role

LOS ANGELES, March 9 (AP) —James M. Barrie's Peter Pan was a boy. And for a change, a boy is going to speak the lines made famous by such actresses as Maude Adams and Jean Arthur. Walt Disney studio has signed 14-year-old Bobby Driscoll to be Peter Pan's voice in a cartoon version of the classic.

Wins Award

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9 — (AP).—The American Newspaper Guild (CIO), Thursday gave its 1950 Heywood Broun Award to Leonard, a reporter for The Bay City (Mich.) Times. He was cited for a series of stories on the exploitation of migrant Puerto Rican workers in Michigan sugar beet fields.

Miracle Happens

TAMPA, Fla., March 9 (AP)— A train backed over a man whose head lay on the railroad track. He is alive and has only scratches to show for it. Detectives said Morris Hargrove sprawled on the roadbed last night, using one of the rails as a pillow. Railroad men figure the slow-moving train just pushed his head off the track.

Seven Townships Ready For Warble Fly Control

Farmers of seven Peterborough townships will be ready by the end of the month for the warble fly campaign which is also expanding to the west in Victoria and Ontario counties.

The municipalities engaging in control of this pest are: Ennismore, Asphodel, Otonabee, Harvey, Dummer, Smith and Douro.

Approximately 30,000 cattle will be spray treated during April and the fore part of May, Frank C. Paterson said yesterday, although he remarked that the estimate was only a rough one.

"Three townships have already filed copies of their bylaws with Ontario Livestock Commissioner, W. P. Watson," said Mr. Paterson. "They are: Ennismore, Asphodel and Otonabee. Municipal clerks are reminded that this is an essential requirement of the amended Act. Townships must also pay the salaries and expenses of these men. And, of course it is assumed that the job will be well done. The provincial government pays a subsidy of one-half the inspector's salary and expenses.

However, to get the subsidy on the cost of warble fly powder, the township must buy it, and make it available to the cattle owners on whatever terms the township sees fit. In other words, the township council handles the details of the Act. Subsidy will not be paid to the individual farmer who purchases warble fly powder on his own account."

As this is the first attempt in Peterborough to eradicate, if possible, the warble fly, winged enemy of cattle, it has been suggested that township officials and inspectors should be thoroughly briefed in their duties and responsibilities.

Tentative date of the meeting is Thursday March 29. The scope of the Act will be explained, likewise the details of the inspectors' job, and there will probably be a spray demonstration at some convenient farm.

Township councils are already beginning to send out official notices to cattle owners that the Act is going into force.

"Two more townships are joining in this second year of the campaign in Victoria," Mr. Paterson said, "and there is also part or Ontario county. This is another step in the democratic method of compelling everybody to do the same thing for the advantage of all of them. Farmers remember the TB control legislation and its results, as applied by the dominion government. Warble fly control is directed by the Ontario Department of Agriculture."

Mr. Paterson commented that Peterborough farmers had entered into this preventive scheme with energy and promptness. Township action required petitions signed by two-thirds of the farmers. That was an initial step which some men had to undertake in each section.

"The spraying method is the quickest and the easiest," Mr. Paterson said. "Brushing by hand involves more labor. Besides, the spray is more easily applied to young cattle that are not regularly tied. I understand that Otonabee, Dummer and Asphodel have already bought sprayers, and others are considering the investment.

"There is one warning, that the spray, although not poisonous to cattle, should be kept out of the reach of pigs. It is said to be poisonous to them, but I am not sure how much would cause fatal effect. Any way, this is a caution to be kept in mind."

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Quinte District Seed Fair at Blackstock, March 15 to 17; Peterborough Poultry Industries Annual meeting March 20 at Y.M.C.A.; W. W. Dawson Re-elected President of Peterborough Federation . . . Projects Planned by Local Crop Improvement Association.

"You men have helped build up a big business, for that is what you are now engaged in," Frank C. Paterson said in his remarks at the annual meeting Tuesday of the Peterborough group of the Maple Breeders' Association.

Their territory now extends from Asphodel township in Peterborough county to the Fort Francis area in the northwestern section of the province, or close to the Manitoba boundary.

That is the accomplishment in an economy of agriculture which stands essentially to the credit of the small group of York county farmers who in January 1945 took the first step in organizing artificial breeding for the dairy farmers within a ten mile radius of the community of Maple, on the extension of Yonge St.

From the June of that year to the end of 1950, the number of their first inseminations totals in their records 70,692.

First expansion from Maple reached into Simcoe, Halton, Peel and Dufferin, then turned easterly into Ontario, Victoria and Peterborough counties, and now extends up to Grey.

This is an enterprise of farmers, directed by farmers and for their own advantages. If the Maple group had not taken the lead in 1945, some other elsewhere in the area would have done so, for the principle and practice had already been proved sound elsewhere.

Membership in Peterborough has grown from 106 at the end of 1949 to the present 270.

Mr. Paterson briefly emphasized that this work was aimed at improving commercial herds of both dairy and beef cattle, rather then for farmers who prefer to continue their line breeding policies. In many instances it has been rapidly improving production in herds that had been depending on scrub sires. The original cost of service is unchanged at five dollars, and the membership fee was dropped last year from $40 to $25, with refund of the difference to enrolled members.

POULTRY MEETING MARCH 20

A general meeting of the poultry industries committee is announced for Tuesday, March 20, at 10 a.m., at the YMCA. Officers are to be elected for the coming year,, and plans for the committee's work will be discussed.

Prof. J. Ross Cavers, head of the Poultry Department of OAC, will address the meetings, and it is expected that there will be at least one other poultryman on the program.

J. R. Turnbull, secretary, said yesterday a prominent commercial producer was being invited.

Topics of the two sessions, morning and afternoon, will include marketing, flock management, chick raising and so on. In the notice that is being sent out to poultry men, Mr. Turnbull comments: "This will be your meeting. Its success depends on your attendance and interest."

QUINTE SEED FAIR

Quinte District Seed Fair at Blackstock, March 15-17, is a seasonal event that is timed to the approach of spring and its lengthening days. The Fair dinner will be Friday night in the Community Hall at Blackstock. The program includes display of hog carcasses. Northumberland is sending 110 boys for the grain judging competition.

FEDERATION OFFICERS

W. W. Dawson was re-elected president of Peterborough Federation of Agriculture at a meeting of directors Tuesday night. Henry Sharpe is 1st vice-pres., Bruce Graham 2nd vice-pres., and John Kitney carries on as secretary-treasurer.

James Gifford was appointed director to the Ontario Federation. An April luncheon with service club representatives as guests was suggested, and it may be that Dr. H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation, may have an open date for a visit to the Peterborough branch as speaker.

SWINE CLUB OFFICERS

The officers of Peterborough Swine Producers for 1951-2 are: President, M. H. Johnston; vice-president, Sam Killen; secretary-treasurer, Bruce Graham.

Township directors: Smith, Elmer Milburn and Roland Scott; North Monaghan, Garnet Whitfield; Otonabee, Stewart Elmhirst and W. W. Dawson; Ennismore, Sam Killen and Leo Scollard; Harvey, Percy Hunt and Gale Elliott; Douro, Roland Tedford and M. Whibbs; Dummer, Ernest Batten and Chester Hamilton; Belmont, Isaac Anderson and Carl Purdy; Asphodel, George Shoniker and John McColl. Delegates to the provincial convention, Mr. Johnston, Milton Clark and Mr. Shoniker.

DISCUSSED TOBACCO LAND

L. S. Vickery, in charge of the experimental tobacco station at Delhi, discussed tobacco farming at a meeting at Colborne Wednesday. Ralph Banbury comments that people on light land "get thinking of the possibility of growing tobacco," especially as an outcome of the expension of tobacco farms in Durham.

CHANGE IN FERTILIZERS

The Advisory Fertilizer Board of Ontario has recommended to all fertilizer manufacturers in the province that the manufacture and sale of low analysis fertilizers such as 0-14-7, 4-8-10, 9-5-7, and 2-12-6 be discontinued with the completion of the 1951 spring business. This decision was announced by Secretary A. H. Martin following a recent meeting of the board in Toronto. As all these analyses contain filler to a greater or less degree, the rising costs of transportation, labor and bags make it no longer economical for the farmer to buy fertilizers of that type.

Already two of these, 0-14-7 and 9-5-7, have pretty well disappeared from the market. 2-12-6, however, is still the most popular fertilizer in Ontario. Two higher strength fertilizers, 3-18-9 and 4-24-12, 1½ times and twice the strength of 2-12-6 respectively, have been introduced recently and are now available.

Considerable saving may be effected by the use of these new fertilizers. The retail cost of 2-12-6 at most plants is $39.60 per ton or $78.60 for two tons. One ton of 4-24-12 containing the same amount of plant food as two tons of 2-12-6 costs $72.50, or a saving in the cost of fertilizer alone of $6.10. The average saving in transportation of one ton instead of two would be $2.00, and the saving in handling costs on reaching the farm about $1.00. Therefore, the total saving amounts to $9.10 for the same number of plant food units in the form of 4-24-12.

The Fertilizer Board has placed this recommendation in the hands of the fertilizer trade and Mr. Martin points out that although the board's authority is advisory only, the manufacturers have indicated their intention of supporting the recommendation.

MARCH 12 FORUM

Topics that are likely to be discussed in the Farm Forum broadcast, Monday, March 12, on the subject of the rural teacher are: Should the same salary scale be adopted for teachers in rural and urban schools? Do you think the rural teacher should be expected to act as a leader in the community? If not, why not? If yes, should the Normal schools provide special training for leadership in rural communities?

MEET AT BELLEVILLE

Annual meeting of the Quinte Cattle Breeders will be at Belleville Wednesday, March 14. Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative, writes that Northumberland farmers are planning to attend. "More than 100 new members are preparing for Shorthorn service, and the unit committee intends to buy three Shorthorn bulls that are now being selected."

CROP PROJECTS

The project committee of the Crop Improvement Association will sponsor in the county this year a 50-bushels per acre winter wheat club. Members will be required to sow at least five acres of registered Cornell 595.

The present junior winter wheat club of 23 members obtained registered Cornell for their project last fall. Most of them bought two bushels for the sowing of their acre plots. Some of them may have seed after the 1951 harvest. The main source of supply for the Crop Improvement undertaking may be from farmers who specialize in wheat production. At any rate the project committee decided on the five-acre minimum.

Reporting from that committee meeting, F. C. Paterson said: "We'll have some seed of improved combined hay and pasture mixtures for one or two members already selected. One mixture will be for high, well-drained, alfalfa or wheat land; and the other for lower land. Other pasture improvement projects will be such as — seeding down low, wet land, and several places where we will try to improve rough land for pasture. They are not yet located."

Mr. Paterson said that dozens of callers at his office were asking for suggestions and recommendations on how to improve hay and pasture crops by better selection of variety of plants to sow in particular conditions, and also about cultural treatment that should be given in establishing those improved fields.

CANNING CROP PRICES

Northumberland canning crop producers will not know until March 15 prices, terms and conditions that are being arbitrated.

Says Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative in the county: "In this group, as in other farm production, the original product of farming represents only a small part of the price paid by the consumer.

The odd thing is that, if the farmer gets a small increase, everything along the line seems to have to be raised in the same percentage, with the end product up, not the bit necessary to keep the producer in business, but about five times that amount. It is this tendency that is fast making Ontario only self-sufficient in food products, and turning rural people to town jobs."

3 Plots Of Birdsfoot Trefoil For Observation This Season

Plots of birdsfoot trefoil should be accessible for observation this season on the farms of Stewart Nelson and Earl Petrie in Otonabee and Bruce Graham of Asphodel. They were planted last year, and were mentioned at the meeting a week ago of the project committee of Peterborough Crop Improvement Association.

Frank Paterson said considerable interest had been aroused in this legume, "but we haven't very much to say about it yet as to what may be expected in our own area. The experience of these three farmers should be of some value this year in indicating whether it is worth a trial on other farms."

Ernie McWilliam of Dewart Milling Co. recently prepared an article on birdsfoot trefoil. It has been selected, he says, to fill the existing gap in hay and pasture production on lands not suitable to alfalfa. "It is also hoped that it will supply necessary midsummer grazing, thereby replacing white Dutch clover, which is a very slow grower at best."

Birdsfoot trefoil is a long-lived perennial legume with a much branching taproot. It grows from one to three feet high from a branching crown, somewhat samilar to alfalfa. The plant develops with many stems, and has a tendency to lodge unless supported by some strong stemmed grass. The leaves have five leaflets instead of three, as with alfalfa and clover.

Four to seven bright yellow pealike flowers are borne in a cluster. The seed pods, when ripe, extend outward at an angle from the tip of the flower stem to give the appearance of a bird's foot—thus its name.

Sees Local Advantage

Birdsfoot Trefoil is primarily a forage crop for land that is not to be plowed often. As it is very persistent, it should prove extremely useful in hay and pasture mixtures on land not adapted to the growth of other legumes. It yields best on good soils, but will also do well under wet conditions and also on dry shallow soils. There is still some doubt of its ability to thrive on sandy soils. Within Peterborough county there are many areas where Birdsfoot Trefoil could be used to advantage."

Mr. McWilliam mentions two types grown in New York: the common or broad leaved Empire, and European (mostly from Italy). He says Empire is by far the most popular. It is well adapted to long term hay and pasture mixtures where alfalfa is not well suited and where red clover is too short lived.

"Empire is well adapted to grazing, and can fill a real need in our long term pasture mixtures on marginal lands."

European is almost entirely broad leaved, grows rather erect, establishes more quickly and reaches bloom stage about ten days earlier than Empire. It yields about the same volume of hay as Empire. Recovery after cutting hay is quite rapid and fair aftermath for grazing is usually produced. European trefoil is injured by continuous close grazing, but less than alfalfa. "Not sufficient knowledge is available to recommend it for winter hardiness in this area as yet.

The McWilliam review continues:

Suited To Clover Land

Birdsfoot trefoil will grow but poorly on acid soils, and soil conditions suited to red clover will give best results. It is highly recommended that all soils be analyzed before seeding is done and the proper fertilizer applied; recommendations for top dressing should be obtained at the same time.

Birdsfoot trefoil must have a well prepared seed bed to make a good stand. The seed bed must be mellow and smooth at the surface and firm below. Shallow seeding, from ¼ to ½-inch deep, is best. The seed may be broadcast on the surface with a seeder and lightly dragged, cultipacked or rolled to cover. A grain drill may be used with the grass seed spouts turned to seed behind the drill.

The use of a nurse crop should depend on the need for grain or straw. Normally, better seedings of Birdsfoot trefoil are obtained without. If a nurse crop must be used it should be sown thinly and removed early for hay.

Spring Seeding Best

Early spring seeding is usually best. Fall seeding has proved uncertain unless conditions are extremely favorable.

When seeded under favorable conditions on a good seed bed, five pounds of seed is sufficient to give a good stand. The seed should always be inoculated with the special culture required.

Birdsfoot trefoil grows better in mixtures than alone, but will not stand severe competition. A simple mixture for hay on average soil is five lbs of timothy and five lbs. of Birdsfoot trefoil. On good soils replace the timothy with eight lbs. of Brome grass. For pasture add six lbs. of Kentucky blue grass with the trefoil seed.

The surface seeding of old pastures usually fails unless the seed bed is prepared by thorough harrowing and fertilization.

Birdsfoot trefoil is slow to establish. Normally it should not be grazed or moved the year it is seeded, unless to remove and control weed growth. After the first year it can be handled similar to alfalfa or red clover. Second growth usually is rather slow, compared to that of alfalfa, but stands grazing better.

The Seed Crop

In harvesting seed much the same practice is followed as in handling our Ontario double cut red clover. This first growth should be grazed off or cut for hay early.

The seed pods shatter very easily when ripe and great care must be exercised or the crop will be lost. Usually it is cut or swathed to wilt, then threshed with a combine or ordinary thresher. Combining direct is not satisfactory, as the crop is green when the seed is ripe. Yields vary from 40 to 200 lbs. per acre.

Birdsfoot trefoil has proved very successful on many New York farms, and should find a useful place in our Ontario cropping system. Its particular use is on marginal or sub-marginal land that one does not want to plow often. It will not replace either alfalfa or red clover where these plants grow well, but finds its best use where they are not satisfactory.

Information on the above report was obtained through the co-operation of the authorities of Cornell University and D. Parks, Kempville Agricultural School.

Two Young Veterans First Canadians With Eisenhower In Europe

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's first two servicemen to go to Gen. Eisenhower's new integrated force in Europe are both 34-year-old veterans who were decorated for gallantry in the Second World War. They have been posted to the general's staff as the forerunners of thousands of troops and airmen.

One of them, Lt.-Col. Allen L. Brady, DSO, formerly of Sault Ste. Marie, is the son of a former sergeant of the Canadian army who married a French girl overseas in the First World War.

He was born in France in 1917 and already has looked up his mother's people in the Paris area since going to Versailles to represent the army on the staff of supreme headquarters allied powers Europe.

The other is Wing Cmdr. Garnet F. Jacobsen of Winnipeg and Ottawa, who won the DFC as a bomber navigator with British and New Zealand squadrons. In operations and in training jobs, he has become a navigation expert.

Col. Brady won the DSO for an unusually resolute job of fighting with his tank squadron while wounded and up against superior numbers in the canal-ridden country around Ravenna, Italy. He refused to stop for treatment until his position was secure.

A dark, keen, alert officer who likes boating as a hobby and who sports a moustache, he has taken considerable Arctic and amphibicus training since the war. He graduated from Queen's University in 1940, went to Vancouver for a time to work and then enlisted for a war career that took him to Africa with the British Army and to Italy and Europe with the Canadians.

His father is Brockville manager for an insurance firm.

It will be Col. Brady's job to prepare for the day when Canadian troops are posted to the Eisenhower command.

His RCAF counterpart is Wing Cdr. Jacobsen, a slender brown-haired, quiet type of man who flew March 2 to Paris for his job on the operations and planning staff of SHAPE. He is the start of an 11-squadron, 7,000-man RCAF contingent for Europe.

Wing Cmdr. Jacobsen was born and educated in Winnipeg and married a Manitoba girl, the former Sybil Shearer of St. Vital. He enlisted in 1940. His war experience operationally was in bombers and he won his DFC during a tour of operations for skill and courage with the RAF and NZAF.

Principal Raps Gimmie Teachers

TIMMINS, March 9 (CP) — Percy Boyce, principal of Schumacher public school, loosed a verbal cannonade at his own profession when he told Rotarians at a meeting here that there were too many "gimmie" teachers cursed with a more-money-and-less work philosophy. He claimed teachers were coming to school later and leaving earlier than they used to.

He said the School Teachers' Federation stood for "too much discussion on salaries, sick benefits, insurance and sabbatical leave."

No Power Shortage In 25-Cycle Area

TORONTO, March 9 — (CP) — Hydro chairman Robert H. Saunders said Thursday the HEPC was anxious to stop increased consumption of 25-cycle power in Ontario but denied there would be a power shortage this autumn.

Earlier Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto had told Board of Control there was a possibility of a shortage of 25-cycle power and a surplus of 60-cycle in the Toronto area if the hydro conversion program was not stepped up.

Assert Right

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP) —A coalition of Republicans and rebellious Southern Democrats Thursday asserted the right of United States Congress to exercise authority over any decision to send American troops to Europe under the North Atlantic Treaty. They asserted that right in a mapority vote of a joint meeting of the Senate foreign relations and armed services committees which also, however, approved the actual policy of such troops being sent.

Trade Unionists Seek Help African Women

DOUALA, French West Africa, March 9 (Reuters)—A Pan-African Congress of Trade Unionists, just ended here, passed a resolution demanding the emancipation of African women.

Mrs. Marie Issola, 23, a school teacher who introduced the resolution, wanted a ban on polygamy included but had to withdraw after vociferous protests from Moslem delegates who regard it as their traditional right to have several wives.

The conference demanded united world action to improve the living standards of African workers.

Barge Battle Going Strong Between East-West Berlin

BERLIN, March 9—(Reuters)—A sharp Soviet protest to British authorities here Thursday added another round to the perennial "battle of the barges"—claims and counter-claims between east and west about blocking the inland waterways passing through Berlin.

Sergei Dengin, Berlin representative of the Soviet Control Commission, demanded the immediate release of East German barges held up by the British military police at the canal locks in West Berlin.

Eight east zone barges were held up by mid-day today because they lacked proper consignment papers. Six others, held since Tuesday, were released.

British officials said the close check at West Berlin locks was a routine measure to prevent smuggling.

The West Berlin canal link with West Germany has been blocked by the Soviet authorities since Jan. 12, allegedly because of repairs on the locks, and about 200 West German barges have been unable to get to Berlin with their cargoes.

Canada Will Take 100,000 Immigrants

OTTAWA, March 9 —(CP)— Canada, her defence buildup greatly swelling her labor needs, is willing to take 100,000 immigrants from countries with surplus populations if transportation can be arranged.

Arthur McNamara, Deputy Minister of Labor, told the Senate's immigration and labor committee Thursday that the International Refugee Organization would be so informed at its meeting late this month in Geneva.

Both he and Labor Minister Gregg, outlining the co-operation between the immigration and labor departments, told the committee the usual post-war sources of labor are drying up. There now are only about 200,000 persons left in the displaced persons camps of Europe, "many of them unemployable."

Members Of Canada's Special Force May Re-Engage

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP). — Members of Canada's army special force will shortly be able to re-engage in the Canadian army active force, the Defence Department announced today.

Enlistment standards for the two forces are identical. Those deciding to make the switch will waive certain rights—mainly reinstatement in civilian employment and gratuity entitlement—but will become eligible for pension benefits, with service in the special force to count.

The original terms of service for men of the special force were for 18 months or longer if required.

A two-week period, March 14 to 28, has been set aside for preparation of applications to re-engage. Special force personnel who do not apply will continue under their original terms of engagement.

3 Western Powers Submit New Plan To Ease Tension

U.N. Troops Break 1st Defence Line Of Reds Across Han

TOKYO, March 10. (AP)—United Nations troops rammed their bridgehead across the Han River 10 miles wide and nearly six miles deep before noon today east of Seoul. Flame-throwing tanks rumbled ahead of United Nations fighting units and spit their fiery streams into Communist foxholes.

"We killed a batch of them and have driven many more back into the hills," one front-line officer said. On the West-Central front, four American divisions and a South Korean division, plus British, Canadian and Australian troops, applied pressure compelling a red pull-back.

Intelligence officers of the US 25th Division said the mighty U.N. artillery bombardment and infantry drive across the Han apparently had broken the back of the Communists' first defence line north of the river.

They said the Reds probably had pulled back to defend the main road leading west to Seoul. This is about five miles north of the present line.

Head For Hongchon

Farther west, U.S. 1st Cavalry Division troops pushed along razor-back ridges east and southwest of Yongdong. They were fighting up the road to the Red supply centre of Hongchon.

In the centre of the line, Greek troops advanced as much as four miles against moderate to stiff resistance. The Commonwealth 27th Brigade rolled ahead more than one mile.

On the eastern flank, South Korean 5th Division troops forced the Reds to retreat after heavy fighting throughout Saturday morning. The South Koreans gained more than one mile.

The toll of Communist dead mounted on the fourth day of the allied offensive.

In three days, U.N. troops have killed or wounded more than 24,000 Reds. The U.S. Eighth Army said 6,849 Reds were killed or wounded Friday.

U.S. Fifth Air Force pilots reported they inflicted 400 Communist troop casualties along the front Saturday.

Wheat Pact Under Fire In Commons

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP). — The government's wheat marketing policies came under fire in a spirited Commons debate Friday.

In fighting mood, the chamber heard a day-long procession of charges and counter-charges stemming from the complex four-year Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement.

It heard Hon. Earl Rowe, Minister Without Portfolio in the 1935 Conservative government, charge that the government was guilty of a "colossal blunder" and that its "muddling and meddling" in the farmers' business had cost the wheat grower a cool $1,000,000,000.

And it heard Agriculture Minister Gardiner, one of the men who negotiated the wheat deal, report that the United Kingdom government had turned down an offer of $166,000,000, later reduced to $65,000,000, as a final settlement under the contract.

The Canadian government, to compensate prairie producers who claim they lost money under the agreement in the light of so-called world prices, now is paying $65,000,000 out of the federal treasury.

Says Loss Exaggerated

Mr. Gardiner, describing high loss figures as "ridiculous" told the chamber the Canadian government estimated the loss at $166,000,000. It then trimmed $48,000,000 from that figure to take into account a traditional differential between Canadian and American wheat prices—generally regarded as a world rate—and agreed to accept a final settlement of $100,000,000.

It lopped another $35,000,000 from that total, bringing it down to $65,000,000, because Britain could argue that the $2 price paid in the last two years of the contract was 20 cents above that set in the international wheat agreement, recognized as a world wheat price barometer.

Canada Finds New Process

OTTAWA, March 10—(CP)—Canada has developed a new sulphur-removal process in steel making which scientists say will boost the output of vital steels by mills of North America.

It was developed in the Ottawa metallurgical laboratories by two young mines department scientists—mainly because Russia controls most of the strategic steel-making material, maganese.

Dr. J. Convey, head of the project, said the new process, now being tried in at least two Canadian mills, could be "very important militarily." Canada was ready to let American steel men have the process when it is perfected.

It is estimated that it can increase Canada's 3,200,000-ton annual steel output by 10 to 15 per cent. Applied to the huge 100,000,000-ton annual U.S. production of steel, the increase could be "staggering."

The project was begun a year ago by S. L. Gertsman, 33, graduate of Queen's University and Bruce Richardson, 33, Toronto University graduate engineer.

See Guerrilla Raids To Harrass Reds

TOKYO, March 10—(AP) —A qualified source predicted Friday that guerrilla opposition to Communist forces in Korea will reach significant proportions before June.

Gen. MacArthur's communique today told of "increasing activity by ROK (Republic of Korea) guerrillas and U.N. sympathizers behind the Communist line."

In commenting on the brief statement, the source, who declined use of his name said:

"These are the hungry months in Korea. Nothing is coming out of the ground now, nor will until June. United Nations tactics are interfering with the enemy's food supply system and he is compelled to live off the land. There is not enough food for the peasants and armies, too.

"The peasants are resenting having their food taken away, and this resentment is leading to raids by guerrilla bands."

7-Yr Separation Divorce Grounds

LONDON, March 10. (Reuters) —The House of Commons voted Friday in favor of making seven years' separation of a couple grounds for divorce, but the bill is unlikely to become law.

Instead, Attorney-General Sir Hartley Shawcross offered to have an independent Royal Commission investigate the entire state of marriage and divorce law with a view to full-scale reform.

The bill was accepted in principle, having been introduced by Mrs. Eirene white, a Welsh socialist. The vote was 171-60.

Its further progress depends on the government, which can kill it by refusing to find time for it on the Legislative calendar.

Shawcross coupled his offer of an inquiry with a request that the bill be withdrawn on grounds that piecemeal reform was not a good plan.

Abbott Will Table Estimates On Monday

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP). — Finance Minister Abbott will table the 1951-52 estimates in the Commons Monday. The estimates are expected to be between $500,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 higher than for the current fiscal year, ending March 31. This would bring the government's estimated expenditures to between $3,100,000,000 and $3,600,000,000 for the coming year.

Tom Hughes Blocks Making Tests

Drilling Machinery Wrecked By Truck Said Driven By Hughes

The scuttlebutt in Peterborough for some time has been that Tommy Hughes would be a hard man to shift from his expropriated property, Monaghan Road South. It was right. And Friday afternoon four Toronto men found out that Mr. Hughes has no intention of giving up his 19 acres and a house without even a sigh of protest. The four, employed by the Franki Compressed Pile Co., were given the job of sinking test holes in the property to determine the type of subsoil, water level, and get other information necessary before the architect can make plans for a foundation.

The workmen, under the direction of a civil engineer, had erected their drilling machine on wooden skids and had sunk one pipe about five feet in the ground. They were unmindful of any difficulties between Mr. Hughes and the city.

Wrecked Machinery

Suddenly Mr. Hughes wheeled up in a truck, engaged in a short argument with the engineer in charge. He put his truck into reverse and rammed into the drilling machine, completely wrecking it.

According to the dumfounded workmen he was then quite affable and drove away.

The engineer late Friday consulted with Crown Attorney Bradshaw about the possibility of laying a charge.

The city has expropriated the property so the Board of Education can build their new collegiate. The difference between the city's offer and Mr. Hughes' figure is $4,600. The city has previously made a cold cash offer of $24,000 but Mr. Hughes is still holding out for $28,600.

Jinx Dogging 49 Passengers

LONDON, March 10 (CP) — Forty-nine persons who left London Thursday en route to Canada were right back where they started from.

The aircraft that was to take them to Montreal suffered take-off trouble at Scotland's Prestwick airport. Two other planes took the passengers to Shannon, Ireland, Friday, where a Stratocruiser took over.

This time, 3½ hours later, the Stratocruiser sprang a leak in one engine. The plane turned back to London airport, where the flight had started out some 30 hours earlier.

Passengers sent cables to disappointed relatives in Canada and went off to catch some sleep before making a third attempt Sunday.

Confirm Queuille Elected New Premier

PARIS, March 10 (AP).—Henri Queuille, France's middle-road trouble-shooter, was confirmed as Premier Friday night by parliament, ending a nine-day cabinet crisis.

Queuille, a 66-year-old retired country doctor received, by unofficial tally, 332 votes in the National Assembly. He needed 311 votes.

The leader of the radical Socialist party was Premier from September, 1948, until October, 1949, leading the only post-war French cabinet to last more than a year.

In rallying support in the National Assembly before the confirmation vote, Queuille urged the members "simply to forget what divides us for the next few months and to think of what unites us."

He annouuced a four-point program for his caretaker government, saying it was his intention to clear up certain pressing measures and call elections, possibly in June, instead of in November as had been scheduled previously.

Eight-Cent Increase At Woollen Factory

TORONTO, March 10—(CP)—Dominion Woollens and Worsteds of Collingwood has granted a general wage increase of eight cents an hour in an agreement signed with the Textile Workers Union of America (CCL-CIO), the union announced today.

A wage reopener clause, to enable revision of wage scales in the light of future increases in living costs, is incorporated in the new contract.

The union also said a new agreement negotiated with Model Hosiery Mills at Hanover, Ont., provides a general wage increase of five cents an hour, plus provision for eight paid statutory holidays instead of six and for a wage reopener clause applicable in six months.

3 Held In Robbery Remanded To Mar. 14

BROCKVILLE, March 10—(CP) —Three young men, two of them soldiers from Barriefield military camp, held here in connection with the robbery of a Kingston taxi driver March 1, were remanded in custody for the second time when they appeared in court Friday. They will appear in court again March 14.

The trio, Pte. Lawrence Madden and Pte. William Metcalfe of the R.C.E.M.E., Barriefield, and Raymond D. Morgan, of Kingston, entered pleas of guilty on charges of car theft, robbery and forcibly seizing Clarence Curragh, driver of a Kingston taxi, when they appeared the first time Wednesday.

The two soldiers were arrested in Kingston after a wild automobile chase while Morgan was picked up a few hours later in Cornwall.

Ontario Government Moves To Pay Staff Equal Wages

TORONTO, March 10. (CP)—The Ontario Government is taking steps to make its new equal-pay-for-women legislation apply to its own employees. Premier Frost told the Legislature Friday that revision of civil service salaries is under way, with special attention given to raising salaries of women to equality with those of men doing the same work. Maximum salaries in some classifications are to be raised.

The Premier, who also said that regular statutory salary increases will go into effect April 1 for more than 11,000 of Ontario's 13,500 employees, spoke during heated debate on budget estimates for the civil service commission. Opposition members had criticized civil service pay and urged revision of all commission regulations.

Mr. Frost said that, in addition to maximum salary ceilings being revised upward, a $20-a-month cost-of-living bonus is paid in some cases where civil servants have reached their maximum.

E. B. Jolliffe, CCF Opposition Leader, called on the Government to drop its rule against classifying married women as permanent civil servants. Leslie Wismer (CCF-Toronto Riverdale) urged a general increase of $24 a month to help civil servants meet increased living costs.

Recovering Ground

Campbell Calder (L-London) said the government appeared to be "trying to recover lost ground" by improving civil service pay. He said it should consider an escalator cost-of-living formula to provide continual adjustments.

J. B. Salsberg (Lab.-Prog.- Toronto St. Andrew) called the government's attitude toward the civil service shameful. He tried without success to draw from the Premier a statement that civil servants would be permitted to join unions which could negotiate with the government on their behalf.

The debate on salaries grew stormy at one point when CCF members pounded their desks to drown out Education Minister Porter who had risen to answer a point raised by Eamon Park (CCF-Toronto Dovercourt). Mr. Park, who had the floor, refused to let the minister speak until he had finished.

Mr. Park criticized the government for allowing temporary civil servants to remain in that classification. After three months, he said, they should be given the rights of permanent employees, including superannuation provisions.

CCF Leader Jolliffe said the legislature should decide whether to grant permanent classification to women in the civil service.

"If you are going to accept the principle of equal opportunity for all, male or female, then you cannot differentiate between married and unmarried women," he said.

Premier Frost said the present policy was to put temporary employees on the permanent staff whenever possible, but regulations barred women from being classified as permanent.

Offensive Launched To Doom Newspaper

BUENOS AIRES, March 10 — (AP)—The entire Personista Labor movement launched an offensive Friday to prevent reopening of the big independent anti-Peron newspaper La Prensa.

A national boycott was outlined to block future publication of the newspaper, closed 43 days ago by a news vendors' boycott and a sympathy strike called by union printers.

This potential death blow was aimed by the central committee of the general Confederation of Labor, which always follows the policy laid down by the government of President Juan D. Peron.

Union workers in utilities and other lines were ordered to prevent reappearance of the paper by denying it banking services, electricity, telephones, trucking, movement of newsprint and means of selling papers.

If made fully effective, this would be the sure end of the 81-year-old newspaper, which is one of the largest and most influential in the Spanish-speaking world.

Place Woman In Hospital

WHITBY, March 10 (CP- — Mrs. Gertrude Gaine. 36, who earlier Friday was charged with attempted suicide after she allegedly jumped into the ship channel Thursday, has been committed to the Ontario mental hospital here for an indefinite period for treatment and observation.

She was examined by Dr. D. R. Flecher, superintendent of the mental hospital. Acting Crown Attorney Russell Humphreys said her commitment did not rule out the possibility of a more serious charge being laid against her later.

The acting crown attorney said a suicide pact apparently drove Mrs. Gaine and her mother, Mrs. Maude Best, 75, into the channel. Mrs. Best drowned but Mrs. Gaine and Mrs. Gaine's daughter, Donna, 4, were rescued.

Mr. Humphreys said the drowning and attempted suicide, in which the child played an unknowing part, was not an accident.

Russians Will Reserve Any Decision On Accepting Proposal

Would Seek To Have Measures Eliminating Fear of Aggression, Examination of Questions About Germany

PARIS, March 10. (AP)—The Western powers today submitted a revised and broadened proposal for relieving east-west tension to the Deputy Foreign Minister's meeting. Russia said it would rserve any decision on whether it could accept the proposal for the agenda of a Big Four Foreign Minister's conference. This was the new proposal for the Big Four agenda which the Western delegates submitted: "Determination of the causes of present international tensions in Europe and of the means to secure a real and lasting improvement in the relations between the USSR, the United States, the United Kingdom and France, such as:

"Measures to eliminate the fear of aggression, fulfillment of present treaty obligations, and examination of the existing level of armaments and questions concerning Germany in this sphere.

Russia's Andrei Gromyko said he would reserve any decision on whether to accept it.

Favor New Item

Official sources who gave the account of the meeting said delegates from the United States, France and Britain spoke in favor of the new item. They stressed that all points which Russia wishes to discuss are covered by this proposal.

Gromyko said that he was reserving right to speak in more detail, especially since he felt the wording was vague and not quite clear on several points.

The Russian delegate asserted the foreign ministers cannot avoid talking about the remilitarization and demilitarization of Germany and about worldwide disarmament.

French delegate Alexandre Parodi was quoted as saying that in looking back on an entire week of negotiations in effort to draw up a work sheet for a big-four meeting, he could see little excuse for satisfaction.

The ministers will meet again Monday.

Details of the new proposal for the agenda had been broached Friday at a meeting of the western representatives to the deputies' conference.

Prejudice Issues

The American ambassador-at-large, Philip C. Jessup, maintains the Russian suggestions for an agenda are baited with items of a "have you stopped beating your wife?" variety. He and the other western delegates charge Gromkyo's suggested wording prejudges the issues. Gromyko maintains this is not so.

The three western deputies went into a 2½ hour huddle Fri-

Senate Passes U.S. Draft For 18-Yr.-Olds

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP) —The Senate Friday approved a permanent program for building up the fighting strength of the United States through universal military training and the draft of 18-year-olds. The vote was 79 to five.

A similar measure is pending in the armed services committee of the House of Representatives.

Some House leaders predicted today that the measure would be ready for final House action before the Easter vacation.

The top-heavy Senate approval came after weeks of hearings and arguments. Five Republican Senators opposed passage.

Delayed Action

Lowering the present minimum draft induction age from 19 to 18 years is not expected to touch many 18-year-olds for a year or more. The Senate bill requires that men in the present 19-to-25 draft pool must be taken first by all local boards.

Up to 75,000 men would be deferred for college study in each of the next three years.

The universal military training provision which would apply to all physically-fit 18-year-olds, would become operative only after an end to present international tension permitted a cutback to six months of required military service.

Under universal military training, this active duty would be followed by reserve service for a total of eight years.

Have No Evidence Of Rival Red UN

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP).— External Affairs Minister Pearson said Friday he knows of no evidence to support reports that Russia is going to quit the United Nations and set up a rival organization.

Gordon Higgins, (PC, St. John's East) had asked him if it were true Russia intended to make those moves.

Mr. Pearson said he had read certain unofficial reports to that effect but he knew of no evidence to support them.

Old Opera Hat To Assist MP's

LONDON, March 10 (AP). — Hatless members of parliament won't have to run around trying to borrow a woman's blue velvet toque any more. An old opera hat has been given to the House of Commons to speed stuffy procedure.

The rule in Commons is that no member can raise a point of order after a vote has been called except when seated with a hat on.

Many MP's don't wear hats. And they have been borrowing that of Miss Irene Ward, Conservative.

The thought of an MP in a woman's velvet toque so distressed Mrs. Florence Lucy of Hollingbourne, Kent. that she sent Prime Minister Attlee an opera hat which belonged to her late husband.

Attlee replied with a letter of thanks. He said the opera hat hereafter will hang by the Speaker's chair—ready for any emergency.

Post Office Cracking Down On Aussie Lottery Tickets

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP). — The Post Office Department plans to crack down on an Australian lottery that has popped up in Canada, mostly in the Maritimes.

"Just like the Irish sweepstakes,' said W. J. Turnbull, deputy postmaster-general, when shown a book of tickets. "We'll close the mail against them."

The tickets and an accompanying circular inviting Canadians to join in the "pleasure and profit" of the weekly draw were received recently by many persons in the Maritimes, and possibly may crop up in other regions. A book was forwarded to Ottawa and shown to Mr. Turnbull. It was the first time he had seen them.

The tickets bear the name of the West Australian Charities Consultations and its overseas distributors, Commonwealth Investments Trust.

D. A. MacKay of Perth, West Australia, was named as the person to whom all correspondence on the lottery should be sent.

Mr. Turnbull said all mail bearing these names will be halted and returned to the senders as "intransmittable."

The Australian High Commissioner's office said the West Australian lottery was legally established under state legislation in 1932. Similar lotteries were active in other sections of Australia, but none was the responsibility of the central government.

There was no indication of the identities of the charities which would benefit by the draw. For a 70-cent ticket, a chance could be had on 930 prizes valued at £6,630 Australian (about $16,250) including a first prize of £3,000.

The High Commissioner's office said it never had heard of a Canadian winning. And even if a Canadian did happen to draw the lucky number, it would be a question of whether the Australian government would allow the pounds to be converted into dollars for transmission to Canada. The best solution might be a blocked account in sterling, with which a Canadian could buy Australian goods and ship them to Canada.

Pats Called "Bean Boys" For Exchanging Rations

By WILLIAM BOSS

WEST - CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, March 10 — (CP). — To fellow members of the 27th Commonwealth Brigade, the Canadians are the "Bean Boys."

The nickname arises from the food-swapping that goes on among the Britons, Australians, Indians, Canadians and New Zealanders. The brigade, due to switch to British rations March 15, now gets American rations and the soldiers trade the cans of food until they have their favorite main course.

The Australians, New Zealanders and Britons all prefer ham and vegetables, the Indians like chicken hash. But the Canadians always call for beans.

Pte. Gerald Welch of Hamilton recently accepted several cans of meat from a soldier in an Indian ambulance unit in exchange for tinned chicken.

The Indian said eating meat other than checken was against his religion.

When chance permits, Pt. Walter Way of Calgary, Pte. Welch and Pte. Ted Fischer of Guelph, Ont., swap canned meat with the Australians. They nearly always wind up with beans, Pte. Welch confessed with a grin.

"The Aussies say we're really beggars for beans."

To Microfilm Archives Of Hudson's Bay Co.

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP) — The task of microfilming the archives of the Hudson's Bay Company—more than 200 years of reports, records and correspondence—has been undertaken by the public archives and the company.

The microfilming will be done in London, where the original documents are stored and the microfilm copies will be kept in the public archives here.

In making the announcement today, Dr. Kaye Lamb, dominion archivist, said the part of the company's archives to be photographed immediately consists of papers dating from the earliest times up to 1870.

Bevin's Job Handed To Morrison

Ede Will Be Given Majority Leadership, Bevin Gets New Job

LONDON, March 10. (AP)—Herbert Morrison, veteran Labor party stalwart, took over today as Britain's foreign secretary, determined, his associates said, to launch new and undisclosed peace efforts.

The shrewd, 63-year-old London-born politician replaced ailing, weary Ernest Bevin who found the post too onerous after five years and seven months.

Whitehall indicated there would be no change in British foreign policy, but there was general belief in government circles that Britain would take different approach to east-west problems, because of the difference in the personalities of Morrison and Bevin.

Those who know both men said Morrison is much more patient than Bevin and far less dominating.

Little Experience

Morrison takes up his new duties with little experience in foreign affairs. He never has committed himself fully on foreign policy, although he did express his detestation of Communists in Britain during the last war.

On the other hand, Morrison has a vast store of government experience, adaptability and an agile political brain which made him a leading party strategist.

Morrison will remain as Deputy Prime Minister and heir-apparent to Attlee. But he will hand his majority leadership in the House of Commons over to Home Secretary James Chuter Ede.

His retirement from that leadership immediately brought speculation in the House of Commons whether Labor's left bloc, of which Labor Minister Aneurin Bevan is one of the chiefs, might gain the party ascendancy for which it has striven over the last five years. Morrison's middle-of-the-road strategy has been largely instrumental in keeping the left bloc from gaining the upper hand.

Adjudicator Lauds Kitchener Guild

KITCHENER, March 10 (CP)—The Players' Guild of Hamilton was praised by Adjudicator Robert G. Newton Friday night for its performance of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest," second entry in the Western Ontario Drama Festival.

Mr. Newton had particular praise for the performance of Dorothy Foster as Lady Bracknell. Of Frank Aldous, who played the male lead of John Worthing, the adjudicator said his performance was "easy and comfortable, but I think just a little more dash here and there could have been used."

Break For Soldiers

WASHINGTON, March 10—(AP)— American service men travelling on furlough at their own expense got a double break today from American railroads. The reduced furlough fare which would have expired March 31 was extended to January 31, 1952. And the return limit for using coach round-trip tickets was extended from 30 days to three months.

Speaker Dies

TOKYO, March 10 — (AP).—Kijuro Shidehara, 78, Speaker of Japan's House of Representatives, died today. Japan's first Prime Minister appointed under the occupation, he had been forced out of political life in 1931 when as Foreign Minister he bitterly opposed Japan's militarist expansion. His fight against the militarists gave him an international reputation as a Liberal.

Killed By Landslide

ROME, March 10 (Reuters). — Gerardo Cardillo and his six daughters were killed Friday when a landslide destroyed their house at Muro Lucano, Southern Italy. Continuous rain and hail storms caused damage to crops as many rivers overflowed their banks in scattered areas of Central and Southern Italy and Sardinia.

DOLLAR DROPS

MONTREAL, March 10—(CP) —The American dollar today opened at 4 21/32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, 1/32 lower than Friday's close. That is, it took $1.04 21/32 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.93⅛, unchanged.

Eggs By Bushel Quoted At 36c

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP). — By a slip of the parliamentary tongue, Percy Wright (CCF, Melfort) Friday placed the floor price of eggs at 36 cents a bushel.

In Commons criticism of the government's farm policies, he asked the chamber what had been the result of setting a floor price on eggs "at 36 cents a bushel."

A chuckle arose and he quickly amended the statement to put eggs back into the "dozen" category.

3 Norwood Women Fall, Fracture Limbs

NORWOOD, March 10 (ENS)—Three elderly ladies of Norwood met with accidents during the week.

Mrs. Lillian Bongard fell on the street when returning home from down town breaking her left arm near the wrist. She is a patient in Civic Hospital, Peterborough.

Miss Rose Squires stumbled in her home, breaking her right shoulder and ankle. She is also a patient in Civic Hospital.

Mrs. Thomas Sexsmith (formerly of Peterborough) was the other unlucky lady. She fell on the sidewalk and broke her right arm in four places. She is convalescing at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gardner.

OBITUARIES

MRS. WILLIAM SANDIFORD

One of Peterborough's oldest residents, Mrs. William Sandiford, 620 Romaine Street, died on Friday at the home of her daughter in Toronto. She was in her 91st year.

Her husband, William Sandiford, died January, 1950. At that time they were believed to be the oldest couple in Peterborough as Mr. Sandiford was also in his 90s.

Mrs. Sandiford was born in Manchester, England, and was the former Lucy Jane Hosker. She was educated in England and came to Peterborough 43 years ago. For 15 years she practised as a midwife here.

She was a member of St. James' United Church.

Left are three sons, Richard and Charles of Toronto, and Oliver of England, and four daughters, Mrs. J Johnson (Alice) of Toronto and Mrs. A. McLaren (Annie), Mrs. B. Francis (Patty), and Mrs. J. Marshall ((Frances), all of Peterborough.

The funeral will be at the Comstock Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Monday, the Rev. H. G. Douglas, Knox United Church, officiating. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

HENRY WATERS

WARKWORTH, March 10 — (ENS)—Henry Waters, 77, of RR 4, Warkworth, died Friday following a lingering illness. He was born in Seymour township and has spent all his life as a farmer in this district. He is survived by his widow, the former Elizabeth Fisher.

The funeral will be held Monday from his late residence to the Anglican Church, Campbellford, at 2.30 p.m. The service will be conducted by the Rev. John McKibbon of Christ Church. Burial will be in Centre cemetery, Seymour township.

Four Churches Set Aside

Conditions for the extension of the spiritual benefits of Holy Year have been set forth in a letter distributed among the priests of the diocese of Peterborough by Bishop Gerald Berry.

Four churches to be visited in Peterborough are: St. Peter's Cathedral, Sacred Heart, Immaculate Conception and St. Alphonsus. Holy Year pilgrims to Rome last year visited in the same manner four basilicas.

Broadly, this is a crusade of prayer continuing into the farthest parishes the features of worship of Holy Year. For those who could not make the journey to Rome, the great majority of the faithful, Pope Pius announced last Christmas that the graces of that event would be available in 1951 in the farthest dioceses.

Be in State of Grace

Special prayers are to be offered in the course of parish visitations, and finally it is required that pilgrims be in the state of grace.

Pilgrims of parishes who live within ten miles of the Cathedral are to make two visits in their parish church and two visits to the Cathedral church. In all other parishes in the diocese, the four visits should be made in the home parish church.

Intentions of the Pope include: universal peace, the spiritual and moral welfare of families, and constancy of the faithful now under persecution.

TORONTO, March 10 (CP) — Fruit and vegetable prices unchanged today.

HOG PRICES

TORONTO, March 10 (CP) — Hog prices at Stratford were unchanged today from Friday's price of $34.25 for grade A truck hogs.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, March 10 (CP) — Produce prices quoted on the spot market today:

Churning cream No. 1, truck price 72 cents; delivered 75 cents.

Creamery prints, first grade 66-72 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 10 (AP- — Lower prices prevailed at the opening of the grain market on the Board of Trade today.

Demand was small and there was a fair amount of selling.

Wheat started ¾ to 1 cent lower, May $2.46¼-½ corn was ½-2⅛ lower, May $1.80½-$1.79¼, oats were ⅝-⅝ lower, May 97⅝-¼, and soybeans were unchanged to 1¼ lower, September $3.20-$3.19½.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, March 10 (CP) — Reports that Belgium has bought 350,000 bushels of Canadian barley were reflected Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange by fair gains in barley prices. Other coarse grains prices moved narrowly. An easier tone was evident toward the close as offerings increased. Trade was generally dull.

IWA and Class 2 wheat prices were down ⅛ cent in all grades.

To Begin Building

PARIS, March 10 — (AP). — Building will begin Monday on Gen. Eisenhower's permanent headquarters 15 miles west of Paris. Contracts for the one-storey prefabricated headquarters building with 18 wings were let today to a private French company. French Army engineers will supervise the building.

Fred Herbison

Pall-bearers at the funeral Friday afternoon of Fred Herbison, 107 McDonnel St., were Stanley G. Payne, James Dixon, Ken Campbell, Jack Campbell, Al Heckman and George Stone.

Mr. Herbison, who was in his 51st year, died Wednesday. He was a machinist at CGE.

The funeral service at Bellegham's funeral home was conducted by the Rev. Arnold Mathews, George Street United Church. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Three Sergeants Named To Patrol

Three patrol sergeants have been appointed this week in the Peterborough Police force.

Having the rank of acting sergeants, the three are Claire McGillen, Harold Mesley and Gordon Trennum, all senior men on the force.

Until this week these three men were the force's traffic officers. Chief Constable John Thompson has yet to appoint three new officers to handle the city's traffic from motorcycles.

No Patrol Sergeants

In recent years there have been no patrol sergeants on the force. The department's three sergeants have been doing the work of desk sergeant and patrol sergeant. But in the last few years the work has become too heavy for one man on each shift to handle.

The job of the patrol sergeant will be to supervise the officers on their beats to make sure that the beats are being covered thoroughly and efficiently. When the desk sergeant is out or off duty, the patrol sergeant will take over the desk in the office.

But most of the patrol sergeant's time will be spend outside. The change in the force's organization is expected to increase the efficiency of the department and improve Peterborough's police protection.

Oyster Supper Held By Bethesda YPU

HARWOOD, March 10 (ENS)—The Young People's Union of Bethesda United Church held a very successful oyster supper in the community hall on Thursday evening last, when a large crowd were on hand for this event. Rev. R. C. W. White, of Roseneath, showed some colored slides of the north, also some beautiful flower pictures. The Cobourg trio, Messrs. Hircock, Harbor, and Stinson, with Mrs. R. J. Meggs accompanying, sang several numbers, and were encored again and again.

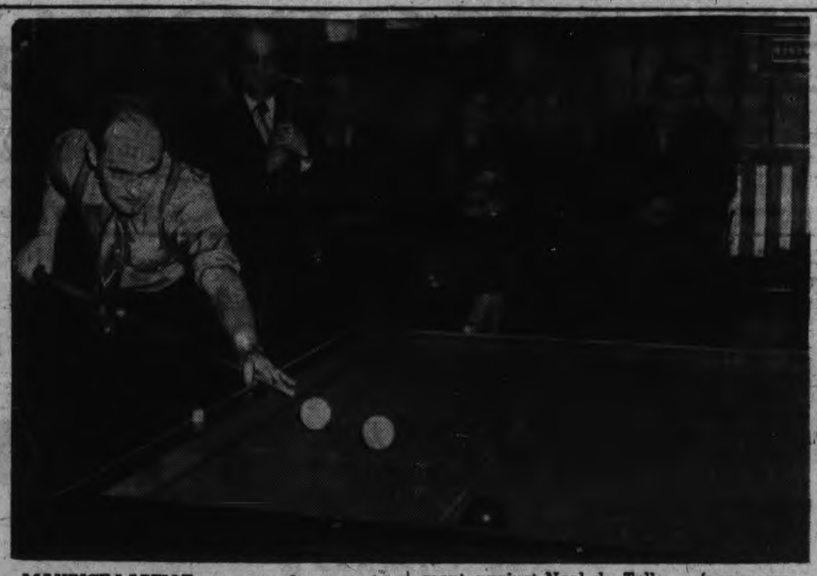
Mr. and Mrs. Fred McFarland and Mrs. Harold Johnson visited Mr. and Mrs. Teasdale and Mrs. Potts, of Barrie, this week.

Mrs. E. T. Shearer has gone to Belleville, on account of the illness of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Elliott.

The Harwood Memorial Park committee are holding a dance in the community hall on Saturday evening, March 17.

Miss Catharine Blastorah and Mr. James Blastorah, of Toronto, were recent visitors at home.

Uncover Dispute Between Two Unions



TORONTO, March 10. (CP)—A jurisdictional dispute between two Canadian Congress of Labor unions came to light this week.

United Steelworkers of America have defied the CCL by applying for certification as bargaining agents for workers in Midland and Collingwood shipyards.

The CCL, through its two locals in the yards of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, has served notice that it intends to oppose the steelworkers application before the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

Dismiss Suit

SAN FRANCISCO, March 10 — (AP)—The $500,000 slander suit brought by Harry Bridges, Longshore Union president, against F. Joseph Donohue, special assistant U.S. Attorney-General, was dismissed Friday. Donohue was the prosecutor in last year's trial here in which Bridges was convicted of perjury for swearing he wasn't a Communist. Bridges brought suit, charging Donohue slandered him at a luncheon club meeting by referring to him as a scoundrel and a member of the Communist party.

Youth Faces Murder Trial

COCHRANE, March 10 (CP)—Coleman Ferrigan, 21, of South Porcupine will appear at the spring assizes here Monday on a charge of murder laid in connection with the Hallowe'en slaying of William Helmer, 35, also of South Porcupine.

Helmer was shot through the heart on the main street of South Porcupine Nov. 1 when he tried to settle an argument between several men in an alley beside a restaurant. Ferrigan was arrested an hour later at his home.

Big Public Response To Drug Store Opening

"We have had a wonderful response from the public to our invitation for the opening of our Parkway drug store," Murray Irwin, proprietor with Bert McLeod, commented today to the Examiner.

"We hadn't time to do any counting. We were too busy, but our estimate for Thursday and Friday is around 5,000. And a very agreeable surprise was the sustained interest of the people on our second day. Their number was twice as many as we expected. The public greeting to our new Parkway store has been a most pleasant experience."

Duchess Of Argyll Granted Divorce

EDINBURGH, March 10 (AP)—The Duchess of Argyll won a divorce today from Ian Douglas Campbell, 11th Duke of Argyll, on grounds of adultery.

Lawyers for the Duchess, a native of France, said the Duke had agreed to give her custody of their two children, Ian, Marquis of Lorne, who is 14, and Lord Colin Ivan, 5.

The Duke's first marriage in 1927 to Janet Gladys Aitken, daughter of Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook, ended in divorce in 1934.

Tom Hughes

Under the direction of Judge S. L. Smoke the city has already paid $28,600 into court as an indication of both its ability and willingness to pay the amount to be decided by arbitration. The only question still to be settled is how much Mr. Hughes gets for his house and property.

He has been notified to be out of the house by March 21. The Board of Education wants the house down and the property cleared by May 1.

Once before Mr. Hughes told the Examiner: "I'm not moving until I get the price I asked." Apparently he means it.

Friday faternoon the workmen quietly gathered up the shattered piping of their wrecked drilling machine and stowed it away in their truck. It will be taken to Toronto and another one will have to be sent to Peterborough.

"We don't know what it's all about, mac," said one of the workmen. "But that guy (Hughes) must have a beef against somebody. All we know is that we're going to be out of a job for a week."

George St. Fight Pair In Cells

A fight on George St. between two young men landed them both in court today. Menzies McLaren, 26, 100 Hunter St., was charged with causing a disturbance and being drunk. Robert Currie, 23, 426½ George St., was charged with causing a disturbance.

The charges against both men were adjourned to Monday.

Constable Edward Patterson reported that he came upon the two men fighting and separated them. He took them to a nearby poolroom to phone for a police cruiser.

While he was phoning, the two started to fight again. He separated them a second time and then took them off to the city cells to spend the night.

400 CGE Bowlers Take Train To Toronto

C.G.E. bowlers took a crowd of close to 400 to Toronto on the C.P.R. local this morning.

"We have eleven coaches for them, most of them all steel, and it was a very fine looking train," Mr. T. G. M. Jamieson, C.P.R. uptown agent commented to the Examiner. "And to keep on the scheduled time we used two engines. So it was a double-header travelling on time and in comfort, and ample room for everybody. C.G.E. bowlers make an annual trip to Toronto for games with the company plants up there. Most of the crowd who went along will be back tonight, but tickets are good until Monday."

Brighton Gets Branch Winnipeg Plant

The usual trend of branch plant extension was reversed this week with the announcement that a Winnipeg manufacturer was extending his production capacity by establishing a branch plant in Ontario.

The new company is Dyson's Ontario Limited, a wholly owned subsidiary of Dyson's Limited, of Winnipeg, manufacturers of pickles, condiments, vinegar and sauces.

15,000 Square Feet

Col. the Hon. William Griesinger, Ontario Minister of Planning and Development, announced the west-to-east industrial invasion. Dyson's Ontario Limited has purchased a site in Brighton, and construction of a single-storey-factory of concrete block construction and with 15,000 sq. feet of floor space, will begin shortly.

Investment in the new Ontario enterprise is reported to be $200,000 and year-round employment of a minimum of 60 persons is assured at the beginning.

The 1951 cucumber pack will be purchased from Brighton area farmers, and first year's volume is estimated at 2,000 tons.

Trenton Octogenarian Buried At Warkworth

WARKWORTH, March 10 — (ENS)—The funeral for James Noble, 82, of Trenton and formerly of Norham, who died Thursday at Trenton was held this afternoon at St. Paul's United Church, Warkworth. The Rev. H. G. Lester of St. Paul's United Church conducted the service.

Mr. Lester was born in England and was a decorator by trade. He had resided in Trenton for four years coming there from Norham. Previously he lived in Niagara Falls, New York. He was a member of Percy Masonic Lodge. He is survived by his niece, Mrs. Janet Walton of Trenton. His wife the former Ruth Oglesby predeceased him in 1943.

The pall-bearers were Clifford Finlay, Owen Finlay, Douglas Rowe, Elmer McKee, James Dodge, Arthur Meneilley. The flower bearers were Kenneth Dummer and Ronald Grant. Burial was in Warkworth cemetery.

Australia To Continue Fight Against Reds

Will Ignore High Court Rejection of Law to Outlaw Communists

MELBOURNE, March 10 — (CP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said Friday that Australia's court rejection of the federal act dissolving the Communist Party is not the end of the fight against communism in this country—it is only the beginning.

The high court, after a 23-day hearing in December, delivered its ruling here Friday. By a 6-1 opinion it said the legislation — the Communist Party Dissolution Act — was invalid.

Australia is expected to appeal the decision to the Privy Council.

"The community must either have or get power to defend itself against internal wreckers and despite the Chifley-Evatt section of the Labor Party," Menzies said in Canberra.

He referred to Opposition Leader Joseph B. Chifley and Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, External Affairs Minister in the former Labor Government.

Challenge Act

Ten trade unions challenged the dissolution act before the court. Evatt, a former high court member himself, represented the Waterside Workers' Union.

Evatt's fight against the act brought him under attack in a stormy session of the House of Representatives in Canberra. W. C. Wentworth, a government party member, accused Evatt of having Communist associations stretching back over years.

Later, disregarding the protection of parliamentary privilege, Wentworth stepped outside the House and repeated his charges publicly.

He said both times he had no proof that Evatt was a member of the Communist Party but added:

"I do, however, accuse him of being closely associated with the Communist Party."

His remarks set the House in an uproar.

The act was aimed particularly at Communists who gained control of major Australian labor unions. With its passage last October, Australia became the 27th country to outlaw the Communist Party.

Northern Ontario Steals Limelight At Big Show

TORONTO, March 10 (CP). — Northern Ontario took over the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show Friday night.

The spectacle of the outdoors was officially opened by Lands Minister Harold F. Scott of Ontario, but the Northerners stole the show. They were there in coonskin hats and mackinaws to cast knowing eyes ot the log-rolling, canoe-tilting, and other sports offered in the revue at the Coliseum.

The opening of the eight-day extravaganza found the Northerners out in force, coinciding as it did with the annual convention of the Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association. They applauded the Fort William Girls' Pipe Band and the antics of husky guides sawing and chopping logs in jig time.

Another highlight of opening night was the presentation by Jack Sullivan, sports editor of The Canadian Press, of awards to Lionel Conacher and Bobbie Rosenfeld, named top Canadian athletes of the half-century in a Canadian Press poll.

Conacher, outstanding football, hockey and lacrosse player of the '20s and '30s now is Liberal member of Parliament for Toronto Trinity. Miss Rosenfeld, now a sports writer for the Toronto Globe and Mail, represented Canada in track and field events at the 1928 Olympic Games at Amsterdam.

B.C. May Extend Railway Runs Nowhere To Nowhere

By The Canadian Press

A railway which runs from nowhere to nowhere may some day soon become an important western Canada transportation link.

Premier Byron Johnson announced in the British Columbia legislature Friday that the provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway may have its southern terminus extended to North Vancouver.

The railway has been something of a paradox in the world of transportation since it was started in 1912. For years it started at Squamish, 42 miles up the B.C. coast from Vancouver, and ran to Quesnel, in the middle of the province. Neither terminus was connected with any other major railroad.

Last year work was started on an 80-mile extension north of Quesnel to Prince George, an important lin kwhich will give it connection with the Canadian National Railways transcontinental line ot Prince Rupert.

Strategic Move

Premier Johnson said that for beteen $8,500,000 and $10,000,000 the railway can be extended southward to North Vancouver, which would make it a strategic part of any defence set-up on the Pacific coast.

The premier indicated work will start soon, providing steel is available and the necessary funds can be raised at reasonable interest rates.

In Edmonton, a Social Credit back-bencher called for Alberta to establish an "un-Canadian activities committee" to deal with subversive forces within the province. William Tomyn said the committee should be similar in operation to the un-American activities committee in the United States. He said it would be an important part of the fight against Communism.

A debate on pensions occupied the Manitoba legislature, and Health Minister Ivan Schultz said legislation will be introduced at this session implementing federal proposals for universal old-age pensions. Most other provinces have indicated their willingness to pass the necessary complementary legislation for the plan, which will remove the means test from pensions to persons 70 and over while providing pensions with a means test for persons from 65 to 69.

In Quebec, Premier Maurice Duplessis reported on natural resources and said that in addition to the 400,000,000 tons of iron ore found in the rich Ungava district, it is known that there are deposits of zinc, copper, gold and some nickel. He said development of the iron mines in the northeastern part of the province is only the first step in a great plan of development.

Sitting Quiet

In Halifax, the sitting was quiet, but the pride of Nova Scotia members in the outstanding performance of the province's rink of the Dominion curling championships was reflected in remarks of W. H. Pipe. He praised the efforts of the rink which comes from Kentville in his constituency.

In Fredericton, Dr. E. T. Kennedy, a Progressive Conservative, spoke out in opposition to state medicine. He said that in several aspects of the present health system in New Brunswick he saw the "thin edge of the wedge in favor of state medicine."

Living costs were the subject of a resolution introduced in the Saskatchewan legislature. Moved by A. P. Swallow, a CCF backbencher, it called upon the Federal government to reimpose price controls and pay subsidies where necessary to "combat inflation and the rapidly rising cost-of-living."

Farmers Refuse To Sign Contract

HOLMESVILLE, Ont., March 10 — (CP). — A group of Goderich Township farmers unanimously decided to refuse to sign any contract with the Ontario Hydro Commission for right of way over their land at the rate of pay offered by the Commission.

The 20 farmers meeting in the schoolhouse here agreed not to sign any contract unless approved by a majority of those concerned.

The farmers reported HEPC crews have been surveying their lands for a proposed high power line between Bayfield and Holmesville.

A copy of the proposed contract disclosed the HEPC offered $5 a pole erected on open land, farmers reported, $2.50 a pole for these erected on fence lines, and and no payment for poles put in swales. The contract would be a permanent one.

In the discussion which followed the reading of the contract the framers said prior to the war $5 a pole was paid for a 20-year contract, and that $5 in those days had much more purchasing power.

Carrier Returns

Mercury V-8 "Hi-Power compression engine" backed by 20 years of experience . . . of research and improvement by the world's largest manufacturer of V-8 engines . . . holds vibration to a minimum . . . is quiet . . . more silent . . . better balanced . . . delivers more power to weight ratio . . . has better cooling . . . more efficient carburetion.

With "TOUCH-O-MATIC" OVERDRIVE (optional at extra cost) cuts engine speed 24%, saves up to 20% on gasoline.

Mighty powerful V-8 engine performance, quiet and smooth as a breeze . . . with plenty of reserve power. Beautiful styling is reflected in Mercury's long, low lines . . . from the massive bumper and grille to the flowing swept-back rear fenders. Rich new colours and gleaming chrome accent exterior beauty . . . blend with luxurious and practical "studio-quiet" interiors. Mighty, beautiful interiors boast spacious seating comfort with foam rubber cushioning upholstered in broadcloth and leather. The wider, larger rear window provides greater unobstructed vision.

Truly, Mercury is the Mighty, Beautiful car of the year . . . it's mighty beautiful to know the pleasure and pride of Mercury ownership.
